Arctic Cats In Snowmobile Show At Grand Rapids

Minnesota Historical society's forest history center, located near Grand Rapids, has opened a new temporary exhibit beginning January 2 that will run through March 31, according to the center's supervisor, Robert M. Drake. The exhibit titled "A History of Minnesota's Snow Machines," will be open to the public daily from 12 noon to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Central in the exhibit is the display of 10 snow machines, illustrating the change in snowmobiles from the earliest manufactured machines to the state-of-the-art machines of today. The exhibit includes a 1930's Eliason snow toboggan, 1940's Hibbing Trail-Maker, the first Ski-Doo to reach U.S. soil and a 1957 Polaris Snow-Traveler.

Examples of mid-1960's "hey-day" machines include a 1968 Arctic Cat Cougar and the stock racing circuit is illustrated by a restored 1971 Arctic Cat Mod-IV King Kat machine. The exhibit ends with a display of 1987's Arctic Cat Cougar and Ski-Doo's Formula Plus.

The exhibit illustrates the history of northern people's interest in and attempts at motorized snow travel. The exhibit includes early photos and film footage and information on the snowmobile industry and its varied machines. The display shows the growth in the industry from only a few machines annually in the later 1950's to thousands of machines manufactured yearly in the late 1960's.

The exhibit will also discuss the rapid and severe decline in the industry and sport in the mid-1970's with limited and high priced gas and its remarkable and determined resurgence in the early 1980's. Minnesota snowmobile companies today have recaptured in the international market and made the snowmobile industry a major industry in today's market.

The exhibit also shows the growth of the snowmobiling companion industries in Minnesota — recreation and tourism. Beginning in the 1960's, Minnesota did not have any snowmobile trails. Now public and private industry have combined to provide thousands of miles of groomed snowmobile trails and millions of dollars in related service industries. The exhibit shows that through these efforts, Minnesota has become the capital of snowmobiling for the nation.

For more information on the exhibit at the center, write to the Forest History Center, 2609 County Road 76, Grand Rapids, MN 55744 or call 218-327-4482.

100 YEARS OLD on December 31, 1986, Ernest Norell was guest of honor at a birthday party Monday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Art Bredeson, in Thief River Falls. Since his wife died 10 years ago, he has divided his time between the Bredeson home and the home of another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Lindquist of Moorhead. He is originally from Maddock, ND, where he farmed for many years. Although deaf for more than 60 years, Norell expresses himself well in conversation. Most of the visitors Tuesday were from the Bredeson's church and Art Bredeson's relatives attended a separate gathering on Tuesday. Norell had two radiation treatments for cancer of the spine 21 years ago and doctors told the family he wouldn't live until Christmas. "We didn't pray for his recovery but for the strength to give him up," Mrs. Bredeson said. "The doctors said his recovery had to be Divine healing; there was no other explanation for it. He always said he had to take care of Ma, which he did for eight years." Norell's family gathered in Moorhead on his actual birthday of December 31 and guests were present from Spokane, WA; Anchorage, AK; Houston, TX; Fallbrook, CA; and a number of communities in North Dakota and Minnesota.

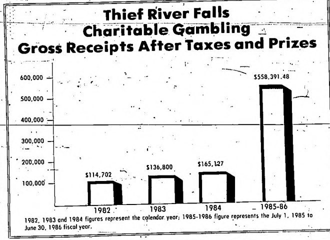
Lure Of Profit Draws Many Groups Into Gambling



1982, 1983 and 1984 figures represent the calendar year; 1985-1986 figure represents the July 1, 1985 to June 30, 1986 fiscal year.

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Gordon Henrickson of the Goodridge Area Development association and Tim Anderson, president of the Jaycees chapter in Goodridge, both believe the Jaycees and the development association are on better footing lately. Last summer the two groups were at odds as to which could operate what charitable gambling site. The situation was finally resolved when the two groups met with the Pennington county commissioners and reached an agreement.

Each organization believed the other organization benefited the community, but both wanted control over the profitable charitable gambling license at the liquor store in Goodridge or the T-N-T lounge, which had changed ownership at the time.

Agreement on their mutual benefit to the small Northwestern Minnesota town of about 141 probably helped resolve the disagreement, resulting in a profit sharing agreement. The Goodridge Area Development association agreed to share 20 per cent of the profits after taxes and do most of the book work, while they kept the license in their name.

In July, when the two community-minded groups reach a $80,000 goal for a community center, the Goodridge area development association will share 50 per cent of the profits. Both groups also realize that working together will help reduce their time and costs in operating a gambling operation.

It isn't unusual that groups are arguing over control of charitable gambling control sites. The same gripe has been a topic of discussion among several organizations not only in Goodridge, but Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire. Many are asking whether a limit should be set on the number of licenses one group may have. Others are wondering about the selection process. And still others are wondering why they didn't get involved in charitable gambling right from the start.

Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey associaton (TRFAHA), usually a benefactor from others' charitable gambling, is looking to generate its own revenue through charitable gambling. Last April the organization began its first charitable gambling operation at the Thief River Falls Golf club. The operation moved into the Rusty Nail in September and the Best Western in December.

Don Stewart, one of the members working on the project for TRFAHA, said reaching a decision to participate in gambling was a difficult one, and took around five months of investigation. He said it was an especially difficult decision because the organization is run entirely by volunteers, which meant the book work would have to be done on someone's free time.

Charitable gambling in Minnesota has become big business — so big everyone wants to get a part of the profits. Everyone may want to get involved but some organizations are finding the field crowded. There are just so many available sites in one community. As the report from the control board indicates there are presently 19 licensed sites in the county. Of those, there are at least three organizations with more than two licenses.

Som organizations are wondering just how many licenses are enough. In some cases the result — as in Goodridge — has been hard feelings, at least until the problem is resolved.

SERVICE AWARDS were presented at the annual meeting of Jobs Incorporated Thursday noon at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls. Everett Ault (center) of the board of directors presented the awards to Jim Winjum (left), Roger Reuter (right) and William Ness, who was unable to attend. Reuter was president of the board of directors for the past year and Winjum and Ness were leaving the board at the end of the past year.

Jobs Incorporated Has Annual Meet Thursday

Everett Ault, Arve Moser, Don Narverud, Ronald Nelson, Chris Twomey and David Johnson were elected to the board of directors when Thief River Falls Jobs Incorporated conducted its annual meeting Thursday noon at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls.

Roger Reuter, president of the organization for 1986, presided at the meeting. Jay Brunner, executive director of the Northwest Regional Development commission, who had been scheduled as main speaker for the program, was weathered in at the Minneapolis airport and unable to attend.

Don Stewart, community development director for Jobs Incorporated and the city of Thief River Falls, presented a review of the past year. He explained that the executive director position of Jobs Incorporated had been consolidated with the city's department of planning and zoning to form the office of community development.

He noted that Jobs Incorporated had become involved in the successful effort to have the Northwest Regional Development commission relocate in Thief River Falls. Shortly thereafter Jack Quinlivan resigned as city planner to accept a similar position in Faribault county and Stewart was hired to fill the community development post.

"You, as supporters, and contributors to Jobs Incorporated are involved in the high stakes game of community development," Steward told the membership of the organization in attendance. "As such, you are involved in direct competition with a hundred other communities in Minnesota and thousands of communities across North America."

But, Stewart pointed out, Thief River Falls and Jobs Incorporated are not newcomers to the game of economic development.

"Through the vision and foresight of men such as Bill LaFave, Les Ihle, L.B. Hartz, Bill Dahlquist, E.O. Peterson, Jim Winjum Sr., Orion Beich and Ralph Luhman, Jobs Incorporated was established in September of 1955," he said.

"Thanks to their successors, including many of you here today, Jobs Incorporated has remained for over 30 years a viable force in providing for civic betterment and the stimulation of commerce and industry, which were the stated purposes of those men in founding this organization."

Stewart said that in his eight months as community development director, he has learned that the name of the game is "retention and diversification."

"We must all work to retain the businesses and industries that presently exist within our communities," he said. "Yes, we are fortunate that a hard working group of individuals are returning the name of Arctic Cat to its rightful place and that Northwestern Minnesota has Arctco, Polaris and Marvin Windows and the many jobs that go with those names. But over the long haul we must look also to the Digi-Keys, Northern Woodworks and Altra Powers.

"Give us 10 businesses employing 50 persons each as opposed to diverting all our effort in trying to attract one employing 500," he noted. "We need your input and tips on local and non-local businesses that may be thinking about starting something new, expanding or relocating, or — as sometimes happens — are having problems.

"We have the tools such as the enterprise zone credits and revolving loan fund, agencies like the Small Business Development center and regional development commission to provide assistance, and the commitment of county and city government to compete, but we also need those leads."

The community development director said that a major water treatment plant remodeling and expansion may divert his efforts from activities directly relating to job retention and creation. Over the

Dave Strong Takes Over Leadership For C of C

Thief River Falls chamber of commerce held its 73rd annual banquet at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls Saturday night. About 225 chamber members and guests attended the event.

Dave Strong assumed his responsibilities as 1987 chamber president at the annual banquet. Strong received a gavel signifying his new leadership role from Larry Belmont who served as the 1986 president of the chamber of commerce. The other board members beginning 1987 leadership roles include Kay Wedul as first vice president, Joel Swanson as second vice president, Ron Winter as treasurer and Larry Belmont as past president.

Belmont bore the brunt of master of ceremony Larry Rohlf's jokes during the evening, but weathered it well. In his 1986 presidential message, Belmont said after he took office he came up with the same basic theme as Roger Tunberg and Ron Martin used. "I am choosing not to come up with a better or more creative theme, because there simply is no better sentiment than 'thanks for your support', no better theme than "Thief River Falls is a winner," he said.

Belmont also presented several key awards at the banquet before passing the gavel to Strong. The President's award, which has only been presented twice before, was presented to Bob Wurst, who recently retired as city attorney and from his practice as a lawyer in Thief River Falls.

Wurst, city attorney for nearly 37 years, announced his intentions to retire as of Feb. 1, 1987. Wurst began working with the city as legal counsel when he was appointed assistant city attorney in January of 1950. At that time the city attorney was Theodore Quale. Wurst is a graduate of the University of Minnesota school of law, St. Thomas college and Melrose high school. He grew up in Greenwald. Wurst moved to Thief River Falls and opened his law practice in 1949.

Wurst has been a member of the hospital board, Norwest Bank board, Minn-Star board, Arctic Enterprises board, Jobs Inc. board, and a member of the Hartz foundation. He was instrumental in bringing Northland community college to Thief River Falls and in getting the sports arena built. He and his wife Mary Jane are member of St. Bernard's parish.

Chuck Richards, former Pennington county sheriff, and Cliff Larson, formerly with the Minnesota department of transportation, received life membership awards at the banquet, and received special recognition. Both retired recently and both has been long-time members of the chamber of commerce.

Belmont presented plaques to retiring directors present at the meeting: Russ Christianson, Ron Martin, Ken Mehrkens and Mike Woods. He also presented plaques to committee chairmen of 1986 who were present at the banquet: Rich Jorde, Rocky Ammerman, Diana Josephson, Jerry Wigness and Paul Ihle.

In taking over as the 1987 president, Strong wrote in his presidential message that "It is a well known fact

Annual Sno-Fest Held This Week At Lincoln H.S.

Sno-Fest takes place this week at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. This year's theme is "Can't Help Falling In Love."

Strange and bizarre dress up days such as wear your boxer shorts and long-johns on Monday, jersey day on Tuesday, Hawaiian day on Wednesday, flower child day on Thursday, and dress up day on Friday, are preludes to many other activities. A major part of the festivities is to raise money through beverage can collections, and button sales. Proceeds from the beverage can collection will support the Camp Courage day camp locally, the Heritage community center, and a school project, which will probably be a sign for Lincoln high school. Proceeds from button sales will go to class treasuries.

Friendly competition between the classes for beverage can collections, button sales, wall decorations in the cafeteria, attendance figures at the two home games and a skit competition at the Friday assembly will determine who is named King and Queen of Sno-Fest week Friday at an assembly.

Two home games will be featured this week. The Prowler hockey team will meet Moorhead 7:30 p.m. at the Sports arena Saturday; and the boy's swim team will swim against Detroit Lakes on Thursday.

The week's activities will conclude with a dance in the Lincoln high school cafeteria, 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. "After The Fact" is the featured band. Tickets cost $4.50 per person or $8 per couple. Sno-Fest is sponsored by the Student Senate, Marci Turenne, president.

Connie Rutz - LeRoy Rucinski United In Marriage

Connie Lou Rutz and LeRoy Eugene Rucinski were united in marriage October 11 at a 2 p.m. double ring ceremony at Abundant Life church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. Berton Hushagen officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rutz of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rucinski of Warren.

Pianist was Christie Flatland, playing "Canon In D" and "Bridal March" as processional. Michelle Kaspari served as vocalist, with selections of "Endless Love," "Time For Joy," "Make Us One, Father," and "The Lord's Prayer." Tim Nelson was candle lighter for the ceremony.

The bride was escorted by her parents to an alter decorated with floral arrangements of white mums with burgundy satin bows. She wore her mother's wedding gown of bridal lace over satin with a jeweled neckline, full skirt and fitted lace sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a headpiece of pearls and lace and she wore matching pearl necklace and earrings. The bridal bouquet was composed of pink, white and red roses; burgundy, white and pink stephanotis; babies' breath; and greenery. Friend of the bride, Christine Butenhoff of Winona, was the bride's personal attendant.

Matron of honor was Terri Horn, Fargo, friend of the bride; Anita Rutz, Thief River Falls, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; and Kim Larson, Moorhead, friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid.

They wore identical gowns of shell pink, each with a double flounced neckline worn off-the-shoulder accenting a full, bustled skirt flowing from a ribbon-tied empire waistline. Their gowns were complimented by smaller replicas of the bridal bouquet, and they wore golden cross necklaces, gifts from the bride.

Dayna Holland, friend of the couple, was the flower girl. She wore a white lace, tea-length gown with a wreath of pink stephanotis and babies' breath in her hair. Her bridal basket contained flowers similar to those in the bridal bouquet. She wore a pearl necklace, her gift from the bridal couple.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held for the couple in the church parlors. The three-tiered white wedding cake, trimmed with pink roses, was topped by double wedding bells and pink roses. Mrs. Martin Hanson baked and decorated the cake.

Lure Of Profit Draws Many Groups Into Gambling

Since control over charitable gambling in Minnesota was handed over to a newly created state Charitable Gambling Control board, gross receipts after the taxes in charitable gambling have skyrocketed.

Erin Roth, committee administrator for Sen. Bob Lessard, DFL, International Falls, who is chairman of the general legislation and gaming committee in the Minnesota senate, said "gambling in Minnesota is not going backward but forward." Roth said the committee is not talking about another Las Vegas but said he believes the Senate recognizes that gambling is here to stay and that the committee is seriously considering a state lottery. He said "it is also our responsibility to make sure it is done responsibly."

Roth said it is important to the committee in reviewing some changes to make sure everything is done responsibly as charitable gambling heads toward becoming a billion dollar business. Roth said experts in the business believe that with a few changes, charitable gambling in Minnesota could become a billion dollar business within the next two years.

Roger Franke executive secretary of the Charitable Gambling Control board, likes to emphasize the positive aspects of charitable gambling. It is a money-maker for charities which are just as hard hit by current economic problems as everyone in Minnesota.

Not everyone is happy with charitable gambling. Quite a few are indignant about its apparent success. "We have been told over and over again that we live in a depressed community with a depressed economy and a totally depressed environment. Yet looking at the amount of money generated by gambling I feel I have been lied to and it makes me mad," said Rev. Dan Cole of the Assembly of God church.

In Thief River Falls where charitable gambling receipts jumped from $165,127 in 1984 to $558,391.48 (after taxes and prizes for the last fiscal year), Mayor Bob Carlson was concerned that so much money can be spent in a community that is supposed to be economically depressed. The mayor said he had noticed people playing gambling games who, considering their economic condition, probably should have nothing to do with gambling, especially when they have a family to support.

The mayor said he discussed the problem with one organization and asked if the club warned or cut off an individual who was spending too much money night after night. In some cases gambling can be as addictive as alcohol. But the manager said unless the gamblers start writing bad checks he doesn't say anything to them.

Carlson said, however, he also can't argue with the benefits of charitable gambling. It benefits the city and county and many charities that are in need of it. Carlson pointed out that people also have a right to spend their money in any manner they see fit.

But Rev. Cole, in a separate interview, said pull-tabs and alcohol are located in the same places. It is a "marriage of two voices," he said.

Cole recognized that the money is out there for charities. But the question to him is how to get it out of people properly. "If we know gambling is a destroyer we are being hypocritical for allowing it to continue," he said.

While charities are scrambling and jockeying for key sites and licenses, and citizens are sitting up and taking notice, the Federal government has also taken a keen interest in what is happening.

Recently, the federal government decided to implement an excise tax of one-quarter of one per cent on charitable gambling gross receipts and plans to make it retroactive for 18 months. An official for the Internal Revenue service explained that the law does not distinguish between gambling and charitable gambling so the IRS is merely enforcing what has already been entered into the law books.

This has many of the charities worried. Charities are so worried about the new tax and other problems that they are forming large organizations to protect their interests in the legislature. Some are contemplating hiring a lobbyist.

Reuben Bagstad of Badger, the president of a newly-formed organization called Northwest Charities Support association, said he believes a larger group would be much more effective than a single charity sounding off to a legislator or control board representative.

Roger Franke of the Charitable Gambling Control board, agrees and even encourages the development of these organizations. He said he would rather deal with these larger organizations than deal with separate organizations on a one-to-one basis, although he would work with any organization if it needed assistance.

Franke was recently in Thief River Falls to talk to members of the Northwest Charities Support association, which boasts a quickly growing membership. Franke updated the members on upcoming legislative changes and the importance of forming an organization to support their interests as well as answered questions on charitable gambling.

Northwest Charities Support association doesn't expect to have much clout among legislators right away. The members realize it will take time to bring everyone together in the association which seeks to encompass 11 Northwest Minnesota counties. In the future they hope to draw in many more organizations and join forces with Allied Charities of Minnesota — a similar group they modeled their organization after and which is located in St. Cloud.

There are a number of problems the organizations hope to address and influence future decisions of legislators. Some of those problems include how the licensed operations spend their receipts, the amount of taxes collected and who they are to be paid to.

Erin Roth said the general legislation and gaming committee in the Minnesota senate is looking at several possible changes. The first would be placing a hold on action taken last year that would require licenses to send taxes on pull-tabs alone to the revenue department and taxes on other games to the gambling control board. He said the effort is a duplication and headache. Eventually, he said, the committee will decide where all the taxes should be sent.

A second change may include relief for smaller organizations on the 60-40 rule. Smaller organizations have a tougher time with this rule than larger organizations and the committee is considering relaxing it somehow.

Roth said the committee is considering a resolution to be sent to the President and Minnesota's congressional delegation calling for the President and Congress to exempt charitable organizations involved in gambling from the federal excise tax.

In an effort to control charitable gambling in Minnesota, the committee is also planning stiffer enforcement, especially as far as fraud is concerned.

Jobs Inc. Holds Annual Meeting At Best Western

long haul, however, he said, that project will have considerable bearing on the economic well-being of our community.

He pointed out the effort directed toward relocation of the Northwest Regional Development commission to Thief River Falls and noted that Jobs Incorporated thereby had taken on a five-year financial commitment to subsidize rent for that facility. "Your board believes that it will be worth the effort and cost over the long haul," he said.

Decision of Land O'Lakes to expand its freezer facilities here has created an increase of the equivalent of 32 full-time jobs over 1985-86 in the turkey processing area. "They tell us there is a good chance that in 1987 we may see a very sizeable increase in that number," Stewart said, "and this commitment on the part of Land O'Lakes may open up other possibilities related to the poultry industry."

Aviation related contacts were made during the year and may yet result in a manufacturing-retrofitting facility at the regional airport here, Stewart said. He also mentioned the OTH-B siting process and involvement of Jobs Incorporated in attracting what it considered to be a "largely passive installation, potentially representing a relatively clean method of adding to the employment in our area."

In October a business retention and expansion survey was conducted in cooperation with the Minnesota department of energy and economic development. The survey brought to attention concerns that local business had and permitted Jobs Incorporated to act on those concerns immediately. In 1986 the organization made contacts and provided consultation and assistance to 50 to 100 other individuals, businesses and firms looking to start up, relocate or expand.

For the coming year, Jobs Incorporated will continue work on the ongoing projects addressed in 1986 and will assist the chamber of commerce in attempting to have vacant retail space in the downtown business area filled. "Jobs in retail business and a viable, vibrant shopping community are most important to our economic well-being," Stewart said.

Service awards were presented at the close of the meeting to William Ness, Jim Winjum and Roger Reuter for service to the organization.

that a chamber of commerce is no better than the people involved, both at the committee and general membership levels. The backbone of any chamber is the volunteer."

Strong introduced his committee chairmen, directors and staff. Serving directors this year are Kay Wedul, Cecil Anderson, Rich Jorde, Diana Josephson, Ron Kaltnoski, Cliff Swanson, Art Tranby and a board member from school district 564, the city of Thief River Falls and Pennington county commissioners. The 1987 committee chairmen are Dave Kirkeby, Kay Wedul, Larry Rohlf, Jean Heinrichs, Maryel Anderson, Ev Ault, Connie Omdahl and Jeff Hendrickson. Chamber of commerce staff members this year are Susan Lillevold, executive vice president; Lavonne Haroldson, secretary-bookkeeper; and Nancy Storaker, business supervisor-secretary.

Also in attendance at the chamber banquet were State Representative Wally Sparby; State Senator LeRoy Stumpf; Bill Penning and Roger Hoffman of the county board of commissioners; Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls; and many others important to the continued support of the chamber of commerce. Past presidents of the chamber who were in attendance at the banquet and dance were J.J. Womack, Gene Beito, Roger Tunberg, Arnold Narverud, Ron Martin, Glenn Peterson, Richard "Bud" Evans and Stan Upham. Debbie Erickson, the reigning Miss Thief River Falls, led banquet-goers in singing "We're From Thief River."

Leah Dahlen Is Named To "Who's Who" Publication

Leah L. Dahlen of Goodridge is among the 22 Bemidji state university students who will be included in the 1987 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," a directory which annually recognizes students from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning across the United States.

Dahlen, a senior majoring in elementary education, was a delegate at the National Association of Campus Activities regional convention in 1985 and a delegate at the NACA national convention in 1986.

A student senate representative for three terms and a hall council member in 1983-1984, she facilitated a leadership workshop in the fall of 1986 and is the assistant coordinator of the Hobson Union programming board.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the directory chose the BSU students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Dear Readers,

The funeral is a worthwhile experience when it meets the religious, social and psychological needs of the bereaved family and mourners. The arrangements for the funeral are important in giving the mourners some useful and helpful things to do. This serves to confirm the reality of physical death so that grief can gradually give way to recovery of a wholesome mental attitude.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Legal Misdirection

A resolution adopted by the New York State Bar association is an example of misdirection of legal authority. The resolution has been passed along to the American Bar association for adoption of a similar resolution on the national level.

"Resolved," states the resolution, "that the New York State Bar association oppose any form of media advertising tobacco-products by initiating and supporting legislation prohibiting such advertising, and it is further resolved that the New York State Bar association urge the American Bar association to adopt a similar resolution."

Cigarette advertising is now banned on television under federal law which we disagreed with strongly when it was adopted a number of years ago. We don't use cigarettes, we don't like cigarettes and we have no interest in television collecting additional revenues. What we don't like is the government banning advertising of something which is entirely legal.

Not only is it legal to produce and market cigarettes, the government subsidizes tobacco production and collects substantial taxes from its sale in processed form. If it is legal to produce and market cigarettes, it should not be illegal to advertise them in any truthful way in any medium.

We are surprised at the New York Bar association's action and would be shocked if the American Bar association took the request to pass a similar resolution seriously. A ban on advertising would be a curtailment of freedom of speech beyond the shadow of a doubt and the legal profession of all professions should want to protect against that.

Cigarettes are health hazards. Tobacco is a type of drug that can do little good and a whole lot of harm. If the legal profession and the government believe the hazard outweighs the value, then the effort should be directed toward banning its growth and use. Caution with the basic freedoms of speech and press would be well advised. The New York Bar association should have its fingers slapped for proposing such a ban on tobacco advertising and the ABA should exercise proper restraint and ignore the request.

W-4 Is Complex Tax Tool

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

The Senate's chief tax law writer is urging the Internal Revenue Service to withdraw and simplify the new W-4 withholding form that all employees are required to file this year.

And the president of a leading tax preparing firm says people who clam deductions indicated by the complicated form will wind up disappointed when they don't receive the hefty refund to which they have become accustomed.

With 300 million copies of the new W-4 and its four-page instructions already in the hands of employees, it's a little late to talk about revising the directions and simplifying the form, even though Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Texas, of the Senate Finance Committee now suspects workers may be unable to "decipher the form because of its complexity." Realistically, the time for review and revision is past, at least for this year.

As far as taxpayers experiencing disappointment next year upon realizing that they had paid in no more than their share and would not be getting a refund — those same taxpayers might take comfort in knowing that the federal government did not enjoy interest-free use of part of their earnings for a good portion of the year.

Congress mandated the IRS to devise a W-4 that would provide more accurate withholding. Not surprisingly, it apparently takes a somewhat more complicated process to come close to the mark. Assuming the new form accomplishes what it's intended to, complicated though it may be, its completion should prove well worth the extra time it takes taxpayers to figure it out. The results should put more of the paycheck at workers' disposal without having it first pass through Uncle Sam's pockets.

Those who miss the thrill of getting a big return can always start a savings or investment plan and withdraw their money from it around tax return time, with one big difference . . . interest earnings or dividends.

Long Road to Rural Vitality

Following editorial appeared recently in the Minneapolis Star and Tribune:

State government cannot rescue rural Minnesota communities from the problems that beset many of them. But it has done much, and can do more, to provide short-term relief and long-term hope.

Two constraints limit the state's ability to deal with rural distress. One is financial. State aid cannot fill the void left by flagging agricultural and mining industries. The second constraint arises from the causes and hence the solutions. Most are beyond state control, rooted in federal policy or the global marketplace. Recognizing those constraints, state leaders should concentrate on helping economically injured people and communities adapt. The challenge for Gov. Perpich and the 1987 Legislature is not to add more aid programs, but to determine which have worked best, how to improve and finance them, and which should be dropped.

The state now provides a variety of credit help to debt-burdened farmers. It offers retraining, relocation and other social services for displaced farmers and unemployed miners. It gives economic-development assistance to rural communities and direct financial aid through welfare, school and local-government payments.

The governor plans a sharp cut in economic-development spending to help close the budget gap. That move is probably prudent. But the state should continue using its economic-development expertise to help bring new businesses to farm and mining areas where remoteness and sparse population have been barriers to economic diversification. Because structural changes in farming and mining will permanently reduce employment in these areas, the Legislature also should include in welfare-to-work reforms the retraining and relocation assistance necessary to help victims of those changes.

As indebted farmers restructure their finances or leave farming, the Legislature should regularly reexamine the state's role in providing credit assistance. A two-year-old state interest-rate subsidy has helped thousands of moderately indebted farmers stay afloat, using a small amount of state money to leverage a large amount of credit. Although money will be especially tight because of some $14 million in unfunded obligations from 1986, lawmakers should attempt to keep the subsidy available for at least one more year.

However, the Legislature should abandon a more ambitious plan for issuing state bonds to raise money for restructuring heavy farm debts; that move is still possible because as yet no bonds have been sold or loans approved. The huge financial burden of writing down farm debt belongs on private lenders and the federal government, rather than on state taxpayers. The Legislature also should revise mandatory-mediation provisions that have chilled, rather than encouraged, cooperative debt restructuring.

The state's bonding capacity is better deployed in the Reinvest in Minnesota program, which pays farmers to retire fragile land. And the Legislature should consider resurrecting the Family Farm Security program, which could take advantage of lower land prices and interest rates to help young farmers get started.

The tight budget will collide during the 1987 legislative session with commitments by newly elected legislators to help distressed areas of Minnesota. Those lawmakers have seen economic distress among their constituents. They should recall that pain in setting priorities this year that reflect the value of a hard-to-come-by dollar.

Interesting Opinion

"Since there is almost no chance that the agricultural community will be able to squeeze even a few more dollars out of Congress, our job will be to see that our funds are spent responsibly and in a way that will do the greatest good for the greatest number of the nation's wheat farmers."

Thoughts On Rural Education
by Marvin Bronken
Oklee Minnesota

On June 30, 1986, I retired from education, after serving over 37 years as a teacher, coach, high school principal and superintendent in rural communities of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Thirty of those 37-plus years were spent in Oklee as a high school teacher, principal and superintendent.

During my 37 years in the education field I saw a number of so-called "new" innovations like the open classroom, team teaching, flexible modular scheduling, the block system, and various adaptations of all of these; however, the last publicized trend was "Back to the Basics."

I believe I am most proud of rural educators in northern Minnesota in that for the most part they had never left the basics, although the pressure was often applied by their urban counterparts, university experimental programs and even the State Department of Education to climb on the latest innovational bandwagon.

Education in the elementary and high schools should be the basics (reading, writing and math) plus a well-planned exploratory experience in literature, arts, science, music, geography and yes, even several extra-curricular activities. A high school graduate should enjoy and receive life-long benefits from his or her school experience other than just the potential monetary rewards.

Regardless of the short-lived fads of the 1960's and early 70's in education, I do believe education in rural Minnesota and elsewhere has shown considerable improvement both in the quality of teaching and in the students as well. Education is more important to the young man and woman in high school today than it was 20 years ago. Education does not have to sell itself to the public like it did in the 1950's and 1960's. Education has finally arrived! It is now considered essential in all fields of endeavor whether they be vocational or professional.

Computers are playing an important part as a tool in education, not only as a business function, but as a part of the classroom function as well. It should not be thought of as an end in itself but as a tool to enhance learning. The programmer must be educated in all the basics to make the computer a valuable instrument.

Two definite improvements in secondary education in the past 20 years are the advent of vocational school opportunities and the introduction of special education in Minnesota. When I began teaching in 1949-50, each year a number of students dropped out at about the eighth grade or, if pressured to stay longer, would leave at about the age of 15. Students who were retarded or needed special help would drop out even sooner.

That is not the case today where over 85 per cent of the students graduate from high schools in Minnesota. High school vocational courses and special education have helped to provide education for different interests and different abilities.

I feel very fortunate in having had the opportunity to experience 30 years of my education career in the state of Minnesota. This state has been one of the national leaders in education and the state legislature has been very supportive of our public schools. Let's continue to improve and keep it that way.

to the Editor

To The Editor:

Surprised? Shocked? Angered?

Yes, all of these described my feelings last week at having found out the contents of an executive order issued by Governor Perpich on Nov. 19, 1986, shortly after his re-election.

The governor's order sounds innocent enough; it says the state may not discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation in recruitment, hiring, promotion, tenure and compensation.

I was angered by this initially because of the fact that certain legislators have tried to pass exactly the same thing repeatedly in St. Paul, under the guise of "gay rights," but the bill always failed due to a large and vociferous public outcry. Now the governor has done what the lawmakers could not do, because they feared a backlash among voters in their districts.

I believe one with sexual disorientation ought to be shown compassion and certainly deserves the dignity and respect of any other citizen, but compassion dare not be blind and does not require that we give them extra privileges unavailable to other citizens. It also does not require that we give public support for the lifestyle of the sodomite through such actions, especially in light of the supreme court ruling of last fall in which the court in fact supported a Georgia sodomy law.

Why should the governor be so out of step with the people of Minnesota, who have voiced their opposition to special privileges for homosexuals many times, and the law of the land? Executive orders can be reversed by the governor and, if you have never written him on any other occasion you should perhaps do so immediately and let him know how you, as one who is looking very carefully at the actions he takes, feel about this executive order.

I feel sure, if he receives the number of letters from the concerned people of Minnesota that want to see the basic foundations of our society strengthened and not undermined in these ways, that he will quickly change direction on this order. You can write Governor Rudy Perpich, Room 130, State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155 or call 612-296-3391.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

Wintertime is the best time of the year for bird-watching here. It is fun to observe their activity as they flit about just outside our windows. There is an amazing variety of species; some are residents only in winter. It is easy to view their markings against the backdrop of white snow.

In the verdant summer, on the other hand, we are limited to quick glances at birds on the wing before they are lost to view among leafy branches.

Today 40 or so Redpolls are in the branches of the paperbirch tree, waiting their turn to get at sunflower meats. They seem to spend the entire day hunting for food.

Each wears a saucy red beret. The males sport a rosy-pink vest front and their blackish chins are distinctive. Tiny, the females appear to be half the size of sparrows. I marvel that such small creatures can endure the cold and winds of Minnesota.

Seeing them makes me feel good about our winter climate, for this country to them is like Texas is to us. I read that although they are usually found in the vicinity of the Arctic Circle, the Redpolls come south periodically to escape the Arctic's severe weather. It is nice to know "south" is relative, and that the climate of northern Minnesota is balmy to these refugees from the tundra and northern forests.

They came out of the dun sky of November and when they leave, we will know that spring is approaching.

The largest of our winter birds made a dramatic appearance. Yesterday someone shouted, "Look at that!" And everyone crowded to see the great and striking bird on the deck railing, jabbing at suet. When a squirrel joined him, the red cockade on top of its head stuck straight up. What a sight! It was the size of a crow but much more exotic with narrow white strips on the side of its head and neck that contrasted with its coal-black plumage.

Never before had I seen it up close, although occasionally I had glimpsed one in the woods.

We looked up its picture in the bird book and learned it was a Northern Pileated Woodpecker. I read that they are such powerful birds that they can split off large slabs from decaying stumps and strip bushels of bark from dead trees. Their size and strength and their long spear-like tongues enable them to penetrate large trees and draw out borers from the very heart of the tree. The Pileated Woodpecker is not as rare as some would have us believe, but is only shy and keeps under cover.

The mystery is solved; I had come upon the evidence of his work many times in the snow-draped woods. So they are the ones that chisel out large rectangular holes in either sound or decaying wood. I have wondered what could wreak such havoc with sturdy trees.

Watching all these industrious creatures makes me appreciate the ease with which we human beings can cope with the hardiness of winter. We really have it easy. I think of early settlers here who had no down jackets or Arctic Cat suits to shield them from the cold, no automatic heating sources for their homes, no ready food supply at the supermarket.

Thinking of early days here reminds me of an old article I read in a "Gateway Magazine," published in Crookston in 1902. It was one of those "booster" publications that attempted to lure folks to the area to settle the land. The writer wanted people to know the type of person who could thrive here:

"The typical Minnesotan is a vigorous animal and a rustler. He has a mission to perform. He cannot sit on a fence or dangle his limbs from a store box. He has the choice to hustle or migrate.

"The climate is practical rather than ideal; severe, but chaste; harsh, but exceedingly healthful.

I think the writer described pretty well the special qualities of perseverance and determination that a pioneer needed here. Yet, even with all our modern inventions and with the myriad of choices we have today, I think it still takes a certain type of individual to really enjoy living in our northern zone.

Maybe industrious winter birds can give us a lesson to help us "get up and go," and not dangle our feet in front of a television set.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Legal Misdirection

A resolution adopted by the New York State Bar association is an example of misdirection of legal authority. The resolution has been passed along to the American Bar association for adoption of a similar resolution on the national level.

"Resolved," states the resolution, "that the New York State Bar association oppose any form of media advertising tobacco-products by initiating and supporting legislation prohibiting such advertising, and it is further resolved that the New York State Bar association urge the American Bar association to adopt a similar resolution."

Cigarette advertising is now banned on television under federal law which we disagreed with strongly when it was adopted a number of years ago. We don't use cigarettes, we don't like cigarettes and we have no interest in television collecting additional revenues. What we don't like is the government banning advertising of something which is entirely legal.

Not only is it legal to produce and market cigarettes, the government subsidizes tobacco production and collects substantial taxes from its sale in processed form. If it is legal to produce and market cigarettes, it should not be illegal to advertise them in any truthful way in any medium.

We are surprised at the New York Bar association's action and would be shocked if the American Bar association took the request to pass a similar resolution seriously. A ban on advertising would be a curtailment of freedom of speech beyond the shadow of a doubt and the legal profession of all professions should want to protect against that.

Cigarettes are health hazards. Tobacco is a type of drug that can do little good and a whole lot of harm. If the legal profession and the government believe the hazard outweighs the value, then the effort should be directed toward banning its growth and use. Caution with the basic freedoms of speech and press would be well advised. The New York Bar association should have its fingers slapped for proposing such a ban on tobacco advertising and the ABA should exercise proper restraint and ignore the request.

W-4 Is Complex Tax Tool

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

The Senate's chief tax law writer is urging the Internal Revenue Service to withdraw and simplify the new W-4 withholding form that all employees are required to file this year.

And the president of a leading tax preparing firm says people who clam deductions indicated by the complicated form will wind up disappointed when they don't receive the hefty refund to which they have become accustomed.

With 300 million copies of the new W-4 and its four-page instructions already in the hands of employees, it's a little late to talk about revising the directions and simplifying the form, even though Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Texas, of the Senate Finance Committee now suspects workers may be unable to "decipher the form because of its complexity." Realistically, the time for review and revision is past, at least for this year.

As far as taxpayers experiencing disappointment next year upon realizing that they had paid in no more than their share and would not be getting a refund — those same taxpayers might take comfort in knowing that the federal government did not enjoy interest-free use of part of their earnings for a good portion of the year.

Congress mandated the IRS to devise a W-4 that would provide more accurate withholding. Not surprisingly, it apparently takes a somewhat more complicated process to come close to the mark. Assuming the new form accomplishes what it's intended to, complicated though it may be, its completion should prove well worth the extra time it takes taxpayers to figure it out. The results should put more of the paycheck at workers' disposal without having it first pass through Uncle Sam's pockets.

Those who miss the thrill of getting a big return can always start a savings or investment plan and withdraw their money from it around tax return time, with one big difference . . . interest earnings or dividends.

Long Road to Rural Vitality

Following editorial appeared recently in the Minneapolis Star and Tribune:

State government cannot rescue rural Minnesota communities from the problems that beset many of them. But it has done much, and can do more, to provide short-term relief and long-term hope.

Two constraints limit the state's ability to deal with rural distress. One is financial. State aid cannot fill the void left by flagging agricultural and mining industries. The second constraint arises from the causes and hence the solutions. Most are beyond state control, rooted in federal policy or the global marketplace. Recognizing those constraints, state leaders should concentrate on helping economically injured people and communities adapt. The challenge for Gov. Perpich and the 1987 Legislature is not to add more aid programs, but to determine which have worked best, how to improve and finance them, and which should be dropped.

The state now provides a variety of credit help to debt-burdened farmers. It offers retraining, relocation and other social services for displaced farmers and unemployed miners. It gives economic-development assistance to rural communities and direct financial aid through welfare, school and local-government payments.

The governor plans a sharp cut in economic-development spending to help close the budget gap. That move is probably prudent. But the state should continue using its economic-development expertise to help bring new businesses to farm and mining areas where remoteness and sparse population have been barriers to economic diversification. Because structural changes in farming and mining will permanently reduce employment in these areas, the Legislature also should include in welfare-to-work reforms the retraining and relocation assistance necessary to help victims of those changes.

As indebted farmers restructure their finances or leave farming, the Legislature should regularly reexamine the state's role in providing credit assistance. A two-year-old state interest-rate subsidy has helped thousands of moderately indebted farmers stay afloat, using a small amount of state money to leverage a large amount of credit. Although money will be especially tight because of some $14 million in unfunded obligations from 1986, lawmakers should attempt to keep the subsidy available for at least one more year.

However, the Legislature should abandon a more ambitious plan for issuing state bonds to raise money for restructuring heavy farm debts; that move is still possible because as yet no bonds have been sold or loans approved. The huge financial burden of writing down farm debt belongs on private lenders and the federal government, rather than on state taxpayers. The Legislature also should revise mandatory-mediation provisions that have chilled, rather than encouraged, cooperative debt restructuring.

The state's bonding capacity is better deployed in the Reinvest in Minnesota program, which pays farmers to retire fragile land. And the Legislature should consider resurrecting the Family Farm Security program, which could take advantage of lower land prices and interest rates to help young farmers get started.

The tight budget will collide during the 1987 legislative session with commitments by newly elected legislators to help distressed areas of Minnesota. Those lawmakers have seen economic distress among their constituents. They should recall that pain in setting priorities this year that reflect the value of a hard-to-come-by dollar.

Interesting Opinion

"Since there is almost no chance that the agricultural community will be able to squeeze even a few more dollars out of Congress, our job will be to see that our funds are spent responsibly and in a way that will do the greatest good for the greatest number of the nation's wheat farmers."

— Henry Neshem, President,
National Association of Wheat Growers

Thoughts On Rural Education
by Marvin Bronken
Oklee Minnesota

On June 30, 1986, I retired from education, after serving over 37 years as a teacher, coach, high school principal and superintendent in rural communities of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Thirty of those 37-plus years were spent in Oklee as a high school teacher, principal and superintendent.

During my 37 years in the education field I saw a number of so-called "new" innovations like the open classroom, team teaching, flexible modular scheduling, the block system, and various adaptations of all of these; however, the last publicized trend was "Back to the Basics."

I believe I am most proud of rural educators in northern Minnesota in that for the most part they had never left the basics, although the pressure was often applied by their urban counterparts, university experimental programs and even the State Department of Education to climb on the latest innovational bandwagon.

Education in the elementary and high schools should be the basics (reading, writing and math) plus a well-planned exploratory experience in literature, arts, science, music, geography and yes, even several extra-curricular activities. A high school graduate should enjoy and receive life-long benefits from his or her school experience other than just the potential monetary rewards.

Regardless of the short-lived fads of the 1960's and early 70's in education, I do believe education in rural Minnesota and elsewhere has shown considerable improvement both in the quality of teaching and in the students as well. Education is more important to the young man and woman in high school today than it was 20 years ago. Education does not have to sell itself to the public like it did in the 1950's and 1960's. Education has finally arrived! It is now considered essential in all fields of endeavor whether they be vocational or professional.

Computers are playing an important part in education, not only as a business function, but as a part of the classroom function as well. It should not be thought of as an end in itself but as a tool to enhance learning. The programmer must be educated in all the basics to make the computer a valuable instrument.

Two definite improvements in secondary education in the past 20 years are the advent of vocational school opportunities and the introduction of special education in Minnesota. When I began teaching in 1949-50, each year a number of students dropped out at about the eighth grade or, if pressured to stay longer, would leave at about the age of 15. Students who were retarded or needed special help would drop out even sooner.

That is not the case today where over 85 per cent of the students graduate from high schools in Minnesota. High school vocational courses and special education have helped to provide education for different interests and different abilities.

I feel very fortunate in having had the opportunity to experience 30 years of my education career in the state of Minnesota. This state has been one of the national leaders in education and the state legislature has been very supportive of our public schools. Let's continue to improve and keep it that way.

to the Editor

To The Editor:

Surprised?–Shocked?–Angered?

Yes, all of these described my feelings last week at having found out the contents of an executive order issued by Governor Perpich on Nov. 19, 1986, shortly after his re-election.

The governor's order sounds innocent enough; it says the state may not discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation in recruitment, hiring, promotion, tenure and compensation. I was angered by this initially because of the fact that certain legislators have tried to pass exactly the same thing repeatedly in St. Paul, under the guise of "gay rights," but the bill always failed due to a large and vociferous public outcery. Now the governor has done what the lawmakers could not do, because they feared a backlash among voters in their districts.

I believe one with sexual disorientation ought to be shown compassion and certainly deserves the dignity and respect of any other citizen, but compassion dare not be blind and does not require that we give them extra privileges unavailable to other citizens. It also does not require that we give public support for the lifestyle of the sodomite through such actions, expecially in light of the supreme court ruling of last fall in which the court in fact supported a Georgia sodomy law.

Why should the governor be so out of step with the people of Minnesota, who have voiced their opposition to special privileges for homosexuals many times, and the law of the land? Executive orders can be reversed by the governor and, if you have never written him on any other occasion you should perhaps do so immediately and let him know how you, as one who is looking very carefully at the actions he takes, feel about this executive order.

I feel sure, if he receives the number of letters from the concerned people of Minnesota that want to see the basic foundations of our society strengthened and not undermined in these ways, that he will quickly change direction on this order. You can write Governor Rudy Perpich, Room 130, State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155 or call 612-296-3391.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

Wintertime is the best time of the year for bird-watching here. It is fun to observe their activity as they flit about just outside our windows. There is an amazing variety of species; some are residents only in winter. It is easy to view their markings against the backdrop of white snow.

In the verdant summer, on the other hand, we are limited to quick glances at birds on the wing before they are lost to view among leafy branches.

Today 40 or so Redpolls are in the branches of the paperbirch tree, waiting their turn to get at sunflower meats. They seem to spend the entire day hunting for food.

Each wears a saucy red beret. The males sport a rosy-pink vest front and their blackish chins are distinctive. Tiny, the females appear to be half the size of sparrows. I marvel that such small creatures can endure the cold and winds of Minnesota.

Seeing them makes me feel good about our winter climate, for this country to them is like Texas is to us. I read that although they are usually found in the vicinity of the Arctic Circle, the Redpolls come south periodically to escape the Arctic's severe weather. It is nice to know "south" is relative, and that the climate of northern Minnesota is balmy to these refugees from the tundra and northern forests.

They came out of the dun sky of November and when they leave, we will know that spring is approaching.

The largest of our winter birds made a dramatic appearance. Yesterday someone shouted, "Look at that!" And everyone crowded to see the great and striking bird on the deck railing, jabbing at suet. When a squirrel joined him, the red cockade on top of its head stuck straight up. What a sight! It was the size of a crow but much more exotic with narrow white strips on the side of its head and neck that contrasted with its coal-black plumage.

Never before had I seen it up close, although occasionally I had glimpsed one in the woods.

We looked up its picture in the bird book and learned it was a Northern Pileated Woodpecker. I read that they are such powerful birds that they can split off large slabs from decaying stumps and strip bushels of bark from dead trees. Their size and strength and their long spear-like tongues enable them to penetrate large trees and draw out borers from the very heart of the tree. The Pileated Woodpecker is not as rare as some would have us believe, but is only shy and keeps under cover.

The mystery is solved. I had come upon the evidence of his work many times in the snow-draped woods. So they are the ones that chisel out large rectangular holes in either sound or decaying wood. I have wondered what could wreak such havoc with sturdy trees.

Watching all these industrious creatures makes me appreciate the ease with which we human beings can cope with the hardiness of winter. We really have it easy. I think of early settlers here who had no down jackets or Arctic Cat suits to shield them from the cold, no automatic heating sources for their homes, no ready food supply at the supermarket.

Thinking of early days here reminds me of an old article I read in a "Gateway Magazine," published in Crookston in 1902. It was one of those "booster" publications that attempted to lure folks to the area to settle the land. The writer wanted people to know the type of person who could thrive here:

"The typical Minnesotan is a vigorous animal and a rustler. He has a mission to perform. He cannot sit on a fence or dangle his limbs from a store box. He has the choice to hustle or migrate.

"The climate is practical rather than ideal; severe, but chaste; harsh, but exceedingly healthful.

I think the writer described pretty well the special qualities of perseverance and determination that a pioneer needed here. Yet, even with all our modern inventions and with the myriad of choices we have today, I think it still takes a certain type of individual to really enjoy living in our northern zone.

Bemidji Doubles TRF 6-3

A Thief River Falls team that had gained a measure of respect despite a 4-8 record by challenging Section 8 leaders Warroad, Roseau and Crookston, failed to match those kinds of performances Saturday in losing a 6-3 high school hockey decision to Bemidji at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

The three-goal spread matched the widest margin of defeat this year for the Prowlers, whose forte had been close losses. The only other time the Prowlers weren't within one or two goals at the final horn was also against Bemidji — a 4-1 road defeat at the hands of the Lumberjacks back on December 23.

Thief River Falls was coming off a strong effort in a 4-3 loss to powerful Warroad Tuesday. Before that the Prowlers had lost a 4-3 overtime game to Roseau and lost a 4-2 contest to Crookston. Those three guys are your Section 8 leaders.

"We're very disappointed in our play," said Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand after a post-game meeting with his players Saturday night. "We didn't play teams the caliber of Warroad, Crookston and Roseau close playing that style of hockey. It was a lack of discipline on our part. We're not proud of the way we played tonight. We really felt we could beat Bemidji on our home turf, but as horrible first period took care of that."

Bemidji dominated play at the start. Although the score was still a reasonable 4-2 when the first period was completed, the Lumberjacks had out-shot the Prowlers to the tune of 19-3.

Thief River Falls scored first when sophomore Rick Looker intercepted a Bemidji pass in the Lumberjacks' zone with a quick move that sent him in on goalie Corey Chwialkowski one-on-one at 5:06.

But Bemidji's big Gary Matthews scored the next two goals as the Lumberjacks began to take command. Thief River Falls goalie Shayne Anderson made a pad save on a Matthews shot from the point, but the long rebound came right back to Matthews, who connected on his second shot for a power play marker, at 8:23.

Matthews made it 2-1 at 10:30 when he picked up the puck near the side of the Thief River Falls net and was allowed to walk out front untouched for the easy goal.

It quickly became 3-1 when Rob Aitken scored on an assist from Matthews at 11:14.

A well-placed backhand by Rod Roberts as he was being tied up in the slot area made it 4-1 at 13:54 and also produced a premature intermission when he was slammed into the glass behind the Thief River Falls net by defenseman Dave Johnson. The collision knocked out a piece of plexiglass and prompted officials to send the team into the lockerroom while repairs were being made with 1:06 still left in the opening period. Matthews got an assist on that goal, too, for a four-point first period.

After the ice was resurfaced, the glass repaired and the crowd was entertained by a pair of performers from the Thief River Falls Rec Skating Club, the Prowlers scored before that final 66 seconds of the first period had run off the clock.

In fact, it took just 14 seconds as senior Jim Breiland came in on Chwialkowski to score from close range as the Prowlers picked off another Bemidji pass near the Lumberjacks' blue line.

Only goal of the second period was scored by Bemidji's Rick Grand at 8:33 on a flurry of activity in front of the Thief River Falls net. There were three quick shots, and Anderson stopped two of them, but had nobody to clear the puck for him before Grand scored.

Thief River Falls gave it a shot in the third period when a good individual effort by Breiland made it 5-3 at 4:24. He poked in his own rebound after it appeared his first shot would lay behind Chwialkowski in the goal crease withouth anybody getting to the puck.

The come-back was snuffed out, though, when Rob Sauer's rebound goal wrapped up the scoring at 8:29. Anderson again made a save on a shot from the point, but Sauer was right on top of the netminder for the rebound.

While voicing his disappointment over the Prowlers' performance, Grand did praise them for their efforts at the end. "The kids kept playing hard," he said. "They could have very easily thrown in the towel in the first period, but they didn't."

Thief River Falls will be at East Grand Forks Tuesday and will host Moorhead Saturday. The Prowlers lost to both of them earlier this year, both one-goal affairs, although the Green Wave ended up with a 5-3 win on the scoreboard with an open net goal with just four seconds left in the game. The Spuds beat the Prowlers for the first time ever, 2-1, in a January 10 meeting in Moorhead.

Pioneers Upset No. 4 Ironmen

Those who were ready to write off the Northland Community College men's basketball team after the perennially-strong Pioneers struggled through a 5-6 record against nonconference competition may have to do some re-thinking following impressive back-to-back Minnesota Community College Conference wins over strong Northeast Division foes Hibbing and Vermilion.

Northland coach Chet Engelman said the Pioneers played perhaps their best game of the 1986-87 season the previous Saturday in a 73-67 victory at Hibbing. Friday night the Pioneers duplicated that effort in a surprisingly-easy 84-66 home court win over a Vermilion team that was ranked No. 4 on the latest MCCC state coaches' poll.

"We had to play as well tonight as we did against Hibbing to have a chance," said Engelman after the 18-point victory over the Ironmen. "I really don't know if we did play as well as we did against Hibbing, but we were close. I think our kids played with a lot of intensity. I was happy with the way they played."

Vermilion came into Thief River Falls, and made a Saturday swing to the university of Minnesota-Crookston, without 6-2 freshman Dee Erby of Muncie, IN, the leading scorer in the MCCC with a 27.7 average. He stayed behind in Ely because of a bout with the flu, and an ankle injury.

"They played without one of their best kids," admitted Engelman, "but I don't think he would have made any difference. We've got 18 points (victory margin) on the scoreboard. I think we would have still beat them if he had played."

Most of the first half was extremely close. There were five ties and the lead changed hands eight times until Northland took charge down the stretch. A three-pointer by freshman Rob Conatser gave Vermilion a 34-33 lead with 5:13 remaining, but Northland took the lead for keeps when Anthony McCullough got a three-pointer of his own — in the traditional manner with a basket underneath and a free throw — to start a run of nine unanswered points by the Pioneers. Rodney Wilson followed with a basket off an in-bounds play, McCullough musceled his way through traffic with a rebound basket and Randy Hargest also converted a rebound into a field goal for a 42-34 Northland lead with 2:51 left in the half.

A three-point field goal by freshman guard Morris Matthews with 50 seconds to go gave Northland its biggest lead of the first half, 45-36. The long ball-shooting Conatser answered with his fourth three-pointer of the first half with 32 seconds remaining for a 45-39 difference at halftime.

termission as the Pioneers controlled play for the full 20 minutes. They had their biggest spread at 69-50 on a technical foul free throw by Wilson on a foul assessed Conatser with 8:42 left. The Ironmen never challenged that lead.

"I think we wore them down in the second half," said Engelman, who played all 12 members of his team, and got scoring from nine of them. In addition to the fresh bodies, the Pioneers' muscle inside, suplied by the 6-4, 235-pound McCullough and the 6-2, 204-pound Hargest, took a physical toll on the equally-tall, but much thinner visitors.

McCullough finished with 19 points, the 6-4, 179-pound Wilson came off the bench to hit 18 and sophomore guard Greg Campbell had 15. Conatser, another Muncie product, led all scorers with 23, but got just five of those in the second half when Wilson was guarding him. Bill Daniels, a 6-4 forward, had 15 points and Rodney Ransom, a 5-10 guard, netted 13 for the Ironmen, who fell to 8-3 overall.

Northland was 34-for-67 from the field (51 per cent) and 13-for-24 at the free throw line (54 per cent). Vermilion went 20-for-57 from the field (35 per cent) and 20-for-30 at the line (67 per cent). Northland had a 45-41 rebound edge and limited their turnover total to a season-low 12 for the game — just four in the second half. Vermilion lost the ball 22 times.

| | 1 | 2 | T |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vermilion | 39 | 27 | 66 |
| Northland | 45 | 39 | 84 |

Vermilion — Marley Kendall 2, Rodney Ransom 13, Bill Keith 1, Rob Conatser 21, Jason Sundberg 4, Anthony Tucker 4, Bill Daniels 15, Julian Robinson 2.

Northland — Greg Campbell 15, Ray Davis 2, Morris Matthews 5, Kevin Nelson 3, Rodney Wilson 18, John Logan 4, Anthony McCullough 19, John Hanek 5, Randy Hargest 8.

THE PUCK settled in the back of the net as both Thief River Falls forward Jim Breiland and Bemidji goalie Corey Chwialkowski watched during the first period of Saturday's Section 8 high school hockey game at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. Breiland scored the goal at 14:08 of the first period, making it a 4-2 hockey game at the time. Bemidji went on to win 6-3. Breiland scored again in the third period, and left the ice late in the game with a separated shoulder, a common occurrence for the senior center.

Northland Teams Perfect 6-0 For Weekend

It was a good weekend for the Northland Community College athletic teams. In fact, it was a perfect weekend as the Pioneers went 6-0 in completing two-game sweeps in men's and women's basketball and hockey.

In basketball, the Northland men upset Vermilion 84-66 and knocked off Mesabi 85-76, while the Northland women stopped Vermilion 74-65 and downed Mesabi 71-58. The Northland hockey team overwhelmed Vermilion 15-2, 8-2.

The Pioneers — all three teams — are league leaders in the Minnesota Community College Conference. Both the men's and women's basketball teams are 4-0 in the Northwest Division standings, and the hockey team is 8-1 in the MCCC.

Moorhead On Top

Moorhead is climbing to the top in the North Sub-Region 8AA boys high school basketball race.

The Spuds are 3-0 against North Sub-Region 8AA foes following a 75-59 Friday night victory over Fergus Falls. Moorhead posted earlier wins over Thief River Falls (69-45) and Detroit Lakes, and needs only a victory over Bemidji to complete a regular season sweep and secure the post-season No. 1 tournament berth.

Fergus Falls, 1-1 within the North Sub-Region 8AA standings, has a Tuesday game at Detroit Lakes.

Thief River Falls is 1-2 in the North Sub-Region 8AA. In addition to the loss to Moorhead, the Prowlers own a 68-51 win over Bemidji, but also had a 67-62 loss to Detroit Lakes on their record. They have North Sub-Region 8AA games left Feb. 6 at Fergus Falls and Feb. 13 at home against Bemidji.

Although the Prowlers are struggling at this point, Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt feels his team can still challenge the other North Sub-Region 8AA schools. "I think we can be competitive if we can fast break and pass the ball. But our ball movement has to improve," he warned.

Thief River Falls will try to snap out of its slump this week with games Tuesday at Tri-County and Friday at home against Crookston.

Crookston, a last-second shot 52-51 winner over Thief River Falls Jan. 6, in Crookston, was on the other end of a close defeat Tuesday when Moorhead edged the Pirates 71-70.

The Pirates rallied from a nine-point deficit at the start of the fourth quarter to make it interesting at the end. Crookston pulled within 69-68 with a basket with nine seconds left, then Steele Senske stole the in-bounds pass and scored for a 70-69 lead with just seven seconds to go.

Moorhead won it, though, when a foul put the Spuds' Rick Eidsness at the free throw line at the end for two free throws.

The Spuds played without injured 6-7 center Mike Bjelland.

NCC Women Beat Vermilion

A victory over Vemilion might not have been exactly what the doctor ordered as a get-well remedy, but members of the flu-plagued Northland Community College women's basketball team were probably feeling much better Friday night following the Pioneers' 74-65 Minnesota Community College Conference win.

"We've been sick all week," explained Northland coach Tom Neibauer. "Four of our five starters were sick tonight, so we'll take that one," he said after the Pioneers' third straight Northwest Division-counting win over a Northeast Division foe.

Sophomore Jody Pahlen was the only Northland starter at full strength, pointed out Neibauer, and the former Plummer standout showed it with a strong 24-point performance from her guard position. Center Janelle Lorsung, who had visited the doctor that afternoon, came on strong in the second half and finished with 19 points, while forward Angie Enerson contributed 12.

Vermilion featured a strong 1-2 attack in 5-8 guard Sue Cannon, who matched Pahlen for game-high scoring honors with 24 points, and 5-8 forward Julie Kes, who had 21.

Despite the health problems, Northland appeared to be headed to an easy home court victory when a sharp-looking fast break racked up 12 straight points and supplied the Pioneers with a 17-9 lead just 7:10 into the contest. Guard Patti Odberg hit a short jumper to make it a 15-point bulge, 28-13 with 8:13 remaining in the first half, and Pahlen matched that with two free throws for a 30-15 cushion with 7:36 left.

But Northland then missed three sets of two-shot free throw opportunities and turned the ball over to allow Vermilion to get back into the game. The visitors out-scored the Pioneers 11-1 over the next four minutes to pull within 32-26 on a drive to the basket by Kes with 3:15 to play, and Vermilion was within six again when center Jill Diers connected from the side for a 34-28 game with 2:06 on the clock.

Northland stopped the Vermilion rally, though, when Pahlen led Enerson with a neat bounce pass for an easy lay-up with one-minute left and then scored herself on a rebound with 28 seconds to go as the lead climbed back to 38-28. Both baskets came after Vermilion turnovers.

Kes scored on a rebound at the end to close out a 38-30 first half.

On four occasions in the early part of the second half Vermilion managed to cut the gap to four points, but Lorsung, held to just two first half field goals, kept the Pioneers on top. The Waubun graduate and Moorhead State University transfer student scored eight straight Northland points in one stretch as Vermilion stayed close. But it was a Lorsung free throw that started a brief Northland scoring surge that also included a basket underneath by Enerson and a fast break lay-up by guard Sheila Jaeger that doubled a 55-50 lead to 60-50 with 8:24 left in the game.

Vermilion never got closer than seven points the rest of the way.

"We didn't handle their 1-3-1 (zone) very well in the first half," explained Neibauer. "We made some adjustments at halftime, and forced them to play man-to-man most of the second half. That opened things up for us. A couple of key steals by Sheila turned the tide for us," he said, noting three one-on-one steals by the Plummer freshman that were turned into fast break points.

Northland shot well, hitting 28 of 61 shots (46 per cent). The Pioneers were 18-for-32 at the free throw line (56 per cent). Vermilion was 28-for-66 from the field (42 per cent) and 9-for-13 at the line (69 per cent).

Huskies End Losing Streak

Roger Coan had a perfect 16-for-16 night at the free throw line in a 20-point performance that helped lead the Goodridge boys to a 74-60 Friday night high school basketball win over Oslo.

It was just the second win in 11 starts for the Huskies, who snapped a four-game losing streak. They visit rival Grygla Tuesday.

Coan, a 5-11 senior, led a productive Goodridge night at the free throw line, where the Huskies were 26-for-33 (79 per cent). Oslo was 6-for-16 at the line (38 per cent).

Shawn Groven, a 5-11 junior, led the Huskies with 23 points, and 5-10 senior Jeff Berg, who has been struggling, according to Goodridge head coach John Rahn, broke out of a shooting slump with a 10-point game. Chad Korynta had a game-high 28 points for the visiting Bobcats, exploding for 26 second half points after being bottled by Groven defensively in the first half.

Goodridge took a 9-7 first quarter lead and turned it into a 30-12 halftime cushion. The Huskies took a 46-36 lead into the fourth quarter and sealed the win by making 16 of 18 free throw opportunities in the final six minutes of the game.

"There's always room for improvement," acknowledged Rahn, "but we did play well. It was a total team effort. I was very pleased with everybody. They all contributed. Our defense really played well, and we didn't lose our poise down the stretch."

Goodridge was 24-for-67 from the field (36 per cent). Oslow was 27-for-63 (43 per cent).

Roseau . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 48
Middle River . . . . . . . . . . . . 38

A solid game defensively wasn't matched on offense Friday as Middle River lost a 48-38 home court decision to Roseau.

The Rams had quarter leads of 18-14, 27-22 and 33-30.

"We played good defense, but we couldn't score," said Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

A fourth quarter Middle River lead slipped away when the Skippers went through four consecutive offensive possessions without scoring. Roseau then clinched it when the Skippers were forced into a must-foul situation at the end.

Tom Gullikson had a game-high 14 points for the Skippers. Teammate Bradley Kilen had 10. Scott Jaenicke led Roseau with 12 points.

Middle River was just 13-for-46 from the field (28 per cent), while Roseau went just a little better at 17-for-45 (38 per cent). The Skippers were 12-for-15 at the free throw line (80 per cent), where the Rams were 14-for-19 (74 per cent). Middle River had a 35-25 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 30-23.

The 5-8 Skippers visit Marshall County Central Saturday.

Grygla . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 43

Grygla challenged North Border Conference leader Warroad Friday, but wound up losing to the visiting Warriors 57-43.

"The game was a lot closer than the final score would indicate," reported Grygla coach Vern Johnson, whose team had a chance to pull within three points with 1:13 left, but missed a good shot, then wound up supplying Warroad with a free throw diet at the end to inflate the final victory margin.

Warroad had a 19-11 first quarter lead, but Grygla pulled within 21-20 at halftime. The Warriors took a 32-27 lead into the fourth quarter, and then won it by making 13 of 21 free throws down the stretch.

Bruce Holte scored 16 points and Thor Smerek had 11 for Grygla. Tim Fast led Warroad with 20 points.

"We played real good ball," said Johnson. "Defensively we played very well. Offensively we missed shots inside we should have had."

Grygla was 19-for-42 from the field (45 per cent) and 5-for-9 at the free throw line (55 per cent). Warroad was 20-for-46 from the field (44 per cent) and 17-for-29 at the line (59 per cent). Grygla out-rebounded Warroad 26-24.

The loss snapped a four-game Grygla winning streak. The 5-4 Eagles host Goodridge Tuesday.

Fisher . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 40

Plummer improved its record to 8-2 Friday with a 64-40 win over visiting Fisher.

Shane Freyholtz scored 26 points to lead the Cardinals, who had quarter leads of 14-4, 29-10 and 47-19. Wade Grinde contributed 13 points, six assists and seven blocked shots in a strong all-around performance for the winners. Plummer blocked 14 shots for the night, 12 of them by Grinde and Freyholtz, a pair of 6-4 juniors.

"We came out and played really good defense," mentioned Plummer coach Jim Baron, whose tough man-to-man defense gave a young Fisher team trouble.

The Plummer offense was working well, too, said Baron. "It was probably our best passing game all year. We did a nice job getting the ball inside to Shane," he noted. Neil Huotari had eight assists for the winners.

Plummer wound up 28-for-50 from the field (56 per cent) and went 8-for-17 at the free throw line (47 per cent). Fisher was 18-for-57 from the field (32 per cent) and 4-for-11 at the line (36 per cent). The Cardinals had a 33-31 rebound edge and the Flyers had a 22-17 high figure in the turnover department.

Warren Shuts Down TRF Offense 53-35

Thief River Falls produced little in the way of offense Friday as the Prowlers lost a 53-35 boys high school basketball game at Warren.

It was the fourth loss in the last five games for the struggling Prowlers, who are 7-5 for the year.

"We're just not playing very good basketball for this time of the year," admitted Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt, whose team will meet Tri-County Tuesday night in Karlstad.

Warren led only 12-10 at the end of the first quarter, but pulled away the rest of the night, leading 23-19 at halftime and opening up a 36-23 third quarter gap.

"We started out all right," pointed out Hunt, "but after the first quarter we turned the ball over too much."

Thief River Falls finished the game with 24 turnovers. Warren had 15.

Bill Otto, a 6-6 junior, and Garrett Mulacek, a 6-0 sophomore, led Warren with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Only Thief River Falls scorer in double figures was 6-2 senior Todd Solsten. The Prowlers regained the services of starting guard Chris Bjorgaard, who has been sidelined with an ankle injury, but he did not score.

Thief River Falls shot only 33 per cent from the field (15-for-46) and went 4-for-9 at the free throw line. Warren shot 44 per cent from the field (18-for-41) and was a productive 17-for-23 at the line. The Prowlers had a 25-24 rebound edge negated by those turnover figures.

Swimmers Win 98-69 Dual

There were six first place finishes for Thief River Falls and five for Grand Forks, but the Prowlers' depth racked up the points Thursday in a 98-69 boys high school dual meet swimming victory at the Red River pool.

It was the fourth dual meet triumph in five starts for the Prowlers, who host Detroit Lakes Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School pool.

"The swimmers turned in a solid performance," said Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney after the win over the Grand Forks Central-Red River cooperative team. The Prowlers turned in six career best efforts and five seasonal best performances.

Good efforts, according to Forney, came from Dave Novak in the 500 freestyle, an all-freshman 200 medley relay team of Trevor Swanson, Geoff Antonenko, Aaron Marshall and Ed Krystosek and from freshman divers Trent Byrne and Shane Defreece.

Pioneers Sweep Mesabi

Men's and women's basketball teams at Northland Community College are both 4-0 in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northwest Division standings following a Saturday afternoon doubleheader sweep over Northeast Division foe Mesabi.

Both overcame halftime deficits. The Northland women trailed 33-31 at intermission before winning 71-58. The Northland men had an even more dramatic turnaround, trailing 47-38 at halftime before winning 85-76 in Game 2.

Overall the Northland men are 9-6 for the year and the Northland women at 8-6. They'll have matching schedules again this weekend, playing Friday night at Brainerd and Saturday vs. Itasca in Grand Rapids.

Mesabi . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 76

Mesabi opened the game with an outside shooting assault that included four three-pointers and a 14-4 head-start in the 2 p.m. men's game against Northland. The Norsemen led by as much as 41-28 with five minutes left in the first half and went into intermission with a 47-38 advantage.

All that changed in the second half, though, when Northland out-scored Mesabi 47-29 en route to an 85-76 victory.

"It was 14-4 at the start, and we hadn't done anything wrong," pointed out Northland coach Chet Engelman. "They just kept bombing them from the outside. We made some adjustments. We started in a zone, but we learned in a hurry we couldn't do that. Second half we got back in the ball game."

Northland's second half comeback started immediately, with five Greg Campbell field goals, plus one by Anthony McCullough, bringing the Pioneers within 57-52 in just two minutes. It was close most of the rest of the way. Mesabi still held on to a 62-60 lead at the midway mark of the second half, but a basket by McCullough gave Northland the lead at 68-67 with 4:53 remaining.

There were ties and the lead changed hands until a 74-74 deadlock with 2:57 to play was broken by a run of Northland points that included a basket by Ray Davis, two free throws from Morris Matthews, a bucket by Campbell and two more free throws by Kevin Nelson for a sudden 82-74 Northland lead with just one minute to play.

Six Pioneers hit double figures, led by Campbell with 19, Davis 13, Nelson and Matthews 12 each, McCullough 11 and Rodney Wilson 10. Nelson, a 6-5 freshman from Thief River Falls, had a strong afternoon, matching those 12 points with 12 rebounds, and equalling a school record with an 8-for-8 game at the free throw line. McCullough also had 12 rebounds.

Northland was 31-for-64 from the field (48 per cent) and an accurate 20-for-25 at the free throw line (80 per cent). Mesabi was 30-for-84 from the field (36 per cent) and 6-for-10 at the line (60 per cent). The Pioneers out-rebounded the Norseman 53-41, and had more turnovers, too, 20-13.

Northland women spotted Mesabi that 33-31 halftime lead, but dominated the second half 40-25 for the 71-58 victory in the 12-noon doubleheader opener in the Northland gym.

"We played a real good second half," mentioned Northland coach Tom Neibauer.

Pressure defense employed by Mesabi produced 14 Northland first half turnovers, accounting for that halftime deficit, but the Pioneers turned the ball over just three times in the second half, and made 12 of 15 free throw attempts.

Janelle Lorsung led a trio of Northland double figure scorers with 24 points, while Jody Pahlen had 19 and Angie Enerson 15. Becky Knutson of Newfolden also played a key role in the outcome, said Neibauer, even though she didn't score a point. She had nine rebounds and excelled on defense for the winners. "It's a team game," noted Neibauer. "It was probably Becky's best game of the year."

Northland missed a number of easy shots in a 25-for-68 field goal day (37 per cent), but converted 21 of 27 free throw opportunities (78 per cent). Mesabi was 25-for-62 from the field (40 per cent) and 8-for-17 at the line (47 per cent).

Middle River Beats Badger

Middle River girls had a terrible time of it at the free throw line, but the Skippers did other things well enough to claim a 59-37 high school basketball win at Badger Thursday.

"We've been struggling with our free throws since Christmas," said Middle River coach Steve Larson, who watched his team connect on just five of 26 attempts from the line (19 per cent).

But Middle River was 27-for-60 from the field (45 per cent) in posting quarter leads of 14-6, 33-13 and 47-26.

"We had it under control," acknowledged Larson.

Kerry Nelson, a 5-10 sophomore, led Middle River with 20 points; while 5-7 senior Rayette Benke netted 14 and 5-11 sophomore Stacie Sparby had 12. Heather Meland led Badger with 10 points.

Badger was just 16-for-54 from the field (30 per cent) and also had a hard time making free throws on a 5-for-18 night (28 per cent).

Middle River may need those free throws, warned Larson when the 8-4 Skippers visit Grygla tonight (Monday).

Plummer . . . . . 60
Sacred Heart . . . . . 41

Janelle Konickson, a 5-4 senior, scored 26 points Thursday to lead Plummer to a 60-41 win at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

Konickson was on-target both from the field (9-for-14) and at the free throw line (8-for-9), while also contributing three assists as the 9-2 Cardinals bounced back from Tuesday's 56-33 thumping at the hands of Thief River Falls.

"I thought we played pretty well," reported Plummer coach Rick Koivisto. "It was a lot better than our last outing."

Plummer jumped out to a 24-11 first quarter lead when 5-6 senior Robin Brantl scored 10 of her 16 points in the first eight minutes. The Cardinals maintained a 34-23 edge at halftime, and made it 48-32 through three quarters.

A definite shooting edge went to the Cardinals, who were 24-for-58 from the field (41 per cent) and 12-for-19 at the free throw line (63 per cent). The Eagles, who did not have a double-figure scorer, were 15-for-57 from the field (26 per cent) and 11-for-23 at the line (48 per cent). Sacred Heart did have a 36-34 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 20-13.

Plummer will be at Goodridge Thursday and will host Kittson County North Saturday.

MCC . . . . . 64
Greenbush . . . . . 37

Marshall County Central not only ran its winning streak to nine games Thursday, but the Nordics looked good doing it, according to head coach Tom Mjolde after the Nordics handled visiting Greenbush 64-37.

"I was really pleased with the way we played," said Mjelde. "It was one of our better games of the year."

A balanced attack — a Marshall County Central trademark — included Andrea Kragness with 14 points, Jodi Foss 11, Kelli Anderson 10 and Natalie Heland 9. Kragness, a 5-9 junior, was a sharp-shooter from the wings, noted Mjelde, and Anderson, a 5-9 sophomore, excelled inside, grabbing 12 rebounds.

"We moved the basketball around, got open shots, and hit the open shots," explained Mjelde, whose team had quarter leads of 19-12, 33-18 and 49-29.

Marshall County Central was 25-for-54 from the field (46 per cent) and 14-for-25 at the free throw line (56 per cent). Greenbush was 17-for-59 from the field (28 per cent) and 3-for-12 at the line (25 per cent). The Nordics had a 29-19 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 21-13.

Kim Langaas, a 5-10 senior, led Greenbush with 11 points.

Marshall County Central, 9-1, will be at Warroad Tuesday, then host Roseau Thursday in a showdown for the North Border Conference lead.

Fergus Falls Collects Swim Title

Fergus Falls won the Fosston Invitational boys high school swimming meet title by a 31-point margin over runner-up Bemidji Saturday.

The Otters finished the day with 270 points, followed by Bemidji with 199, Grand Rapids 195, Thief River Falls 137, Park Rapids 103, Detroit Lakes 91, International Fall 70 and Fosston 65.

"The guys turned in a very good team effort, with some outstanding individual performances," reported Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney, "but we still have a ways to go before we'll be competitive in Section 8."

Top Thief River Falls performance came from junior Paul Glauque, who came home with three medals. He won the 100-yard butterfly in 59.46, placed second in the 200-yard individual medley in 2:18.47 and swam a leg on the Prowlers' third place 200-yard medley relay team.

Seniors Joe Drevlow and Rick Rosetta, along with junior Brian Schindler, were also members of that relay team that turned in a 1:52.30. Rosetta gave Thief River Falls a 1-2 finish in the butterfly by finishing second to Glauque with a 59.78.

Forney said senior Dave Novak followed up a strong performance in a Thursday dual against Grand Forks with along good effort at the Fosston Invitational, where the Prowlers turned in eight career best times and two seasonal best showings.

Outdoor News

Florida has become a haven for unwelcome wildlife from other countries, according to National Wildlife magazine. These "exotic" species include rhesus monkeys descended from the stars of early Tarzan movies filmed in the state. Many exotic parrots and parakeets dine on the state's citrus and other crops. Among the most bizaare species is a giant South American marine toad that secretes a strong poison and likes to lay its eggs in swimming pools.

AT&T ran into an unexpected problem with its first deep sea fiber-optic telephone calbe — shark bites. According to National Wildlife magazine, the company laid the first 72 miles of test cable in the Canary Islands in September 1985. When the cable was hoisted six months later, it had shark teeth embedded in it. Company officials believe that the sharks were attracted by movement of the cable or by the electric current that helps amplify signals.

Urban pollution fighters are taking to the trees in their battle against dirty air, according to National Wildlife magazine. Recent research has demonstrated that some trees absorb huge amounts of pollutants. Red maple and white birch, for example, seem almost to thrive on sulfur dioxide, while white oaks are especially good at absorbing ozone. Los Angeles city planners say that by the year 2000, the million trees planted for the 1984 Olympics will remove 200 tons of dust and smoke from the air each day.

Times Around The Region

Combining Forces

Red Lake Falls — A Minnesota state patrol plan, a Grand Forks canine patrol officer with his dog, the Minnesota state patrol, Red Lake county sheriff's department and several local citizens joined forces to capture one of the men who attempted a break-in at Dodd's drug store in Red Lake Falls in the early hours of January 18. After apprehending one of the two men at the scene of the attempted burglary, sheriff's department officials began a search for the second man, who struck Deputy Jim Rystad on the head with what was believed to be a wrench and then escaped on foot. The next morning two citizens found the man in the pump house below the old water tower and one of them notified the sheriff's department while the other gave chase. The sheriff's department, state patrol plane, canine corps twosome and state trooper Mark Baker, as well as two more local citizens, joined the chase, and finally apprehended the fellow on the old railroad bed in Red Lake Falls. The two men now in custody, Mark Irvine Brown, 2, of Akeley, and Sheridan Dale Chastek, 22, of Walker, are being held in the regional correctional center in Crookston pending their first appearance in district court. The Red Lake county sheriff's department has asked residents to keep their eyes open for the wrench used in the assault.

104 And Many More

Detroit Lakes — Ella Wallace, resident of Emmanuel nursing home in Detroit Lakes, celebrated her 104th birthday January 15. She realized the day was going to be quite an event when friends came into her room that morning and decorated her wheelchair with 104 helium-filled balloons. She was born and raised in Norway and came to the United States at the age of 20. She was married to Don Wallace shortly after coming to this country, and they farmed near Detroit Lakes for 40 years. She left the farm and moved into the city in 1979. Friends and relatives threw a surprise birthday party at the home for Ella Thursday, with a program, poetry and songs. She received approximately 50 cards from well-wishers.

Big Plans For Little People

Red Lake Falls — St. Joseph's parochial school in Red Lake Falls is making plans to add a kindergarten class next year, says Sr. Laurian Lasha, principal. The school administration has unanimously approved the addition on the condition that a minimum of 12 students be enrolled by March 1. Of 11 Catholic schools in the Crookston diocese, four do not have kindergartens, but two others besides Red Lake Falls are seriously considering kindergarten additions.

Both Take Skill and TLC

Detroit Lakes — Two Detroit Lakes men who usually deal with "pearly whites" have an unusual, but related, hobby. They enjoy making jewelry in their spare time. Dr. Tom Olson, a dentist, and Keith Bergren, a dental technician, say they use the same skills in jewelry-making that they do in their dental work, and that the same equipment and even some of the metal they use is the same. And the patients are more apreciative of the craftsmanship in a piece of jewelry than they are of that in a new filling, said the two.

Ride For Fun And Funds

Roseau — Thirty-eight snowmobilers, ranging in age from four to 65, left from a starting point of Polaris Industries in Roseau recently to begin a 1,300 mile ride to Castor, Alberta, Canada, hoping to raise $20,000 for multiple sclerosis. Polaris gave a banquet for the riders the night before they left Roseau and they plan to attend the Winterfest in Castor when they arrive there.

Roseau Reserve Travels

Roseau — Two members of the Roseau Army Reserve Unit (314th Engineer Detachment) were among the first group to travel to Honduras recently. Jim Novotny of Roseau and Bud Ruud of Wannaska left Roseau December 26 and spent 17 days in Honduras setting up power plants to provide electricity for the building of a four-mile stretch of road through the mountains of the country. The unit is one of only two in the United States that is able to set up power generation plants. For the next six months, other members of the unit will take turns in active duty in Honduras.

Logo Ideas Wanted

Hallock — The Star City commission and the Hallock Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a logo contest for a $50 prize. Deadline is February 10. The theme for the logo [illegible] Begins." Entries should be submitted on an 8½ by 11 inch white paper to the Hallock City Clerk, with name, address and phone number on a separate paper clipped to the logo entry.

Money-Raising Hair

Blackduck — Ten students at Blackduck schools bet the hair on their heads in a challenge to raise 1,500 pounds of food in two weeks for the Beltrami community food shelf. Classes competed with one another and brought in a total of 2,537 pounds of food in the endeavor, far surpassing the goal. Two of the ten students received their new hair cuts under the watchful eyes of the entire student body, who were allowed to watch the shearing process as a reward for their efforts. The students who lost their hair for a worthy cause said they didn't mind at all, and they'd do it again if they had to. Last year a similar contest was held in the school system in which five teachers and one student lost their beards after raising 2,600 pounds of food for the food shelf.

Waste Water Dissent

Warroad — About 50 concerned citizens attended a hearing held to discuss changing Warroad's new proposed waste water treatment system from plant to pond. Several citizens voiced concerns about the safety of the proposed system to area shallow wells, decreased property values and odors, water flow in area ditches, fencing planned for the pond, and proximity to the city. The hearing ended with obvious unanimous disapproval of Lake township residents to a site in their location.

Fancy Fox Filching

Oklee — Charges are pending in the theft of 10 fox, valued at $6,000, from a farm near Oklee January 10. The Ottertail sheriff's department recovered the fox and individuals involved in the theft January 14.

A Century Plus Three

Karlstad — Rachel Lofquist celebrated her 103rd birthday January 15 at the Karlstad Memorial nursing center. Friends and relatives helped her celebrate her special day with a dinner at the center.

Incidentally . . .

Baudette — The Baudette Region reported several small accidents and incidents this past week. Two juveniles from Rainy River, Ontario, were being sought in connection with arson that destroyed a Baudette woman's snowmobile earlier this month. A snowmobile belonging to Deb Murray of Baudette burned the night of January 3. Lee Elkins of Baudette is facing charges of having no driver's license and no insurance on his vehicle after his pickup collided with one driven by Lee Sabatine of Baudette in the alley behind Stan's Hardware in Baudette. Both vehicles sustained minor damage. A collision in front of the Lundsten Store in Williams January 19 caused minor damage to a Ford Escort driven by Tracey Johnson of Baudette and a pickup driven by Dwight Toft of Graceton. No charges were made in the accident and no injuries were reported. A fire January 17 destroyed a pickup and personal property inside owned by David Mord of Baudette. Mord was driving on Main avenue near Lake of the Woods school at 9:20 p.m. when a fire broke out under the hood of the pickup. Neither he nor his passenger, Donn Anderson of Baudette, was injured.

To The Year 2003

Fosston — Clearwater county commissioners have signed a 15-year contract with Polk county for the disposal of garbage in the Fosston incinerator beginning in 1988, according to Dan Logelin, Clearwater county environmental officer. Logelin said the contract has been executed because of state laws that will restrict the use of land fills by the early 1990's. Clearwater county presently uses the landfill at Gentilly in Polk county for disposal of its garbage. Those citizens who were present expressed concern over the long-term contract without more public opinion and the lack of an environmental impact statement for the project. Another meeting has been scheduled to discuss further proposals on the project.

Stayed Away

Strandquist — The Marshall county sheriff's department received a report early January 1 that a person was shooting within the city limits of Strandquist. After investigation, Jackson Charles Rayborn, 24, of Evansville, IN, was arrested and charged with discharging a firearm in the city limits. Rayborn plead guilty in county court January 6 and was sentenced to 90 days, stayed on condition that he stay out of the city of Strandquist.

Intersection Collision

Newfolden — A collision took place between a vehicle and a three-wheeler January 7 three miles north of Newfolden. Gail Larson of Newfolden was operating a vehicle [illegible] township road and Ryan Anderson was traveling west on a field approach in his three-wheeler. The two collided at the intersection. Damages to the vehicles were not available at the time the Stephen Messenger went to press. The Anderson boy received minor injuries in the incident, according to the Marshall county sheriff's department.

Farmers Union State Board Asks For Higher Prices

As the U.S. Congress begins its 100th session one thing is certain: there will be major changes proposed in federal farm policy, according to the Minnesota Farmers Union. The MFU state board, meeting in St. Paul, expressed the hope Congress will realize the only answer to the current rural crisis is higher prices and income for family farmers.

"Low prices are the problem not the solution," says a statement issued by the board. "This administration has forced progressively lower prices on struggling family farmers and the result has been to extend the longest running depression in the history of American agriculture."

Even the administration and some congressmen who have maintained publicly that the 1985 farm bill should be given a chance to work are preparing alternatives for consideration by the 100th Congress.

The MFU board sees only one current proposal addressing the need for fair farm prices and income. The Harkin-Gephart "Family Farm Act" would allow producers to vote on a supply management approach which would save $42 billion in budget costs over five years and would increase net farm income by $20 billion a year, the MFU believes.

The administration is proposing further price reductions through lowering target prices 10 per cent each year for five years starting in 1988. "This administration is using the ridiculous costs of its 1985 program to discredit farmers and set the stage for eliminating subsidies altogether," the MFU board contended.

The MFU cited as evidence of "the failure of the low price strategy imposed on farmers by the administration since 1981" the following observations:

+ Export markets and market shares have been lost.

+ All farmers are worse off than in 1981 and 30 per cent of them will be facing liquidation if prices don't improve significantly.

+ Rural America is being decimated by the depression in agriculture.

Hearing Wednesday On Elm Lake DU Project

Public hearing on a proposed project for wildlife, flood control and drainage in the Elm Lake area of eastern Marshall county will be conducted Wednesday, February 4, at 10 a.m. on the main floor of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. The project, if approved, would be funded almost entirely by Ducks Unlimited at a cost of about $1.25 million.

The project has been in various stages of discussion and planning for nearly two years. Although there would be minimal local cost and there are projected benefits in several areas, the project is not without opposition from area land owners.

Next Wednesday's hearing will be conducted by the Red Lake Watershed district which has offices in Theif River Falls. The watershed district has been requested to take preliminary steps to determine the feasibility of constructing a controlled impoundment at the location of the original Elm Lake. Lands directly affected are in Agdar and Grand Plain townships of Marshall county.

All of the impoundment area will be on state and federal lands located west and south of the Lost River impoundment along Branch 200 of Judicial Ditch 11 (commonly known as Ditch 200). Lands on the north side of the ditch are part of Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, operated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service. Lands on the south side are owned by the state of Minnesota and administered as the Elm Lake Wildlife Management area by the department of natural resources. The general site is about 12 miles northeast of Thief River Falls, and the ditch is a major tributary of the Thief river.

According to the engineering report, Ditch 200 was constructed early in this century for agricultural drainage. It passed through Elm Lake, draining it. In subsequent years, the lake bed and surrounding lands were acquired by the state and federal governments.

The report notes that flooding problems frequently occur at many points from the project area. Downstream flooding would be reduced by the impoundment, the report states, providing "main stem flood damage reduction on the Thief river, the Red Lake river and the Red River of the North."

Charles Anderson, hydrologist for the Red Lake Watershed district, said the amount of spring flood storage capacity of the proposed impoundment would be about 7,500 acre feet. "This, along with the existing 4,500 acre feet of flood storage capacity of the Lost River pool four miles upstream," he said, "will provide about 3.6 inches of spring runoff control. The amount of summer flood storage capacity available will be about 5,500 acre feet. This, along with the flood storage capacity of the Lost River pool, will provide about three inches of summer runoff control."

Drainage area of the Elm Lake area is 23 square miles while the Lost River pool drainage area is about 40 square miles, Anderson said.

City Council Appoints New Co-City Attorneys

Thief River Falls city council appointed Lawrence McDowell and Paul Ihle co-city attorneys at the city council meeting Tuesday night. The two attorneys of the law firm of Wurst, McDowell and Ihle were appointed in light of City Attorney Robert Wurst's retirement.

Also during the council meeting, the council received a summary of building permits issued during 1986 indicating a slight increase and removed funds from the wading pool fund and placed them in the swimming pool fund, including $7,500 in federal grant monies.

City council members unanimously approved a proclamation declaring January 30 as Bob Wurst day. Mayor Bob Carlson said the proclamation was declared to honor the faithful duty performed by Wurst and the city's grateful appreciation. Wurst has served as a city attorney to Thief River Falls for 35 years. He recently announced his intention to retire from the practice of law and his duties as city attorney.

Upon the announcement of the proclamation the Mayor and city council requested Wurst to read the proclamation as has been done in the past. At the conclusion, Wurst said he was grateful to the community for allowing him to work for them so many years. Sometimes, he said, he acted more as a councilman than a "hired hand" but he did so because he felt more like one of the council members.

On the occasion of Bob Wurst's retirement, coffee and cookies will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. on January 30 at the city auditorium. The public is invited.

New city attorneys, McDowell and Ihle, will receive $16,500 per year plus $1,000 per month for prosecution of cases in municipal court. The total is approximately $28,500 per year for the services of the co-city attorneys. The attorneys were hired singly and not as representatives of a firm.

Bob Bregler, city building inspector, provided a summary of building permits issued during 1986 to the council. The report listed a total of 149 building permits issued in 1986 at a total construction cost of these permits at $2,501,744. Building permit revenue totaled $10,984.25, which took into account $9,834.25 from building permits, 22 mobile home inspection fees at $550, and 20 plumbing permit fees at $600.

Bregler said total construction costs of $2,501,744 were up slightly over the previous year of $2,296,557, but not by much. In addition the average costs of new dwellings erected was up from $40,427 for 1985 to $56,000 for 1986. The largest remodeling of a non-residential building was listed as construction in school district 564, totaling $682,580.

Information provided by Bregler indicated two permits issued for new single family dwellings, 83 permits for residential remodeling, 21 permits for new residential garages and sheds, one permit for non-residential buildings, and 42 permits for non-residential remodeling.

Charley Oakes, representing the Swimming Pool Committee, received approval for a request of the city council to release funds delegated for the wading pool project and place them in a city fund delegated to the swimming pool. All of the individuals who donated funds to the wading pool were contacted and approval received by all except one, to place

Fourth CRP Signup Opens February 9

Farmers who want to bid to enter their highly erodible cropland into USDA's 10-year Conservation Reserve program may do so during the program's fourth signup period February 9-27, according to Secretary of agriculture Richard E. Lyng.

Lyng also announced a one-time, one-year "bonus" for the 1987 crop, to be paid in the form of an increased annual rental payment. The bonus payment will be equal to $2 times the farm program payment yield for corn, times the number of acres of corn base designated for enrollment in the CRP. This "bonus" will be payable in the form of generic commodity certificates when a 1987 Conservation Reserve program contract is accepted. In subsequent years, the annual rental payment will be only that amount specified in the CRP contract.

"Since a paid land diversion is in effect under the 1987 feed grain program to restrain further buildup of corn stocks, this rental payment is being offered to encourage highly erodible, excess corn acreage into long-term conservation use," Lyng said.

"This offer is limited to new CRP contracts effective beginning with the 1987 crop year. It is not retroactive for corn base acreage under CRP contracts already signed," Lyng said. "This additional rental payment will be made at the time new 1987 crop contracts are accepted. It will be charged against the CRP maximum payment limitation and not against other program payments.

"Producers who have already enrolled in other 1987 production adjustment programs and received advance payments in cash and generic certificates may cancel their contracts and enter into the CRP," he said. "There will be no penalty, but payments already received must be refunded in cash."

During the signup period, producers will be given the option to enter into a CRP contract beginning

Taxes collected by the Charitable Gambling Control board from Minnesota charitable gambling have come a long way since the first check of $92.50 in April of 1985. Since then taxes from charitable gambling have generated more than $10 million.

In December alone, taxes from charitable gambling raised $1 million, according to Roger Franke of the Minnesota Charitable Gambling Control board. However, Franke expects taxes from charitable gambling to raise an average of $800,000 per month.

Charitable gambling is obviously becoming big business in Minnesota since licensing and control were vested in a state board.

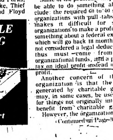
Licensed gambling operations which are now realizing their lack of strength are organizing to protect their interests. One new organization entering the arena is the Northwest Charities Support association.

Reuben Bagstad of Badger, the organization's president, said the purpose of the organization, located in northwestern Minnesota, is to protect the interest of charitable gaming organizations. The organization is composed of licensed charitable gambling operations in 11 northwest Minnesota counties.

Now that organizations are finding their voice in larger groups, Franke said he also supports and even encourages charities to join these organizations. He believes the groups will be easier to work with and more able to accomplish joint purposes.

Northwest Charities Support association — modeled after the Allied Charities of Minnesota group in St. Cloud — is interested in protecting its interest in gambling and taxes. Bagstad, who is a board member of that group also said the 60 licensed charitable organizations in Allied Charities were early to realize last summer that laws and regulations were changing and as a single voice they might be able to influence decisions made by the legislature. Bagstad said he feels a larger group in northwest Minnesota would be much more effective than a single charity sounding off to a legislator.

Officers of the new Northwest Charities Support association which formed in December include: Reuben Bagstad, Badger, president; Gordon McCoan, East Grand Forks, vice president; Greg Brekke, Thief River Falls, treasurer; and Floyd Erickson, Thief River Falls, secretary.



Participation in the organization which hopes to effect change costs $50 per organization, the legal amount allowed. The costs will go to pay expenses in attending legislative sessions and possibly hiring a lobbyist.

According to Bagstad, Northwest Charities hopes to work with other similar charitable organizations to accomplish their purpose. Bagstad said his organization realizes that a group composed of 11 Northwest Minnesota counties may be too large to be effective. Smaller groups within the larger organization are being anticipated and people interested in protecting charitable gambling are being sought to lead the smaller groups.

Some of the problems they hope to be able to do something about include: the required 60 to 40 split for organizations with pull tabs, which makes it difficult for smaller organizations to make a profit, doing something about a federal excise tax which will go back 18 months and is not considered a legal deduction and thus must come from other organizational funds, and a proposed tax on ideal profit instead of actual profit.

Another concern of the new organization is that the money generated by charitable gambling may, in some cases, be used to pay for things not originally intended to benefit from charitable gambling.

However, the organization is more

Cheri Nelson And Michael Butenhoff Wed In Goodridge

Cheri Lynn Nelson and Michael Dean Butenhoff were united in marriage at Faith Lutheran church in Goodridge October 25. Rev. Gary Moore officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony, with 225 guests attending.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nelson, Goodridge, Albert Butenhoff, Fisher, and Mrs. Edna Ehnes, Crookston.

Marge Iverson was the organist, playing "Endless Love" and "Bridal Chorus" as processional and "Wedding March" recessional. Deanne Nelson, sister of the bride, sang "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do," and Steve Lentsch, nephew of the groom, sang "Wedding Song" and "God, A Woman and A Man."

The church was decorated with teal and white bows on the pews and two floral arrangements of pink and yellow carnations, white daisies, babies' breath and greenery on the altar as well as two, three-tiered candelabra.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She wore a traditional white gown of bridal satin with sweetheart bodice trimmed in sequins and silk floss-embroidered lace forming a V-shaped waist. The sheer yoke was accented with a Queen Anne neckline and silk floss-embroidered lace medallion. Long Elizabethan sleeves were gathered through the middle, forming a point over the hand with a closing of satin buttons.

The gown featured 32 satin buttons closing the back, with a scalloped hemline flowing to a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil fell from a halo headpiece of seed pearls. To compliment her gown, the bride wore her grandmother's wedding ring and large white pearl earrings encircled by rhinestones. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of yellow roses, pink carnations and pixie roses with babies' breath and greenery.

Her personal attendant was her sister-in-law, LeeAnn Nelson.

Deanne Nelson, Goodridge, served as her sister's maid of honor. Other bridesmaids were Janita Sigerud, cousin of the bride; Michelle Henrickson, friend of the couple; Jenny Nelson, niece of the bride; and Kathy Rose, sister of the groom.

They wore gowns of teal blue brocade over satin worn off-the-shoulder, with tea length handkerchief hemlines, and wore matching teal shoes, with wreaths of babies' breath in their hair. They carried three long-stemmed yellow carnations with greenery and babies' breath and white satin ribbon streamers. They wore their gifts from the bride, pearl necklaces and earrings.

Flower girl was Jessica Nelson, niece of the bride from Thief River Falls. She wore a long, white satin gown with lace overlay and high neckline and long lace sleeves. The gown was sewn by Jessica's grandmother, Mrs. Palmer Holte. She wore a pearl necklace, her gift from the bride, and teal and white babies' breath in her hair, and carried a single yellow rose.

Tyler Nelson, nephew of the bride, Oklee, was ring bearer. He wore a white tuxedo with teal bow tie and cummerbund and a yellow rose boutonniere.

Best man was Gary Knutson, Crookston, friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Mark Lyczewski, nephew of the groom, and Mike Wilkins, Sheldon Myerchin and Henry Amiot, all friends of the groom. They wore black jackets with pinstripe trousers and teal bow ties and cummerbunds with yellow carnation boutonnieres.

Ushering the guests were Lee Nelson, brother of the bride, Gary Butenhoff, brother of the groom, and Calvin Johnson, friend of the couple. They wore black jackets and pinstripe trousers, with black ties and cummerbunds and yellow carnation boutonnieres.

The groom was attired in white tails with satin lapels and cummerbund and matching bow tie and shoes. He wore a yellow rose centered in babies' breath and greenery as his boutonniere.

The mother of the bride was presented with a corsage of pink roses, yellow carnations, babies' breath and greenery, and wore a pink and black street-length gown with black accessories.

The groom's mother wore a pale blue gown with white accessories, and was presented with a corsage of yellow roses, pink carnations, babies' breath and greenery.

Fathers of the couple wore black morning coats with pinstripe trousers, grey and black ascots and vests. They wore yellow carnation boutonnieres.

Flower hostesses were Cherie Nelson and Thelma Green, with Deb Sigerud presiding at the guest book and Kari, Christy and Kyle Nelson in charge of the gifts.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the guests in the church parlors. Pink and yellow streamers decorated the bridal table and serving table, which was highlighted by the three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, and topped with lace and net with two small wedding bells, pink roses, and wedding swans nestled within a heart. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nelson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. The reception luncheon was served by the Rachel circle of Faith Lutheran church.

Lana Nelson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Marilyn Lentsch, sister of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake. Pouring were Donna Nelson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Gail Butenhoff, sister-in-law of the groom.

Punch was served by Julie Lentsch and Jenny Butenhoff; waitresses were Melissa Iverson, Tami Quam, Sherri Hanson and Sandy Wiseth. Rice was distributed by Melanie and Kim Nelson.

Guests attended from East Grand Forks, Crookston, Minneapolis, Bemidji, Wahpeton, ND, and Westfield, MA.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Goodridge high school and attended Bemidji state university. The groom attended school in Crookston. The couple will make their home in Mesa, AZ, where the groom is employed.

Lobbying Groups Form To Promote Gambling Activity

concerned recently with a host of problems brought about, they feel, by unworkable language in regulations. For example, organizations conducting games other than bingo cannot spend more than 40 per cent of their receipts after taxes for allowable expenses with the balance to go for lawful purpose expenditures. Bagstad and Brekke argue smaller organizations, usually located at smaller sites not as profitable as clubs, have a difficult time achieving a successful operation because of the 60-40 split and definitions of "lawful purpose expenditures."

Members of the newly formed organization also argue that the federal government found a convenient way to raise a few more dollars when it saw how successful charitable gambling in Minnesota was turning out to be.

"No, we're not picking on charities or any organization. The law is the law and we're going to enforce it the best we can. It is unfortunate that charities are involved, but that's the way it is," said Mark Fischer, Internal Revenues service, St. Paul district.

Fischer explained that the law makes no distinction between gambling and charitable gambling. He said there are two types of taxes, a form 11c or occupational return which has a $50 per year legal state activity fee and a $500 per year illegal state activity fee. And there is a monthly form 730 which is also two-fold. It has a rate for illegal activities in the state of two per cent of gross wages taken and a legal activity rate of one-quarter of one per cent on gross wages before prizes are paid. Charitable gambling became a legal activity in the state in July of 1985 and that is when the federal tax will begin.

The organization is also concerned with the decision of the Minnesota legislature to tax licensed charitable organizations according to what the ideal profit from a sale could be and not what it realizes in actuality. The tax, placed on pull-tabs only, is also to be paid to the gaming distributor, making the distributor responsible for the organization's debt. It also requires the distributor to pay the tax to the state revenue department and not to the charitable gambling control board.

Many charitable gaming managers view duplication of reports required by the change and the separation of taxes as unnecessary. Many also believe that taxing ideal profit instead of actual profits is unfair to charities which operate on a tight budget anyway.

Don Hamre, who has one of the largest distributorships in Minnesota, said he also does not like it. He would rather see charities pay what they realize, not the potential of the game. And, he really isn't too pleased with the new arrangement whereby he collects the tax, like a tax collector, and is responsible for making sure it gets where it's supposed to go.

Erin Roth, committee administrator for Sen. Bob Lessard, DFL, International Falls, who is chairman of the general legislation and gaming committee in the Minnesota senate, said a number of changes are being considered for charitable gambling, which is quickly becoming a billion dollar business. But he said, "gambling in Minnesota is not going backward but forward."

with either the 1987 or 1988 crop year.

The CRP is one of the new conservation initiatives contained in the Food Security Act of 1985 designed to reduce soil erosion. Under the CRP, owners and operators of highly erodible cropland agree to cease production on the highly erodible land for a 10-year period and to devote this land to conservation uses.

Under provisions of a recent amendment to the legislation authorizing the CRP, alfalfa and other multiyear grasses and legumes in rotation during the years 1981-1985, as apporved by the secretary, will be considered to be "agricultural commodities" for the purpose of determining eligibility of land to be placed in the CRP.

Not more than 25 per cent of the total cropland in a county may be placed in the CRP. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to waive this limit if there will be no adverse effect on the local economy. The 13 county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committees that were authorized to accept acreage into the CRP in excess of the limitation as a result of contracts entered into during the third CRP signup may not take offers for any additional land to be placed in the CRP. Other county ASC committees expecting to exceed the limit within their county during the upcoming signup period may request a waiver supported by appropriate documentation.

USDA will establish maximum acceptable rental rates after signup ends and bid data is evaluated.

During the first three signup periods, 8,916,185 acres of highly erodible cropland were accepted into the CRP.

the funds under the name of the swimming pool.

Oakes also received the council's cooperation in placing $7,500 in federal funds, which were delegated for the wading pool several years before, under the name of the swimming pool. Oakes told the council that the Swimming Pool Committee is not a formal organization and has no power to hold funds. The money, he said, is collected in city accounts, and the swimming pool committee acts only as dedicated citizens trying to accomplish a goal through their voluntary assistance. He said the plan for a swimming pool for Thief River Falls includes a wading pool. To date the committee has collected about $36,000.

In other business: the council appropriated $1,500 for the com munity band, waived use fees on the city auditorium by the chemic awareness task force on May 6, 7 and 8, waived use fees on the sports arena for an auction by the swimming pool committee on May 4; designated Centerre bank, St. Louis, MO, as depository for city funds, installed a bus stall for the Skylite apartments at 415 South Arnold; joined the municipal amicus program; appointed John T Anderson and K Murphy to the NMPA; approved enterprise zone agreements with Land O'Lakes, Arcticwear Mfg. (formerly Northern Outerwear) Digi-Key Corp., and Hydra Mac, Inc.; in a housekeeping action, approved annexation of Bridgeman's Dairy Product plant into the enterprise zone; and set a date for a hearing at March 10 as the daye for determining employment property.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Watching two convening groups, the National Organization for Women and the National Right to Life committee, was interesting. Both groups were meeting during a period when I was in Denver. Both groups have leaders who are sure they, alone, are right, and demonstrate an impressive zeal. Down from the leaders are average friendly folks, who probably would enjoy one another in a different setting.

I observed some interesting sidelights. A tall father pushed ahead of me at the hotel front desk. He said that he had a critical problem. He had returned to his hotel room to find his teenagers watching some pay-TV movies loaded with nudity and sex. He wanted those pay-TV channels blocked out. I am concerned about parents with teenagers who believe that controlled censorship is a solution or will work. If teenagers haven't developed viewing and reading judgement, doesn't that reflect a lack of parenting. I wondered, at the time, whether this Dad may have spent too much time with causes and not enough time educating his kids.

NOW's Eleanor Smeal said, "The vast majority of Americans are with us today." One of her key positions was the establishment of clinics to provide teen-agers with contraception devices and counseling. She wanted these clinics near high schools because she did not believe that parent knowledge of teen-ager sexual activity was necessarily appropriate. She was particularly opposed to parent approval of prescriptions for contraception and abortion authorization. Surveys would seem to indicate that about two-thirds of all parents believe they should have the decision making authority in both areas for their minor children.

Watching some NOW pickets in front of the NRLC hotel, I observed a woman leave the hotel and start a screaming match with the pickets. No TV cameras or newspapermen visited the scene. The confrontation only attracted the hotel doorman and me. It was over quickly. This confirmed a feeling I had that the media play a much bigger role in these rallies, arrests, demonstrations and confrontations than they may assume. Many of these are media events, and no media coverage usually was enough, without police assistance, to halt a "riot."

Reading the newspapers and watching the TV coverage, I found that most of the stories were devoted to aggressive hostility, with little time for the average attendee or group member. This leads me to believe that deadlines and circulation development have a greater impact on what we read, see and hear. Maybe getting the real story behind an event takes more time than print or broadcast reporters and columnists seem to have available. On the other hand, this lack of time may be the reason that the media have a credibility problem with the American public. All I know is that I had trouble reconciling what I personally observed and/then read and heard in the media.

After all of the excitement was over and the confrontations had been front page and first story news for a number of days, I found that most of the people in this city, with whom I spoke, in spite of the media coverage, did not know what NOW (National Organization for Women) or NRLC (National Right to Life Committee) stood for or against. This very small sample survey also indicated that the same people didn't know who was their two-term governor. Many didn't know either of their senators, even though one had run for a presidential nomination.

I don't know what all of this means, but I suspect that most of the questioned and surveyed Americans really could have cared less about the sound and fury, and have little interest in what is going on unless it hits their wallets or purses.

That's Straight Talk!

Co. Commissioners Hear Report On Future Fuel, Inc.

Rick Nordhagen reported to county commissioners Tuesday night that he is extremely satisfied with equipment at Future Fuel, but dissatisfied with sales of the product. Nordhagen reported the new equipment is working smoothly and there are some prospects for large sales of the pellet fuel in the near future.

Nordhagen reported newly installed equipment to replace equipment that did not function according to Future Fuel's specifications, has increased the bulk density of pellets significantly. The change has improved the pellets, Nordhagen said.

Nordhagen also said a large user in Crookston is nearing completion of tests required by the Minnesota Pollution control agency. If the process proceeds smoothly, the large user may begin using a great deal of pellets produced by Future Fuel soon. Nordhagen did not want to reveal the name of the user until they are ready.

Nordhagen said in addition to the user in Crookston, another large user in Grafton is seriously considering the use of pellets.

County commissioners agreed to appoint Howard Seim as chief deputy. Seim's promotion was put on a probationary period of six months. Sheriff Bob Wold also received the commissioner's approval to purchase new furniture and some badges.

An agreement with the Minnesota department of natural resources was ironed out at the commission meeting. The agreement calls for the DNR to provide a roll-out type dock in Highlanding and the commissioner's agreed to have it installed.

Norman Boucher, county weight inspector, informed the council that he expects weed counts to show an increase this summer because of the soil bank. Boucher said he won't be able to do much with the situation because the soil bank is a federal program. It is up to agencies working with the federal government to inspect the fields. He also said that he has had some difficulty in the past with weed control because of a lack of cooperation as a problem because township officers do not like to approach neighbors about a weed control problem on their land.

Boucher was also before the commissioners to request a pay raise. At the end of the meeting, the commissioners apporved a raise for Boucher, giving him the same increase as everyone else ($300).

John Ellison, Pennington county veterans service office, gave commissioners a short update on his efforts. Ellison summed up his activities in the new position as proceeding smoothly. Ellison said he is not having any difficulty with any of the organizations, but there have been some difficult problems explaining the counties policy on transportation costs. Ellison also noted that there have been several veterans from outside the county who have come to him. He said this is happening because the veterans use Thief River Falls as a trade center and it is more convenient for them. Ellison said he has not turned anyone away.

Howard Person and Deb Zak each appeared before the commission requesting a letter of approval on grants they are seeking to fund special studies. Person's grant deals with studying the feasibility of a vegetable marketing cooperative. Zak's grant proposal would fund a position for a nine county public relations effort on soil conservation.

In other business the commissioners: approved township road maintenance agreements; discussed plans on regarding SA 6; approved an allocation of $150 to Inter-County Community Council of Oklee; and approved the purchase of IBM display write for a new computer.

MEA's Statewide Effort To Seek Better Education

Minnesota Education association has announced a statewide effort to improve academic achievement. Its teacher members will work with parents and other community leaders to make Minnesota education "measurably best in the nation."

"Although Minnesotans are rightly proud of the quality of education our kids receive generally," said MEA president Robert Astrup, "there's much more to be done. It's our obligation as educators to see that Minnesota's record of success in education is a pathway to further progress and not a roadblock to change."

Astrup said the MEA's effort is based on three principles:

(1) Make Minnesota education measurably the best in the nation;

(2) Provide opportunity for academic excellence to all children regardless of geographic or socio-economic status; and

(3) Create active partnerships in every community among those concerned with education.

MEA's academic excellence program will take several forms including reports on key educational issues; specific legislative initiatives; coalition building with business, labor, and civic organizations; and a community outreach program to examine public education at the local level.

The MEA released the first-in-its series of papers on improving academic achievement. "Sharpening Our Competitive Edge: Educating A New Generation" addresses the economic stake in advancing academic excellence, along with a community-based strategy for stronger educational programs.

"If education is the competitive edge of Minnesota's economy," Astrup said in introducing the report, "then our young people must be equipped with education second to none."

The MEA has begun to sponsor community outreach programs in several communities. These outreach efforts bring together parents and teachers, school administrators and board members, and farm and business people to examine local education programs.

"We see enormous consequences," Astrup concluded, "in the human and economic suffering which results from inadequate education such as functional illiteracy, unemployment, and chronic underemployment.

"We have much to gain by working together. We know our efforts will have succeeded when it is no longer acceptable to short-change a student's education and when a Minnesota education is truly a passport to a full and productive life for all."

Coalition Given $30,000 Grant To Widen Base

International Coalition for Land and Water stewardship in the Red River basin was recently awarded a $30,000 grant over a two-year period for its on-going environmental education and cooperation activities in the Red River basin. The grant was awarded by the Bremer foundation of St. Paul.

The grant money will be used to assist the coalition in developing a broader membership and financial base of support with local units of government.

The coalition was founded in 1979 by a group of citizens concerned about flooding problems in the basin. Scope of the organization's activity has expanded to include land and water issues that affect the counties, cities, townships, businesses and citizens of the Red River basin. It is presently governed by a 24-member volunteer board of directors from Manitoba, Minnesota and North Dakota, with many other citizens being involved in an active committee structure.

Farm Families Photo Exhibit At Hjemkomst Center

"Farm Families" is the subject of a photography exhibition on view January 16 through March 16 at the Heritage-Hjemkomst Interpretive center in Moorhead. The exhibition is the combined work of three photographers — Tom Arndt, Archie Lieberman and Rhondal McKinney — who either live in rural areas of the Midwest or photographed their own families and friends on farms in Illinois, Minnesota or North Dakota.

The project is funded by Focus-Infinity Fund, a foundation that supports documentary cinema and photography projects. Although the concept for the exhibition originated with Rondal McKinney, each of the photographers had already done substantial work toward the theme of the project on their own.

As originally conceived, the project was to chronicle small farm life from planting season through harvest, however, the project soon expanded beyond those confines. Though not intentionally political in content, the conditions under which family farmers are currently forced to exist made it inevitable that some of the photographs would bring to life the farm crisis headlines seen almost daily in newspapers throughout the country.

Juxtaposed with idyllic panoramas of Illinois farms are gripping shots of Groundswell rallies in Minnesota. A formal family portrait of a Fourth of July celebration or a 25th Wedding Anniversary gives way to the pain on the face of a young farmer losing his farm at auction, and the father-and-son photographs are occasionally filled with pathos, for it is uncertain that the family will still own the farm when the sons reach maturity.

Engelstad And Swanson Attend Extension Meet

Pennington county extension committee members James Engelstad of Thief River Falls and Lois Swanson of Goodridge were part of the more than 170 committee members statewide who met in Minneapolis January 14 and 15 to help the Minnesota extension service determine its future direction.

"The Minnesota extension service strategic planning process clearly indicated the need for issues programing," said director Patrick J. Borich. "Issues programming is a way that the Minnesota extension service can focus its resources to have the greatest impact on county needs. We need direct participation in county planning by our county partners. This conference will help put our issues focus into action at the county level."

During the two day series of workshops, Engelstad and Mrs. Swanson participated in a series of problem solving exercises and case studies to help plan programs based on issues. The process was helpful to learn about concerns in other counties and share ideas about extension programming.

As a followup to this meeting, Engelstad and Mrs. Swanson will be providing leadership to the rest of the county extension committee members helping them to identify issues for extension programming in Pennington county.

1st Restructured Farm Real Estate Loan Received

Minnesota finance comissioner Jay Kiedrowski announced January 16 that the state rural finance administration (RFA) has received its first formal application for participation in a restructured farm real estate loan.

The new RFA program, which is supported by many agricultural groups, was created by the 1986 legislature and the governor for the purpose of assisting willing lenders in the voluntary restructuring and reduction of farm real estate debts. The purpose of this program is to suspend a farmer's principal payments and reduce mortgage interest expenses for a period of eight years. At the end of the eight-year period, the lender further agrees to cancel a portion of the mortgage balance, if the debt exceeds the value of the farm property securing the loan.

Kiedrowski noted that the law was never intended to save those farmers who were hopelessly indebted. However, for those farmers who do qualify, participation can mean a substantially improved cash flow which will enable a reordering of financial affairs in line with current farm prices and income.

In addition, it will allow lenders who have also been hurt by the economic problems of agriculture to share some of the risks of these loans with the state. Most importantly, however, participation provides an alternative for both farmers and lenders to the painful and divisive process of bankruptcy and foreclosure.

On Nov. 4, 1986, the RFA and Farm Credit Services (FCS) of St. Paul, the state's largest agricultural lender, negotiated a voluntary agreement whereby FCS would restructure certain farm real estate loans under certain specific conditions. FCS is currently implementing this program through its local service centers.

The application, which is from the FCS office in Glencoe, is expected to be approved soon since it appeared to be complete and in compliance with the negotiated agreement.

Kiedrowski, who serves as chairman of the RFA's seven-member governing board, also said that while the program may never be as large as some of its proponents once thought, he has been advised that other FCS offices are preparing applications for submission, and views this as a positive sign that FCS is working with borrowers to resolve debt problems.

For more information, contact the RFA office 296-5943.

Sparby Appointed To Committee Of National Group

Speaker of the House Fred Norton has appointed Representative Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls to serve on the National Conference of State Legislatures' agriculture, food policy and rural development committee. This will be his third term on this committee.

Rep. Sparby said the committee will serve as a liaison between state legislatures and congress in helping states have more input into federal farm policy. The committee will meet four to six times annually to review and define issues of importance to states. The committee will then make recommendations to congress on a quarterly basis.

Sparby said revision of the 1985 farm bill will be the top priority of the committee this year.

"Most people agree there are many shortcomings in the present program. I would like to help make revisions leading to a better and more stable income for family farmers," Sparby said.

If you have any questions of Representative Sparby on this or any other issue, contact him at (612) 296-9918.

Attorney General Files Brief In FmHA Action

Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III today announced that his office has filed an amicus brief in the U.S. district court for Minnesota challenging the regulations used by the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) to conduct elections for FmHA county committee positions.

The FmHA has moved to dismiss an action on behalf of farmers brought by the Farmers Legal Action Group. The suit challenged the FmHA regulations as being in violation of federal statute and the constitutional rights of certain farmers in Minnesota. Humphrey's brief was filed in opposition to the motion to dismiss brought by the FmHA.

The FmHA regulations, adopted on May 22, 1986, exclude current borrowers, their spouses and dependent children and any farmers who are "active in the management or affairs of any political club, organization or committee" from eligibility for election to an FmHA county committee. In addition, the regulations allowed only five days for farmers to obtain nominating petitions, fill them out and file them with their local FmHA office. The original complaint lists instances where certain farmers had a single day or less in which to complete the nominating process.

Finally, the complaint charges that FmHA's regulations were adopted without notice and opportunity for public comment.

In his brief, Humphrey argues that the FmHA's exclusion of borrowers and their families and "politically active" farmers violates the language and the spirit of the federal law which made certain county committee positions elective. Humphrey argued that the effect was to exclude many of the farmers who would be the most conscientious and capable of carrying out the functions of FmHA county committee members.

Humphrey further argued that the extremely short timetable for completing the nominating process undermined the very intent of Congress when it set up the county committee election process. Likewise, Humphrey charged that the unexplained delay by the agency in adopting the rules for county committee elections give the agency no basis for circumventing the normal notice and public comment procedure otherwise required prior to adoption of rules.

Humphrey flew to Washington, D.C., earlier this week to meet with congressional leaders regarding farm and environmental issues. Humphrey will ask federal lawmakers to include farm-lender mediation in any farm legislation enacted by the Congress this year and require FmHA to participate in state mandated mediation programs.

COMMISSIONER DAVID SPEER of the Minnesota Department of Energy and Economic Development met with the Northwest Regional Development commission in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening to outline the department's views and programs. At right in the photo above is commission chairman Joe Bouvette of Hallock. Speer and deputy commissioner Robert Benner also answered questions from the commission members and other interested persons attending the meeting. Speer said he was familiar with the building housing the NWRDC offices in Thief River Falls since he headed the advertising firm which once handled advertising for Arctic Enterprises.

DEED Commissioner Is NWRDC Speaker Tues.

David Speer, recently appointed commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Energy and Economic development, shared his views on direction of the department in the future with members of the Northwest Regional Development commission Tuesday evening. The commission was meeting in regular session at its offices in Thief River Falls.

Prefacing his remarks with the observation that the fundamental economic trend is heightened competition from national whose economies were devasted by World War II or which have been dormant for centuries, Speer said that Minnesota's economy is now sensitive to events taking place halfway around the world.

"Under such conditions," he said, "economies which are diversified are less likely to suffer dislocation than those which are more dependent on a narrow base of industries. For many reasons, diversification is most often achieved in more densely populated urbanized areas. Large parts of greater Minnesota, in contrast, have remained reliant on a single industrial factor, such as agriculture or mining. The new international economy was a major factor causing both industries to suffer sharp reversals in the past five years."

He pointed out that Minnesota's farm sector debt to equity ratios doubled between 1980 and 1984 and that by 1985 about 30,000 of the state's farmers were facing extreme financial difficulties with debt to asset ratios above 70 per cent.

"These economic changes have created intense stress in many communities throughout greater Minnesota," he said. "High unemployment rates, outward population migration and declines in income have severely affected local tax bases to the point where the continued viability of many communitites is in question."

While the answer to the problems is economic growth, he said, free operation of the market is the engine of growth and there are several reasons why the free operation of the market may not be sufficient to remedy the problems. He identified five barriers to economic growth as follows:

(1) Lack of complete information. Businesses needing information are unable to get it or know where to go for it and therefore lose markets and opportunities.

(2) Capital markets operate imperfectly, denying some businesses credit even though they pose acceptable risks and lenders follow sound banking practices. These capital gaps are most likely to occur in rural areas.

(3) In areas of economic distress, economic decay spreads from unhealthy to healthy industries, businesses close, the taxe base shrinks, public services are curtainled and young people begin to look elsewhere for opportunities. Communities stagnate or simply die.

(4) While the free market may not guarantee optimal economic growth, we must also recognize that its operations are not entirely free. Subsidies and other incentives offered to businesses by various states and localities distort the patterns of growth that the market would otherwise produce.

(5) Many towns cannot accommodate the infrastructure — roads, sewage and water systems — that industry needs in order to do business.

"In these areas," Speer said, "market forces alone will not solve greater Minnesota's economic problems. This is a crucial point to understand, for, unlike past economic reverses, the economic dislocations now faced by Minnesota are not merely cyclical in nature. We cannot simply wait them out and hope to resume our place on the upward path of the 1960's and early 1970's. The underlying forces responsible for that growth no longer operate.

"The new conditions have produced and will continue to produce permanent structural changes in the Minnesota economy," the commissioner said. "This does not mean that the state will never again experience sustained periods of prosperity, only that the basis for our prosperity in the future is likely to be much different from the economic activities responsible for the 'Golden years' of the past."

At least three challenges face the greater Minnesota economy, Speer said. One is to shift its economic base from industries that are in decline to those which exhibit a real potential for future growth. Another is to diversify rural economies to make them both less susceptivel to cyclical economic downturns and less dependent on any single industry. A third is to generate enough opportunities for farmers and their families to obtain income off the farm so that family farms can continue to operate.

"We believe our role is to provide tools to communities — to help them forge more diversified economies — which are shaped to fill in the gaps left by the operation of the market. Our activities are geared to attempt to overcome the five barriers to growth discussed earlier. Our role is not to thwart the actions of the private market but to contribute to its efficient operation," Speer said.

Discussing loan programs of the department, Speer said that DEED "gears its programs to those distressed areas that need it most. More than two-thirds of all public dollars spent on our financing programs in the past two years was directed outside the Twin Cities metro area.

"Almost $78 million has been spent in fiscal year 1983 through 1985 to provide streets, sewer lines, water lines, storm sewers and other types of infrastructure in Minnesota communities throughout the state," Speer added.

"The real goal is to help people," he said, "and the strategy to achieve that goal is to deal with communities, where poeple live and work, as the building blocks of a revitalized economy. The responsibility for improvement lies at the local level."

"Greater Minnesota faces the prospect of second-class economic status unless it begins now to institute changes to meet heightened global competition," Speer said. "The failure to successfully meet this challenge means not merely a lower standard of living, but also the demise of many communities in greater Minnesota as viable places to live."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

On February 4 the Red Lake Watershed District will be holding a hearing at the city auditorium on the proposed ditch 200 impoundment project of the DNR, Ducks Unlimited and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service.

The citizens of this area should carefully consider the benefits and negative effects of this project.

The benefits of this project would be the creation of about 2,200 acres of waterfowl and wetland habitat and one to four-inches of water run off control on the ditch 200 system.

We feel the negative effects of this proposal would far exceed the benefits.

Increase of ducks, geese, blackbirds and cranes would increase the depredation by these birds. Farmers are already hard hit by these birds.

Destruction of the upland game habitat in Section 7-8 of Grand Plain township and Section 9-10-11-12 in Agder township by flooding wuld have a bad effect on deer and grouse.

Deer and grouse use this area for wintering ground and it would be destroyed by the flooding. The landowner's drainage on the south side of ditch 200 to Minnesota highway 219 would not be adequate and there are no provisions in this project to correct the damage.

Along with the increased waterfowl would be increased use of township roads and cost of maintenance of these roads.

With the loss of drainage and increased depredation, land values would drop causing a loss of revenues to the schools, township and county. We are already assessing lands bordering these wildlife areas lower than the rest of the township. Cost of extra road maintenance and loss of revenue are too much of a burden for taxpayers of this area.

Grand Plain township and Marshall County have already done their share of water impoundment with the Moose River project, Lost River impoundment, Agassiz refuge, and Thief Lake storage area. The project could be designed in a different way to eliminate many of the negative effects, but as proposed is not acceptable to the people of the area.

New CRP Sign-Up Announced For February 9-27

Dates have been announced for the next sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve program (CRP IV). Dates are February 9 through February 27.

"It looks like we will be using two methods of figuring qualifying acres this time," notes Ralph Rundell of the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD. "One will be the same as the last sign-up period with erosion requirements of 3T. The other method will be using the Sodbuster criteria of EI-8.

"Using EI-8 will make it more difficult for our Red River valley soils to qualify," Rundell said. "In Kittson county there are only about 12,000 acres that would qualify under EI-8. It also sounds like this is the last sign-up period that will use the 3T criteria. When we change from that, we will no longer have many acres that qualify for CRP.

"If you have considered bidding some land into CRP, this may be the last opportunity you will have to qualify. Remember to put your bid in between February 9 and February 27. We hope to have enough staff at the Warren field office to be able to keep up fairly well during sign-up," he concluded.

Hearing Wed. On Proposed Elm Lake DU Project

the proposed project area are frequently flooded due to the inadequate capacity of Ditch 200, the report states. Drainage improvements in the upstream area would increase the already severe flood problems downstream with the present ditch system. The impoundment at Elm Lake is projected to provide an adequate storage for upstream drainage without threatening downstream lands.

Plans call for enlargement of the capacity of Ditch 200 from Elm Lake upstream about seven miles to the Lost river. This would be accomplished by deepening the ditch three feet and increasing one side slope from a 2-1 ratio to a 3-1 ratio. The other side slope already is at a 3-1 ratio. Since this would reduce the flow from Ditch 200 into the Lost river impoundment area, it is proposed to move the Lost River pool inlet one and one-half miles upstream (to about half a mile west of highway 219 north of Goodridge).

"The proposed extension of the inlet would consist of an open channel," the report states, "the location of which would be on privately owned land. Land rights will have to be acquired. Privately owned land lying north of the inlet ditch which currently drains into Ditch 200 will be provided a new outlet north into Ditch 201."

From a wildlife perspective, the project appears to be a major benefit. "Normal water depths are too low for good wetland habitat and too high for good upland habitat," the report states. "The proposed project would raise normal water levels, thereby improving the wetland wildlife habitat.

"The design features good water level control. It allows for a wide adjustment of pool levels to achieve marsh management objectives. It will also provide relatively stable water elevations during all but severe flood conditions."

It is because of these wetland benefits that Ducks Unlimited has become involved as the fund provider. Since the organization has expanded its work out of Canada into the duck production states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Alaska, some 80 projects have been completed in the five states at a cost of about $6 million, according to Rick Warhurst, DU regional biologist at Bismarck, ND. He will be at the Wednesday hearing along with Paul Urban, design engineer for DU.

"We very much recognize that this is a cooperative project," Warhurst said in a telephone interview with the Times. "We think it is a good idea and we are willing to be cooperative." He acknowledged that DU could accomplish its objective of increasing waterfowl production habitat on a smaller scale and at less cost by not becoming involved in drainage or flood retention efforts, but added that such cooperation would make for a better all-around project.

Jim Mattsson, assistant manager at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, said that restoration of Elm Lake has been a part of the master plan for the refuge for a number of years. He has prepared an operating plan and cooperative agreement involving the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, department of natural resources, watershed district and Ducks Unlimited which has been reviewed by all agencies and will be presented at the Wednesday hearing.

DelRay Larson, Marshall county commissioner whose district includes the proposed project area, is among those opposed to the project. He listed several concerns which he said are shared by a number of property owners in the area:

(1) Installation of a control structure on a ditch system would impede the flow of water and there would be no way to remove it if the project doesn't work as planned;

(2) Control of water levels by state and federal agencies may not be in the best interests of private landowners; there is a lack of trust in the agencies' operation once the impoundment is created;

(3) Creating an impoundment for waterfowl in the Elm Lake basin would move habitat for ducks closer to productive agricultural land than present impoundments, increasing likelihood of depredation;

(4) Maintenance of high water levels, at certain times could hurt drainage into the Ditch 200 system from lands located south of the ditch;

(5) Flooding of the impoundment area would destroy upland and big game habitat.

Larson said the Grand Plain and Moylan township boards had passed resolutions opposing the project and presented them to the county board of commissioners which had also expressed opposition last spring.

Joe Philipp, a supervisor on the Grand Plain township board, said that increased waterfowl depredation was the main fear in his area of the project. Losses have been difficult to accept at any time, he said, but have been especially hard during recent years of depressed farm prices. The projects of more ducks being produced closer to the farming area are not welcome. He also expressed concern about drainage into Ditch 200 from lands south of the ditch.

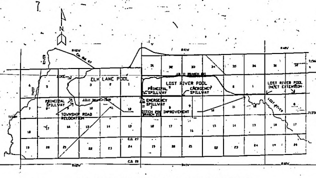
Clarence Peters, a member of the Moylan town board, said drainage is his main concern. He said it has been the tendency of wildlife agencies to hold water levels too high for impoundments to provide much relief during heavy rains. Although the town board adopted a resolution in opposition to the project, it has not maintained its strong stance in opposition recently, he said.

Lowell Enerson, administrator of the Red Lake Watershed district, said that the only local costs in the project would be for engineering. All of the other costs, including those involved for drainage and flood control, would be paid by Ducks Unlimited. The proposed impoundment, which would be created by diking, would restore about 2,100 acres from marsh to productive waterfowl habitat.

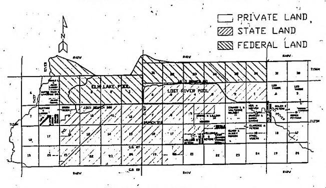
"The design goals of this project are to maximize flood control, drainage and wildlife benefits," Charles Anderson noted in his engineering report. "Common sense is sufficient to understand that these goals are in conflict. The design objective, then, is to minimize the conflicts while sufficiently achieving the design goals. The need for some measure of compromise should be obvious.

"A design solution is possible, in this case, since the upstream area requiring drainage improvement and the downstream area requiring flood protection are separated, and the area in between affords a potential water storage site. Drainage upstream can be provided by enlarging the channel. Flood control downstream can be provided by a dam regulating the flow. The excess water can be temporarily stored on the land between," he said.

Anderson said he recognized that none of th major interests in the project can be 100 per cent satisfied that the optimum in its interest area is being attained. "But if we can design this project so that it is 80 per cent beneficial to all concerned — and I think we have — that should be satisfactory as a compromise and cooperative effort."



PROJECT WORKS LOCATION



LAND OWNERSHIP

ELM LAKE PROJECT maps above show where the existing Lost River impoundment and proposed Elm Lake impoundment areas are located as well as the distribution of land ownership in the area. The maps are taken from the project proposal which has been prepared by the Red Lake Watershed district and is available for study at the watershed office in the former Carnegie public library building at First street and Main avenue in Thief River Falls. The project will be further explained and discussed at a public hearing to be conducted Wednesday, February 4, at 10 a.m. in the main floor meeting room of the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Bruce J. Holmes, head of the flight applications branch, low-speed aerodynamics division at NASA's Langley research center, has received the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) aerodynamics award for 1986. He is the son of Mrs. Ruth Holmes of Thief River Falls.

The award, which consists of a medal, citation and rosette pin, is presented annually for "meritorious achievement in the field of applied aerodynamics recognizing notable contributions in the development, application and evaluation of aerodynamic concepts and methods."

Holmes was presented the award for "research excellence demonstrating the practicality of using natural laminar boundary layer flow to reduce the drag on modern, smooth aircraft surfaces."

According to NASA, his research efforts over the past three years "have included developing improved flow visualization techniques using sublimating chemicals to display boundary layer transition behavior, conducting many wind tunnel and flight tests to determine the extent of natural boundary layer persistence on modern smooth aircraft surfaces, and developing and validating design criteria for surface requirements an production tolerances."

According to Holmes, this research has altered previous concepts about the practicality of producing surfaces smooth enough to maintain natural laminar flow boundary layers.

A member of the Langley staff since 1977, Holmes is responsible for research in aerodynamics and aviation safety with emphasis in applications on subsonic business, commuter and commercial transport airplanes. Last November he received a NASA exceptional engineering achievement medal for "his outstanding contributions to a research program on the application and demonstration of natural laminar flow principles which has led to a resurgence of interest and acceptance by the aviation industry."

Lars Dyrud Wins Spelling Contest

Correctly spelling "philosopher" after his last opponent missed it, then following up with correct spelling of "destitution," seventh grader Lars Dyrud won the Thief River Falls public schools spelling bee Tuesday evening at the Franklin middle school cafeteria.

Lars, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loiell Dyrud, outlasted eighth grader Heather Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Olson, who finished second in the spell-down. Third place went to sixth grader Eamon Baqui, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abdul Baqui.

Both Lars and Heather misspelled "alkali" as they battled for the final placing. Lars then correctly spelled "leopardess" and, when Heather misspelled "philosopher," he spelled it correctly and added correct spelling of the next word to take the victory. Both first and second place winners will advance to further competition.

For his championship effort, Lars received a hardbound dictionary from the school district and an engraved plaque provided by the Thief River Falls Times. Heather received a soft cover dictionary and Eamon was given a thesaurus. Awards were presented by Mrs. Carol Tranby, contest coordinator.

Other contestants seeking the title were fifth graders Maren Dyrud, Lydia Morken, Anna McDowell, Keith Baune and Brett Peterson, sixth graders Ross Boldt and Justen Lee, seventh graders Ellen Olson, Heidi Berning, Vernon Walseth and Jolene Gonsorowski and eighth grader Brad Blazek.

Pat Johnson, Lincoln high school English teacher, pronounced the words for the spellers. Judges were May Isaacson, Maryel Anderson and Ardis Botner. Refreshments were served to contestants and spectators following the event.

Prowlers Beat Falcons For 15-0 Record

Playing without the services of starting center Laura Beito, the Thief River Falls girls still had enough weapons to beat Fertile-Beltrami 46-39 Tuesday as the Prowlers' 1986-87 high school basketball record climbed to 15-0.

Beito missed the game because of illness, and Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer admitted he was concerned that the absence of the 6-0 senior would open the door for the Falcon's 6-1 Maria Olstad inside.

But 5-10 freshman Rhonda Rothschadl stepped in for Beito, and along with senior Lisa Lillevold, a 5-10 starter at forward, limited Olstad to five field goals. And a big part of the rebounding slack was picked up by 5-8 junior guard Kelly Cornell, who had an outstanding game on the defensive boards, according to Schafer.

Point guard Brenda Russell led the Prowlers with 22 points. Cornell had 14. Olstad finished with 16 points for the host Falcons and Teresa Stuhaug had 11.

Thief River Falls had quarter leads of 11-9, 27-22 and 40-29. The Prowlers led by 5-6 points midway through the third quarter when a couple of baskets supplied them with an 11-point lead with 2:20 left in the quarter. They spent most of the rest of the night running time off the clock.

"We played a very good ball game," reported Schafer.

Thief River Falls was 19-for-48 from the field (40 per cent) and 7-for-11 at the free throw line (64 per cent). Fertile-Beltrami was 14-for-47 from the field (30 per cent) and 11-for-21 at the line (52 per cent). The Falcons had a 28-22 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 19-12.

The Prowlers will be idle the rest of the week, putting their unbeaten status on the line again Tuesday at Bemidji. Thief River Falls edged Bemidji 45-40 in a Jan. 5 match-up here.

Bergeron Scores 33 Points For Tri-County . . .

Prowlers Beat Rabbits 69-59

A 33-point scoring night by Brandon Bergeron gained the Tri-County senior entrance into the prestigious 1,000-Point Club for his career Tuesday, but it wasn't enough to produce a victory for the Rabbits, who lost a 69-59 boys high school basketball game to Thief River Falls at Karlstad.

Thief River Falls offset Bergeron's scoreboard assault with a balanced attack that featured four double figure scorers, including Chris Nelson with 20 points, Brian Stark 19, Todd Solsten 15 and Chris Bjorgaard 13.

The Prowlers had quarter leads of 16-13, 33-29 and 46-35 to improve their record to 8-5 for the year.

"From the offensive standpoint, we played pretty consistent," reported Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "We had good balance. I thought we played good overall offense."

Defensively the Prowlers played well at times, said Hunt, but in surrendering 33 points to Bergeron there was room for improvement, he hinted.

Thief River Falls was 31-for-58 from the field (53 per cent), while Tri-County went 26-for-46 (57 per cent). Both sides were 7-for-9 at the free throw line (78 per cent). The Rabbits had a slight 29-27 rebound edge, but also had a higher turnover figure, 13-11.

The Prowlers host rival Crookston Friday. The Pirates edged Thief River Falls 52-51 on a last-second shot earlier this winter. It'll be Band Night in the Lincoln High School gym.

NCC Women Lose 78-57 To Concordia JV

Concordia College junior varsity pulled away at the end Tuesday en route to a 78-57 basketball win over the Northland Community College women.

Northland trailed just 36-30 at halftime, and that included a last-second basket by Concordia. It was still a seven-point game midway through the second half before the Cobbers, whose varsity team is a nationally-ranked power, opened up the point spread down the stretch.

It was a much better performance, said Northland coach Tom Neibauer, than the Pioneers showed in a 79-49 loss to Concordia back on Dec. 9. Tuesday's contest was a make-up affair from a Jan. 8 postponement.

Janelle Lorsung led the Pioneers with 17 points, while Jody Pahlen scored 16 and Angie Enerson added 10.

Northland was 24-for-59 from the field (41 per cent) and 9-for-17 at the free throw line (53 per cent). Concordia was 35-for-67 from the field (52 per cent) and 8-for-12 at the line (67 per-cent).

Scoring

ELKS HOOP SHOOT winners in three age categories for boys and girls earned medals at the area event conducted in Thief River Falls Lincoln high school gymnasium Saturday. Winning boys and the number of free throws made out of 25 attempts included (left to right), John Gunstad, 10; Kelly Swanson, 20; and Aaron Ehrenstrom, 14. All are from Thief River Falls. Winning girls and the number of free throws made were (left to right), Sandi Gustafson, Viking, 7; Marie Peterson, Newfolden, 8; and Krissi Super, Middle River, 15. Winners advance to the district competition Saturday, February 14, in Bemidji.

TRF Beats EGF In Section 8 Hockey . . .

Prowlers Pick Up 5-3 Win

Seniors Bob Geatz and Scott Novak both scored twice Tuesday as Thief River Falls came up with a 5-3 Section 8 high school hockey winner at East Grand Forks.

Bill Dicken also scored for the Prowlers, who won for just the fifth time in 14 outings this winter. East Grand Forks won by an identical 5-3 score when the two teams met in a Dec. 20 match-up in the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

"We're delighted to have won against an established Section 8 team," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand, whose Prowlers are 3-8 in Section 8 play, including earlier wins over Lake of the Woods and Hallock. "We played pretty well. We've been struggling offensively, so getting five goals is a real plus."

It was a 2-2 first period standoff, with Dicken and Novak scoring just 63 seconds apart midway through the period. Geatz scored 57 seconds into the second period for a 3-2 edge and made it 4-2 at the 11:44 mark before East Grand Forks' Dave Bies made it a one-goal game at 12:42.

Novak's second goal just 48 seconds into the final period clinched it for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls will host Moorhead in a Section 8 encounter Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sports Arena. The Spuds picked up their first win ever over the Prowlers with a 2-1 victory in Moorhead Jan. 10.

Scoring

First period — EGF, Jeff Ransdell (Don Riendeau), 5:14; TRF, Bill Dicken (Blair Lund-Bob Geatz), 7:04; TRF, Scott Novak (John Dondelinger), 8:07; EGF, Riendeau (Bret Sauve), 13:42.

Second period — TRF, Geatz (Dicken), :57; TRF, Geatz (Dave Johnson), 11:44; EGF, Dave Bies (Riendeau), 13:42.

Third period — TRF, Novak (Lund-Johnson), :48.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 12-4-4, :20; EGF, Jason Zak 5-9-9, 23.

Northland Basketball Teams Play Doubleheaders At Brainerd, Itasca

Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams are both off to a 4-0 start in the 1986-87 Minnesota Community College Conference race, but they face a challenging set of wekend doubleheaders on the road.

The Pioneers will be in Brainerd Friday night to face their first Northwest Division rival, and will drive to Grand Rapids Saturday afternoon to face Northeast Division foe Itasca. The women play at 6 p.m. and 12-noon, while the men play at 8 and 2 p.m.

Coach Tom Neibauer's Northland women figure to have their toughest weekend battle at Brainerd, while coach Chet Engelman's men will face a stronger team at Itasca.

This year's power in northern Minnesota women's play rests in the Northwest Division, where the University of Minnesota-Crookston, Fergus Falls, Brainerd and Northland reside. The Northeast Division, which includes Vermilion, Hibbing, Itasca, Mesabi and Rainy River is weaker. The Pioneers have breezed to MCCC wins over Northeast Division foes Rainy River 92-44, Hibbing 84-53, Vermilion 74-65 and Mesabi 71-58. Brainerd may offer Northland it's first real conference-counting test.

The Northeast Division isn't weak, however, when it comes to the men. Itasca, Hibbing and Vermilion were all included in the MCCC state rankings earlier this year. Itasca is the only one still listed, but the Vikings are currently holding on to the No. 1 spot with a 10-2 season record.

Rest of the top five include No. 2 Fergus Falls (9-4), No. 3 Normandale (10-6), No. 4 Anoka-Ramsey (10-3) and No. 5 Rochester (9-4). Itasca beat Anoka-Ramsey 90-63 last week.

Brainerd is just 3-11 for the year, 1-4 in the MCCC, but the Red Raiders lost a 106-102 shoot-out with Itasca last week. Northland has swept Northeast Division foes Rainy River 72-52, Hibbing 73-67, Vermilion 84-66 and Mesabi 85-76 to date.

Area Boys High School Basketball . . .

Rockets Edge Nordics 49-47

A string of close games continued for the Marshall County Central boys Tuesday as the Nordics lost a 49-47 high school basketball game to Kennedy at Newfolden.

"It's the fourth close one in a row, and we've only won one of them," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. It's frustrating, he said. "We did some things real well, but we can't seem to find the right winning combination," Ueland explained.

Marshall County Central fell to 5-6 with the loss. In their last four starts the Nordics have lost to Thief River Falls 70-63, beat Roseau 59-55, lost to Grygla 51-46 and fell to Kennedy 49-47.

Kennedy posted an 11-10 first quarter lead, opened up a 23-16 halftime gap and had a 35-25 third quarter spread.

"Second quarter was really where we lost it," pointed out Ueland, referring to a 3-for-16 shooting performance from the field that period for the Nordics.

A strong fourth quarter Marshall County Central comeback attempt was foiled by Kennedy free throw shooting. Forced into a must-foul situation, the Nordics watched the Rockets sink six of seven free throws down the stretch, including a 4-for-4 effort by Jared Hagen, who finished with a game-high 16 points — 12 of them coming in the second half. Tim Rynning added 15 points to the Kennedy total and Brian Dahl had 12. Marshall County Central featured a balanced attack, but nobody had more than nine points.

Marshall County Central was 23-for-49 from the field (47 per cent) and 1-for-4 at the free throw line (25 per cent). Kennedy was 20-for-40 from the field (50 per cent) and 9-for-13 at the line (69 per cent). The Rockets had a 23-14 rebound advantage, and also had more turnovers, 10-8.

The Nordics have a pair of weekend games, visiting North Border Conference-leading Warroad Friday, and hosting rival Middle River Saturday.

Goodridge . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 60

Grygla free throws at the end inflated the final margin of victory, but the Eagles nevertheless came out a 69-60 winner over rival Goodridge Tuesday.

"The score was misleading," acknowledged Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "It was a good, well-played basketball game. The free throw shooting bailed us out at the end or it would have been nip-and-tuck."

Grygla led just 55-52 with 1:36 remaining before the host Eagles put it away at the free throw line. They scored their final 10 points at the line as the Huskies were forced into a must-foul situation.

Football Coaching Clinic

Approximately 50 people, including 40 area coaches, are expected to attend the third annual Northwest Minnesota Football Coaching Clinic Saturday at Northland Community College.

That's another increase in attendance for the event, which has proved to be highly popular for area coaches, as the numbers indicate. It's been a successful undertaking for Northland coach and athletic director Rick Nelson, the clinic director.

This year's list of clinic guest speakers include four coaches who were part of 1986 state championship programs at Apple Valley (Bud Bjornarra, Rod Dirth), Argyle (Warren Keller) and Fargo South (Dale Hertel), along with Ross Fortier of Moorhead State University and Roy Hokkanen, a high school coach at Virginia, who has some 37 years of coaching experience in both nine and 11-man football.

Additional clinic registration is being accepted by contacting Nelson at 681-2182.

NCC, UMC Lead Pack

Northland Community College hockey team will try to add to its win total this week when the Pioneers visit Fergus Falls tonight (Wednesday), then host Itasca in a weekend series at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena that includes games Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m.

The Pioneers beat Fergus Falls in an 8-6 shoot-out here back on Dec. 20. They haven't faced Itasca, a team that lost a 7-3, 7-4 weekend series to the University of Minnesota-Crookston in Grand Rapids.

Northland and UMC, forced to postpone a scheduled Wednesday meeting last week because of the weather, are the Minnesota Community College Conference leaders. The Trojans are 11-1 in the MCCC, 12-2 overall, and the Pioneers are 8-1 in the MCCC, 12-3 overall. They'll meet next Wednesday at Crookston.

There are just 18 hockey-playing schools in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA), and eight of them are in Minnesota — Northland, UMC, Fergus Falls, Itasca, Brainerd, Hibbing, Rainy River in International Falls and Mesabi in Virginia.

Other NJCAA members, listed in the latest American Hockey magazine, include Broome Community College in Binghamton, NY; Canton State University in Canton, NY; Clinton Community College in Plattsburgh, NY; College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn, IL; Erie Community College in Buffalo, NY; County College of Morris in Randolph, NJ; North Country Community College in Saranac Lake, NY; North Dakota State University-Bottineau in Bottineau, ND; Ocean County College in Toms River, NJ; and Community College of Rhode Island, Lincoln, RI.

Middle River Girls Edge Grygla 50-48

Middle River overcame a five-point deficit in the last two minutes to beat Grygla 50-48 Monday in girls high school basketball.

Rayette Benke, a 5-7 senior, led the Middle River rally by scoring 10 of her game-high 16 points in the fourth quarter, but it was a pair of free throws by freshman Nanette Berg with nine seconds left that finally sealed the victory, supplying the visiting Skippers with a 50-46 edge.

"In spots we played okay," offered Middle River coach Steve Larson. The third quarter wasn't one of those spots, however. The Skippers had a 10-6 first quarter lead and a 22-14 halftime advantage, but watched as Grygla pulled within 30-28 in the third quarter. A wild fourth quarter found the two teams dividing 40 points.

"It was a good ball game for the fans, I guess," said Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We played a good second half. Our offense really struggled in the first half. We played pretty well defensively for three quarters, but the fourth quarter got a little loose."

Kerry Nelson, a 5-10 sophomore, joined Benke in double figures for the Skippers with 14 points. Junior Wendy Lawrence led Grygla with 13 points. Senior Michelle Jelle and sophomore Stacey Mosher both contributed 10 points.

According to Grygla charts, the Eagles were 22-for-52 from the field (42 per cent) and 4-for-10 at the free throw line (40 per cent), while the Skippers were 21-for-48 from the field (44 per cent) and 8-for-19 at the line (42 per cent).

Both teams play again Thursday. The 9-4 Skippers will be at Greenbush that night, while the 3-7 Skippers host Warroad. Monday, Middle River entertains Badger and Grygla will be at home against Marshall County Central.

Marshall County Central out-scored Warroad 26-14 in the first quarter, opened up a 43-23 halftime cushion and stretched it to 62-31 in the third quarter.

"We started out really fast," mentioned Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "I was pleased with our effort. I thought we played well."

The Nordics were 30-for-73 from the field (41 per cent) and 16-for-28 at the free throw line (57 per cent). The Warriors were 22-for-51 from the field (43 per cent) and 2-for-4 at the line (50 per cent). Marshall County Central owned a 36-25 rebound edge, and

Department of Natural Resources Trail and Waterways Unit has announced the closure of two state trails for the Jeep I-500 International Snowmobile Race, which runs 450 miles from Thunder Bay Ontario to the Twin Cities.

The race will use the entire North Shore State Trail and segments of the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary State Trail. The race is a revival of the runs that formerly ran from Winnipeg to St. Paul in the 1970s and early 1980s.

According to Gordon Kimball of the DNR Trails Division, "the closure of the trails is for the safety of the racers and the public alike. While no modified or customized snowmobiles will be allowed," Kimball said, "race participants are skilled drivers and will be traveling at top speeds whenever possible."

The trails involved have been posted by the race organization, and other safety precautions will be implemented during the race.

The trails closed to the public for use include the North Shore State Trail running from Grand Marais to Duluth (12 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 31) and the Carlton to West Duluth and Barnum to Hinckley segments of the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary State Trail (8 a.m. to 12-noon, Sunday, Feb. 1).

Pike Disease

Each winter the Department of Natural Resources receives many calls from fishermen who have caught northern pike with ugly skin sores. This winter is no exception. Most of the sores turn out to be lymphosarcoma lesions, a cancerous growth of viral origin that is activated by cold temperatures.

The disease affects Minnesota's northern pike and, to a lesser degree, muskies. According to DNR pathologist Philip Economon, the tumor-afflicted fish are not considered contagious to other species. "These occasional anomalies do not seriously affect the pike population as a whole, which remains healthy and a valuable food source," he said.

When asked if fishermen are safe from the northern pike virus, Economon affirmed that "there is no public health threat known or postulated."

Though there is no known harm in eating these fish, Economon said, most anglers reject them because of their unappetizing appearance.

The tumors have occurred in about 2 to 3 per cent of Minnesota pike for many years. In his 30 years as a DNR pathologist, Economon has seen "no appreciable increase" in the number of pike afflicted. Fluctuations can usually be traced to the density of the pike population, age composition and nature of spawning areas.

Largest, most active tumors are found on the fish's side and jaws in late winter or early spring, usually after prolonged cold. They appear as a firm and elastic mass, often inflamed. Scales may be loose or missing and a network of blood capillaries, shallow fissures and pittings are usually found on the crown of the tumor. A spontaneous regression occurs during warm weather and the tumor may break down to such an extent that the underlying muscle becomes exposed, Economon said.

Another reason that anglers are more aware of the tumors in the winter is that winter fishing includes spearing, and spearers usually aim for the largest fish, which are more likely to be affected because they have been exposed longer to infected fish.

"We have been aware of some specific lakes that have abnormally high numbers of infected fish," he said. One of these is Caribou Lake near Duluth, where traces of dioxin, a known carcinogen, have recently been found in lake bottom sediment. He said that it is possible that the fish may be more susceptible to the virus because of exposure to the dioxin.

Economon theorized that when a healthy fish swims against an infected fish's body during spawning, infected tumor cells are sloughed off and implanted under the scales of the healthy fish. The lesions in the early stages of the disease may appear as small reddish-blue pimples.

Although the viral-infected tumor cells resemble leukemia cells, the disease is not as serious to northern pike as leukemia is to people. "That's the curious thing. It doesn't seem to kill the fish," said Economon. The virus is psychrophilic, or cold-loving, and does not affect warm-blooded animals. "There are very few known viral-caused cancers in animals, and this one does not appear to spread to other fish families," he said.

DNR Strategic Plan

Department of Natural Resources' strategic plan for Minnesota's fish, wildlife and native plants is available for public review in most public libraries and DNR area and regional offices.

The planning document includes a comment sheet. Requests for copies of the plan or comments should be sent to the Division of Fish and Wildlife, DNR, 500 Lafayette Rd., St. Paul, MN 55155. The deadline for comments is March 1.

Strategic plan describes the Division's mission, management philosophy and direction for the next 20 years. It is part of an overall comprehensive planning process that began in 1985 and also includes a long-range plan and operation plan. This new effort is being funded by the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources.

Long-range planning covers a six-year period and focuses on a species or ecological community. The Division's long-range plans will be available for public review in July.

Operational plan implements strategic and long-range planning by developing actual work plans and projects to achieve long-term objectives.

Minnesota State Parks

This winter may not be Minnesota's best for skiing, but it is excellent for hiking in state parks. Hikers are likely to encounter fewer people and more wildlife signs in winter than in summer.

"Winter hikers are free to go anywhere in the state parks," said William Weir, a regional parks manager for the Department of Natural Resources. He noted only one exception — groomed cross-country ski trails.

"Hikers and skiers can coexist," said Weir, "but I encourage hikers to go somewhere other than on groomed ski trails."

Freedom to explore can lead hikers into areas that are made inaccessible in summer by lush foliage. These quiet, secluded areas are prime spots to discover undisturbed animal signs, such as tracks of deer, fox, rabbits and birds of many kinds.

"You only need a light layer of snow," said Judy Thomson, a DNR park naturalist. "The tracks tell a story about the animals. You may see things like mouse tracks that suddenly stop and then wing prints in the snow" where an owl swooped down and snatched the rodent.

Best places to hike to find undisturbed animal signs are near forest openings and along open water," said John Fylpaa, a park naturalist for Lake Bemidji State Park. Otter, mink and beaver signs are common along spring-fed ponds.

Birds also congregate in or near open water and are best viewed there. Birdwatchers have a limited time that they can view Minnesota's resident winter birds. "Evening hours are best to see owls such as great-horned owls," said Fylpaa. By early February the owl's mating calls will be heard.

Another common activity for winter hikers is identifying "winter flowers," which is another name for the seedpods of dried plants such as milkweed. Take a field guide to identify plants in winter. The lack of foliage and real flowers leaves the would-be naturalist with few clues to a plant's identity.

Women's Hunting Seminar

A seminar designed especially for women on hunting and the outdoors will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Springbrook Nature Center in Fridley.

Hosted by the Department of Natural Resources Hunter Education Program, the seminar is intended to heighten awareness of why people hunt, and provide some basic facts on hunting, the outdoors and the environment.

James Boyd, associate editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, will speak on hunting ethics, and Dr. JoAnn Baldwin, an Advanced Hunter Education instructor, will speak on competition between male and female hunters. Siah St. Clair, director and naturalist of Springbook, will lead a session on resource management. Other topics will cover types of hunting arms, planning a hunt, hunting with a camera, clothing needs and cooking recipes.

The seminar is free. A children's nature program will be held at a corresponding time. Springbook is located on 85th Avenue Northeast between University Avenue and East River Road. For more information call the center at (612) 784-3854.

Deer Hunters Give

Central Minnesota Chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association based in St. Cloud recently donated $3,000 to the St. Cloud DNR Wildlife Office to help purchase a deer-wintering area in central Minnesota.

Chapter President Bob Kropp said the group's efforts to help purchase and preserve critical deer-wintering areas was the most important project the group has undertaken.

Chapter's donation will be matched dollar for dollar with money from the Reinvest In Minnesota program (RIM), which was funded by the Legislature a year ago to create or improve needed fish and wildlife habitat.

RIM matching funds provide clubs a perfect opportunity to help purchase land for state wildlife management areas, Kropp said. "I hope other clubs recognize the importance of preserving wildlife habitat and the opportunity provided by RIM and that they join in the project," Kropp said.

DNR Area Wildlife Manager Mike Maurer said he hoped to raise $50,000 in donations from area clubs that when matched by RIM money would provide $100,000 for the purchase of a wildlife management area.

A By-Gone ERA

In the early 30's our country was in financial trouble, an estimated 15 million people were out of work and the future looked less than promising, reports Steve Levasseur, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry, Warroad. In 1933, in an attempt to put some of these unemployed "back on the payroll" President Roosevelt organized the Civilian Conservation Corps (C.C.C.) and the Works Program Administration (W.P.A.)

C.C.C.'s primary objective was to get young Americans back to work. These young men would plant trees, brush ditches, build dams, construct new roads and ditches in areas where needed.

By 1935 C.C.C. camps were being set up here in northwestern Minnesota and throughout the state. Camps were set up under military leadership. Housing, meals, and clothing was provided for all those in the program. Camps in the Lake of the Woods, Roseau, and Marshall counties that many locals are familiar with were Faunce Camp, Norris Camp, Boundary Camp, Clear River Camp and Thief Lake. (Boundary Camp was north of Fourtown).

W.P.A. program on the other hand, was enacted to employ local people in need of work, and the workers were not required to stay in camps.

Ervin Hanson of Roosevelt, recalls hiring out himself and his truck at $1.25 per hour to haul crews out to job sites along the Rapid River settlement area. The Schilling Dam was constructed during this time and its 50-year-old timbers are still visible and still retain water for wildlife like it was originally designed to do.

Amie Gauthier, a lifetime Warroad resident, mustered out of the army in May of 1935, came to Warroad looking for work and signed up with local C.C.C. crews for $40 per month. Amie remembers well the rides to various jobs in trucks like Ervin Hanson's.

In 1938, Amie went to work on the W.P.A. program. His first job was with a ditch brushing crew northwest of Warroad in the Marvin Lake country. In '41 he was on a W.P.A. crew in Warroad and recalls the work all too well. His crew dug in the sewer line from the Warroad school over to Lake Street and down past the Forestry office on the east edge of town. The sewer line started at 6 feet deep and was 14 feet below ground on the other end — a lot of shovels full of clay.

One project that both C.C.C. and W.P.A. crews worked on was reforestation of land in and around the Beltrami Island State Forest.

George Bergland of Roseau was the forest ranger at Clear River Ranger Station at the time and remembers supervising many a plantation project in the forest. Seedlings were supplied by the Badoura nursery south of Bemidji, trucked to the forestry station and transported to planting sites for crews waiting with shovels and buckets. Today these plantations are beautiful stands of 40 to 50 foot Norway pine. Much of the forest we enjoy today and our children will enjoy in the future is as it is because of the efforts and labors of those above menmtioned W.P.A. and C.C.C. crews of 50 plus years ago.

game," confirmed Goodridge coach John Rahn. "It was fun to watch. "Both teams played hard. It's too bad there had to be a loser. I just think they (Grygla) wanted to win more than we did down the stretch. That was probably the difference in the game."

Goodridge started with an 11-8 first quarter lead. Grygla went ahead 26-21 at halftime and took a 42-40 edge into the fourth quarter.

Shawn Groven of Goodridge led all scorers with 20 points. Roger Coan added 13, while Jeff Berg and Tommi Quam both contributed 10 for the Huskies. Reed Engelstad led Grygla with 18 points, while Thor Smerek had 16 and Jason Engelstad netted 15.

Grygla was 24-for-58 from the field (41 per cent) and a productive 21-for-29 at the free throw line (72 per cent). Goodridge went 25-for-56 from the field (45 per cent) and 10-for-17 at the line (59 per cent). The Eagles had a 33-25 rebound advantage.

The Eagles were 13-for-17 at the free throw line in the fourth quarter, including an 8-for-8 effort by Reed Engelstad, who was 10-for-10 at the line for the night.

Grygla, 6-4, plays Lake of the Woods Friday at Baudette. Goodridge, 2-10, will be idle until Feb. 6 when the Huskies visit Alvarado.

DNR Officials Explain Funding Programs

by Minnesota DNR

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has many funding sources. For purposes of this report, these sources are organized into three general categories: Minnesota taxpayers, user groups and the federal government.

User groups, which include license purchasers, timber purchasers, lessees and other users of DNR-managed resources, provided approximately half of the DNR's funds in Fiscal Year 1986. State taxpayers provided 46 per cent of the funding, and federal funds made up the remainder of the department's funding. The DNR received only 0.8 per cent of the General Fund, with individual income taxpayers contributing an average of $6 to the DNR's budget.

Sources of Funds

The three major funding sources are broken down into more specific groups. Within each group, the appropriation or expenditure authority for each item is presented to provide an estimate of funds available to the DNR for Fiscal Year 1986.

State Tax Funds

Fiscal Year 1986 General Fund appropriation for the DNR was $45.1 million. In addition, the department received $2.6 million from the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR), yielding a total of $47.7 million from state taxes. The DNR does generate income that is returned to the state, including the General Fund and two school trust funds. For purposes of this report, however, funds available to the DNR for operations are of primary interest.

Percentage of total General Fund receipts originating from various types of taxes was calculated and applied to the DNR's General Fund appropriation to determine what share of the $45.1 million is paid by each type. Individual income taxes contributed 35.8 per cent of the DNR General Fund appropriation, corporate income taxes contributed 6.1 per cent, sales taxes accounted for 25.9 per cent, and other revenues, including other General Fund sources and LCMR, made up the remaining 32.2 per cent of the total $47.7 million received from state taxes.

User-Supported Funds

Many uses of state land and resources require the individual user to contribute to resource maintenance and development at the time of use, normally through a fee. The rationale for this requirement is that users generally benefit more from and impose more of the costs on a resource than non-users.

User fees are deposited in the account that is designated to support the activity from which the fee is derived, e.g., state park fees are deposited in the State Park Maintenance and Operation account. Receipts from each activity vary from year to year. In order to provide an even flow of expenditures, however, the legislature approves an 'expenditure authority' for each account based on expected receipts and the existing balance in the account. If receipts are less than estimated, expenditures are reduced to stay within available funding (the department is not allowed to spend more than receipts plus the balance carried over from the previous year).

Most of the user fees are self-explanatory, but a few of them need some clarification. The Dingell-Johnson - Pittman-Robertson (D.J.-P.R.) Funds are derived from a federal tax on sporting goods, and the revenue generated is redistributed to the states to support fish and wildlife programs. Although collected and redistributed by the federal government, these D.J.-P.R. funds are considered to be user-supported funds. These funds are disbursed among the states based on the number of hunting and fishing licenses sold and the geographic size of each state.

Three other accounts need a short explanation. The Nongame Wildlife account gains its funds from voluntary contributions on the Minnesota individual income tax form (popularly known as the "chickadee checkoff"). The Forest Management Fund and the Consolidated Conservation (Con-Con) Areas Fund receive income primarily from timber sales, forest nursery sales and leases on public lands.

Sources of user fees are as diverse as the activities in which the DNR is involved. These funds are also very important to the department.

Federal Funds

DNR's federal funding is received from the U.S. Forest Service (USFS), the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LAWCON), and the Great River Road Fund, among others. The USFS and LAWCON funds made up the bulk of the total, which was $4.9 million in Fiscal Year 1986.

Individual Taxpayer

Some perspective on the relative size of the DNR's General Fund appropriation as compared to other recipients of those funds shows that education received over 40 per cent of the General Fund revenues, Health and Welfare and Local Aids each received slightly more than 20 per cent, and state agencies received 8.7 per cent of the General Fund. The DNR's appropriation from the General Fund was 9.7 per cent of all state agency funding and only 0.8 per cent of the total General Fund.

Contribution of the individual taxpayer to each recipient of the General Fund, based on an average tax paid of $711 for Fiscal Year 1986 shows that of the $62 going to state government, only $6 was allocated to the DNR.

DNR Management Strategies For 1990

DNR officials have launched an ambitious, organization-wide planning program to identify the major directions that the Department will take to address key issues and problems facing Minnesota's natural resources into the 1990s.

Commissioner Joseph N. Alexander said the program will be used to manage the agency's activities and to present major state natural resource concerns to the Minnesota Legislature.

"Our number one goal is to provide quality service to the public," said Alexander. "While service is already an integral duty of many DNR employees, we want to place even more emphasis on listening, caring and providing service to the public.

"Secondly, we want to make the DNR as efficient and productive as possible, in order to provide quality service and effectively protect and manage Minnesota's rich heritage of natural resources," he said.

The strategies, described in a report entitled Directions for Natural Resources, are designed to improve both management and protection of the state's resources, including minerals, waters, forests, fish, wildlife, native plants, parks and other recreational lands.

In the area of minerals management, for example, the DNR plans to encourage exploration and protection of the state's lands.

Alexander said the report is not the DNR's official response to a reorganization study recently ordered by the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR) and conducted by a consultant, Touche Ross & Co.

"The DNR will issue a separate response to the Touche Ross study," said Alexander. "However, this report does emphasis public responsiveness and department efficiency, two issues which Touche Ross dealt with in their study."

Alexander said the report would be distributed to all DNR employees and to the members of the Legislature. The report will be unveiled to the Legislature this week in oversight hearings of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee and the House Environment and Natural Resources Committee.

When it comes to bird-brains, one bird has it all — the raven. According to International Wildlife magazine, ravens survive on wile and guile, using memory to recall where they hide stolen food and treasurers. Ravens have 30 distinct calls and the ability to mimic animals and even human speech. Some scientists claim that ravens, unlike parrots, use some words knowing what the words mean.

Wildlife Group Offers National Poster Competition

Almost everyone has some kind of formula for success. Unfortunately, not all of them work.

There's one formula, however, that's been used by hundreds of youngsters to turn their artwork into over $50,000 worth of U.S. Savings Bonds. They've combined one part artistic talent with one part research and added a few dashes of originality to come up with a winning poster in the annual National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest.

Corey Meyer of Raymond, MN, who won a $1,000 U.S. Savings bond, and Robin Warren of Nashville, TN, who won a $500 savings bond, are just two of the many youngsters who have turned their artwork into U.S. Savings Bonds during the contest's nine-year history.

In 1987 nearly 100 national prizes, including a grand prize of a $1,000 savings bond, will be awarded to students who best illustrate the theme of the 1987 NHF Day Poster Contest, "The Pittman-Robertson Act — 50 years of Sportsmen Helping Wildlife." A total of more than $7,500 in U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded.

Now in its tenth year, the poster contest is open to all students in grades 5-12. So that students can compete on a more equal basis, there are two divisions for the contest: a Junior Division for grades 5-8 and a Senior Division for students in grades 9-12.

In addition to the grand prize of the $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond, the national prizes include $500 savings bonds for first place, $250 in bonds for second place and $100 savings bonds for third place. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in both the Junior and Senior Divisions. A total of 15 honorable mention prizes of $75 savings bonds and 75 Merit Awards of $50 savings bonds will be shared betwen the two divisions.

In order to be considered for these national awards, students' posters must first be winners in a locally sponsored National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest. Local NHF Day Poster Contests may be organized by schools, conservation or civic groups, newspapers, sportsmen's clubs, Boy Scout Troops, etc. To give students sufficient time to research and prepare their posters, local contests should be organized as soon as possible.

Prizes for winners of locally sponsored contests should then be sent to NHF Day Headquarters for national judging. Posters must be received at NHF Day Headquarters by April 1, 1987.

For information on how to sponsor or participate in a local National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster contest, write to NHF Day Poster Contest, Dept. N, P.O. Box 1075, Riverside, CT 06878.

The chapters taking part were Central Minnesota, Cloquet, Fargo-Moorhead, Paul Bunyan-Heartland, Red River Valley, St. Cloud Area, Twin Cities and the Vikingland Chapter of Muskies Inc.

Cooperation with the Minnesota D.N.R. in rearing and stocking muskies, genetic strains and where to stock, reports on chapter activities and fund raisers, sending youth to Camp Fish, several research projects including one with the White Earth Indians, an in-depth report regarding muskies in Minnesaota by Dick Hassinger, chief of fisheries for the state D.N.R., support for state wide minimum length of 36 inches except for a very few waters, trophy waters and non-spearing, and improving cooperation between chapters were among the many issues discussed and resolved.

Seed Abuse

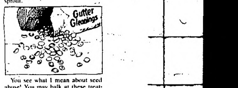
Sometimes it can be quite a challenge to get seeds to sprout. As an addicted collector of seeds from native plants (particularly seeds of plants that attract wildlife), I've had to resort to some pretty ingenious, not to say abusive methods to trick seeds into germinating. Since I tend to think of every seed as an egg, more or less, I sometimes feel somewhat uncomfortable that one doesn't treat seeds as gently and carefully as one treats eggs. However . . .

Generally speaking, many seeds must go through two important processes before they'll sprout: stratification and scarification. When we buy seeds from a seed house, they're all primed and ready to go – given a healthy supply of light, warmth and moisture (except those seeds that sprout best in the dark).

In order to germinate, the seeds of many trees, shrubs and flowers have to go through a cool, moist period, a process called stratification. In nature, simply lying on the ground, with repeated freezing and thawing, softens some seed coats mechanically so that they sprout when the weather turns warm.

To duplicate this process with seeds collected in the fall for spring planting, I've sometimes left them outside in a pot through the winter. I've also put them in moist sphagnum moss and refrigerated them for 60 to 90 days. In this way, every year, I've stratified milkweed seed (the mainstay of my butterfly-gardening efforts), thereby increasing their rate of germination.

Under natural conditions, scarification, the thinning of seed coats by scarring, occurs for many seeds as they pass through the digestive tracts of birds or mammals. This process is a little harder to duplicate indoors, but it can be done (before stratification), either by rubbing the seeds back and forth on sandpaper or by nicking them with pliers. Pouring boiling water over the seeds the day before they're planted and letting them sleep overnight also scarifies and so releases that germination trigger – especially with seed of plants in the bean family such as wild senna, Kentucky coffee tree, wisteria, goats' rue and many others. Seeds that under normal circumstances pass through very, very strong digestive systems may need a dose of concentrated sulphuric acid to get them to sprout.



You see what I mean about seed abuse! You may balk at these treatments yet want to provide plants whose fruit birds in your neighborhood really love to eat. If so, there's one way to collect native seed that's as ready to germinate as packaged seed: clean out your gutters in March. Bird-droppings will have gathered there through the cold months. Seeds already scarified by the birds will have been stratified through a series of gutter freezes and thaws. Sort the now clean seeds and see what sprouts. It's a sure-fire way to come up with plants that attract your local birds.

Films Available

Videotape "Take a Closer Look — Dead or Alive" is one of three new films recently added to the Department of Natural Resources Information and Education film library. Available free to Minnesota organizations and schools, the 22-minute educational film (order number V-201) recounts amazing stories of near-drowning victims who fully recovered after many minutes immersed in cold water.

A second film, "Meet the Grebes," is a 20-minute documentary (order number 199 or 16mm film or V-199 for VHS) that reveals some of nature's secrets on grebes, aquatic birds that populate North America wetlands.

Third new film is a 10-minute videotape excerpt from the public television series "Newton's Apple." Dr. Robert Pozos demonstrates how quickly hypothermia takes effect in cold water. The order number for "Newton's Apple — Hypothermia" is V-200.

Other popular films include topics on hunting, fishing, water and firearm safety, soil and water conservation, backpacking, cross-country skiing and many documentaries on Minnesota wildlife and plant species.

DNR's film library has proven to be a successful tool for teachers, nature interpreters, librarians, conservationists, environmentalists and others.

Film requests should be made in writing at least three weeks in advance. All films must be insured and returned, postage paid by the user. There is no other charge for use of the films.

For a free catalogue of films and VHS videotapes available through the library, send a written request to DNR Film Library, 500 Lafayette Rd., St. Paul, MN 55155-4046.

Set meeting in January (date to be decided later) in the evening to update 5 year road plan. Rick Nordhagen appeared before the Board to discuss the Future Fuel facility. Discussion was held on air quality control and the Crystal Sugar testing. Facility is having difficulties obtaining a permit to burn the pellets. Board felt that perhaps if payment of funds were withheld perhaps this would put some pressure on the Waste Management Board to expedite the issuance of the permits by the MN Pollution Control Agency. Rick discussed the hauling capacity of the Kenworth truck. Consensus of the Board was to sell this truck due to lack of hauling ability.

Engineer Olson discussed the boat landings at Highlanding and St. Hilaire. The St. Hilaire site was donated to the County by Bob Miller.

Sheriff Richards appeared before the Board to discuss their intentions on handling food for the jail for 1987. The hospital plus several cafes in the city have expressed interest in furnishing meals for the prisoners. Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Hoffman the Sheriff is to obtain quotes on the furnishing of meals to the prisoners. Motion unanimously carried. Sheriff Richards discussed the position of Civil Defense Director. He would like to remain as Pennington County's director for a 2 year period. This would be a part time position with the County furnishing him space in the Law Enforcement Center. Asked for compensation for his service to include the County paying for his family coverage insurance in the amount of $255 plus salary of $220 per month for a total monthly wage of $475 making a total annual salary of $5,700. No action taken at this time.

Sheriff-elect Wold was in to discuss the purchasing a "mug" camera for the jail. Cost would be $620. Board gave approval for the purchase of this camera prior to year end. Also requested the purchase of two radar units for the squad cars. Has $1,600 figured into the 1986 budget for this purchase. Cost would be $995 each for a total of $1,990. Board gave approval for the purchase of 1 radar unit at a cost of $995.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg to approve Indirect Cost Allocation Plan contract for a period of two years at a cost of $4,000 per year. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Grabanski introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the Minnesota Counties Computer Cooperative (MCCC) provides software for its member counties to help assess property and calculate and collect property taxes; and,

WHEREAS, the Minnesota Legislature enacts legislation which profoundly affects the cost of maintaining that software in a manner that complies with State law; and,

WHEREAS, fully two-thirds of all correct Assessor's Mini-abstracts submitted to the Minnesota Department of Revenue by Minnesota counties were counties using the MCCC Property Tax System; and

WHEREAS, all MCCC counties using the Property Tax System submitted Assessor's Mini-abstracts which complied with Minnesota Department of Revenue requirements; and

WHEREAS, MCCC's Property Tax System provides consistent and uniform property tax reporting with respect to credit reimbursement requirements for appropriation by the State of Minnesota; and

WHEREAS, the above statements are an indication of MCCC's willingness to continue its practice of strict compliance with State property tax laws and Department of Revenue requirements; and

WHEREAS, Minnesota counties, already suffering financial hardships, will be hard-pressed to finance any legislatively mandated changes affecting the Property Tax Systems.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that Pennington County Board of Commissioners supports an appropriation of $1.0 million for the Department of Revenue for the sole purpose of modernizing and enhancing the MCCC Property Tax System so that it may continue to meet the needs of the State of Minnesota and its counties. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Swanson and upon vote, unanimously adopted.

Discussion was again held on the unemployment office building to house the welfare department. Chairman Koop stepped down from the Chair, Vice-chairman Hoffman assumed the Chair. Memoriam

In loving memory of Myrtle Hjelle who passed away January 30, 1986.

No further away than a picture,
A smile or remembered phrase,
Our loved ones live in memory —
So close in so many ways.
Yes, memory has a magic way
Of keeping loved ones near —
Ever close in mind and heart
Are the ones we hold most dear.

Thief River Falls THE TIMES

State DOT Plans Construction In TRF This Summer

Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson called for a special meeting Monday at noon. The meeting, which was attended by city council members, chamber of commerce members, and members of various city council committees, met for the purpose of discussing street and utility improvement projects with Wes Gjovik, resident engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation.

The Minnesota department of transportation is planning to resurface TH 59 in Thief River Falls this summer. The tentative letting date is set for June 26. The city is also planning its own street and utility project in much of the fourth ward.

The construction planned by the DOT includes removing one inch of the existing bituminous surfacing for the entire length of the project, overlaying with two-and-a-half inches of bituminous from Kinney avenue to Knight avenue and one-and-a-half inches of bituminous from Knight avenue to Atlantic avenue. An additional inch to inch-and-a-half of replacement bituminous is considered necessary to strengthen the road. The road is already listed as a ten ton road, but there are weak spots in it.

In addition to the section from Atlantic avenue to the railroad tracks west of Kinney avenue, Stewart and Walker, Inc. has suggested the replacement of parts of the sewer system on Third street and also on Eighth street, along with some resurfacing of three blocks on Fourth street from Main avenue to Atlantic avenue.

The total cost of the project is estimated at $340,000. However, the city would only be responsible for about $127,000 of the project.

Gjovik said according to DOT's current policy, the city of Thief River Falls would have to assume 40 per cent of the cost of any work done outside of the center 24 feet on TH 59 and 40 per cent of any sewer work. The city would be responsible for 100 per cent of the cost of work done on Frouth street. Fourth street, however, is a Municipal state aid street. Funds for this part of the project, an estimated $65,000, would probably come from funds collected by the state.

Gjovik said according to his records, the last time the street from Atlantic to Kinney had any paving done was in 1961. In his estimation the project was necessary.

Ron Lindberg, Stewart and Walker, said he also thought the project was necessary.

Members of the chamber of commerce, Ev Ault, Sue Lillevold and Dave Strong, were interested in Blawat reached 99 miles per hour.

IRS Lists Areas For Assistance

For people in Minnesota there is a great deal of free federal tax help available from the IRS. Here is a brief explanation of each of the services.

The taxpayer service division will have up to 100 incoming phone lines to answer tax questions. The lines are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Toll-free from outside of the Twin Cities dial 1-800-424-1040, and in the Twin Cities metro area call 291-1422. On the average during the filing season, IRS will get over 7,000 phone calls each day; that means the lines can get very busy. The best time to call is in the morning. Thursday and Friday are usually less busy days.

Deaf and hearing impaired Minnesotans who have access to a TTY unit (tele-typewriter) can call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-428-4732. Since the calls are not answered by voice, this number is only useful to people with TTY equipment. The lines are open from 7 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. CST. This service is staffed with personnel trained to know about tax benefits for deaf and hearing impaired people.

Twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, people with a touch-tone or tone signaling phone can call TELE-TAX. The IRS has recorded 150 tapes of tax information that may answer your questions. People with a rotary dial telephone can call the TELE-TAX number during normal business hours only. To use this service call 1(800)554-4477 (both rotary and touch tone).

A prerecorded message will explain the service to you, the subjects available, and a three-digit number for each tape subject. Use the push buttons on your phone to hear up to four tapes for each call.

You can call IRS to get a free tax publication or additional copies of federal tax forms. To order forms and publications only call 1-800-424-FORM. Another way to get additional tax forms and any of almost 90 free publications is to mail in the order blank found in your tax package.

Instead of wondering "Where's my refund?", a new IRS service will give you the status of your tax refund check. Aftrer March 15, call IRS toll-free at 1-800-554-4477. In the Twin Cities metro area dial 224-4288. The tax agency says you must wait at least 10 weeks after you mailed in your tax return to check on the status of your refund. Please have a copy of your tax return at hand since you will need to know your social security number, filing status and the amount of your refund.

This service will be available Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. for people with a touch tone phone and during normal business hours for people with a rotary dial telephone.

Nearest IRS office with a trained tax specialist on hand to help is at Bemidji (Federal Building, 522 Minnesota Street) each Monday from 9 to 3:30 p.m.

For people who may find it more convenient, there is an office in Grand Forks at 3311 South Washington. Hours are Monday, 8

Dr. Kirby Helps Direct Focus Of MMA Task Force

Minnesota Medical association (MMA) task force on rural health released a report recently entitled "Averting a Crisis in Rural Health Care," indicating that health care in rural Minnesota is in trouble particularly because of access difficulties to mental health services, increasing numbers of patients without health insurance, and Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement systems that restrict economic resources available to rural patients.

Dr. Kevin J. Kirby at Falls Clinic in Thief River Falls was among six members appointed to the task force in rural health by the MMA.

Dr. Kirby said he found the experience interesting, especially in the method used to write the report, and he said the experience was well worth it.

The study began, Dr. Kirby said, because some people claimed a crisis in rural health existed. The paper and its conclusions, which were adopted into MMA policy, indicate no such crisis exists. However, he added, rural health care in Minnesota seems poised for a crisis.

Dr. Kirby helped design a survey which went to a large number of physicians in Minnesota. The group also reviewed a survey of 1,000 farmers, newspaper articles, and included their personal experiences when discussing and interpreting the information. With help from staff of the Minnesota Medical association, the results were compiled and conclusions drawn from the information. The resulting document was taken to the board of the MMA and adopted into policy.

Looking back, Dr. Kirby said, he would have liked to emphasize the large discrepancies between rural hospitals and urban hospitals. He said somewhere in the past people thought urban hospitals provided better overall health care and this was reflected in Medicare reimbursements, which still exists today. Dr. Kirby said this is not the case, however. Basically there is no difference in care provided between rural and urban hospitals, he said.

In the near future Dr. Kirby said he hopes to see changes come about in mental health services because of this study. One model for change will be the mental health services unit on the third floor of Northwest Medical center. The doctor indicated that he believes many mental health service providers will look to the same direction taken at the hospital in Thief River Falls.

In the MMA report, which states that although a statewide crisis does not exist at this time, many danger signs were revealed by a rural physician survey. Among them:

— 31 per cent of the polled physicians report a decline in the use of preventive care such as well-baby exams;

— 37 per cent of the physicians note a growing number of patients delaying needed treatment;

— 46 per cent report an increase in the number of patients lacking basic health insurance (60 per cent in northeast, northwest and west central Minnesota);

Agweek Seminar February 13 At RRV Winter Shows

Tax law changes, marketing strategies and respiratory hazards on the farm are the topics of the Agweek rural life seminar held during the Red River Valley winter shows on Friday, February 13, in the armory classroom at Crookston.

"How I Plan to Market in 1987" will be given from 9:45 to 11:15 a.m. Jim Durkin, Agweek editor, will moderate a panel where five farmers will share their views.

"Respiratory Hazards on the Farm" will be discussed from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. Dr. Richard C. Woellner, St. Louis Park medical center, department of internal medicine, section of pulmonary disease, will be the speaker. This part of the program is sponsored by the American Lung association of Minnesota.

Most people think of the farm as a healthy "fresh air" place to live. Farmers and non-farm workers who are in contact wityh farm products encounter many hazardous substances that can invade the respiratory tract: mold spores, pollen, animal dander, dusts and gases from confinement operations, grain dusts and agricultural chemicals. Dr. Woellner will show what steps to take to prevent problems from happening and what to do if they do occur.

"The New Tax Law and You" will be presented from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Discussing these changes and how they affect you will be Doug Bakken, Grand Forks, ND.

MINNESOTA Department of Transportation plans construction on the streets marked above with bold lines. Wes Gjovik, resident engineer for MN-DOT, also said that the state plans to do some work between Thief River Falls and Newfolden. He said sections between the two towns require an overlay.

Let Children Be Children

She was four, that wiggly and giggly age, and attended a child care day school. One day she came home with a note from her teacher. "Your daughter is a little immature," the teacher wrote.

The mother read and re-read the note, getting hotter with each reading. Finally she dashed off a note to the teacher: "If my daughter cannot be immature at four, when can she?"

Indeed!

Parents and teachers need to hear the words of Apostle Paul anew: "When I was a child, I talked like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child. . . ." (I Cor. 13:11)

We need to let children be children; to let them act and re-act as children. Demanding adult behavior from children denies them their childhood, a phase of life everyone must go through—sooner or later.

The greatness of the Apostle is perhaps in no small measure traceable to a satisfying childhood in which he was allowed, no doubt encouraged, to be a child.

He gave it up to be a man, he said. But at one time he WAS UNASHAMEDLY A CHILD.

—51 per cent of the physicians indicate a difficulty in accessing mental health services ranging from accessible with effort to practically inaccessible while 28 per cent report an increase in the number of patients requiring mental health care;

— 73 per cent of the physicians report an increase in patient charge write-offs;

— 43 per cent of the physicians indicate a decline in income and a majority expect a further decline.

Recommendations from the MMA on preventing a rural health care crisis, 25 in all, include:

— Establishing a statewide coordinating office and hotline for mental health referrals;

— Providing crisis intervention continuing medical education courses in mental health;

— Conducting a study of small, rural hospitals by the MMA and the Minnesota Hospital association to define specific problems;

— Asking the legislature to investigate requiring a higher level of mental health coverage for third party payers;

— Calling for a commission to study duplication and conflicts between the provision of public and private health services;

— Developing a program for the provision of care to the uninsured;

— Adjusting reimbursement to physicians who provide care to large numbers of Medical Assistance patients;

— Reviewing Medicare reimbursement policies which short-change rural providers;

— Requesting that the governor investigate ways to improve data collection and regional economic analysis to identify distressed areas and focusing the effort on those areas.

Dr. James Knapp, Detroit Lakes family physician and chairman of the task force said, "The Minnesota Medical association desires to work with Governor Perpich, the legislature and the department of health and human services, local governments, provider organizations such as the Minnesota Hospital association and community organizations like the Minnesota coalition on health to implement these recommendations."

IRS List Areas For Assistance In Minnesota

a.m. to 12 noon and 12:45 to 4:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 12:45 to 4:30 p.m.; and Friday, 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 12:45 to 3:30 p.m.

One of the easiest ways to get free help with your taxes this year is through the community outreach tax assistance program put on by the Internal Revenue service. The main idea behind this program is to help a group of people with their taxes at a convenient time and location.

A large number of W-4 information seminars will be held throughout Minnesota. They are designed to help employers and employees prepare accurate W-4 forms.

Each one of us must fill out a new W-4 form before Oct. 1, 1987 and give it to our employer.

The IRS says it's a good idea to do this now so that the amount of tax withheld from paychecks more closely matches the tax a worker will owe for 1987.

If a worker does not file a new Form W-4, the employer must withhold tax from wages as if the employee is single claiming one withholding allowance or married claiming two withholding allowances:

The new 1987 Form W-4 includes a worksheet which will help determine the number of withholding allowances a worker should claim. Workers should carefully review the Form W-4 instructions before completing the form.

A regular outreach session, usually lasting about two hours, can be scheduled during or after normal business hours and even on a weekend. Last year the tax agency put on just over 250 programs for approximately 6,000 people. In a typical session, a trained tax specialist from the IRS will guide a group of people through their own tax returns.

The program can be tailored to a shorter, lecture-type format covering certain parts of the tax law. Available now for groups and organizations are programs on law changes for individuals, law changes for owners of small businesses, pre-retirement tax information and W-4 filing information for employers.

For the past 15 years the two tax agencies in Minnesota, the IRS and the Minnesota department of revenue, have sponsored an all-volunteer tax help program for people with special tax needs. Elderly, low-income, handicapped and non-English speaking people can get their federal and state tax returns completed free of charge through VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance). The two agencies and AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) co-sponsor a similar program geared specifically to the needs of older Americans.

TCE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly) is set up to help people over 60 years old although it will help others. At this writing, there are over 350 VITA-TCE locations (banks, libraries, churches, community centers) throughout the state where you can go for free tax help. For the location nearest you and its hours of operation, call the IRS's tax information services toll-free 1-800-424-1040 or in the Twin Cities metro area call 291-1422.

The PBS stations in Minnesota will be carrying a "tax clinic" in 1987. On Sunday, February 1, a two-hour program will be on the air from 2 to 4 p.m.

IRS phone lines will be open during the program. Deaf and hearing impaired people can call the TTY toll-free phone service.

State DOT Plans Construction In TRF This Summer

how the construction would effect traffic patterns and parking and when construction would take place.

Gjovik said he thought the construction would take place toward the middle or end of July. When the chamber members and city council members pointed out that period of time was the busiest for Thief River Falls, Gjovik said he would try to work something out so that construction would not interfere with Crazy Days or the parade. He said he thought it might be possible to write the bid specifications so that construction would not take place until after the first weekend in August.

Gjovik speculated that Third street would be partially closed during construction and no parking allowed. At times, Fourth street would be closed entirely because of work on joints in the street.

The bid opening for the city's project is tentatively set for May 12. If the same bidder is accepted for both city and state project, the city is concerned that construction will begin when the construction company is ready and not accomodate the city.

The city's project however, is expected to take less time than the one last year. Lindberg said 90 blocks were worked on last year compared to 104 this year, but there will be considerably less curb and gutter and sewer repair. Lindberg and members of the council said however, that they don't know the mood of citizens in fourth ward yet.

Other topics of discussion during the meeting included a request to Gjovik for an additional right lane turning only sign for Davis avenue right after the Third street bridge and a request to Gjovik to research to what extent will the DOT participate in a street lighting project on TH 59.

Following opinion is presented by Dr. Harold W. Rood, professor of international strategic studies at Claremont McKenna college in California, through the New Federalist Papers published by Public Research, Syndicated:

Congressman Augustus F. Hawkins was asked late last year how the new Democratic Congress would pay for the ambitious programs of social services that Congress would likely enact. He suggested that there be cuts in the Defense budget, and that "especially the Strategic Defense Initiative should be cut back."

In our current way of talking about politics, what Hawkins suggested seems almost natural to the humane person. After all, is not the welfare of the American people far more important than the procurement of military hardware? And is not the feeding of human beings of greater importance than the feeding of the dreaded "military-industrial-complex"? These sentiments, though popular among lawmakers and laymen alike, are misguided. To find out why, we ought to carefully scrutinize what the Founding Fathers had to say about the necessity of a national defense.

The first place to turn is the Preamble to the Constitution itself.

The Preamble to the Constitution is elegant, emphatic, and explicit. It declares before all mankind that "We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Note that there are six grand objects of the Constitution specified in this Preamble: Forming a more perfect union, establishing justice, insuring domestic tranquility, providing for the common defense, promoting the general welfare, and securing the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our posterity. Note further that one of these six objects of the Constitution is to "provide for the common defense." This objective is placed in order before that of promoting the general welfare — and for good reason.

The Founding Fathers knew that before one can promote the general welfare, one must first have a society in which to promote it. And in order to have a society, one must first be prepared to defend it from foreign attack. Thus, an effective national defense is one of the most necessary prerequisites for any humane society.

It is no wonder, then, that the Founding Fathers seemed preoccupied in their writings with defending America. George Washington declared that "The safety of the United States, under Divine protection, ought to rest on the basis of systematic and solid arrangements, exposed as little as possible to the hazards of fortuitous circumstances." He said at another point: "To be prepared for war is one of the effectual means of preserving peace."

James Madison echoed the same sentiments when he explained that "Security against foreign danger is . . . an avowed and essential object of the American Union."

But is what Madison said still true? Is the national defense still regarded as an avowed and essential object of the Union? If one listens to recent debates about cutting the defense budget, the answer to this question is far from clear. Congressmen and Senators urge us to spend more on social programs rather than more on weapons — not recognizing that in an important sense, the national defense is the ultimate social program. It is the social program on which all else rises or falls, for without a free and peaceful society, there would be no need for social programs at all. We must first defend our country if we are truly interested in promoting the general welfare. For the state of war is antithetical to he general welfare of society. What a strange irony, that a country that embraces a philosophy of social welfare and humanitarian assistance (and even tries to protect creatures and plants that might otherwise become extinct) now seeks to neglect the most fundamental part of welfare — the prevention of war through a national defense.

Benjamin Franklin was right. "Our people certainly ought to do more for themselves. It is absurd, the pretending to be lovers of liberty while they grudge paying for the defense of it."

Farms "Sacrificed" For Big Banks?

Following was excerpted from a talk by John Tincher, president of the Kansas Independent Bankers association:

This nation was told in 1982 that nonperforming foreign debt at (nine) money center banks was 176 per cent of their capital. But we were also told that those banks were "too big to fail."

So while our government came up with a grand plan to save (and reward) nine banks, an entire segment of our population has been sacrificed as though it didn't exist.

It would appear that we have emerged from our original goals of government "of, by and for the people" to a government that exists for large banks and corporations.

The congressional study states "it will lead to further declines in international commodity prices and U.S. farm exports . . . Baker Plan funds will ensure that the Soviet Union will not need to increase its U.S. grain purchases."

Another obvious candidate is Japan. The administrative policy is currently pressuring the Japanese to take a more active role in resolving the debt crisis. If the Japanese comply by increasing their purchases of Argentine farm products, U.S. farmers could once again be the biggest losers.

Although current trade frictions with the United States would seem to militate against Japan reducing its purchases of U.S. farm products, the Japanese could decide to comply with the administrative wishes by refusing to increase consumption of U.S. products.

The only solutions offered in the study have to do with reducing profits at the money center banks.

They would start charging down their nonperforming loans. (Ag banks do this by regulatory edict.)

They would stop paying dividends which would surely reduce the value of their stock. (A recent happening in most farm banks.)

And they would cut expenses to the bone on all controllable items. (As ag banks have.)

Would it really destroy the U.S. banking system if stockholders of large banks were forced to sit on their stock and wait for improvements? Stockholders of country banks are doing this now.

Borrowed Nonsense

Nurse: "Do you have insurance?"
Patient: "No."
Nurse: "Do you have money?"
Patient: "No."
Nurse: "Do you have property?"
Patient: "No."
Nurse: "Certainly you must have something!"
Patient: "That's why I'm here."

The young lady boarded a crowded bus after the lights had gone out. A tall man standing nearby asked if he could help her find a hand strap. "No thank you," she said. "I already found one." "In that case," he said politely, "I wonder if you would mind letting go of my necktie."

"You have only hours to live," the doctor said. "Is there anyone you would like to see."

"Yes," the patient replied. "Another doctor."

The psychiatrist was questioning his new patient. "Do you ever hear voices without being able to tell who is speaking or where the voices come from?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," the patient responded.

"And when does this occur?" the psychiatrist pressed.

"When I answer the telephone," the patient said.

Another Church Merger View
by Charles R. Samuelson
Thief River Falls

I would like to respond to the column written by K.B. Knutson, Oklee (A Look at Church Merger — TRF Times — Jan. 19, 1987).

I, too, have looked at the merger of the ALC, LCA and AELC Lutherans for a long time; since 1982, as a matter of fact. Try as I might, I am not able to see the things that the Oklee correspondent sees. In contrast to his predilection for the mysticism of gloom and doom, I see in the merger a movement created by dynamic like-minded people who are uniting in a common purpose. I see people who intend to further the Lord's Kingdom on earth by uniting with their brothers and sisters in Christ who share the same Lutheran Christian faith. I see an organization that is well thought-out (over six years in the making) that will enhance the ability of its people to live and to spread God's word.

I see a church organization that is democratically organized and one that will be controlled by the people it serves. I see a church that makes a clear statement of faith that can be understood by both young and old. I see a church moving forward with unity of purpose. I see an organization with machinery in place to solve problems and disagreements so that the majority will be allowed to function and the minority will be respected. (We must always remember that the majority of today may be a minority of tomorrow, and vice versa).

I see an organization in which men and women will have equal voice. The new synod (district) assembly will require at least two lay member delegates from each congregation, regardless of size, one man and one woman. The assembly will be 40 per cent clergy and 60 per cent lay persons. Under present ALC rules the clergy-lay person split is 50-50 and there is no provision for equal representation by the sexes.

The Oklee writer quotes a retired pastor, Rev. Herman W. Preus, who says, "....there may be a time when lay people must enter the battle to maintain the truth, and that time may now have arrived." I agree. Yes, I agree. A most compelling reason for voting for the merger.

Our Oklee correspondent quotes Pastor Preus saying, "Errors usually occur with the theological leadership and pastors in our churches." Here is our chance to do what our Oklee correspondent wants. But, how did he vote? He says he voted against the merger! Can you believe that!

I cannot explain why Oklee, Valle and Salem voted two to one against the merger. By voting against the merger they are voting for the unequal representation of men and women from congregations to the district (synod) assembly that now exists under the ALC, and also, they voted to preserve the 50-50 clergy-lay person split that now exists in ALC district assemblies. In effect, they voted against the very things that they wanted, that is, control of the church by the people. Talk about doublespeak. Wow!

However, I am able to understand why some pastors may oppose the merger. With the move to 40-60 the pastors may lose what control they now have. It is plain to see that these pastors have not been altogether honest with their parishioners.

In closing, I must say that I have only discussed the points raised by the Oklee correspondent. There are many other good and compelling reasons for supporting the merger of the ALC, LCA and AELC Lutherans. Almost all outweigh the reasons not to.

Perhaps Oklee, Valle and Salem should take another look at the merger and vote again.

to the Editor

To The Editor:

I am sure Mr. laid off is an honest man. Not afraid of work and getting laid off is not an easy thing to take. I appreciate his willingness to work.

We were on a farm and had four children. I needed a clothes dryer badly and couldn't afford it but went to town and bought one and hung it out in the back yard and it worked fine, with clothes coming in smelling so nice and fresh.

As for the refrigerator and stove, it seems one could buy those while one had a job. Then the plane ticket; if the taxpayers were going to furnish plane tickets for everyone whose grandfather died, we would be buying tickets for all kinds of relatives. Some might even get a ticket for a grandfather who has died twice.

God bless you and I do hope you find work soon.

Datsun & Snowplow Collide

Greenbush — Three people were treated for minor injuries and released from the Greenbush community hospital after a collision between a 1979 Datsun and a snowplow. Cynthia Rath, the driver of the Datsun, and sons, Jacob, 5, and Gabriel, 4, were treated at the hospital. The driver of the snowplow escaped injuries. The accident happened four and one-half miles north of Greenbush at 10:20 a.m. January 19. The Datsun was totaled and the snowplow received damages of $100.

A Successful Story

Fosston — A 19-year-old Fosston youth has his feet firmly planted on the ladder of success. Quinn Talbot Olson graduated from high school last spring and has already become a successful businessman in Fosston. He opened Talbot's Pizza Emporium and Non-Alcoholic bar in Fosston last June and business is booming. He said he had the idea of going into business for several years and started a pizza and non-alcoholic drink restaurant because "Entrepreneur" magazine said pizza places are the fastest-growing industry in the country and "drinking isn't in style." Talbot's also serves salads, nachos and other snacks, as well as different kinds of pizzas and non-alcoholic drinks called "Bloody Shame" and "Mexican Sunset" in fancy, long-stemmed glasses. The restaurant also features video games and MTV on two television sets behind the bar and a big screen TV. Olson uses a computer and printer to speed up the pizza orders and offers free delivery in Fosston. He will begin his first year at Bemidji state university this fall and his mother will manage the business while he studies advertising.

Merrily We Roll Along . . .

East Grand Forks — An errant auto without a driver ran amok in downtown East Grand Forks Friday. Darin Voecks, a student at the East Grand Forks AVTI, had parked his car and left it running outside Woodward's Motor Parts on DeMers avenue Friday. The car evidently slipped into reverse and went its own merry way, backing over a city stoplight on Fourth Street northwest and continuing in a semi-circle to strike a car on DeMers avenue owned by Robert Greenwood. Greenwood's car struck a tree in the boulevard and the Voeck car finally came to rest when it backed onto the sidewalk. The Greenwood vehicle, a 1974 Ford, was totaled, as was the stoplight, and Voeck's 1976 Mercury Marquis was damaged in the amount of $1,000. The tree will survive.

Scouting Skills

International Falls — A 27-year-old Ash River man survived two days of subzero cold by utilizing the training he received as a Boy Scout. Dan Reitmajer, who works as a cook at Ask-ka-Man Resort at Ash River, set out on his first snowmobile trip last Wednesday to visit friends. As he was returning to Ash River later that afternoon, his snowmobile ran out of gas on the Kabetogama peninsula of Rainy Lake. He had a map and a butane lighter and was attired in snowmobile clothes. As the wind chill dropped to 10 below, Reitmajer made himself a bed of tree branches and a fire, but was too busy trying to warm one side of his body at a time to get any sleep. The next night he stumbled upon a cabin and heated a can of soup he found there while the windchill dropped to 65 degrees below zero outside. In the meantime, 20 people and two planes were searching the area, not at all sure he was still alive. He stumbled out of the woods Friday morning near the Cattle Falls resort. As far as his experience, Reitmajer said, "I learned a lot. I wouldn't have survived without my Boy Scout training."

LOWELL LARSON of Thief River Falls became a seven-gallon donor when he donated blood for a blood drive held at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls Thursday. ## Tidbits From THE TIMES

Excerpts from the January 28, 1937, Times. Rewritten by Sharon LaCoursiere.

Tidbits are an appropriate name for the contents of the Times this week. Just a lot of interesting little morsels here and there. Such as:

Governor Benson was supporting a bill to increase the maximum old age assistance amounts from $30 to $50 per month, and a reduction in the age limit from 65 to 60. Also passed by the house was a measure to classify all women under the age of 21 as "minors," thus "protecting them by bringing them under jurisdiction of the state industrial commission insofar as working conditions are concerned." (No doubt "minor" salaries too!)

One of the "largest social events of the winter season" was to be held Saturday evening in the Thief River Falls city auditorium in the form of a President's Ball to honor President Franklin D. Roosevelt on his birthday. Music for dancing would be provided by the popular Marigold Orchestra of Fargo, ND, of which Herman Bischoff, formerly of this city, is a member. As an added attraction, there would be special floor show at 11 p.m. with entertainment features provided by local talent. Jung's Bakery has prepared a giant birthday cake to be auctioned off to the highest bidder and the Legion auxiliary would be serving a luncheon later in the evening. Charles Warner, Henry Melby, William LaFave and Fred Protz were in charge of arrangements for the ball. Proceeds were to go to the Warm Springs, GA, Foundation for the treatment of infantile paralysis, where the president has taken treatments and to the Legion auxiliary drum corps to help finance a trip to the national convention in New York City.

A "subzero weather seige" continued throughout the week, reported the Thursday, January 28, 1937, Times. The lowest temperature recorded was 36 below last Friday, and 28 below Tuesday. According to the report, subzero weather had prevailed in Times' land since the first of the year.

Superintendent Morris Bye reported that flu and cold absences in local schools were finally decreasing since the period immediately following the Christmas holidays. But the Times stated that many adults are now suffering from the ailments.

Cast Selected For Lincoln Musical "The King And I"

Cast members have been selected by director Connie Stock for the Lincoln high school musical "The King and I" to be presented March 27, 28 and 29 in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The 62-member cast includes all members of the concert choir, some members of the Lincoln Singers and ninth grade chorus and a few elementary students.

Originally produced by Rodgers and Hammerstein, "The King and I" opened in New York City in 1951 and ran for 1,246 performances, winning a Tony award for best musical in 1951-52. The film version starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr won six Academy awards in 1956.

Based on Margaret Landon's book "Anna and the King of Siam," the play takes place in the early 1860's in Bangkok, Siam. Widowed schoolteacher Anna arrives with her son Louis to teach at the palace of the king. Included in the plot are conflicts between cultures, personalities of the king and Anna, and a romantic relationship and its comments on slavery.

Hearing Slated On Elm Lake Plan

Public hearing on a wildlife, drainage and flood control project in the Elm Lake area of eastern Marshall county will be conducted Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the city auditorium in Thief River Falls.

The project, which would be engineered by the Red Lake Watershed district, would include an impoundment area along Ditch 200 on land owned by the U.S. fish and wildlife service and the state department of natural resources, and widening and deepening of Ditch 200 upstream from the site.

Burglaries In St. Hilaire Are Investigated

Pennington county sheriff's department is investigating a series of burglaries in St. Hilaire. The thefts occurred in a short period of time and all appear to be related, according to Sheriff Bob Wold.

Wold said they have a number of suspects in mind, but no arrests have been made. The burglaries appear to have been committed by more than one person. The Kruse In, St. Hilaire Elevator, and the St. Hilaire liquor store were all burglarized. The St. Hilaire liquor store was burglarized twice. In each burglary, cash and other items were taken.

St. Hilaire Elevator Loads 54-Car Train

Another first for the area and St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator association is being noted this week when a 54-car unit train is shipped from the St. Hilaire warehouse. It is the longest unit train to be loaded in this part of the state and will represent a substantial saving in freight costs to patrons of the elevator, according to manager Bob Miller.

"Unit train shipping is a common occurrence at St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator," Miller said, "and 1987 is starting out the same, only on a larger scale. The 54 cars of corn are being loaded for shipment to Kalama, WA, for overseas export."

Freight difference in single and multiple car shipment retains many dollars for crop producers in this area, Miller pointed out. On the 54-car train alone — compared with a 27-car unit train — the saving in West Coast rate is eight and one-half cents per bushel.

"With each car containing 3,350 bushels and 54 cars included in the unit train," Miller said, "it means a saving of $15,376.50 to the corn producers of this area."

While Miller is pleased with the opportunity to utilize the longer train and to gain the resultant freight saving for his patrons, he was a little less pleased with the circumstances under which the loading had to take place.

"The timing could not have been worse," he said. "Loading was scheduled to start right in the middle of a snowstorm. The problems involved with moving 54 full cars of corn with six inches of snow on the tracks really make things tough."

Miller said that the elevator loaded out 44 of the 25-car and 26-car unit trains in 1986. So far this year three 26-car trains of wheat, three 25-car trains of barley and one 25-car train of sunflowers have been scheduled for January and February delivery along with the 54-car train of corn.

"Things are moving pretty good right now," Miller said in a telephone interview this morning. "In addition to the 54-car train of corn which will probably move out tomorrow night, we are loading a 25-car train of sunflowers at Plummer, a 25-car train of barley at Hazel and we have a 26-car train of wheat ready to go here in St. Hilaire."

When the 54-car train arrived for loading, the elevator had enough corn on hand to fill about 35 cars, Miller said. Contacts were made with growers in about a 35-mile radius to deliver enough corn during the load-

Gamblers Find Help In Grand Forks Group

by David Hill
Times Reporter

(Editor's note: Sources in these articles who are members of Gamblers Anonymous wished to remain anonymous. The sources are recovering compulsive gamblers. They did not wish to be recognized as spokespersons for Gamblers Anonymous because if they started gambling again it would reflect poorly on the organization. Gamblers Anonymous is also not officially for or against gambling.)

Gamblers Anonymous in Grand Forks, ND, the closest known organization to the Pennington county area, serves as a support group much like Alcoholics Anonymous. In fact, much of what the organization does in principle is based on what Alcoholics Anonymous does.

"Bill," a compulsive gambler who believes the problem of compulsive gambling is a sickness, sees a handful of group members appear at 8 p.m. each Thursday for the weekly meeting at the Medical Center Rehabilitation hospital in Grand Forks. But he believes many more could benefit from the organization.

Gamblers Anonymous (GA) began its operation in 1957 when a couple of people who lived to gamble recognized their problem and a problem shared by many others. The organization in Grand Forks encourages its members to help each other. Occasionally the group has a guest speaker who is a professional in one field or another and who might be helpful to the members.

"Bill believes that gambling is compulsive behavior, which is highly addictive and indicative of a self-destructive nature in a person. He believes research on compulsive gambling supports his conclusion that gambling is an illness.

"Bill" said, people who are com-

Gamblers Find Help From New Group In Bemidji

by David Hill
Times Reporter

A Gamblers Anonymous group has recently organized in Bemidji. Don Crompton, a social worker who does diagnostic and referral work in Bemidji for the state of Minnesota, said he had never before had a compulsive gambler come to him and admit to having a problem. But when one did he acted as a facilitator and got a group started.

The group meets every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at First Lutheran church education building, 115 East Ninth street. The group had its second meeting just last week.

Compton said he does not expect a large number of people to join the group right away. According to a contact in Fargo, ND, who belongs to GA there, six members after six to nine months is about average. However, Crompton believes a large number of people could benefit from the type of self-help provided by GA in his region.

Crompton believes they are seeing more people with gambling related problems becuase gambling is more readily available. However, a compulsive gambler will find a way to gamble wherever he or she is.

A compulsive gambler in Fargo, who spoke on the condition that only his first name be used, said even before gambling became legalized to a degree, he could go out and on any given day during the week he could manage to find a game just about anywhere in a three-state region. "Al" said it was possible that legalized gambling has identified more compulsive gamblers, but Gamblers Anonymous is not officially for nor against gambling. Gamblers Anonymous, he said, deals with the end result.

Cropton said GA is open to anyone who feels a willingness to stop gambling. He said, however, that the pur-

VFW List of Charitable Gambling Recipients

Local Charities Thankful For Any Donations

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Just inside the door of the VFW club in Thief River Falls is a large white sign. The sign provides a list of 60 groups which have received donations from charitable gambling funds raised at the VFW club. The total amounts to $59,801.34.

The sign signifies more than a large list of recipients. It indicates that nearly every aspect of our community is affected by charitable gambling. The sign is representative of only a short period of time at one club in Thief River Falls. There are several such clubs.

Falls Day Activity center not only raises its own gambling proceeds for its operation, but is recipient of donations from other organizations. Charlie Oakes, administrator at the center, said the center could not continue to maintain a high participant-staff ratio and low daily costs without it. Oakes said nearly one-third of its budget comes from charitable gambling proceeds. That one-third, in dollar figures, amounts to $58,000 of a total budget of $190,000.

Oakes is also a member of the swimming pool committee, another organization which benefits from charitable gambling. Recently the swimming pool committee received $7,500 from the Eagles club — funds raised from charitable gambling. Oakes said the swimming pool organization is the largest contribution made to the committee to date and pushes the total collected by the committee to about $45,000.

While Oakes is pleased with the donations, he said he is concerned about the fate of charitable gambling. Oakes cited rumors that charitable gambling may be eliminated in a tradeoff for a state lottery. Oakes believes charitable gambling should stay because it contributes more to the community than a state lottery would. The loss of charitable gambling would seriously affect this community and the charities that are already stressed beyond limits because of the current economic difficulties.

Special Olympics is an example of another organization that benefits from charitable gambling. The organization, which because of a loack of funds last year was not able to send participants to Special Olympic events, recently received two donations.

Eleanor Erickson, a Northrop elementary school teacher who is actively involved with the group, said it has started fund raising activities early this year in the hopes of being able to send a team to the regional olympics in Crookston and state olympics in Moorhead.

Erickson said it costs close to $2,000 to take the group to these events. They are just hoping to get enough money to go, but she said if everything goes well they would also like to raise funds for uniforms. Most of the groups that attend the olympics seem to have uniforms, she said, and it would be nice to see some of the 31 youngsters who participate in Thief River Falls' program in uniforms.

In the past, the only source of income for the organization was from selling peanuts and candy in the schools. Erickson said it takes a lot of candy to raise enough money. She said that without donations from groups like the Elks club, Eagles club and Goodridge Jaycees, which have already made donations from charit-

Kristi Jorgensen-Kevin Condon United In Marriage October 18

Kristi Marie Jorgensen and Kevin James Condon were united in marriage October 18 at First United Methodist church in Fargo, ND. Their wedding day was the 42nd anniversary of her parents' marriage.

Parents of the couple are John and Marietta Jorgensen of Thief River Falls and Dr. and Mrs. John P. Condon of Fargo, ND.

Rev. Cameron Johnson and Rev. Tim Bushy officiated at the 5 p.m. double ring ceremony. Karen Condon, the groom's sister, was reader of scripture, and Tanya Seely, niece of the bride, was candle lighter.

Norma Halverson was the organist, playing the traditional "Wedding March" as processional and "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" as recessional.

Marlene Prichard, sister of the bride, sang selections of "God, A Woman And A Man" and "You And I."

The bride was escorted by her father to an altar decorated with fall bouquets of wheat and blue flowers and satin ribbon. She wore a traditional white satin gown trimmed in lace with a semi-cathedral ruffled train.

To compliment her gown, she wore a wreath of white flowers in her hair with a back veil matching the yoke of the wedding gown. The headpiece was designed and made by Brenda Haugstad, friend of the bride. The bridal bouquet was composed of yellow roses and assorted fall-colored mums.

The bride's personal attendants were Lorna Arel, sister of the bride, and Sandi Groff, friend of the bride. Flower hostesses were Linda Lively and Denise Tougas, friends of the couple.

Maid of honor was Corene Jacklitch, Moorhead, friend of the bride. They wore identical royal blue, tea-length gowns with matching blue pumps, and carried bouquets of roses and mums in fall colors. Their double golden chains were gifts from the bride.

Rhianda and Becky Arel, Nieces of the bride from Dilworth, were flower girls. They wore floor-length gowns of royal blue and their gifts from the bride, golden chains trimmed with baby pearls.

Lorna Arel, Dilworth, sister of the bride, designed and fashioned the bridal gown and those of the bridal attendants and flower girls.

Jeffrey Arel, Dilworth, and Michael Prichard, Kokomo, IN, both nephews of the bride, served as ring bearers. They wore black Calvin Klein tuxedos to match that of the groom, with royal blue accessories.

The groom wore a black Calvin Klein tuxedo with matching tie and cummerbund, and a large yellow rose boutonniere.

Kelly Condon, Switz City, IN, served as his twin brother's best man. Groomsmen were Ken Condon, brother of the groom, and Todd Doyle, friend of the groom, both of New Prague, and Arland Schultz, brother-in-law of the groom, from Vergus.

Ushering the guests were Kris Condon, Maple Grove, and Kraig Condon, Fargo, ND, both brothers of the groom; Brent Cummings, Fargo, ND, and Jim Albright, Dent, both friends of the groom, and Mike Rozek, Brooklyn Park, cousin of the groom.

Gentlemen attendants wore black tuxedos with royal blue accessories and boutonnieres of yellow mums with royal blue satin ribbon trim.

Honored guests at the ceremony were Cecelia A. Condon, grandmother of the groom, and Verna Moore, godmother of the groom.

For the wedding, the mother of the bride chose a sheer, white pantsuit by Caroma, and the groom's mother wore a royal blue silk, street-length gown. They wore corsages in fall colors. During the ceremony they were presented with long-stemmed yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom escorted the 250 guests to the church hall for a reception hosted by the parents of the bride. Hosts and hostesses were Roger and Carolyn Seely, sister and brother-in-law of the bride; Karen Condon and Gerry Kee, sisters of the groom; and Carmen and Paul Bruhn, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

Highlight of the serving table was the four-tiered marbled wedding cake, frosted with white and trimmed in deep blue flowers. Cutting and serving the cake were Mary Tvrnik, Audrey Johnson and Carol Heller, friends of the couple. Pouring were Dorene Enge and Renae Muy, friends of the bride.

Kathy Klier and Connie Grenz, friends of the groom, served punch; Sheri Groff, friend of the bride, presided at the guest book; and the bride's nephew, Paul Seely, arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Tanya Seely, Jennifer Hofsommer and Amy Enge.

The evening of the wedding, a dance was held at the Regency inn in Moorhead with music provided by "Footloose."

The ceremony was videotaped by Mike Rozek, cousin of the groom; and Dave Owings, friend of the couple, photographed the reception and dance.

The couple is at home in Fargo, ND, where the groom is employed at Duling Optical and the bride at Custom Graphics, Inc. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland community college in Thief River Falls, and the groom a graduate of Fargo South high school.

Cook's Choice

DILLED CHICKEN

2 small broiling chickens, cut in pieces
½ tablespoon butter
½ tablespoon vegetable oil
3 tablespoons finely minced shallots
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 cup Riesling wine
½ cup chicken stock
salt and pepper
2 tablespoons finely minced fresh dill
1 cup heavy cream
fresh lemon juice
dill springs for garnish

Remove backbone and wing tips of chicken. (May be simmered with onion to make stock for the recipe.) Rinse and pat chicken dry on paper towels.

Heat butter and oil in large oven-proof skillet or casserole. Saute chicken pieces over medium-high heat until they are golden brown, turning once. Remove the chicken and set aside. Pour all but a thin film of fat from the pan. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Add shallots to the oil in the pan and cook over low heat until soft but not brown. Add garlic and cook a few seconds longer.

Pour in the wine, raising the heat to high, and deglaze the pan by scraping up all particles that cling to the bottom. Cook until wine is reduced to about ½ cup. Add stock and lower heat to simmer.

Return chicken to the pan, season with salt and papper, and baste with the pan juices. Cover and place in oven for about 20 minutes, until the juices from the drumsticks run clear when pricked with a sharp fork. Remove from oven.

Transfer chicken to a serving platter and keep warm. Add dill to the cooking liquid in the pan and boil until liquid has reduced to about one-third the original volume, five to eight minutes. There should be about ½ cup. Add cream. Cook over high heat, stirring until somewhat reduced and thickened, about five minutes. Stir in lemon juice. Re-season if necessary.

Pour sauce over chicken, garnish with dill springs and serve. Serves 6.

The INSIDE SCOOP

From Lincoln High

by GAYLE BORCHERT

Last week at Lincoln was the annual Sno-Fest celebration. It provided a lot of excitement for the students and staff alike. Life will again return to normal this week. A few of the students at Lincoln are still trying to make up their incomplete grades and will have the rest of the week to do this.

The seniors last week came a couple steps closer to graduation and the end of their high school careers when they placed their graduation announcement orders. Both Borsheim Printing and QuikPrint printing set up displays and took orders. Mr. Olson also visited the senior social classes last week to help explain the financial aid forms to the seniors.

The German club held a fun and different fund raiser last week. They passed out Heart to Heart surveys to all the students at Lincoln. These results were then fed into a computer and individual lists were printed. Each student can purchase the top ten names of members of the opposite sex for $2. The results have proved to be fun and interesting.

A student newspaper has been started at Lincoln. This came about as a result of a student senate survey and partly because of the Governor's Scholar project I am working on. The advisor of the newspaper is Mrs. Gretchen Beito. The editor will be Rachel Ness. Right now the newspaper reporters are in the process of collecting material for their articles. The first issue should be out early in February and will be available to all students at Lincoln free of charge.

One of the unusual phenomena happening at Lincoln has been the rash of people on crutches. Hardest hit seem to be the freshmen girls — there are at least six of them on crutches. Everyone at Lincoln is beginning to wonder if it's catchy.

The girls basketball team is undefeated and has won 15 straight. Everyone at Lincoln is really proud of them.

Events Schedule

Feb. 3 — Swimming at Fosston; Hockey at home; Girl's basketball at Bemidji;

Feb. 5 — Swimming (home); Girl's basketball (home);

Feb. 6 — Boy's basketball at Fergus Falls;

Feb. 7 — Swimming at Grand Forks; Hockey at Roseau.

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator Loads 54-Car Train

ing to meet the quota. Enough corn has now been arranged for to load another train if an order is received, Miller said.

Loading two cars at a time the elevator can load an average of three to four cars per hour, Miller said. When corn is scheduled for export it must have no more than three per cent foreign matter (cracked kernels, etc.) and must be certified European corn borer free. The St. Hilaire elevator has approved screening equipment for preparation of corn to meet the necessary tolerances and certification.

Miller said that the 54-car train is sold through Harvest States, a regional cooperative which was formerly Farmers Union Grain Terminal association (GTA) and is going to a Peavey terminal in Washington. He does not know which overseas country or countries will receive the grain. The shipment to the West Coast is expected to take only two or three days.

The St. Hilaire elevator manager also noted that the elevator is a member of the Northwest Minnesota Rail Shippers association which was instrumental in rehabilitation of the Burlington Northern rail line between St. Hilaire and Warroad. Shippers are repaying their part of the project on the basis of $100 per carload shipment. One shipment of a train like the one going to Washington repays $5,400 on the loan. "This helps the entire organization a great deal," Miller said.

"Change and more change is the name of the game in the grain business today and transportation is a big part of that change," he added. "So snow or no snow the freight must go at St. Hilaire.

Gamblers Find Help In Grand Forks Group

pulsive gamblers are also likely to exhibit some other habitual tendency that could be described as self-destructive. According to some sociological research, "Bill" said, 48 per cent smoke heavily. He noted that not all gamblers are involved in alcohol, drugs or heavy smoking, but research seems to indicate compulsive behavior and self-destructive tendencies are exhibited by people who have a gambling problem.

A problem with gambling may not be easily recognized by the person who has the problem, but here are some signs which may help persons see they have a problem. "Bill" offered the following list of questions, but added that it is not complete:

— Do you ever stay longer than planned while gambling?

— Have you ever done anything illegal to finance your gambling, such as writing a bad check?

— Have you ever gambled until you have spent the last of your money and then the last of some money you may have borrowed from a friend?

— Does it cause recurring problems in any way with your family?

— Have you ever celebrated good fortune with a few hours of gambling?

— Do you try to escape trouble and worry in your life by gambling?

— Do you only feel comfortable when "in action?"

— Have you ever contemplated suicide because of gambling and problems accompanying gambling?

— Do you ever feel remorse after gambling?

"Bill" said there are other signs which can help identify compulsive gamblers. He said he is not an expert, only a recovering compulsive gambler, but added that if anyone sees these problems in their life they should seek help. A counselor, a psychologist, a medical rehabilitation center, a clergyman or Gamblers Anonymous may help point them in the right direction.

It is not an easy problem to change. "Bill" said it takes a long time to stop compulsive behavior. Gambling is a behaviorial problem which is not similar to a money problem that with a little help will go away by itself. It takes a long time to change behavior problems and it will continue to be a problem that people like "Bill" will struggle with.

Bemidji Group Seeks To Give Gamblers Help

pose of the organization is not to support or rally against gambling. It is a self-help organization. Those who get involved with the group will experience a structure recovery program very similar to Alcoholics Anonymous (AA). It uses the same 12 steps to recovery as AA because the original founders of GA were familiar with the structure of AA.

"Al" said the first step is to admit to yourself and one another that you have a problem. Getting to that point can take a relatively short period of time or a long period of time. "Al" said there are four definite steps that gamblers seem to go through before they cross over a very fine line into compulsive gambling. The first step is the occasional gambler, which qualifies most people. The second step is the social gambler, who gambles to relax and feel sociable. The third step is the dependent gambler, who spends a majority of his or her time gambling. Eventually they cross over a fine line and become compulsive gamblers. A compulsive gambler lives to gamble. His high, his fix, is gambling, whether he is winning or losing.

Compulsive gambling is by and large a hidden problem. It is not something that results in a physical change. A compulsive gambler can look like anyone. There are some recognizable signs, but even these do not clearly separate a compulsive gambler from someone with bad money management skills. Yet it is estimated that six to eight million people in the United States have a gambling problem.

"Al" said there are other groups that are out there to help the compulsive gambler. "Al" noted that in many states with a lottery, a state supported organization exists to help compulsive gamblers. He said this is usually part of a lottery bill when it is passed by the state's legislature.

Crompton said anyone interested in finding out more about Gamblers Anonymous in Bemidji can call a hotline that has been recently established. Referrals will be made through the Evergreen house at 751-4333. Interested persons will then be referred to a GA member. Crompton said he thingks a Gam-a-non for families eventually will be set up, but one does not exist yet. In the near future Crompton's role as a facilitator will end and the individuals in the group will provide their own support.

Gamblers Anonymous does have an international headquarters. For more information about the organization or to request a starter kit, write: Gamblers Anonymous, P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, CA, 90017, or call (213) 386-8789.

able gambling proceeds to the group, the Special Olympic team from Thief River Falls might not be able to go to the regional or state events. And for the donations she is thankful as are the students.

Life-saving equipment at the fire department in Thief River Falls has recently been purchased with the assistance of chairtable gambling proceeds. Dave Bjorkman, fire chief, said the donations have been very important to the fire department. Donations from charitable gambling have helped purchase high-pressure air compressors and purifiers, self-contained breathing apparatus, "Jaws of Life" equipment and turn-out gear.

Bjorkman said the donations have come at times when the city did not have the funds. Clubs making donations to the fire department include the Legion, VFW, Eagles and Elks clubs. "They have given us a real boost," Bjorkman said, "and, they have been more than generous with us."

Donations from charitable gambling have touched the lives of many through the organizations which receive the donations. Many may not realize its impact, but it is there as many of the recipient organizations will gratefully verify.

CORRECTION

In the process of putting the paper together for publication on Wednesday, mistakes were made with three pictures. Two pictures involved check presentations by Dave Odette. In the two pictures, the wrong cutlines were placed under the pictures, or the wrong negative placed above the cutlines. Subsequently, the cutlines indicate Odette presenting a check to Kevin TeBeest when he was making a presentation to Quentin Jones and vice versa. Also on page eight of the first section, a negative was turned around and the cutline indicates the Commissioner of the Minnesota department of Energy and Economic Development is on the left when he is on the right and Joe Bouvette of Hallock on the right when he is on the left.

The Viking Covenant church will feature the motion picture, "Joni," Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Rev. Dale Van Deusen states, "Joni" is an inspirational true story of faith and courage. Devastated by a diving accident at the age of seventeen, Joni emerges from that tragedy as a quadriplegic, unable to do anything for herself. As a result, she learned a great lesson of dependance upon God. 'Joni' is sure to touch the lives of all who suffer brokenness — of body, of spirit, of faith, of hope, of family relationships."

Dear Readers,

If friends and relatives fully realized the great amount of support their mere presence affords at the funeral home, no one would neglect to make an appearance in this time of need. The simplest expression of sympathy to the bereaved is adequate to lift some of the oppressive burden of their grief. There is great healing power in each person's presence.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

MODERATE WINTER WEATHER throughout the Times area resulted in this once-in-a-lifetime view west from the Neptune bridge on the Red Lake river in eastern Pennington county. Edwin Halvorson, who has lived in the area of the bridge since 1922, said the river was open downstream from the bridge as far as he could see from January 13 through 17, when he took the photo above. Halvorson said he has seen the river open in February but never in January before this year. Except for sub-zero temperatures in November and a spell of minus-30 readings a few days after the above photo was taken, winter in northwestern Minnesota has been extremely mild.

LO'L Merges Its SE MN Operation With Mid-America

Two of the nation's largest dairy cooperatives, Land O'Lakes, Inc. and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., announced a joint venture which will link the two organizations' milk processing facilities in southeastern Minnesota.

The venture, which becomes effective immediately, consolidates milk processing facilities operated by Mid-Am in Zumbrota with Land O'Lakes facilities at Pine Island and Faribault.

"This agreement signals the type of positive adjustments that must be made to respond effectively to economic conditions in the dairy industry," said George Hildre, group vice president for dairy operations at Land O'Lakes. "By joining our processing capabilities in this region we will be able to improve operating efficiency and lower production costs — steps that are vitally necessary to remain competitive."

Land O'Lakes, Inc. and Mid-American Dairymen's northern operations, both headquartered in Arden Hills, operate separate dairy processing facilities throughout the Upper Midwest. In addition, Mid-Am operates processing facilities in other parts of the U.S. and markets products nationally. ## Mesaba Aviation Shows Profit In Third Quarter

Mesaba Aviation, Inc. for the third quarter ended Dec. 31, 1986, had a net income of $132,306 on total revenues of $5,648,735. This compares to a third quarter net loss of $21,396 on revenues of $3,324,111 during the same quarter the previous year.

For the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1986, Mesaba reported a net loss of $507,692 on total revenues of $15,503,413 compared to net earnings of $361,155 on total revenues of $9,681,333 during the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1985.

Robert D. Swenson, president and chief executive officer, stated that the third quarter's results were influenced positively by Mesaba's Oct. 1, 1986 route realignment. "Since October 1 we have experienced increases in passenger load factors and improvements in system-wide yields. Both of those factors have contributed to Mesaba regaining profitability in the third quarter," he said.

Revenue passenger miles for the third quarter increased 95 per cent to 14,863,407 from 7,603,236 revenue passenger miles flown during the previous year's third quarter. Available seat miles (ASM's) flown in the third quarter increased 63 per cent to 31,517,292 from 19,319,229 flown during the same period one year earlier. For the nine month period ended December 31, Mesaba flew 43,379,694 revenue passenger miles, a 91 per cent increase over 22,757,029 revenue passenger miles flown during the same period last year.

Doctor Mrs. Mom

Roseau — Juggling a full-time career and motherhood, as well as being a farm wife, sounds like quite a feat, but when the career is being a doctor, it sounds impossible. Dr. Lynne Didrikson of Roseau has managed to handle all of her roles successfully. She and her husband have built themselves a dream house of logs on seven and a half acres of land ten miles from Roseau, where she performs her tasks of being a mother and farmer's wife. She likes to cook and bake and has her own craft room in the basement of their home where she does Norwegian hardanger embroidery and sews clothes for the children. Every day she becomes a full-time doctor, leaving home by 8 a.m. to make rounds at the hospital before starting her clinic schedule at 9 a.m. She is also on call one night each week and one out of every three weekends. Her husband, Roger, farms 1,500 acres in partnership with his father. Dr. Didrikson is a graduate of the University of Minnesota medical school.

Back To School

Clearbrook — The Clearwater county commissioners were given a short course in the fundamentals of land department operation at their January 22 meeting by Beltrami county coordinator Norman Moody and land commissioner Leonard Bergstrom. Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Charitable Gambling, Vice or Benevolence

Guest Editorial
by David Hill
Times Reporter

Charitable gambling creates some perplexing problems. While some may say it is a sad commentary on the beneficence of a community, it is also an important source of income to charities.

A charitable act is generally defined as an act of kindness made without expecting any recompense. Clearly, some argue, people are not drawn to gambling out of the goodness of their hearts. They play a game of bingo, buy raffle tickets or pull-tabs in the hope of winning, not in the hope of benefiting someone in need. The games by definition involve an element of chance, and in no way should be included in the definition of a charitable act.

But it is also especially disturbing to many to see gambling profits soar in a community declared economically depressed. When so many people in the community cannot afford to purchase the necessities of life, and the community refuses to support efforts to build a new school for its future and its children, how can gambling continue to grow?

Some also ask whether it is so kindly an act to introduce an element into a community which could become a vice for those unable to control their actions. Is it proper to provide a method of self-destruction even if it will benefit charities?

While it is easy to criticize gambling, it is not so easy to criticize the charities that conduct gambling. The charities in Thief River Falls and Pennington county and those who contribute in so many ways to those charities are indeed benevolent helpers trying the best they can to assist those in need, which makes the problem even more perplexing for a vast majority.

Nor is it easy to refute the gambling promoter's argument that charitable gambling provides a means to build where none seems forthcoming from the public. It has provided a means to create a better future for many groups and individuals.

Whatever your personal response is, it is important to keep in mind that if the community intends to keep charitable gambling, it should treat it and the problems it creates responsibly. And responsibility begins by keeping informed.

The Times' series of stories on charitable gambling has been intended to inform the public of a vital source of income for charities. As many have discovered, it is also an aspect of our community, whether we agree with it or not, that is not often reported publicly. In the coming year, state legislators may decide whether or not to allow a lottery. As responsible citizens, it is time to become informed and let our voices be heard.

If you have a comment you would like to express on the subject, we would like to hear it.

You Support The Arts

Minnesota state arts board recently awarded grants totalling $78,475 to 12 Minnesotans calling themselves artists and selected from among 240 applicants for artist assistance grants in the areas of visual arts, photography and film and video. Funds for the program are provided through an appropriation by the Minnesota state legislature — your tax dollars.

Each of the grants listed with the news release has a brief description of what work is being performed by the artist receiving the money. It is entirely possible that the descriptions do not do justice to the project, but on the basis of those descriptions it would not appear that the state — and you — are getting much bang for the buck.

It's not that we don't appreciate art. This writer has spent more money than he would care to admit over the years purchasing original art work and attending performances by performing artists. But we are not of the school that accepts whatever someone purports to be art to actually BE art, nor do we classify bizarre conglomerations as artistic masterpieces.

It should be noted that volunteer panels of artists and arts professionals recommended the winners of the award grants. They are likely educated in their areas of expertise and it is perhaps boorish of us to question their selections. It is also perhaps unfair to the artists to judge their efforts unseen. But in general, on the basis of what we have read, it looks like the $78,475 could have been more usefully spent.

For instance, Brian Jon Foster of Minneapolis received $10,000 "to construct collection furniture using glass, vinyl, linoleum and beadwork"; Suzanne Lacey, Minneapolis, got $10,000 "to produce and direct a visual art tableau performance entitled 'The Crystal Quilt' "; Viet Ngo, Minneapolis, accepted 10 grand "to complete a large sculpture entitled 'Wing' "; and John Ready, La Crescent, picked up $5,700 "to produce a body of work reflecting the artist's response to the 'rural vernacular' ".

Want to know more? O.K. Jeff Millikan, Minneapolis, received $10,000 "to complete a series of cibachrome murals of surreal dreamscapes" while Dorit Cypis, Minneapolis, will struggle along with $7,600 "to continue experimentation with metaphor through installation, performance and photography". Christopher Sullivan, Minneapolis, was awarded $8,700 to produce a 20-minute film entitled "The Tunnel of Love".

There should be an opportunity for imaginative people to experiment and conceptualize and create. They should be at liberty to pursue those feelings that they feel they must express in what has been collectively (if somewhat loosely) described as art. But that doesn't mean the taxpayer should unwillingly support those expressions.

We don't mean to pick on the people mentioned nor to belittle their obviously serious efforts. We just wish our legislators could be a little more selective in how they dole out our dollars. Do you disagree?

High Achievers Have High Standards

High achieving students listed in the most recent survey of those listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" indicates high values and standards by the students.

Sixty-two per cent believe students should be required to maintain a "C" average or higher in all classes to be eligible to participate in extra curricular activities. Only 27 per cent believed an overall average of "C" or better is acceptable.

They also believe, however, that the eligibility should be reasonable. Sixty-five per cent believe that a probationary period should be allowed for students to raise their grades before being denied participation. Only 18 per cent said they believed minimum grade standards would result in preferential treatment of certain students so they would be able to qualify for participation.

In an attempt to raise the national level of academic achievement, 73 per cent of the students believe periodic evaluation of teachers will be most effective. Students also call for evaluation of school administrators (64 per cent) as well as higher teacher qualification standards (63 per cent).

Thirty-nine per cent believe improving the national education system should be one of the federal government's top three priorities for the coming year. Ninety-seven per cent of the "Who's Who" teens plan to attend college.

Forty-six per cent of the high achievers said they know a young person who has tried to commit or has committed suicide and 31 per cent have considered it themselves. Eighty-six per cent feel that a feeling of personal worthlessness is the major contributor, while 81 per cent believe it is feeling of isolation and loneliness and 72 per cent felt it is pressure to achieve.

While the divorce rate in the United States is currently 50 per cent, 79 per cent of "Who's Who" students report that their natural parents are still married to each other. Fifty-seven per cent of the students note they have either never had an alcoholic beverage or have tried alcohol but don't drink now. Only 14 per cent report they drink more than once a month.

Ninety-three per cent state they have never tried, or tried but don't now use, marijuana. The percentage of students who don't use other drugs is still higher.

And among their friends the teen achievers want characteristics such as reliability (85 per cent) and honesty (83 per cent). Lying and stealing were the most cited reasons for not wanting to be friends with someone.

Borrowed Nonsense

Two friends were in a bank which was being held up by robbers. One nudged the other and whispered, "Take this. It's the $50 I owe you."

---

"You have only hours to live," the doctor said. "Is there anyone you would like to see."

"Yes," the patient replied. "Another doctor."

---

The psychiatrist was questioning his new patient. "Do you ever hear voices without being able to tell who is speaking or where the voices come from?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," the patient responded.

"And when does this occur?" the psychiatrist pressed.

"When I answer the telephone," the patient said.

COLORFUL ANIMALS

"It is said that rare albino elephants in ancient Siam became the property of the king, and that one such king would give these elephants to those he disliked. Why? Because the person awarded the elephant would quickly go broke paying for its upkeep. Thus, the term "white elephant."

to the Editor

To The Editor:

This is a letter concerning a serious problem that our community faces today.

We as teenagers of Lincoln high school have no place to go for social gatherings. Movies, VCR rentals and pizza are getting old and very boring. A lot of drinking and chemical dependency problems have arisen from a lack of activities for our peers.

Take a good look around. Parents and adults have the bars, nightclubs and dances held all around town, all week long. The elderly have their newly built Heritage center, in addition to their park at Valley Home and the craft and workshop building.

We see these as great additions to our community, but we feel we have been put aside and forgotten. I, as a concerned student, see a great need for a youth center or a non-alcoholic bar; somewhere that we can go without any trouble.

We deeply need your support. Think about it. We are your future. We hope that you will also see this as a serious problem. And, through working together, we can take new steps toward a better youth program in the future.

Soo Line Plans To Sell Division Of 2,000 Miles

Soo Line corporation has retained Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. as its exclusive agent to seek buyers for its Lake States transportation division.

Lake States is a stand-alone division of Soo Line Railroad company which was established to provide cost effective transportation services to shippers in its light density territory. Division operations are currently comprised of about 2,000 miles of former Soo and Milwaukee Road lines centered in Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The division has connecting routes to Chicago and the Twin Cities.

Soo Line railroad, which is a Class I midwestern carrier, has been unable to achieve its objective to substantially lower transportation costs in the light density environment in which the division operates. As a result, Shearson Lehman has been retained to find potential buyers for the division.

If the division is sold it is expected that the proceeds would be used to reduce debt. It is not possible to estimate the potential impact which such a sale may have on the company's financial statements, a Soo Line spokesman said.

LOOKING DOWN THE SIDE of the St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator company warehouse in St. Hilaire provided this view of several cars of corn being loaded for shipment to Kalama, WA, for overseas shipment. The elevator is shipping a 54-car unit train to Washington — the longest ever loaded at St. Hilaire and providing a saving of $15,376.50 in freight costs to producers in this area.

CARLOADS OF CORN — 54 of them — were being loaded last week at St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator for shipment to Kalama, WA, and then overseas. The corn had to be carefully prepared for quality prior to loading and the train will leave this week. While the elevator commonly ships 25 and 26-car unit trains, this is the first time a 54-car train has been loaded at the St. Hilaire facility.

Gov. Proclaims February As MN Heart Month

Highlighting the efforts of the American Heart association, Governor Rudy Perpich has proclaimed February as Heart Month in Minnesota.

Throughout the year, the Heart association works to reduce premature death and disability due to heart disease and stroke. During Heart Month, increased public awareness is sought by the Heart association to inform the public about the risks of heart disease.

Last year, heart disease and stroke claimed 986,400 Americans including 16,080 Minnesotans (nearly 50 per cent of the total 33,746 deaths recorded last year). As many as 1.5 million Americans will have a heart attack this year and 540,000 of them will die.

During February, Minnesota Heart volunteers throughout the state will participate in the door-to-door residential campaign. Heart volunteers will call on their neighbors to collect donations and distribute lifesaving information on heart disease.

The American Heart association, Minnesota affiliate's 1987 goal is $2,445,000.

Soo Line Plans Reduction In Cars And In Employees

Soo Line corporation will take a restructuring charge in the fourth quarter as part of a planned program the company expects will improve future operating results, Dennis M. Cavanaugh, chairman and chief executive officer, announced today.

The corporation will take a pre-tax charge of approximately $73 million in its fourth quarter 1986 results as part of a major restructuring to reduce the size of its freight car fleet and better balance its work force.

Included in the total charge is $54 million in costs to reduce employment levels under conditions contained in various labor protection agreements, and $19 million for surplus owned and leased freight equipment.

The corporation has identified 5,200 owned and leased freight cars out of 23,000 which are no longer needed for Soo's transportation operations. The reduction in fleet size is due primarily to improved freight car utilization and changes in business patterns and business levels. A significant portion of the owned cars have already been retired and put up for sale. Remaining equipment will be sold, subleased, or managed for other purposes.

The employment portion of the charge is related to reductions in Soo's workforce of 800 employees which began in the fourth quarter of 1986 and will continue during 1987 and into 1988. In the fourth quarter about $5 million was committed to employee separations and related items as part of the total $54 million employment charge.

Soo has reduced its work force by 1,900 employees since the Milwaukee Road acquisition primarily through voluntary separation programs. Costs associated with these separations and related items through the third quarter of 1986 totaled $80 million, of which $71 million was acquisition-related and was charged to a liability established when Soo acquired the Milwaukee Road in 1985. The remaining $9 million was charged to operating expense in the third quarter.

The corporation had a net loss of $5.2 million through the first nine months of 1986 and will report losses for both the fourth quarter and year 1986.

Soo Line corporation is involved in transportation and real estate activities and operates the nation's 10th largest rail system.

Seminar On W-4 Forms Slated By IRS In Crookston

St. Paul district of the Internal Revenue service (IRS) will conduct a seminar for the northwestern area of Minnesota Wednesday at Crookston to provide employers and employees with information to assist in preparing accurate W-4 forms. The session will be from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Engles lodge.

One of the key features of the tax reform act of 1986 requires that all employees file a revised form W-4; employee's withholding allowance certificate, with their employer by October 1, 1987. As part of this tax law change, the IRS has designed a new W-4 form which employees must file with their employer to ensure proper withholding of federal income taxes based on the new tax rates and other major changes included in the tax reform act.

During the seminar, IRS representatives will discuss step-by-step instructions for completing the new W-4 form and answer questions regarding the new form. If you plan to attend this seminar, call 1-800-424-1040 and inform them that you will be there, listing your name and the name of your company or business. If you cannot get through to register, you may do so the day of the seminar.

Reading Month Observances Are Planned In TRF

"I Love to Read Month" has been proclaimed by Gov. Rudy Perpich and will be observed in the Thief River Falls public schools in a number of special events, according to members of the local reading committee.

Included in the local observances during February will be local community residents coming into the schools to read to students at the elementary and middle school levels. Puppet presentations are also being planned and further details on the events will be announced closer to the time they are being conducted.

In his proclamation, Gov. Perpich points out that "the ability to read is the most fundamental and thus the most important aspect of our educational experience" and that "effective reading is essential to persons of all ages and all areas of endeavor as wage-earners and contributing members of society."

Because concepts of reading and reading instruction are changing, the governor notes, it is the duty of the citizens to make available to our children every feasible educational advantage and to show by example an intelligent approach to this facet of our daily lives.

The governor also notes that he is proclaiming February as "I Love to Read Month" in cooperation with the International and Minnesota reading associations which are seeking to assist people in becoming more proficient life-long readers for both information and pleasure.

IMPLANT LENSES

There is a lot of confusion about some terms used in eye surgery—cataracts, implants, transplants, contacts—the whole subject is a "blur" to most people.

An implant is a lens that is surgically placed inside the eye at the time of cataract surgery. In cataract surgery, the normal human lens is removed from the eye because it has become cloudy. In the absence of the human lens, the lens implant is needed for focusing. The lens implant, also called intraocular lens, allows the patient to have good vision without wearing contact lenses or the thick glasses that used to be worn after cataract surgery.

The lens implant is permanent, and never needs to be removed or cleaned, since it is inside the eye. They are very small, only about one-fourth inch, but are designed to be held firmly in place. Lens implants are made of a special type of plastic and come in different powers to correct for nearsightedness or farsightedness.

Improvements in lens implants are only one of the great advances that have been made in modern cataract surgery, allowing the great majority of cataract patients to have a rapid return to excellent vision.

Prowlers Edge Spuds 3-2 In Final Minute Of Play

Another chapter was added to what has developed into one of the closest rivalries in Section 8 high school hockey Saturday when Thief River Falls edged Moorhead 3-2 on Jim Breiland's tie-breaking goal with just 54 seconds left in the game.

It was the fourth straight one-goal decision in the Thief River Falls-Moorhead series. A year ago the Prowlers won 4-3 and 3-2 overtime games. Three weeks ago the Spuds picked up their first-ever win over Thief River Falls, a 2-1 victory that stopped a 23-0-1 series advantage for the Prowlers dating back to 1970.

Coupled with a 5-3 win at East Grand Forks Tuesday, Thief River Falls won back-to-back games for the first time this winter, putting the Prowlers at 6-9 for the year. They host Crookston Tuesday, then visit Roseau Saturday in a tough week.

It looked like the Prowlers might end the string of one-goal games against the Spuds when Thief River Falls carried the play at the start, dominating the action at times in grabbing a 2-0 first period lead.

First Thief River Falls rush into the Moorhead zone produced a 1-0 lead when Blair Lund set up Scott Novak in front just 20 seconds into the contest.

Breiland doubled it to 2-0 on a nice backhand shot at 7:50 while both sides skated a man short.

But Moorhead took over in the second period, knocking the Prowlers off the puck and pulling within 2-1 when Chad Sundem slammed home a rebound at 3:32, jumping on a puck that Thief River Falls goalie Shayne Anderson gloved, but dropped.

Several quick kick saves by Anderson kept Moorhead from doing any more damage, but the Spuds did pull even at 5:44 of the third period, when Sundem scored from a face-off to the right of the Thief River Falls net.

It stayed that way until Bob Geatz won a draw in the Moorhead zone, centered the puck to Breiland, who quickly converted it into the game winner just as the game entered its final minute.

It was a much-appreciated win by the Prowlers, who have been on the losing end of four one-goal games this winter. "We felt we played very well in the first period," said Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "Then in the second period, we were fortunate to come out of it with a one-goal lead. They out-quicked us in our end of the rink. They really forechecked well."

The third period was played on even ground, until Breiland, putting together a full game in the midst of an injury-plagued campaign, gave the Prowlers the win.

"It's nice to have Jimmy Breiland around for a full game," smiled Grand, whose son Jeff, a regular as a senior in the Prowlers' forward lines, missed the game because of an injury — a shot on the toe in practice earlier in the week.

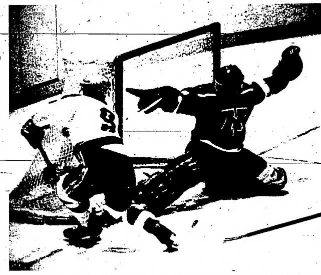
Scoring

First period — TRF, Scott Novak (Blair Lund-Rob Coltom), :20; TRF, Jim Breiland (Lund-Dave Johnson), 7:50.

Second period — Moorhead, Chad Sundem (Tim Meyer-Bryce Shercliffe), 3:32.

Third period — Moorhead, Sundem (Meyer), 5:44; TRF, Breiland (Bob Geatz-Troy Hanestad), 14:06.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 12-11-6, 29; Moorhead, Scott Shercliffe 9-9-8, 26.



JUST 20 SECONDS into the first period, Thief River Falls forward Scott Novak (9) beat Moorhead goalie Scott Shercliffe with this shot (the puck can be seen under Novak's left arm as it hit the back of the net) for a quick 1-0 lead in Saturday's Section 8 high school hockey game at the Sports Arena. The Prowlers also scored in the game's final minute for a 3-2 victory over the Spuds. Thief River Falls hosts Crookston Tuesday.

NCC Women Collect Two Weekend Wins

Second-year Northland Community College women's basketball coach Tom Neibauer says the Pioneers have followed the game plan perfectly since beginning 1986-87 Minnesota Community College Conference play.

Northland took its lumps through a demanding nonconference schedule, but starting MCCC play against the weaker Northeast Division, and Brainerd — the poorest team in an otherwise-strong Northwest Division — the Pioneers had the opportunity to put themselves in position to challenge for one of the two Northwest Division state tournament berths heading down the schedule stretch this month.

A 95-46 victory at Brainerd Friday night and a 73-54 win at Itasca Saturday afternoon accomplished those goals as Northland went to 6-0 in the MCCC, 10-7 overall. The 6-0 mark matches the figure posted by Northwest Division rivals University of Minnesota-Crookston and Fergus Falls at the start of a tell-tale week of games that starts with Fergus Falls at UMC Tuesday and Northland at UMC Thursday. Fergus Falls visits Northland the following Monday.

"We're sitting right where we had hoped to be," acknowledged Neibauer. "We swept the East (Northeast Division) and beat Brainerd. Now it's a four-game season," he said, referring to home-and-home assignments against the Trojans and Spartans.

Northland played well in beating Brainerd, according to Neibauer. "We probably played our best game of the year. Our passing was really sharp in the first half."

Saturday's performance wasn't as sharp, but that might have been by design, admitted Neibauer. Northland drilled Itasca 119-33 earlier this year, anbd went into the second meeting intending to hold the score down. "It was pretty ugly," he said. "We could have really blown them away if we had wanted to."

Northland . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 95
Brainerd . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 46

Northland's sharp passing set up the Pioneers' shooting as they rolled past Brainerd 95-46.

The Pioneers shot 63 per cent from the field in the first half (25-for-40) en route to a 53-24 lead. They finished the game with a still-impressive 56 per cent figure (44-for-79).

Brainerd, meanwhile, was just 18-for-63 (29 per cent) from the field.

Janelle Lorsung and Jody Pahlen scored 24 an 21 points, respectively, for the winners, while Angie Enerson had 18 and Sheila Jaeger contributed 12. Carla Mettling led Brainerd with 16 points.

Northland was 7-for-11 from the free throw line (64 per cent), and Brainerd was 10-for-20 (50 per cent).

It was less than an all-out effort, but Northland still routed a weak Itasca team 73-54 in Grand Rapids Saturday.

Northland led 46-20 at halftime.

Janelle Lorsung scored 20 points to lead the Pioneers.

Northland was 33-for-74 from the field (45 per cent) and 7-for-17 at the free throw line (41 per cent). Itasca was 23-for-58 from the field (40 per cent) and 8-for-25 at the line (32 per cent).

Prowlers Sink Lakers 112-56

Thief River Falls overwhelmed Detroit Lakes 112-56 Thursday in a one-sided boys high school dual swimming meet at the Franklin Middle School pool.

It was an impressive outing for the Prowlers, who came up with 20 career-best performances, seven seasonal-best efforts and had a Section 8 qualifier in Paul Glauque in the 100-yard backstroke.

"The guys pushed themselves hard," reported Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney. "They are starting to train with the intensity needed for continued improvement."

Rick Rosetta was a double-event winner for the Prowlers with a 59.32 in the 100-yard butterfly and a 24.62 in the 50-yard freestyle.

Thief River Falls also received individual first place finishes from Glauque, 2:14.79 in the 200-yard individual medley; Shon Thompson, 196.5 points in the diving competition; Keith Olson, 5:43.65 in the 500-yard freestyle; and Brian Schindler, 1:09.48 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Both relay races were also won by the Prowlers. Joe Drevlow, Rosetta, Schindler and Greg Dosser took the 200-yard medley relay in 1:52.38, while Todd Carlson, Olson, Glauque and Aaron Tofte won the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:49.95.

Jeff Nelson won a pair of events for Detroit Lakes, swimming the 200-yard freestyle in 1:56.31 and swimming the 100-yard freestyle in 52.55.

Thief River Falls ran its dual meet record to 5-1 with the Prowlers' second victory over the Lakers. Thief River Falls won a 51-32 dual meet decision at Detroit Lakes Jan. 6 where the Lakers' smaller pool reduced the Prowlers' depth advantage. Thief River Falls has dual meet assignments Tuesday at Fosston at 6 p.m. and Thursday at home against Moorhead at 5 p.m.

TRF, Crookston Feature Top Hockey Goalies

Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

A Tuesday night Thief River Falls-Crookston Section 8 high school hockey match-up at the Sports Arena could be an interesting game, featuring two of the top goalies in northwestern Minnesota in the Pirates' Todd Kreibich and the Prowlers' Shayne Anderson.

Crookston is carrying an impressive 13-3 season record, including a 3-2 Friday night win over Roseau. Thief River Falls is 6-9, but the Prowlers are coming off back-to-back wins over East Grand Forks and Moorehad last week. The Pirates won 4-2 when the two rivals met Jan. 13 in Crookston.

Hopefully the Thief River Falls student cheering section will clean up its act Tuesday night. Their tasteless chants during Moorhead's pre-game introductions and the tossing of the potatoes onto the ice gives the entire Thief River Falls community a bad reputation. City officials try to build up the city's image and school administrators try to promote good sportsmanship, but actions like those by the students Saturday night destroy those efforts in a hurry.

Moorhead Boys Upset

Moorhead boys suffered their first loss to a North Sub-Region 8AA high school basketball opponent Friday when Bemidji upset the visiting Spuds 66-52.

All five Bemidji starters hit double figures, led by Matt Swenson with 25 points — all in the second half. It was the Lumberjacks' finest effort of the 1986-87 season, according to Jim Carrington of the Bemidji Pioneer. The following night Bemidji fell below .500 again at 6-7 following a 67-47 loss to an 11-1 Staples team.

Moorhead is currently 3-1 against North Sub-Region 8AA opponents, followed by Fergus Falls at 2-1, Bemidji 2-2, Thief River Falls 1-2 and Detroit Lakes 1-3.

Fergus Falls beat Detroit Lakes 66-55 in a Tuesday meeting last week.

Remaining North Sub-Region 8AA match-ups include Thief River Falls at Fergus Falls Feb. 6; Bemidji at Thief River Falls Feb. 13; Detroit Lakes at Moorhead Feb. 14; Moorhead at Fergus Falls Feb. 20; and Fergus Falls at Bemidji Feb. 27.

Tournament play starts March 10, with a vote by the coaches, based primarily on the sub-region standings, determining the seeding positions.

Pirates Hold Off Prowlers For 47-44 Win

Thief River Falls lost a 47-44 boys high school basketball game to Crookston Friday. But it wasn't for lack of effort.

Already hurt by the absence of injured starting guard Chris Bjorgaard, the gutsy Prowlers, plagued by foul trouble almost from the very start, made a fourth quarter charge with a make-shift line-up that staggered the Pirates, but couldn't overtake the visitors, who collected their second narrow win of the 1986-87 season over their keenest athletic rival.

Crookston won 52-51 with a buzzer-beater when the two teams met three weeks earlier in Crookston. This time the Pirates won it at the free throws line. Thief River Falls out-scored Crookston 42-28 from the field, but the Pirates were a busy 19-for-34 at the line, while the Prowlers were just 2-for-4. For the first time in the seven years that head coach Tom Hunt and assistant coach Al Buhl have been together, recalled Buhl, the Prowlers never made it to the bonus opportunity.

It wasn't the officiating that was to blame, however. "Defensively we gave up the base line too much," explained Hunt. "We were in poor defensive position, and when you do that, you foul. The kids played hard defensively, but not smart."

Crookston led 25-20 at halftime by going 7-for-14 at the free throw line while Thief River Falls never had a single free throw opportunity.

There were three ties, and the lead changed hands 10 times in the early going until Crookston went on a 10-2 scoring spurt that carried the Pirates from a 16-15 deficit with 2:43 remaining in the first half to a 25-18 lead after a Steele Senske rebound basket with 39 seconds to go.

Chris Nelson's swisher from the side with two seconds left made it 25-20 at halftime as the Prowlers successfully worked the ball for a final shot.

But continued Thief River Falls foul trouble, coupled with some turnover problerms against a Crookston press and a 1-for-11 shooting effort in the third quarter produced a 34-23 lead for the Pirates to start the final eight minutes.

But that's when the full house on Band Night was treated to some real fun.

Thief River Falls converted its first four possessions of the fourth quarter into eight straight points, and had they been playing in North Dakota where the three-point shot is in effect at the high school level, they would have gotten 12 points out of the deal. Jarrod Kalsnes started it with back-to-back long range jumpers from the side. Then two unlikely shooters — starting guard Griff Newland, who scores little, but does almost everything else superbly, and reserve guard Jason Tangquist — both connected from the outside. Newland's shot caromed off the rim and fell back through the hoop, and Tangquist launched one from missile range that suddenly pulled the Prowlers within 34-31 with just 1:15 elapsed.

Crookston's Keith Lillquist interrupted the Thief River Falls gunnery with a free throw, only to have Kalsnes hit another one from long range to make it 35-33 with 5:41 still to play.

But that's as close as the Prowlers got. Ladd Knotek grabbed a rebound and scored on a drive to the basket, Dan Erdman made both ends of a bonus free throw opportunity and Senske found the back door wide open as the Pirates worked the clock to rebuild the Crookston lead with 41-33 with 3:47 remaining.

The never-say-die Prowlers, who had Nelson and center Brian Stark on the bench with five fouls apiece, Bjorgaard out of the line-up because an ankle hurt earlier this month is still bothering him, and Kalsnes out temporarily because of a slight injury, still hung tough while playing Newland (the only true starter still on the court), Tangquist, Todd Solsten, Tom Knoff and sophomore Ryan Walseth, a varsity newcomer. Their combined scoring average wouldn't hit double figures, yet Newland came up with a steal and a fast break lay-up, and got another basket on a drive that made it a still-catchable 45-41 with 1:04 on the clock.

By this time Hunt was busy shuffling personnel in and out of the game to fit the situations — using Nelson and Stark (and their ten fouls) when the Prowlers went on offense, then quickly taking them out when their defense might have produced a sixth personal foul, resulting in a technical foul and Crookston ball possession to boot.

Senske made two free throws on a 1-and-1 situation with 55 seconds to go in a 47-41 game, and that was enough to offset a free throw by Newland, and a rebound basket by Kalsnes when Newland missed his second attempt with nine seconds showing.

That finished the scoring at 47-44 as Crookston missed three free throws in the final two seconds.

"The kids played with a lot of heart and desire," noted Hunt. "They have nothing to be ashamed of. We got in foul trouble, and that obviously hurt. They played hard, but they just didn't seem to get many breaks."

Senske, a 6-4 junior, led all scorers with 22 points. Keith Lillquist, a 5-11 senior, had 11. Kalsnes, a 6-2 senior, had 12 points for the Prowlers, while Nelson, a 6-4 junior, netted 10.

Thief River Falls was 21-for-51 from the field (41 per cent). Crookston was 14-for-33 (42 per cent). The Prowlers had a 26-23 rebound edge, with both sides getting 11 offensive boards. Thief River Falls had a slight 15-14 lead in the turnover department, too.

Crookston went to 9-3 with the win. Thief River Falls fell to 8-6. The Prowlers will wait until Friday to play again, visiting Fergus Falls that night.

Nordics Stop Rams 50-40

A first place tie atop the North Border Conference girls high school basketball standings was broken Thursday when Marshall County Central beat Roseau 50-40 in front of a large, enthusiastic crowd at Newfolden.

Jodi Foss, a 5-6 senior who leads the conference scoring charts, sparked the Nordics to their 11th straight win with a 17-point effort despite receiving heavy defensive coverage. "It was one of her best games all season," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, whose team hasn't lost since dropping a season-opening 43-40 decision to unbeaten Class AA Thief River Falls.

Foss was one of three Marshall County Central scorers in double figures. Andrea Kragness, a 5-9 junior, netted 13 and Kelli Anderson, a 5-9 sophomore, turned in a strong 12-point performance. Sara Huglen, a 5-5 senior guard, led Roseau with 12 points.

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 11-5, 27-15 and 37-29. Roseau managed to pull within five points midway through the fourth quarter, but the Nordics held off the Rams with some strong free throw shooting.

"We shot by far the best we have at the free throw line all year," pointed out Mjelde, who watched the Nordics sink 14 of 22 gift tosses (63 per cent). "We spend a lot of time at practice on free throws, but we've been struggling (at the line) all year. I kept telling the girls that same day we would be in a close game where we would need those free throws. We made some clutch free throws at the end."

Foss came up with four fourth quarter free throws in her 17-point performance that put Marshall County Central in control down the stretch.

Roseau was 4-for-12 at the line (33 per cent). Both sides made 18 field goals, but the Nordics were 18-for-50 (36 per cent) and the Rams were 18-for-62 (29 per cent). A strong rebounding team, Marshall County Central was beaten on the boards for the first time this year, 32-28, but Roseau also had more turnovers, 21-18.

"Roseau has a big, physical ball club," pointed out Mjelde. "It was a physical game. There was a big crowd, and it was a lot of fun."

Marshall County Central was scheduled to visit Grygla tonight (Monday). The Nordics host Middle River Thursday.

The Spartans' B team lost to Climax 57-27, but beat East Grand Forks 22-20 for third place. # Moorhead JV Is Winner Over TRF

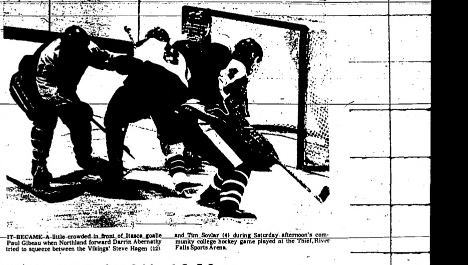
Moorhead scored four times in the first period en route to a 6-1 junior varsity high school hockey win over Thief River Falls Saturday.

It was 5-0 after two periods. The teams traded third goals, with Grant Larson scoring for Thief River Falls.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 4-8-2.

A LOOSE BALL was grabbed by Thief River Falls' Jarrod Kalsnes before Crookston's Corwyn Sondrol could gain possession during Friday's high school basketball game played in the Lincoln gym. Jason Tangquist (right) and Brian Stark (53) of the Prowlers looked on. The Pirates held off a fourth quarter Thief River Falls rally to win.



IT BECAME A little crowded in front of Itasca goalie Paul Gibeau when Northland forward Darrin Abernathy tried to squeeze between the Vikings' Steve Hagen (12) and Tim Sovlar (4) during Saturday afternoon's community college hockey game played at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

Itasca Sweeps Northland

Northland, sailing along with a 9-1 record in the Minnesota Community College Conference, tumbled out of a first place tie in the league standings by dropping both ends of a weekend series to Itasca at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

The Vikings from Grand Rapids won 6-3 Friday night, and followed up with a 5-2 victory in a Saturday matinee.

It was an unexpected jolt to the Pioneers, but Northland coach Scott Bergland is hoping it's just a temporary setback. "We're disappointed, naturally," acknowledged Bergland, "but we can't let it get us down. There's still a lot of season left. If we win our next four games, we'll still win the league title."

Northland, 13-5 overall, has a pair of regular season games left against both the University of Minnesota-Crookston and Mesabi. The Pioneers will be in Crookston Wednesday for a 7:30 p.m. confrontation with the rival Trojans, and will host Mesabi in a Friday night, Saturday afternoon series this coming weekend before completing the schedule with a Monday, February 9, weather-postponed make-up game at home against UMC.

"We just have to suck it up," said Bergland. "We definitely have the ability to win it."

Bergland said the Pioneers didn't play that badly even in losing twice to the Vikings. "Friday we played hard; we played with a lot of intensity," he noted. "Today (Saturday) we migh have been off a little, but I still can't argue with our effort. They (Itasca) got some fluke goals on us in both games."

Itasca . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 6

Northland's Steve Wiskow scored first, giving the Pioneers a 1-0 lead at 4:43 of the first period, but Itasca stormed back with a four-goal flurry in a five-minute span of the first period that sparked the Vikings to a 6-3 Friday night win.

Keith Miller made it 1-1 at 6:31 to start the scoring barrage that also included goals by Steve Anderson at 7:11, Ron Holum at 9:49 and Jim Troumbly at 11:27.

Steve Mahoney cut the gap to 4-2 at 15:26 of the first period, but the Pioneers could get no closer. The teams swapped second period goals, with Bill Kinnunen giving Itasca a 5-2 lead just 36 seconds into the period, and Chad Bottem answering that one at 8:45 to keep Northland within 5-3.

Only goal of the third period, though, went to Itasca's Rick Nelson at 18:33.

Itasca spotted Northland another 1-0 headstart before taking over Saturday, winning 5-2 to complete the weekend sweep.

Al Erickson tipped in a nice set-up in front from Chad Bottem to give Northland a short-lived lead at 1:42.

Tim Eppel tied it with a quick rebound shot at 2:52 and Itasca took a 2-1 lead on a shorthanded goal by Tom Cusey at 16:20 when he picked up a rebound — off the leg of a Northland defenseman.

Rick Nelson walked around a Northland defenseman and slipped the puck under goalie Kurt Chaffee for a 3-1 lead at 10:07 of the second period, and the back-breaking goal came with just 11 seconds left in the period when Steve Anderson's boomer on the move sailed past Chaffee as both sides skated a man short.

That made it 4-1. A power play goal by Epple at 12:18 made it 5-1 as the slow-moving game came out of a pile of players in front of the Northland net and slipped across the goal line.

A 4-on-3 Northland power play produced a goal for Northland's Stacy Monkman, but with just five seconds left.

First period — NCC, Al Erickson (Chad Bottem-Steve Ristau), 1:42; ICC, Tim Epple (Keith Miller-Tom Cusey), 2:52; ICC, Cusey (Miller), 16:20.

Thief River Falls' 16-0 season record will be put to a test Tuesday when the Prowlers travel to Bemidji. The Prowlers will also be facing Crookston, East Grand Forks and Greenbush before closing out the regular season schedule with what could be a first place match-up against Fergus Falls Feb. 20 in the Lincoln High School gym.

Pioneers 4-2 Winner Over Fergus Falls

Chad Bottem scored two of Northland's three third period goals Wednesday as the Pioneers won a 4-2 Minnesota Community College Conference hockey game at Fergus Falls.

It was the sixth straight win for the Pioneers, and it extended the Spartans' losing streak to 12 games.

Steve Wiskow gave Northland a 1-0 first period lead. Fergus Falls' Brian Galley tied it at 1-1 in the second period.

Bottem made it 2-1 just 49 seconds into the third period, but it was 2-2 less than two minutes later on a goal by the Spartans' Erin Kerr.

Defenseman Bill Desrocher got the tie-breaker on a power play at 9:49 and Bottem added an insurance goal at 12:16.

Scoring

First period — NCC, Steve Wiskow (Russ Cagnoni), 11:42.

Second period — FF, Brian Galley (Paul Bukovich), 10:09.

Third period — NCC, Chad Bottem (Bill Desrocher-Wiskow), :49; FF, Erin Kerr (un.), 2:18; NCC, Desrocher (Steve Ristau-Joe Blankenfeld), 9:49; NCC, Bottem (un.), 12:16.

TRF Curling Leagues

Thursday night Mixed Curling League wrapped up mid-season play last week with the Flaten-Marben team hanging on to first place and their undefeated record (4-0) by skipping past the team of Weigand-Rau. Also remaining undefeated with a 3-0 record was the Larson-Antonenko team which hammered the team of Sugden-Langland.

In other action Thursday night it was Ault-Jorde sweeping over Twomey-Heinrich and Ihle-Delorme taking out Seaverson-Krepp.

CROOKSTON DEFENDER Corwyn Sondrol took a tumble as he tried to stop Thief River Falls guard Griff Newland from going to the basket during Friday's boys high school basketball game played here. Newland sparked a fourth quarter Thief River Falls rally, but the comeback fell short in a 47-44 loss to the Pirates.

Pioneers Split Basketball Games

Even with a 25-point loss to Itasca Saturday afternoon, it was a successful weekend for the Northland Community College men's basketball team, according to Pioneers coach Chet Engelman.

That's because Northland outscored Northwest Division foe Brainerd 100-81 Friday night before losing the 94-69 Saturday afternoon decision to No. 1-rated Itasca, the Northeast Division leader. And helping to ease the sting of the one-sided loss at Grand Rapids was the fact that Northwest Division rival University of Minnesota-Crookston lost both ends of the same weekend road trip. The Trojans fell to Itasca 97-83 Friday, and dropped an unexpected 82-75 decision at Brainerd Saturday.

That puts Fergus Falls atop the Northwest Division standings with a 4-0 record, followed by Northland at 5-1, UMC 4-3 and Brainerd 2-5.

"It came out fine," said Engelman in talking about the weekend results that left Northland 10-7 overall. There will be two key Northwest Division match-ups this week, with UMC hosting Fergus Falls Tuesday and entertaining Northland Thursday. Two losses would eliminate the defending state champion Trojans from the 1987 Minnesota Community College Conference state basketball tournament, featuring the top two finishers in each of the MCCC's four statewide divisions.

"We played pretty well," said Engelman following the win over Brainerd. "We had a few spots where we let down, but overall we played pretty well."

Itasca simply lived up to its billing as the top-ranked team in the MCCC, according to Engelman. "There's a difference in getting beat and losing," he explained. "We got beat. They did everything right. I've been here 17 years, and we've had some good teams, and I've seen all the rest of them. But I don't know who would have beat Itasca the way they played against us."

Northland . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 100
Brainerd . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 81

A three-point field goal by Greg Campbell broke an early 6-6 tie and gave Northland a lead the Pioneers never surrendered in a 100-81 win at Brainerd.

Northland enjoyed a 55-34 cushion with 2½ minutes left in the first half before surrendering 11 straight points for a 55-45 halftime score. Brainerd got within 79-73 with seven minutes left in the game, but Northland answered with a run of seven straight points to put it out of reach.

Campbell finished with a game-high 26 points. Anthony McCullough had a 15-point, 15-rebound game, while Ray Davis netted 13 points and Randy Hargest 11. Juan Farmer led Brainerd with 22 points.

Northland shot well, going 43-for-77 from the field (56 per cent) and 11-for-16 at the free throw line (69 per cent). Brainerd was 30-for-60 from the field (50 per cent) and 21-for-28 at the line (75 per cent) in another solid shooting performance. But Northland had a 43-31 rebound advantage, and Brainerd had more turnovers, 24-19.

Itasca led from start to finish Saturday afternoon in beating Northland soundly, 94-69.

The Vikings started with a 9-0 lead, had a 17-4 cushion and a 32-12 spread following four consecutive three-point shots. It was 55-33 at halftime.

The near-perfect Itasca performance included a 40-for-75 shooting effort from the field (53 per cent). The Vikings were a mere mortal 8-for-18 at the free throw line (44 per cent). Northland was 30-for-72 from the field (42 per cent) and 7-for-14 at the line (50 per cent).

Anthony McCullough had 14 points and 12 rebounds for the Pioneers, with John Honek contributing 10 points. Donald Thompson led Itasca with 27 points.

Northland had a 45-44 rebound edge, but also led the turnover department, 16-10.

Crookston Beats Freshmen 42-21

Offensive shortcomings produced a 42-21 loss Thursday for Thief River Falls in a freshman high school basketball game at Crookston.

Crookston had quarter leads of 16-6, 20-9 and 37-14.

Jason Kempert and Brian Deckers both scored 6 points to lead Thief River Falls' modest offensive figures.

Thief River Falls, 5-7, will be in Newfolden Tuesday to face Marshall County Central in a 7:15 p.m. game.

Final Shot Beats Grygla 51-49

Grygla trailed just once the entire game, but unfortunately for the visiting Eagles it came at the final buzzer as Lake of the Woods came up with a 51-49 North Border Conference boys high school basketball win at Baudette.

The Bears' Tony Trueman won it with a desperation 25-foot throw as he fell down under heavy cover at the horn, breaking a 49-49 tie.

It was a tough loss for the Eagles, who led at the quarter stops 17-9, 31-23 and 43-37. But Grygla went the final 2:19 of the fourth quarter without a point to fall to 6-5 for the year.

"We didn't play real well," admitted Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "We're disappointed. We felt we could have played better. We didn't attack the basket in the second half. When you play not to lose instead of playing to win, you lose."

Thor Smerek of Grygla led all scorers with 20 points. Teammate Reed Engelstad had 14. Freshman Eric Krouss led Lake of the Woods with 14 points. David Beyer added 11 and Trueman hit double figures with 10 by making that last shot.

Shooting figures were similar. Grygla was 23-for-54 from the field (43 per cent) and Lake of the Woods was 22-for-56 (39 per cent). But the Eagles were just 3-for-10 at the free throw line (30 per cent), where the Bears were 7-for-11 (64 per cent). Grygla had a 24-21 rebound edge. The Eagles had 12 turnovers, and the Bears had 8.

Climax . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 74
Plummer . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 59

Plummer doubled its offensive production in the fourth quarter, but it wasn't enough to overcome three quarters of sub-par offense as the Cardinals lost a 74-59 Friday night game at Climax.

The Vikings jumped out to a 20-9 first quarter lead, had a 37-22 halftime cushion and opened up a 55-29 third quarter spread. Plummer came up with a 30-point fourth quarter to bring the final back to respectability.

Plummer's third loss in 11 starts took some of the shine off a 40-point scoring show by Shane Freyholtz and an 11-point, 19-rebound effort by Wade Grinde. Jim Landgaard led a balanced Climax attack with 19 points.

"We faced a team that wanted to win, and we played like a team trying not to lose," explained Plummer coach Jim Baron. "We played too tentatively. We tried to be too fine."

Plummer was 23-for-59 from the field (79 per cent) and 13-for-19 at the free throw line (68 per cent). Climax was 27-for-61 from the field (44 per cent) and 20-for-35 at the line (57 per cent). Plummer had a 49-40 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 24-14.

The Cardinals will be at Red Lake Falls Friday.

MCC . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 35

Marshall County Central's offense was short-circuited by turnovers and Warroad's shot-blocking defense Friday as the Nordics lost a 51-35 North Border Conference start.

Host Warroad had a 10-6 quarter lead, maintained a 19-15 halftime edge and pulled away to a 36-20 third quarter advantage.

Two things did the Nordics in, according to Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland — 23 turnovers and Warroad's shot-blocking ability, led by 6-6 Tim Fast. "Tim Fast is a great shot-blocker," pointed out Ueland. "We just couldn't get any offense going. They were in a zone, and we didn't pass the ball very well against it."

Middle River . . . . . . . . . . . . 44

Marshall County Central broke open a close game midway through the third quarter Saturday to collect a 64-44 win over rival Middle River at Newfolden.

Middle River had a 14-8 first quarter lead. It was tied 22-22 at halftime, but Marshall County Central out-scored Middle River 40-22 in the second half — a 20-11 scoring edge in both the third and fourth quarters.

"We did a nice job defensively," reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We couldn't hit anything early in the game, but the kids sucked it up. They hung in there defensively, and the offense finally started to roll."

Darin Rokke of Marshall County Central led all scorers with 27 points, but the Nordics got key scoring from Lee Pemberton and Kelly Dahl in the second quarter to turn the tide. They both had six points that quarter, finishing with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Bradley Kilen led Middle River with 18 points, including a 10-point first quarter. "Kilen was unstoppable in the first quarter," said Ueland. Tom Gullikson added 14 points to the Middle River total.

Marshall County Central charts showed the Nordics 23-for-53 from the field (43 per cent), and Middle River 16-for-39 (41 per cent). Marshall County Central was a productive 20-for-28 at the free throw line (71 per cent), where Middle River was 11-for-18 (61 per cent). The Nordics had a 25-24 rebound edge, and the Skippers doubled the Nordics' turnover figures, 24-12.

Two Cases Receive Sentencing In District Court

Two cases scheduled on the courtroom log in Pennington county district court received sentencing Monday. Judge Warren A. Saetre announced sentencing of Lynn Tjolsen of Bagley and Kevin L. Gerholdt of Thief River Falls.

In Minnesota vs. Lynn Tjolsen of Bagley, for vehicle driver under the influence and driving after suspension, Tjolsen was sentenced to one year in jail and $1,000 plus costs. Of that sentence, $500 and eight months of the jail term was suspended. Count two, driving after suspension, was dismissed. Paul Ihle, represented the state in prosecution and Dennis Murphy, public defender, represented the defendant.

In Minnesota vs. Kevin L. Gerholdt of Thief River Falls, for theft over $250, imposition of a sentence was stayed five years on condition set forth in his probation. Terms of the probation include compliance with all terms and conditions of probation set with commissioner of corrections, restitution, cooperation with police officers, and payment of a $350 fine and costs.

The organization also re-elected vice president Dr. John Seaverson, and secretary-treasurer Gene Beito, who is president of Northern State Bank.

City Council Addresses Proposed Street Projects

City council took a wait and see attitude on proposed street and utility improvements in Thief River Falls for next summer at a special meeting called Tuesday afternoon. The council discussed the possible problems and decided to find out what residents in affected areas thought.

Public hearings on the proposed projects will be held on the several projects. Phase III construction this summer consists of bituminous overlay on about 104 blocks located mostly in the fourth ward. Don Barron is fourth ward alderman.

In addition to construction in the fourth ward, selected sites are targeted for water main replacement and repairs, wastewear system repairs, and storm sewer repairs. Other streets targeted for construction include fourth street and Markley avenue, Greenwood street west of highway 32, Greenwood street east of highway 32 to sixth street.

Council members were especially concerned with the status of funds available on state aid streets. Each year funds are allocated to municipalities in Minnesota. A city can choose to use it for construction or not at all. If the city does not use it for construction, the fund is reduced which amounts to a penalty for not using it. "It is in the best interest of the city to use those funds," according to Ron Lindberg, Stewart and Walker representative to the city who prepared the 1987 street and utilities improvement proposal.

Total estimated 1987 street resurfacing and utility improvement costs are estimated at $487,100. Some of that costs may be offset by municipal-state aid street funds.

The city's Minnesota state aid construction fund balance as of December 31, 1986, was $404,347.67 with an additional 1987 allotment of $173,724 bringing the total construction funds available to approximately $578,000. These funds must be used or contributions by the state to the fund will be cut back. For those reasons, Lindberg and city council members added several streets to the 1987 project.

The addition adds more cost to the project than is available in funds from the state, but city council members fully expect that cuts will be made during the hearing process.

Lindberg recommended that the project, which was scheduled for either 1987 or 1988, be done this year because the price of oil is relatively low. Lindberg said streets planned for bituminous overlay are also scheduled because they are in need of repair and the last time they were seriously worked on was in 1965.

Mayor Bob Carlson and other members of the council were concerned with the condition of other streets in the community such as Third street and First street. Lindberg said he researched the background of First street and discovered it is a county street and the county should be responsible for maintenance and repair.

Councilmen were concerned about project financing and assessments. It was clairified at the meeting that $110,700 had been set aside for utility repair. Lindberg noted in his report that it seemed to be the policy of the city to at least recover 50 per cent of the estimated project cost. He said it appears that an equitable assessment rate would be $6 per square foot, which would recover 54 per cent of the resurfacing costs.

No apparent assessment rate seemed to be agreed upon, and the council requested that more research be done. Public hearings on the proposed areas will be announced at later dates.

Two Charged In Thefts At Penn. Co. Pioneer Village

After an ivestigation by Pennington county sheriff's department, two men are being charged with third degree burglary for the theft of several valuable items from the Pennington county Pioneer village in Thief River Falls.

Mark Brown, 22, Akeley, MN, and Charles Bishop, 24, Thief River Falls, will be charged with third degree burglary, according to police investigator Dennis Kiesow. Kiesow said however, that the two men remain in custody at two different county jails on different charges.

Brown and Sheridan Dale Chastek are being held in a Crookston regional correctional center jail cell in connection with a burglary at Dodd's Drug store in Red Lake Falls. Chastek, 22, Cass Lake, escaped from custody recently when he hit a deputy with a wrench.

Chastek was later captured with the assistance of an airplane, a Grand Forks canine patrol, Minnesota state patrol, Red Lake county sheriff's department and several local citizens. Chastek is being charged with seven violations. He is being charged with first degree burglary, two counts of second degree burglary, assault in the second degree, assault in the fourth degree, escape from custody, and obstructing legal process or arrest. Brown is being charged with two counts of second degree burglary.

Charles Bishop is charged with a burglary in Marshall county along with Darrin Dale Bentow, 20, and Jeffrey Thomas Matson, 21, both of Thief River Falls. Bishop is being held in a Marshall county jail on $10,000 bail. He is charged with third degree burglary steming from an incident on January 3, in which it is claimed he entered a shed on the Erling Hegg residence and took some property. He is also charged with three other counts, burglary in the second degree, burglary in the third degree and felony theft, which stem from an incident at the Erling Hegg residence in Marshall county also, but on January 25.

Brown is charged with burglary along with Bentow and Matson — all charges stem from incidents at the Erling Hegg residence.

Kiesow reported that not all items taken during the burglary at the Pennington county Pioneer village have been recovered. Some of the items were recovered from gun dealers in Fargo and Bemidji.

Pennington county prosecutor Dave Olin said the two individuals will be charged but he does not know when they will be able to take them to court because they are being held in different counties. Olin said as of this date a pistol, a whistle, a stone pipe and a come-along restraining device have been recovered.

The stolen items, though not entirely recovered, included eight long guns manufactured prior to 1900, three handguns, three swords, five Indian beaded ceremonial robes, Indian artifacts including peace pipes and a collection of Soo Line investigator's equipment including handcuffs and other items.

Gastric Bypass Patients Forming Support Group

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"Being fat is painful," agree four Thief River Falls residents who have shed excess weight following gastric bypass surgery. They also agree that surgery is a course of last resort after other weight loss efforts have failed, but all would have it done again under the same circumstances.

The four people — Mr. and Mrs. Danie Packard, Nancy LaBar and Kathleen Rux — agreed to be interviewed because of their interest in further developing the Thief River Falls gastric bypass support group which has been meeting informally for about three years. An informational meeting for all those interested is scheduled for Monday, February 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the CNC chapel of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

"We knew there were many more people who had this surgery and who were likely experiencing some of the same things we were," Mrs. Rux said. "All of us had our surgery done by Dr. L. Michael Howell of the Fargo Clinic. We asked him to send out letters about the meeting for us to those of his patients within a 40-mile radius of Thief River Falls. He said he sent out 78 letters."

It is the intention of the support group to allow its members to remain anonymous if they prefer. The meeting February 16 is intended for those who have had the surgery, their families or friends, or persons interested in or feeling a need for such surgery. Area medical staff members are being invited. Coffee (but probably no cookies) will be available.

Dr. Howell is considered the expert at gastric bypass surgery in the United States. He has performed more than 2,000 surgeries without losing a patient, Mrs. Rux said, and will not perform the surgery unless the patient has been unsuccessful in other weight loss efforts.

In a publication proving information for patients regarding surgery for extreme obesity, Dr. Howell describes the gastric bypass procedure as follows:

"...the upper 10 per cent of stomach is permanently partitioned with staples from the lower 90 per cent. Thus, the lower 90 per cent of the stomach is permanently bypassed. The upper 10 per cent of the stomach is the new small stomach, and to this the proximal small bowel is sutured. The sutured opening is intentionally made small (less than one-half inch in diameter) so that the stomach does not empty rapidly. The bypassed lower stomach continues to secrete juices which aid in digestion of the food in the small bowel."

In 600 cases studied at the time the instructions were printed, three to four per cent of the cases developed ulcers. In 40 per cent occasional iron pills were needed and in many cases sweets caused nausea. An average of 35 to 40 per cent of preoperative weight was successfully lost — for example, a 280-pound person would lose 98 to 112 pounds.

All of the local persons interviewed cautioned that the bypass surgery is not a cure-all, but that it gives the person an opportunity to change his or her eating habits.

"It gives you breathing room to make adjustments," explained Danie Packard, who has lost 98 pounds since his surgery last April. "There may be problems or hazards resulting from the surgery, but they are no greater than the problems or hazards of being seriously overweight and perhaps less," he said.

Danie, age 32, is an adult farm management instructor at the Thief River Falls AVTI and former vocational agriculture instructor at Lincoln high school. He said his motivation for having the surgery was weight gain of a quarter to half a pound a week up to 255 pounds. He is five-foot, six-and-one-half inches tall.

"I have members of my family who are overweight and all have had borderline diabetes problems, hypertension or heart problems," he said. "I couldn't lose weight even when I had my mind set to do it. I didn't look forward to the surgery, but I felt it was necessary for me. If I had to do it again, I would do it again."

Packard went from 255 pounds prior to his surgery to 157 pounds at the present time and has a goal of 145 to 150 pounds. He was back at work a week after surgery.

His wife Lynda, age 34, was carrying 255 pounds on her five foot, three

AMONG THE ORGANIZERS of a Thief River Falls gastric by-pass support group are these local residents who have experienced the surgery and resultant weight loss. Left to right in the photo above are Nancy LaBar, whose weight went from 213 pounds to 116 pounds; Kathleen Rux, who went from 240 to 160; Lynda Packard, who went from 255 to 143 pounds in nine months; and Danie Packard, whose weight went from 255 to 157. Individual photos above (left to right) are of Nancy, Kathleen and Lynda prior to their gastric by-pass surgery. Persons wanting more information about a support group may call any of the above or attend a meeting scheduled for Monday, February 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the CNC chapel of Northwest Medical services.

"Being fat is painful," agree four Thief River Falls residents who have shed excess weight following gastric bypass surgery. They also agree that surgery is a course of last resort after other weight loss efforts have failed, but all would have it done again under the same circumstances.

The four people — Mr. and Mrs. Danie Packard, Nancy LaBar and Kathleen Rux — agreed to be interviewed because of their interest in further developing the Thief River Falls gastric bypass support group which has been meeting informally for about three years. An informational meeting for all those interested is scheduled for Monday, February 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the CNC chapel of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

"We knew there were many more people who had this surgery and who were likely experiencing some of the same things we were," Mrs. Rux said. "All of us had our surgery done by Dr. L. Michael Howell of the Fargo Clinic. We asked him to send out letters about the meeting for us to those of his patients within a 40-mile radius of Thief River Falls. He said he sent out 78 letters."

It is the intention of the support group to allow its members to remain anonymous if they prefer. The meeting February 16 is intended for those who have had the surgery, their families or friends, or persons interested in or feeling a need for such surgery. Area medical staff members are being invited. Coffee (but probably no cookies) will be available.

Dr. Howell is considered the expert at gastric bypass surgery in the United States. He has performed more than 2,000 surgeries without losing a patient, Mrs. Rux said, and will not perform the surgery unless the patient has been unsuccessful in other weight loss efforts.

In a publication proving information for patients regarding surgery for extreme obesity, Dr. Howell describes the gastric bypass procedure as follows:

"...the upper 10 per cent of stomach is permanently partitioned with staples from the lower 90 per cent. Thus, the lower 90 per cent of the stomach is permanently bypassed. The upper 10 per cent of the stomach is the new small stomach, and to this the proximal small bowel is sutured. The sutured opening is intentionally made small (less than one-half inch in diameter) so that the stomach does not empty rapidly. The bypassed lower stomach continues to secrete juices which aid in digestion of the food in the small bowel."

In 600 cases studied at the time the instructions were printed, three to four per cent of the cases developed ulcers. In 40 per cent occasional iron pills were needed and in many cases sweets caused nausea. An average of 35 to 40 per cent of preoperative weight was successfully lost — for example, a 280-pound person would lose 98 to 112 pounds.

All of the local persons interviewed cautioned that the bypass surgery is not a cure-all, but that it gives the person an opportunity to change his or her eating habits.

"It gives you breathing room to make adjustments," explained Danie Packard, who has lost 98 pounds since his surgery last April. "There may be problems or hazards resulting from the surgery, but they are no greater than the problems or hazards of being seriously overweight and perhaps less," he said.

Danie, age 32, is an adult farm management instructor at the Thief River Falls AVTI and former vocational agriculture instructor at Lincoln high school. He said his motivation for having the surgery was weight gain of a quarter to half a pound a week up to 255 pounds. He is five feet, six and one-half inches tall.

"I have members of my family who are overweight and all have had borderline diabetes problems, hypertension or heart problems," he said. "I couldn't lose weight even when I had my mind set to do it. I didn't look forward to the surgery, but I felt it was necessary for me. If I had to do it again, I would do it again."

Packard went from 255 pounds prior to his surgery to 157 pounds at the present time and has a goal of 145 to 150 pounds. He was back at work a week after surgery.

His wife Lynda, age 34, was carrying 235 pounds on her five foot, three

Scouting Is Well And Growing Says District Leader

Scouting is well and growing in Thief River Falls, according to Art Heinze, District Roundtable commissioner. There are nearly 300 Tiger cubs, Cub scouts, Boy scouts and scout leaders involved in six packs and troops. The packs and troops are sponsored by churches in Thief River Falls. Two explorer posts are being reorganized.

Pack and Troop 57 are sponsored by St. Bernard's Catholic church with Bill Fogarty serving as cubmaster and Jerome Cota as scoutmaster. Allen Rux is cubmaster for Pack 59 and Jim Giles is scoutmaster for Troop 59, sponsored by Zion Lutheran church. Pack and Troop 199 are sponsored by St. John Lutheran church with Rocky Wilson serving as cubmaster and Jim Fisher as scoutmaster.

If anyone is interested in joining Cub scouts or Boy scouts, they may call one of the above leaders. Tiger cubs is for first graders. This is a new program which is family centered where the Tiger cub and parents meet one time per month with their assigned Tiger cub group. Each parent takes a turn to host a monthly meeting.

Cub scouts meet weekly with their den leader and participate in a monthly pack meeting where each den does something special for the pack meeting. Boy scouts meet weekly with their troop or patrol to learn, practice and participate in various scouting skills and activities.

The troops and packs will be having special activities, events and displays during February, scouting's anniversary month. Some of the special events planned are window displays, Blue and Gold banquets, troop open house, winter camporee at Park Rapids, courts of honor, family sliding party at Old Mill state park on Sunday, February 15, good turn projects and food stands at the snowmobile races.

On behalf of all the scouts and volunteers, Heinze expressed his appreciation to the United Way, sustaining members and all businesses, individuals, service clubs, churches and organizations which support scouting.

The scouting program is provided to Thief River Falls and the surrounding area by Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America. Northern Lights council is made up scout units in North Dakota, two counties in Montana and South Dakota, and 16 counties in NW Minnesota. Myron Barnes from the Grand Forks scout office is serving Voyageur Trails district as interim district executive. Dr. Al Nichols of Thief River Falls is a board member of Northern Lights council.

Presently there is a need for a volunteer to serve as scoutmaster for Troop 63 which was operated by the Falls Day Activity center. If anyone knows of a male adult 21 or older, please contact Art Heinze at 681-1624. There is a special program for handicapped scouts and training would be provided to the volunteer leaders.

Workshops Help Schools Develop Tobacco Policies

American Lung association of Minnesota and Minnesota department of education have teamed up to sponsor workshops throughout the state which will assist schools to develop policies that discourage tobacco use on school property.

"These workshops are planned because most Minnesota school districts are currently involved in intensive efforts to prevent young people from starting to use cigarettes and chewing tobacco," said Pat Kasell from the American Lung association of Minnesota. It is very important that staff and visitors — as well as students — not be allowed to smoke, if we are to provide a healthy working and learning environment at school."

Gretchen Griffin, tobacco use prevention specialist at the Minnesota department of education, describes the workshops as an opportunity to implement a tobacco free policy in their school district. "Tobacco use is the number one cause of preventable deaths and is not consistent with the mission of education to develop the maximum potential to lead a productive life," Griffin stated.

Workshops are scheduled for: February 18, Marshall; February 26, Rochester; April 2, St. Cloud; April 9, Twin Cities; April 23, Bemidji; and April 30, Virginia. For information, contact Gretchen Griffin (612-296-9327) or Pat Kasell (1-800-642-LUNG).

Gastric Bypass Patients Farming Support Groups

inch frame when she had gastric bypass surgery in November of 1983. A day care provider in her home, Lynda said she had tried every diet she was aware existed and her weight never stayed off.

"It was really hard for me to eat less," she said. "I had a hearty appetite and I never seemed satisfied when on a diet. I used to like ice cream, but now it is one of the foods I can't tolerate after surgery. Each person has different tolerances."

Lynda said she was in the hospital a week following surgery, which is about normal for major surgery. Her food intake was recommended to be 800 calories, and she now has to stay at about 1,100 calories to maintain her weight. While she dropped from 255 to 143 pounds in nine months, she gained weight with her next pregnancy and is now at about 160 pounds.

Kathleen Rux, also a family day care provider and representative for Providers Choice, Inc., is 39 years of age and had her surgery in July of 1985. She weighed 240 pounds at the time and now weighs 160. She lost the 80 pounds in about six months but has had difficulty with additional weight loss. Her goal is to lose another 25 pounds through diet and exercise.

Kathleen said she was heavy all her life, weighing over 200 pounds as a teenager. Through dieting she had lost as much as 70 pounds, but the weight always seemed to return. After reaching about the age of 30 she found that even dieting seemed to be ineffective for weight loss.

"I had been putting on about 10 pounds a year for three years before my surgery and I was worried about my health," she explained. "One day I met a woman at the swimming beach by the river whose name was also Kathleen, and I overheard her talking about the surgery. She was slim and was commenting about how she was treated differently since she lost weight."

It was from that chance meeting that Kathleen became interested in gastric bypass surgery and eventually had the procedure performed.

Nancy LaBar of Thief River Falls, age 36, is orginally from California but has lived here several years. She is a single parent with three children living here and works part time at the Ripley shelter.

"My maximum weight was probably about 225 pounds," she said, "but I weighed 213 when I went into the hospital for surgery on Oct. 25, 1985. It went really well for me. I left the hospital a day earlier than usual and walked around town paying some bills the day I got home. It seemed I had a lot of energy and I went square dancing and took part in other vigorous activity the week I came home."

Nancy now weighs 116 poinds and says the weight loss has greatly helped her self-esteem and attitude. She is very conscious of the types of foods she eats and experienced one of the problems most bypass patients have — learning to slow down, chew food well and adjust to eating right.

"I tried a lot of ways to lose weight in California," she said. "I even had my jaws wired for about six weeks. I would eat burritos by taking little pieces and pushing them through a gap in my teeth. When the wires broke I just never went back to have the jaws re-wired."

Nobody knows for sure how the surgery will affect a person's overall health or longevity, but the four people interviewed said they know of those who had the surgery 12 or 15 years ago and appear to be doing fine. They said the surgery and hospitalization cost between $3,500 and $6,000, but if the person is at least 100 pounds overweight it is usually covered by medical insurance policies.

Those interviewed said they had to make adjustments in their eating habits, but the adjustments were toward the practices which everyone could benefit from following. They also said they experienced positive personality changes, became more outgoing and gained confidence in themselves.

"I think it's great," Nancy LaBar said. "My children tell me I can put on anything and look like I'm in style."

Persons interested in learning more about the procedure or seeking support or answers to questions may contact any of the people mentioned or attend the February 16 meeting. Telephone numbers are: Danie and Lynda Packard, 681-6664; Kathleen Rux, 681-3122; and Nancy LaBar, 681-8066.

Effort Made To Prevent Diabetic Health Problems

A new effort to prevent health problems in persons with diabetes is now underway in Minnesota.

Jointly sponsored by the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and the Minnesota department of health (MDH), the program is being conducted in cooperation with six different health care organizations around the state.

Officials responsible for the program hope to find better ways of preventing some of the common health problems associated with diabetes. In its initial phase, the program will focus on hypertension (high blood pressure) and diabetic retinopathy, an eye disease that can lead to blindness. Persons with diabetes are at high risk for both of these health problems.

CDC has provided a grant of $186,000 to fund the project for this year. If the program is extended for a second year, the effort will be expanded to focus on pregnancy-related problems among persons with diabetes, and diabetes-related amputations.

Program officials hope they will be able to encourage the development of a comprehensive system for preventing health problems in persons with diabetes, and that the system will remain in place after the program is over.

During the first phase of the program, a monitoring system will be set up to make sure persons with diabetes get their eyes examined and their blood pressure checked at least once a year. Those found to have eye problems or hypertension will receive appropriate treatment.

An effort will also be made to educate persons with diabetes about the possible complications of their disease.

Six Minnesota health care organizations have been chosen to provide services under the program. The grant funds are being administered by MDH, which will also provide technical assistance to the participating health care providers.

Computer Program Available To Test Farmer Options

For the second year in a row, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., is offering a computer program free to help farmers examine their options under the U.S. farm program.

In 1986 more than 6,000 computer diskettes were distributed free nationwide. The 1987 version of the software, available through all company sales representatives, has been updated to reflect changes in the farm program.

Farm program participants are required to set aside a minimum 20 per cent of base acreage again this year. However, the 1987 farm program offers a new option an additional 15 per cent paid acreage diversion. Pioneer's farm program option viewer has been updated to reflect this new option.

Each farm is different and farmers must consider their own unique circumstances before deciding whether to participate in the farm program or the optional paid diversion."

The free computer program displays the bottom line result in net profits and losses under three situations — non-participation in the farm program, participation only in the required 20 per cent set aside, and participation in the optional 15 per cent paid diversion.

To use the program, the operator enters only eight variables — ASCS base acreage, ASCS program yield, variable production cost per acre, fixed land and machinery cost per acre, maintenance cost per acre for set aside land, estimated selling price at harvest, estimated national five-month average cash prices, and estimated national 12-month average cash price.

In the event of changes to the farm program between now and the sign-up deadline this spring, diskette users will be provided with instructions on how to update this computer program.

Bancroft Lecture At BSU Feb. 10 Open To Public

Facing temperatures of -70 degrees Fahrenheit, surviving an icequake and plunging into black, icy water may not be many peoples' idea of enjoyment, but to Ann Bancroft, "It was fun." Traveling by dogsled for 55 days as a member of the Steger International Polar expedition, she became the first woman ever to walk to the North Pole.

Coming to Bemidji state university on February 10, Bancroft will describe her quest to reach the top of the world during a 7:30 p.m. presentation in the Hobson Union's Beaux Arts ballroom. In "North to the Pole: Facing the Challenge" she will discuss her decision to go on the expedition, the preparation involved and her personal experience. Bancroft will also appear at a 7:30 a.m. campus and community breakfast February 11 in the ballroom to share her "Choices, Challenges, and Changes."

A teacher of physical education and special education for the physically disabled in Minneapolis elementary schools, she spends her vacations skiing, mountain climbing, ice climbing, canoeing and running marathons.

Because of her physical stamina and endurance, cold weather experience, leadership qualities and first aid skills expedition co-leader Will Steger decided that "if there was going to be only one woman, it was going to be Ann."

Comprised of seven men, one woman, five sleds carrying 1,350 pounds of food and equipment, and 49 dogs, the party started its journey at Canada's Ellesmere Island on March 8, 1986. It traveled nearly double the straight line distance of 478 miles. With no outside communication and only the manual navigational aid of a sextant and chronometer to plot their position, six members of the team arrived at the North Pole on May 2. Not since Adm. Robert E. Peary's adventure in 1909 had a party attained the North Pole by dogsled without resupply.

"I wanted the chance to gain new skills and to have a new experience with some sort of edge on it," Bancroft states. "I like dealing with the unknown."

In addition to individual training, Bancroft spent five months of full-time preparation and training in dogsledding with the whole team on Canada's Baffin Island. Her roles during the excursion included trail crew, first aid, back-up photography, and running a team of dogs.

University sponsors of the evening presentation and morning breakfast include the Office of Academic Affairs, the Outdoor Program Center, the Women's Resource Center and the Women's Studies Program.

The events are free and open to the general public. More information may be obtained by contacting Kristine Cannon, Women's Resource Center, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699, phone 218-755-2979.

"Dance For Heart" Marathon Needs Area Participants

Area residents are invited to particpate in a "Dance For Heart" event February 14 at the Fireside Fitness Center in Thief River Falls from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. "Dance For Heart" will be a six-hour exercise marathon to benefit the American Heart Association, Minnesota affiliate. Funds raised will enable the Minnesota association to increase efforts in heart research, community programs and public and professional education.

Kathy Hagen, "Dance For Heart" coordinator in Thief River Falls, stated, "The local dance for heart is part of a nationwide effort by exercise instructors to raise money to combat heart disease. Participants may choose how long they want to exercise, and there will be a 15-minute break each hour." Pledges may be for the specific number of hours spent in exercise by each participant, or for a flat amount.

According to recent statistics, cardiovascular disease killed 989,400 Americans last year, including more than 16,700 Minnesotans. "'Dance For Heart' not only raises money for the Minnesota Heart association," said Hagen, "but it shows people an exercise program which is fun and promotes cardiovascular fitness."

Pledge forms are available at Fireside Fitness Center. For more information, call Kathy Hagen at 681-6901. "Dance For Heart" is sponsored by the Fireside Fitness Center and KTRF-KSNR.

Gastric Bypass Patients Forming Support Groups

inch frame when she had gastric bypass surgery in November of 1983. A day care provider in her home, Lynda said she had tried every diet she was aware existed and her weight never stayed off.

"It was really hard for me to eat less," she said. "I had a hearty appetite and I never seemed satisfied when on a diet. I used to like ice cream, but now it is one of the foods I can't tolerate after surgery. Each person has different tolerances."

Lynda said she was in the hospital a week following surgery, which is about normal for major surgery. Her food intake was recommended to be 800 calories, and she now has to stay at about 1,100 calories to maintain her weight. While she dropped from 255 to 143 pounds in nine months, she gained weight with her next pregnancy and is now at about 160 pounds.

Kathleen Rux, also a family day care provider and representative for Providers Choice, Inc., is 39 years of age and had her surgery in July of 1985. She weighed 240 pounds at the time and now weighs 160. She lost the 80 pounds in about six months but has had difficulty with additional weight loss. Her goal is to lose another 25 pounds through diet and exercise.

Kathleen said she was heavy all her life, weighing over 200 pounds as a teenager. Through dieting she had lost as much as 70 pounds, but the weight always seemed to return. After reaching about the age of 30 she found that even dieting seemed to be ineffective for weight loss.

"I had been putting on about 10 pounds a year for three years before my surgery and I was worried about my health," she explained. "One day I met a woman at the swimming beach by the river whose name was also Kathleen, and I overheard her talking about the surgery. She was slim and was commenting about how she was treated differently since she lost weight."

It was from that chance meeting that Kathleen became interested in gastric bypass surgery and eventually had the procedure performed.

Nancy LaBar of Thief River Falls, age 36, is orginally from California but has lived here several years. She is a single parent with three children living here and works part time at the Ripley shelter.

"My maximum weight was probably about 225 pounds," she said, "but I weighed 213 when I went into the hospital for surgery on Oct. 25, 1985. It went really well for me. I left the hospital a day earlier than usual and walked around town paying some bills the day I got home. It seemed I had a lot of energy and I went square dancing and took part in other vigorous activity the week I came home."

Nancy now weighs 116 polnds and says the weight loss has greatly helped her self-esteem and attitude. She is very conscious of the types of foods she eats and experienced one of the problems most bypass patients have — learning to slow down, chew food well and adjust to eating right.

"I tried a lot of ways to lose weight in California," she said. "I even had my jaws wired for about six weeks. I would eat burritos by taking little pieces and pushing them through a gap in my teeth. When the wires broke I just never went back to have the jaws re-wired."

Nobody knows for sure how the surgery will affect a person's overall health or longevity, but the four people interviewed said they know of those who had the surgery 12 or 15 years ago and appear to be doing fine. They said the surgery and hospitalization cost between $3,500 and $6,000, but if the person is at least 100 pounds overweight it is usually covered by medical insurance policies.

Those interviewed said they had to make adjustments in their eating habits, but the adjustments were toward the practices which everyone could benefit from following. They also said they experienced positive personality changes, became more outgoing and gained confidence in themselves.

"I think it's great," Nancy LaBar said. "My children tell me I can put on anything and look like I'm in style."

Persons interested in learning more about the procedure or seeking support or answers to questions may contact any of the people mentioned or attend the February 16 meeting. Telephone numbers are: Danie and Lynda Packard, 681-6664; Kathleen Rux, 681-3122; and Nancy LaBar, 681-8068.

Effort Made To Prevent Diabetic Health Problems

A new effort to prevent health problems in persons with diabetes is now underway in Minnesota.

Jointly sponsored by the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and the Minnesota department of health (MDH), the program is being conducted in cooperation with six different health care organizations around the state.

Officials responsible for the program hope to find better ways of preventing some of the common health problems associated with diabetes. In its initial phase, the program will focus on hypertension (high blood pressure) and diabetic retinopathy, an eye disease that can lead to blindness. Persons with diabetes are at high risk for both of these health problems.

CDC has provided a grant of $186,000 to fund the project for this year. If the program is extended for a second year, the effort will be expanded to focus on pregnancy-related problems among persons with diabetes, and diabetes-related amputations.

Program officials hope they will be able to encourate the development of a comprehensive system for preventing health problems in persons with diabetes, and that the system will remain in place after the program is over.

During the first phase of the program, a monitoring system will be set up to make sure persons with diabetes get their eyes examined and their blood pressure checked at least once a year. Those found to have eye problems of hypertension will receive appropriate treatment.

An effort will also be made to educate persons with diabetes about the possible complications of their disease.

Six Minnesota health care organizations have been chosen to provide services under the program. The grant funds are being administered by MDH, which will also provide technical assistance to the participating health care providers.

Computer Program Available To Test Farmer Options

For the second year in a row, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., is offering a computer program free to help farmers examine their options under the U.S. farm program.

In 1986 more than 6,000 computer diskettes were distributed free nationwide. The 1987 version of the software, available through all company sales representatives, has been updated to reflect changes in the farm program.

Farm program participants are required to set aside a minimum 20 per cent of base acreage again this year. However, the 1987 farm program offers a new option an additional 15 per cent paid acreage diversion. Pioneer's farm program option viewer has been updated to reflect this new option.

Each farm is different and farmers must consider their own unique circumstances before deciding whether to participate in the farm program or the optional paid diversion."

The free computer program displays the bottom line result in net profits and losses under three situations — non-participation in the farm program, participation only in the required 20 per cent set aside, and participation in the optional 15 per cent paid diversion.

To use the program, the operator enters only eight variables — ASCS base acreage, ASCS program yield, variable production cost per acre, fixed land and machinery cost per acre, maintenance cost per acre for set aside land, estimated selling price at harvest, estimated national five-month average cash prices, and estimated national 12-month average cash price.

In the event of changes to the farm program between now and the sign-up deadline this spring, diskette users will be provided with instructions on how to update this computer program.

Bancroft Lecture At BSU Feb. 10 Open To Public

Facing temperatures of -70 degrees Fahrenheit, surviving an icequake and plunging into black, icy water may not be many peoples' idea of enjoyment, but to Ann Bancroft, "it was fun." Traveling by dogsled for 55 days as a member of the Steger International Polar expedition, she became the first woman ever to walk to the North Pole.

Coming to Bemidji state university on February 10, Bancroft will describe her quest to reach the top of the world during a 7:30 p.m. presentation in the Hobson Union's Beaux Arts ballroom. In "North to the Pole: Facing the Challenge" she will discuss her decision to go on the expedition, the preparation involved and her personal experience. Bancroft will also appear at a 7:30 a.m. campus and community breakfast February 11 in the ballroom to share her "Choices, Challenges and Changes."

A teacher of physical education and special education for the physically disabled in Minneapolis elementary schools, she spends her vacations skiing, mountain climbing, ice climbing, canoeing and running marathons.

Because of her physical stamina and endurance, cold weather experience, leadership qualities and first aid skills expedition co-leader Will Steger decided that "if there was going to be only one woman, it was going to be Ann."

Comprised of seven men, one woman, five sleds carrying 1,350 pounds of food and equipment, and 49 dogs, the party started its journey at Canada's Ellesmere Island on March 8, 1986. It traveled nearly double the straight line distance of 478 miles. With no outside communication and only the manual navigational aid of a sextant and chronometer to plot their position, six members of the team arrived at the North Pole on May 2. Not since Adm. Robert E. Peary's adventure in 1909 had a party attained the North Pole by dogsled without resupply.

"I wanted the chance to gain new skills and to have a new experience with some sort of edge on it," Bancroft states. "I like dealing with the unknown."

In addition to individual training, Bancroft spent five months of full-time preparation and training in dogsledding with the whole team on Canada's Baffin Island. Her roles during the excursion included trail crew, first aid, back-up photography, and running a team of dogs.

University sponsors of the evening presentation and morning breakfast include the Office of Academic Affairs, the Outdoor Program Center, the Women's Resource Center and the Women's Studies Program.

The events are free and open to the general public. More information may be obtained by contacting Kristine Cannon, Women's Resource Center, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699, phone 218-755-2979.

"Dance For Heart" Marathon Needs Area Participants

Area residents are invited to particpate in a "Dance For Heart" event February 14 at the Fireside Fitness Center in Thief River Falls from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. "Dance For Heart" will be a six-hour exercise marathon to benefit the American Heart Association, Minnesota affiliate. Funds raised will enable the Minnesota association to increase efforts in heart research, community programs and public and professional education.

Kathy Hagen, "Dance For Heart" coordinator in Thief River Falls, stated, "The local dance for heart is part of a nationwide effort by exercise instructors to raise money to combat heart disease. Participants may choose how long they want to exercise, and there will be a 15-minute break each hour." Pledges may be for the specific number of hours spent in exercise by each participant, or for a flat amount.

According to recent statistics, cardiovascular disease killed 969,400 Americans last year, including more than 16,700 Minnesotans. "'Dance For Heart' not only raises money for the Minnesota Heart association," said Hagen, "but it shows people an exercise program which is fun and promotes cardiovascular fitness."

Pledge forms are available at Fireside Fitness Center. For more information, call Kathy Hagen at 681-6901. "Dance For Heart" is sponsored by the Fireside Fitness Center and KTRF-KSNR.

ASK ABOUT OUR 90 DAY NO INTEREST PLAN!

OUR AGENCY WOULD HAVE LOVED TO INSURE

"HONEST ABE"!

The story goes that when Abraham Lincoln was a lawyer in Illinois he made a habit of letting the fire in his wood-burning stove die on Saturday night while he slept. Come Sunday, he would check the stove for cracks or loosened joints that might allow embers to fall through onto the floor. He would also reach up into the stovepipe and measure how much soot and black creosote had built up during the week. If this flammable residue was too thick, he would hire a chimney sweep to clean the entire system.

A friend who was staying with Mr. Lincoln woke up one wintery Sunday to discover his host carefully examining a cold stove that should have been heating the very cold house. "How can you tolerate this cold?" asked the visitor. Mr. Lincoln glanced up from the stove. "I'll gladly suffer the cold once a week for the rest of my life if it will only prevent me from enjoying one house fire."

In his day, Lincoln knew that faulty or dirty stoves and fireplaces were a common cause of house fires. This is still true today, and since the nation's energy consciousness was aroused a decade ago, a growing number of homes burn down each year in stove-related fires.

Our agency is confident that our insured's are every bit as safety conscious as "Honest Abe" was in his day.

As a precautionary measure, just to be certain that your woodburning unit is installed properly — we invite you to stop in and pick up your free copy of a booklet entitled "Fire Safety In Wood Heating Systems".

DEED Regional Meeting Planned Here February 20

"Partnerships: A Fresh Approach for Trade and Economic Development" is the theme of a series of regional public meetings this month where Department of Energy and Economic Development officials will talk about Minnesota's economic future. One of the meetings will be Friday, February 20, at 2:30 p.m. in the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

The word "partnerships" is key to the strategy of the department's development and trade efforts. "Partnerships have been forged between state agencies and communities and their businesses in the past, but more effective use of economic development tools includes broadening our relationships at the grassroots level," stated DEED finance specialist Del Redetzke.

"The 1980s have presented Minnesota's economy with new realities — events taking place halfway around the world are now affecting the financial health of even the smallest towns in the state. The new international economy has been a major factor in the sharp reversals of the agriculture and mining industries. These reversals, together with similar reversals in dozens of other industries, are resulting in major employment losses, population losses and eroding tax bases throughout Minnesota and the nation. The continued viability of many communities has become a crucial concern," Redetzke said.

He listed at least four challenges facing the Minnesota economy:

(1) To shift its economic base from industries that are in decline to those which exhibit a real potential for future growth;

(2) To improve the productivity and quality of output to better compete in the international marketplace;

(3) To diversify rural economies to make them both less susceptible to cyclical economic downturns and less dependent on any single industry; and

(4) To generate enough opportunities for farmers and their families to obtain income off the farm so that family farms can continue to operate.

"In the big picture, the economies of cities, states and nations grow in two ways: through the substitution of locally produced goods for those previously imported from other cities, states and nations, and by exporting locally produced goods to other locations," Redetzke said.

Exports and import substitution rely on the vast chain of interconnections among supplying firms. As firms produce, they have supply relationships both forward and backward into the economy, creating growth and wealth through other firms, with secondary effects that radiate into the economy.

"Of course, state and local governments could not fix the problems in the Minnesota economy, even if there was agreement on methods," Redetzke said. "Government does have a significant role to play, however, and the department of energy and economic development occupies an important intermediary position: analyzing national and global economic trends, developing tools to help Minnesota communities to survive and capitalize on the changing conditions around them, and making these tools available to communities for implementation at the grassroots level."

He said these subjects and more will be discussed at regional meetings, "where we'll also listen to your ideas about the most effective use of economic development tools."

Redetzke can be reached at the Department of Energy and Economic Development, 900 American Center Building, 150 E. Kellogg Blvd., St. Paul 55101 or by calling 612-782-2131.

Wedding Bells Ring In Question About Tax Filing

On St. Valentine's day, more marriage proposals are made than on just about any other day of the year. And, when a man and a woman decide to get married, they have many details to think about. Usually, how they decide to file their income tax in not one of them. But come tax time, says the Minnesota Society of CPAs, they have a decision to make.

Most married couples file jointly because, by doing so, they reduce their tax bill more than if they file separately. The tax rates for married couples are lower and there are many tax benefits to filing jointly that may not be available to separate filers.

By filing a joint tax return, married couples are entitled to the two-earner deduction (which will be phased out in 1987), IRA deduction for a non-working spouse, the credit for the elderly, the earned income credit or the dependent care credit. For the maximum deductions, all totaled, these benefits could provide a substantial tax savings.

Still, couples may elect to file separately. One reason to file separately is if both husband and wife have separate incomes and one spouse has substantial medical bills. In this case, medical expenses that exceed five per cent of this spouse's adjusted gross income are tax deductible in 1986. If the expenses are great enough, they can reduce his or her tax bill considerably.

Couples who choose to file jointly must be married. Separated and divorced couples may still have to file jointly depending on certain circumstances. If you were married on Dec. 31, 1986, consider yourself married for the entire tax year. If your spouse died during 1986, you may still file a joint return.

Separated couples may file returns as though they are not married as long as they did not live together at all in 1986. In this situation, one spouse may file as a head of household as long as the couple's dependent child lived with him or her for more than six months out of the year. If you were divorced in 1986, you cannot file a joint return unless uou remarried within the same year.

If you got married, separated, divorced or became widowed in 1986, you will have to make a decision as to the best way to file your income tax return. If you feel you need more information to properly file your return, contact a certified public accountant or the Internal Revenue service. Both are good sources of information when it comes time to sort through your financial information.

Tami Wesselink Coordinator Of RSVP Program

Tami Wesselink

Tami Wesselink has been named program coordinator for the Retired Senior Volunteer program (RSVP) for Norman, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties according to Harl Gamer, director of the RSVP program at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

"The emphasis is on determining the needs and skills of interested seniors and matching them with volunteer opportunities in the community."

Wesselink will be working with over 500 volunteers serving in 60 volunteer stations.

Put Safety First When Handling Kitchen Appliances

Put safety first in the kitchen because this is where thousands of accidents occur every year.

The United States Consumer product safety commission reported an estimated 67,000 kitchen-related accidents in 1985. Not all were electrical mishaps, but most happened while people were using kitchen appliances.

Accidents in the kitchen are caused by carelessness more than anything else, according to the consumer product safety commission. Electricity is invisible, but society relies on it every day for health, safety and convenience. It is a valuable resource, but it must be used with care at all times.

Utility managers urge consumers to follow these simple rules to help avoid accidents in the kitchen:

-Keep appliances and appliance cords away from water.

-Check appliance cords for signs of wear, fraying or breaking, loose connections, or overheating.

-Unplug portable appliances before cleaning and when not in use.

-Never touch an electrical switch with wet hands, or touch an appliance and a water faucet at the same time.

Councilman's Car Stolen, Hit And Runs In LEC News

Several accidents and hit and run reports were in Police incident reports during the past week. Among the incident reports was also a report of the theft of a car belonging to City Councilman Don Liden.

Councilman Liden reported at 7:50 p.m. February 2 that his car had been stolen. Liden reported that his car was being used by his son and was parked in front of 712 North Horace and left running. Reports of the theft were given by radio to Red Lake county and one of their deputies spotted the car in the area of Plummer. When the deputy attempted to stop the car a chase ensued. Eventually the car lost control and went into the ditch about four miles west of Plummer. Police report that Floyd Edward Olson, 33, Route 3, Red Lake Falls, was taken into custody and he is scheduled for arraignment today.

Accidents. On January 27 at 1:06 p.m. a car driven by Nels Nelson, route one, Newfolden was traveling north on Atlantic, and had stopped for the stop sign and then proceeded into the intersection at Eighth street. At the same time a car driven by Christopher Prickett, Thief River Falls, was going east on Eighth street. Damages resulting from the collision were estimated at $1,000 to Prickett and $500 to Nelson. Eva Nelson, a passenger in the Nelson vehicle complained of soreness in her right knee.

On February 2 police were called to Lincoln high school in response to an accident that happened around 3 p.m. When police arrived they discovered one juvenile girl, 15, had assaulted another girl. Charges are pending in juvenile court.

On January 29 at 12:27 p.m. a car driven by Michael James Olson, Thief River Falls, was going south on LaBree avenue and a car driven by Irvin Jarshaw, route six, was traveling west on Fifth street. Damages resulting from the collision were estimated at $1,200 to Olson and $700 to the Jarshaw vehicle.

On January 30 at 10:53 a.m. a car driven by Bjarne Hegstad, Crookston, was traveling north on highway 32 and he rear-ended another vehicle. The second vehicle had no damage to it and left. Damage to the Hegstad vehicle was estimated at $300.

On February 2 at 8:06 a.m. a car driven by Krista Trontvet, route one, was going east on Third street and stopped for a car ahead that was making a left turn just west of the Soo line tracks and was struck in the rear by a pickup driven by John Lubitz, route two. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to Trontvet and none to Lubitz. Krista Trontvet and a passenger Lisa Trontvet complained of sore necks and headaches.

Hit-and-run incidents. On January 28 at 8 p.m. Ronald Holmstrom, Thief River Falls, reported he was driving west on Second street and a light blue Ford pickup was also going west. The light blue pickup hit the right side of the Holmstrom vehicle when it was passing. The pickup then went north after running a red light. Damage to the Holmstrom vehicle was estimated at $125.

On January 30 Nathan Acker reported that someone ran into his car on January 29 while it was parked in the 900 block west of First street. The other vehicle left the scene. Damages to the Acker vehicle on its left side were estimated at $450.

On January 31 John Stromberg, Thief River Falls, reported that while his son had his vehicle parked in the 200 block of west Third street, someone damaged the side of the car leaving a scrape the length of the hood. Damages were estimated at $100.

On January 31 at 7:26 a.m. Jane Mackenroth, Thief River Falls, reported her car was struck by a hit-run vehicle while she was parked in front of her residence. This happened during the night and damage to the left front of her car is estimated at $1,000.

Other incidents. On January 29 charges of fifth degree assault were pending against David Sjostrand, Thief River Falls, following an altercation at his home.

On January 31 Morris Edward Smith, Red Lake, was charged with trespassing after a disturbance at the Legion club. Then he left the building but refused to leave the area and eventually was arrested and charged.

SPEED'S AUTO. Eldor "Speed" Ornquist was presented a more progress award from chamber of commerce ambassadors Chuck Richards (left) and Dave Strong. Speed said they moved their entire building back recently to accomodate a street project and that it was a good move for Speed's Auto. Speed's Auto is located east of Thief River Falls on highway 59.

Stangeland Asks Ag Secretary For "Common Sense"

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has asked the Secretary of Agriculture to apply "common sense" to interim farm program regulations.

In a letter to Secretary Lyng, he outlined the increased confusion and discouragement felt by Minnesota farmers who are trying to comply with new conservation rules.

"Since the regulations are not final and other areas of the country seem to lend different interpretations to the interim rules, I am asking you to ensure that all decisions regarding the conservation requirements be made on a fair and consistent basis and that 'common sense' prevail. There are many 'special cases,' especially in Minnesota, that call for flexibility and understanding of good farming practices and these are not being considered at the present time," the congressman said.

Stangeland urged the secretary to swiftly eliminate the existing confusion and to develop final rules that would take into consideration the special needs and practices of the farmers in this state.

He is also a cosponsor of legislation that would define alfalfa and other legumes as agricultural commodities if the farmer can prove that these fields were at least once in rotation with other agricultural commodities during the last 12 years. Under present rules, fields of alfalfa and other legumes rotated with other typical crops are not considered agricultural commodities, but are considered grasslands which cannot be plowed if the farmer wants to continue to receive benefits from federal farm programs. As a result, farmers who use sound rotation practices by rotating alfalfa or other legumes with program crops are now penalized.

"This rule punishes those farmers who have used good conservation practices and it must be changed," he said. Added provisions provide insurance that highly erodible land is preserved.

Child Protection Council Seeks County Members

Pennington county's child protection council is currently seeking citizens who would be interested in serving on a child abuse prevention council, according to Gary Erickson, director of the Pennington county welfare and human services department.

"This would be the council that would review grant applications for individuals, groups or organizations interested in obtaining funding from the children's trust fund for prevention programs that they wish to conduct in Pennington county," he said.

Persons interested in serving on the council are asked to call the department of welfare and human services at 681-2880 prior to February 12.

"In passing the children's trust fund bill in 1986," Erickson explained, "the legislature assigned a significant role to the county child protection teams regarding the future of local child abuse and neglect prevention programs."

He said that Minnesota statute 299A.20, Section 5, details the composition and role of local child abuse prevention councils. "The statute clearly states that to be eligible to receive a grant from the trust fund, an applicant must have its program reviewed by a child abuse prevention council from the applicant's geographic area," director added.

First Inventor Congress Slated In Jamestown

Inventors and entrepreneurs are invited to participate in the first North Dakota inventors congress in many years February 16 and 17 in Jamestown, ND.

The inventors congress provides an opportunity for inventors from this region to display their ideas to consumers and manufacturers and the entrepreneur may find a product or venture of interest along with a great deal of information.

There will be displays by both manufacturers and inventors. Anthony W. England, a NASA astronaut whose home town is West Fargo ND will present a short program February 16.

On February 17 there will be several seminars, including the process of protecting your idea by Nickolas E. Westman, a patent attorney, and the marketing of an invention by the inventor or an entrepeneur. Don Porter, professor of management science at the University of North Dakota, will present this program.

Starting and financing a new business will be the topic of the last seminar, presented by Bruce Gjovig, director of the center for innovation and business development in Grand Forks. A panel discussion of inventors and entrepreneurs who have taken an idea from the conceptual stage and developed it into a successful product or business will conclude the programs.

Inventors, entrepeneurs or manufacturers who are interested in participating should contact the Jamestown area chamber of commerce at 701-252-4830 as soon as possible for further information.

Financial Aid Nights Set At TRF, Goodridge

Financial aid nights will be conducted at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and the Goodridge school next week. Kelsy Richards from Northland community college will be at Goodridge school industrial arts room Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Richards and James Fremstad from the local area vocational-technical institute will be at Lincoln high school library Thursday at 7 p.m. They will answer questions from students and parents regarding financial aid for post high school education.

Wind Chill Not A Factor When Applied To Cars

A sure sign of winter in the upper midwest is the television weatherman who reports wind chill factors. Unfortunately, the widespread use of this term confuses people — particularly when it comes to cars. Wind chill factors have no effect on the temperature of a car or its engine, according to the AAA Clubs of Minnesota.

"The wind chill factor is not a real temperature, but a 'cooling rate equivalent' temperature," said John Fobian, director of AAA automotive engineering. "Wind hastens the loss of heat from an object — this is why fans have a cooling effect in summer. Wind chill factors describe the relative speed at which an object or body cools when wind is combined with the air temperature."

On a 20-degree Fahrenheit day with a 20-mph wind, for example, the wind chill factor is minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit. People and objects do not get this cold, but they cool as quickly as if the air temperature were minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit.

Weathermen report wind chill factors to help people avoid the risk of frostbite on exposed skin. The human body is a small furnace, with the thermostat set permanently at 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. In cold weather, the body tries to maintain that temperature. When the wind blows, people need more clothing to insulate themselves and keep from becoming dangerously chilled.

Automobiles, however, don't wear clothing. The wind's only effect on a car is that it will cool the engine and other parts of the car to the outside temperature more quickly than on a calm day. The car never, however, becomes colder than the air temperature.

"Consumers concerned about starting their cars in winter should consider only air temperatures not wind chill factors. Think of it this way: thermometer readings indicate how cold it is going to get, the wind chill factor determines how quickly a person or object will get that cold," Fobian explained.

Misbehavior Of Children Topic For Two Programs

"The misbehaving of children brings several thoughts to mind," states Nancy J. Nelson, Marshall county extension agent in home economics. "Frustration and disappointment are just two. The more the child acts up, the more frustrated parents become." Two programs entitled "Coping with Children's Misbehavior" are scheduled for Tuesday, February 10. The morning session begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Middle River community center with a 1 p.m. session at the Grygla civic center. Discussion will focus on learning why youngsters misbehave and how to gear discipline to be more effective.

The session is sponsored by the Marshall county extension service.

DNR Tree Planting Programs Offered At ASCS Offices

Minnesota DNR, Division of Forestry, will man each ASCS office on each Friday during the next sign-up to answer any questions you might have concerning tree planting.

Next sign-up for land retirement under the Conservation Reserve Program will be February 9-27. Land owners must bid for annual "rental" payments at the A.S.C.S. in Roseau, Hallock (Kittson County), Warren (Marshall County), and Thief River Falls (Pennington County). Accepted bids are contracted for 10 years. A cover must be then established, consisting of trees and-or grass. Up to 50 per cent of these costs will be reimbursed. Farmer's personal costs are also reimbursable, thus reducing or eliminating out-of-pocket expenses.

Practices available for establishing cover consist of growing introduced or native grasses, tree and shrub plantings, wildlife habitat projects, and field windbreaks. Land owners have the choice of any combination of practices on each field enrolled in C.R.P.

By combining tree and shrub plantings along with grass openings, you will provide wildlife diversity as well as future timber production.

If you are interested in establishing some trees and have any questions concerning tree seedling costs and availability, planting machine and professional planting vendor availability, maintenance costs, etc., DNR Division of Forestry personnel will be at the A.S.C.S. on all three Fridays during sign-up.

If you plan on signing up and are interested in planting trees on some of your C.R.P. acres, come in February 13, 10, or 27 so you can have your questions answered.

Sparby Supports Family Farm Act In Legislature

"Save the Family Farm Act" is the best piece of federal legislation for agriculture we've seen in years, says State Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls.

A resolution urging Congress to support the act passed the Minnesota House agriculture committee. The federal act calls for a national farm referendum to vote on a supply management program.

Rep. Sparby was among a large majority on the ag committee approving support of the new farm bill. "It sends a straightforward message to Congress about scrapping the 1985 farm bill in favor of a market-oriented program helping farmers and taxpayers alike," he said.

Sparby says the act "gives farmers more leverage over their own financial destiny. It lets farmers decide, by democratic vote, if they want to limit production in exchange for a fair price."

Approximately 30 per cent of cropland in ALL farms would be set aside to bring supply in line with demand in the domestic and foreign market. A safe reserve supply would also be established.

"Farmers would operate the same way corporations like GM have for years," Sparby said. "GM doesn't manufacture as many cars as possible and then try to get rid of them on the market. Farmers shouldn't do that with commodities either.

"The best part of the bill is it saves the taxpayer money — lots of money. At least $20 billion would be off the backs of American citizens; money that is now being dished out in subsidies."

In exchange for taking approximately 30 per cent of cropland out of production, farmers would gain from loan rates set at 70 per cent parity, the cost of production. Net farm income will increase by 50 per cent, according to the Food and Policy Research Institute.

"There is no doubt that the Save The Family Farm Act will become new farm policy," Sparby says. "It's the right decision, benefiting everyone and saving federal dollars. Supply management is supported by the vast majority of farmers. In fact, in the wheat referendum, 74 per cent of Minnesota farmers voted in favor of the supply management concept."

The resolution encouraging Congress to support the "Save the Family Farm Act" or similar legislation, will go to the House floor for final debate.

Grain Stored On Farms Can Save Taxpayers Money

Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Nichols praised a recent U.S. department of agriculture ruling extending loan periods for grain stored under the 1982-83 farmer-owned grain reserve. But Nichols labeled another recent USDA decision not to extend the reserve option on 1986 grain as "contradictory."

"USDA's decision not to allow 1986 grain to be put into the farmer-owned grain reserve hurts farmers and taxpayers," Nichols said. "Farmers will lose storage payments and taxpayers will spend more to store grain."

The reserve program allows farmers to extend nine-month crop loans through the storage period. Farmers earn 26½ cents per bushel each year under the plan. Taxpayers will spend at least 10 cents more per bushel to store grain in commercial storage.

"This appears to be another program initiated by Under Secretary of Agriculture Dan Amstutz, a former Cargill, Inc. executive, to line the grain companies' pockets at the expense of the taxpayer," Nichols said.

Nichols said that if the entire crop of 1988 grain under government storage was taken off the farm and put into commercial storage it would cost taxpayers an additional $36 million in storage costs to grain companies.

The Reagan administration's 1988 USDA budget projects more than $2 billion in payments for commercial grain storage and only $864 million in producer storage payments to farmers under the farmer-owned grain reserve program, Nichols added.

Gum Disease Is Major Cause Of Adult Tooth Loss

February is dental health month, which for most of us suggest cavities that need filling, but flourides have cut the cavity problem dramatically in recent years. Today, dental health is largely a question of gum disease.

Three out of four Americans suffer from gum disease, and it is the cause of 70 per cent of adult tooth loss. What's more, like high blood pressure and gluacoma, most people don't even know they have it.

According to the American Academy of Periodontology, the most common cause of gum disease is bacterial plaque. Plaque, a sticky, nearly invisible coating that collects on tooth surfaces every day, creates acids that irritate gums and cause them to swell and bleed. This condition usually develops slowly and painlessly, eventually causing the gums to separate from the roots of the teeth, leaving what is known as "pockets." As the process worsens, the membrane and bone which support each tooth are destroyed. Teeth become loose and may be lost.

Every visit to a dentist should include a gum examination. Dentists can show how to clean teeth properly, using both brush and floss.

Family dentists play a major role in educating and motivating patients in the prevention of gum disease and can also treat the disease in its early stages. More advanced cases are usually referred to a periodontist.

Best bet is to catch the condition in its early stages when it can be cured. Once it gets beyond the early stages it can only be controlled. However, with proper care you can keep your teeth all your life.

Adults Often Create Stress For Children

Many adults lead stressful lives, but children experience stress, too. In fact, adults often create the situations that cause stress for children.

The February issue of "PTA Today," the national PTA's magazine, describes how parents may cause stress in their children's lives, the symptoms children experience, and ways to relieve that stress.

"A certain amount of stress in our lives is inevitable and actually valuable," according to Karen Bauer, assistant professor and director of early childhood and elementary education at Villa Maria College, Erie, PA.

Bauer believes children and adults experience and react to stress in similar ways. However, when it comes to understanding and controlling stressful situations, children and adults differ. An adult can recognize the physical symptions indicating stress, but children only know they don't feel well. And while adults are able to identify and comprehend what's causing stress, children may not be mature enough to understand the stressors affecting them.

Parents certainly do not intend to cause children stress, but sometimes their attitudes toward or about children create stressful situations. "Well-meaning, loving parents often put their children before all else. While their intentions are commendable, the realty of such a situation creates problems," Bauer said.

Also, many parents decide that their children will be all the things they themselves never could become. In an effort to please a beloved parent, the child may take dance lessons or participate in sports. "Fear of disappointing a parent coupled with lack of interest is a heavy burden for a child," Bauer said.

The author believes signs such as bed-wetting, stuttering, nail biting, irritability, nervous twitches or accident proneness may indicate a child is experiencing stress. However, she points out that parents should take note of any change or increase in a behavior that could indicate a child is under stress.

Parents can help children develop the ability to deal with stress by doing the following:

- Create a support system. A secure and supporting family environment encourages sharing of fears and problems and helps to control stress.
- Provide new experiences. Children who are sheltered often feel stress in new situations. Allow children to experience the unfamiliar, meet new people and change activities.
- Don't expect children to act like adults. Provide responsibilities that children can accomplish. Praise children for trying.
- Allow independence. Give children the opportunity to solve their own problems and gain confidence in their abilities.
- Limit children's exposure to adult experiences, such as watching excessive violence and sex on TV or having excessive responsibilities in the home.

Other topics covered in the February issue include what parents should know about AIDS and sexually-transmitted diseases, why there is a need to improve youth fitness, and facts about Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Job Training Staff Member At Greenbush

A staff member from the Thief River Falls job training office will be available to accept applications for enrollment into the job training and Green Thumb programs in Greenbush city clerk's office Thursday, February 12, from 9 to 11 a.m.

Job training is for the unemployed, unskilled, semi-skilled, disadvantaged residents who are seeking permanent employment. Job training services are free, confidential, and tailored to the individual.

Green Thumb is a part-tiem employment program to provide additional income for persons 55 and over who are living on fixed incomes, according to Ray Beauchamp, program specialist at the Thief River Falls office.

Property Tax Relief Sought By Farm Coalition

A coalition of farm groups, including the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, Farmers Union, corn growers, wheat growers, cattlemen's association, soybean growers and the Agri-Growth Council held a news conference January 23 to ask legislators to make this property tax relief a top priority in the 1987 legislative session.

"We are very concerned about the high cost of operating our farms and the amount farmers spend for taxes on agricultural land adds greatly to our costs," said Merlyn Lokensgard, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation (MFBF). He said the voting delegates at Farm Bureau's 1986 annual meeting called for removal of the basic school maintenance levy from agricultural land.

"We believe we need a quality educational system and we support local control of our schools, but we feel that farmers pay a disproportionate share of school support compared to our urban neighbors," Lokensgard said.

He urged that the homestead credit and the school agricultural credit be retained, and that agricultural land assessments be based on productivity rather than on sales.

"During the past seven or eight years we have seen a great decline in agricultural property values. Unfortunately, there is about a one-year 'lag' for assessments to catch up with current values," Lokensgard said. "It appears that the type of valuations assessors place on farmland is very unrealistic when compared to what we could sell it for. We feel that in some instances, farmland taxes are based on speculative valuations rather than on what we could actually sell the farmland for today."

The farm groups said the state could fund tax relief by reducing state spending, giving ag property tax credits to bonafide farmers only, and use of a $719 million windfall in additional income taxes which the state will receive as a result of conforming with federal tax laws.

Seat Belt Use In Minnesota Is Down From August

Latest survey of seat belt use in Minnesota, conducted by the Minnesota department of public safety and Minnesota occupant restraint program last November, shows that motorists are buckling up slightly less than they were last August.

Preliminary findings of the November survey show that statewide the percentage of users is 32 compared to 33 in August. In the Twin Cities metropolitan area, the percentage of users dropped to 39 from 43 which was said to be the most significant difference from the August survey. In non-metro areas of the state, the percentage of use dropped to 24 from 26.

Sue Palmer, a coordinator in the Minnesota department of public safety traffic safety office, said Minnesota's pre-law rate tended to be higher than others, probably due to Project Lifesaver, a major 1986 campaign to reduce traffic fatalities. She said the state's post-law rate is lower than other states, "probably due to the lack of fine or non-use."

Just one example of variations in state experiences is drawn from Minnesota and New York. Minnesota had a 20 per cent pre-law result, a 33 per cent immediate post law and a 32 per cent rate in November. For New York, the comparable percentages were 16, 70 and 46. New York's law took effect Jan. 1, 1986. Minnesota's effective date was Aug. 1, 1986.

The Minnesota surveys are based on observations at 700 sites of about 92,000. Palmer stressed the fact that "usage rate is not a simple ratio of the number of persons observed belted to the total number of people observed. It is, instead, the ratio of estimated time on the road that front seat occupants are using safety belts to the total estimated time on the road for these occupants." This means, Palmer added, that 1986 results cannot be compared directly with results of past surveys.

The next survey in Minnesota will be conducted this summer. For more information on the Minnesota seat belt law, call the toll-free hotline 1-800-223-5833.

Grygla Receives Grant To Assist May Corporation

State Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls and Senator Leroy Stump of Plummer have announced the city of Grygla has received final approval for a $150,000 small cities economic development grant. The grant will be used to help finance the construction of a production facility for the May Corporation, which will create 24 jobs during the next two years.

Sparby and Stumpf said they have been working on the grant with Grygla Mayor Ralph Klein, the Grygla city council and American state bank representatives—Paul Mikelson since last summer. They received word of the grant approval recently from David Speer, commissioner of the Minnesota department of energy and economic development (DEED).

"We are all extremely enthused about receiving the grant. Everyone realizes the importance of providing employment opportunities, especially in an area severely affected by the diminishing ag economy," Sparby said.

The May Corporation will use the money to produce and distribute a line of recliner type wheelchairs under the brand name "Wheel Lounger". The "Wheel Lounger" was designed by Edgar Hetten, who is also the principal owner of the May Corporation. Hetten is the founder of the Polaris and Arctic Cat snowmobile companies.

The economic development grant program is administered by the department of energy and economic development to create jobs for Minnesotans, leverage private investments in business development and increase the local tax base of Minnesota communities. Since the program started in July of 1984, the department has approved more than 43 similar grants designed to create or retain approximately 4,000 jobs and leverage more than $75 million in private investments.

Barbara Hauger Earns Doctorate In Business Ed.

Barbara Hauger, business and English instructor at Northland community college, recently received a Doctor of Philosophy degree in business education from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Her dissertation, entitled "A Comparison of Computer-Assisted Instruction and Teacher-Directed Instruction in Teaching Microcomputer Keyboarding to Sixth Graders," was based on an experimental study conducted at Franklin middle school during the 1985-86 school year.

After graduating from Baudette high school, Dr. Hauger attended Concordia college and the University of Minnesota, where she received her bachelor's degree in English. She later completed a master of arts degree in English and a master of science degree in business education at Bemidji state university.

She began her career as a junior high school librarian, first in Janesville, WI, and then in Edina. After a brief period of employment in the business sector, she taught high school English in International Falls.

Since Dr. Hauger came to Northland in 1969, she has taught numerous business and English courses, organized a variety of business workshops and coordinated internships in both the business and legal assistant fields.

She has been active in the local faculty association and has served on the curriculum committee for many years. Besides holding memberships in NEA and MEA, she belongs to professional organizations in both English and business. She is also a member of Phi Delta Kappa, Delta Pi Epsilon and Delta Kappa Gamma.

5W-30 Weight Oil Recommended For Winter Starting

Most owner's manuals for cars with gasoline engines recommend using 5W-30 weight oil whenever the temperature is anticipated to be below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, according to the AAA Clubs of Minnesota.

"A winter tune-up, 5W-30 weight oil and a heavy-duty battery in good condition will go a long way toward getting your car started when the thermometer starts plunging," explained Rod Shilkrot, AAA spokesman.

The 5W-30 motor oil has two advantages: (1) It provides easier starting and better lubrication in extremely low temperatures because it is thinner than 10W-40 oil; and (2) it improves gas mileage by reducing engine friction.

When temperatures in Minnesota drop, the flowing ability or viscosity of oils slows considerably. Oil thickened by the extreme cold cannot reach engine parts quickly and may not allow your car's engine to turn over at all. The lower the number of the oil in your car's crankcase, the easier the oil flows.

Consumers should be aware that car manufacturers have changed their recommendations over the years for the correct weight of oil. Advances in oil and engine manufacturing techniques are responsible for the overall shift to light weight oils.

Some manuals recommend changing the oil every 7,500 miles for cars driven under ideal conditions. However, very few people drive under ideal conditions. AAA advises that to be safe and assure longer engine life, oil should be changed more often.

Farm Bureau Asks Public Hearings On 'Swampbuster'

Minnesota farmers are becoming increasingly concerned about certain provisions of the new "swampbuster" law, the president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation (MFBF) told Minnesota's Congressional delegation.

In an urgent communication sent to the state's eight U.S. representatives and two senators in Washington, MFBF president Merlyn Lokensgard, St. Peter, called for public hearings to be held in the state to outline some of those concerns.

The swampbuster provision was included in the 1985 farm bill to discourage the conversion of wetlands to agricultural land. Violations of the law can prevent farmers from participating in certain USDA programs, and many questions about the law are surfacing as farmers begin signing up for the 1987 farm program.

Interim rules to implement the swampbuster law are now being used by the soil conservation service, the U.S. fish and wildlife service and the U.S. corps of engineers. Lokensgard said Farm Bureau is concerned that there is no consensus among the groups as to certain aspects of the law.

"It appears that those responsible for implementing the law are not in full agreement as to its definitions," he said. "We hope that our lawmakers will initiate some hearings to learn firsthand from these groups how they view the interim rules."

According to the temporary rules, a person who commences a project involving the conversion of wetlands after December 23, 1985, is affected by swampbuster. The law applies to farmers who have "drained, dredged, filled, leveled or otherwise manipulated the land to make it suitable for production."

Lokensgard said it needs to be made clear what this means: whether a farmer had actually begun work on the project or wheather it was only in its planning stages.

The law also applies to farmers who are maintaining an existing system, and the term "maintenance" needs to be defined, Lokensgard said, with regard to whether it means every year, every three years or "only when there is a wet year."

It is also important that farmers who have done a good job of maintenance in the past are not unfairly penalized by the new provisions, he added.

Farm Bureau supported the swampbuster provision of the 1985 farm bill, said Lokensgard, "but we need a proper set of rules to implement it."

"We believe public hearings on this issue would be beneficial to all farmers as well as to the agencies involved," he said. "Farmers in the state are at the critical stage of making their decisions for the 1987 crop year — they need to know whether or not this law affects their farming operations and their eligibility in the farm program."

Ag Commissioner Says 'No Excuse' For Price Hikes

"There is no excuse for last year's 4.2 per cent rise in Twin City food and beverage costs when farm prices have plunged to their lowest level in 15 years," Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Nichols said recently.

"With a market loaded with low-priced commodities coupled with a 1.1 per cent inflation rate, the lowest rate since the 1960's, prices should have at least held steady in 1986," Nichols said.

"Instead, consumers spent more money for items produced at lower cost."

As an example of what he called "industry-wide practices to increase profit," Nichols cited the beverage industry's recent replacement of natural sugar with less-expensive, high fructose corn syrup. "Sadly, the industry reflected none of its savings back to consumers after the switch," Nichols said.

"But food is still the best bargain in the nation today. Americans have spent a progressively smaller percentage of their disposable income on food over the past 25 years — more than any other nation in the world. Consumers spent 20 per cent of their disposable income on food in 1960 and less than 15 per cent today," he said.

"Unfair to farmers is the reality of receiving only 25 cents of the food dollar. The other 75 cents goes to pay wages, processing, packaging, transportation, marketing expenses and corporate profit.

"Further, the price of the average loaf of bread has doubled in the last 15 years, while the farmer's price for wheat has been cut in half. A loaf of bread sold for 49 cents in 1973 and the farmer received $4 for a bushel of wheat. Today the same loaf of bread sells for 99 cents and the farmer receives $2.20 for a bushel of wheat," Commissioner Nichols said.

Joe White Wins Space Derby For Cub Scout Pack

Thirty Cub scouts participated in Pack 57's space derby meeting last Tuesday at St. Bernard's Catholic church. First place winners from each of the dens competed for overall pack honors.

Results of the final competition included Joe White, Den 4, first; Kyle Syverson, Den 3, second; Billy Fogarty, Den 2, third; and Wayne Rahn, Den 1, fourth.

Others placing in individual den competition included: Den 1, Andy Mehrkens, second and Chris Bruggeman, third; Den 2, Paul Gonsorowski, second and Nick Dee, third; Den 3, Scott Fogarty, second and Chris Vanyo, third; and Den 4, Chris Tveitbakk, second and Brian Fogarty, third.

Prior to the derby a general meeting was held and Denise Chrzanowski presented a request for participation from the swimming pool committee.

Chad Hanson, Ben Schmitz, Kyle Sanden and Billy Fogarty of Den 2 received their wolf badges. Chris Vanyo and Kyle Syverson from Den 3 received the Bobcat award. Joe White, Jon Hendirckson, Chris Tveitbakk, Brian Fogarty, Kent Larson and Ben Foust all received citizenship pins and Webelo patch in Den 4.

All scouts from St. Bernard's parish were invited to worship together Sunday, February 8, at 8:30 a.m. at the church in observance of scout anniversary month. Each den will also be making a store window display of recent projects.

Plans were made for a concession stand at the snowmobile races February 21 and 22 and parents were asked to sign up for work shifts. Blue and gold banquet of the pack will be March 2 at 6:30 p.m. and each den is responsible for its own pot-luck items, including dinnerware and utensils.

James Troska To Participate In Project 120

James Troska

James Troska, ninth grader at Goodridge public school and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Troska of rural Goodridge, has been selected to participate in Project 120, sponsored by Urban Concerns Workshops, Inc.

The special session for ninth graders will be conducted April 5-10, according to Gordon Henrickson, principal at the Goodridge school. Project 120 is described as a week long learning experience at the state Capitol where students learn about the political process and their state's government.

While in St. Paul the students meet with state constitutional officers, talk with government staff members, lobbyists and media representatives, watch the House, Senate and Supreme Court in session, visit a state department and talk individually with the senator and representative from their own home districts. For James, the latter will be Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer and Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls.

During the week they will also participate in question and answer sessions with Ramsey county and St. Paul city officials and sit in on district or municipal court proceedings and discuss court cases with presiding judges.

Students will be housed as a group at the Holiday Inn Town Square under the supervision of Project 120 counselors. Meals will be provided at the hotel and state government cafeteria.

20 Tax Tips Offered For Income Tax Filing

Every year, filing your income tax becomes more complicated. Over the past 12 months, taxpayers have heard more information about their income taxes, as compared to recent years, because of the tax reform act of 1986. But many will be glad to know that this year, for the last time, they can still file under the old rules, according to the Minnesota Society of CPAs.

Here are 20 tax tips to refresh your memory on the old tax law.

(1) The 1986 tax reform act will have virtually no affect on this year's tax return.

(2) The IRS provides copies of old returns for $4.25 each.

(3) Single individuals should itemize their deductions when they exceed $2,480. Next year this will rise to $2,540.

(4) Married couples who file jointly should itemize their deductions when they exceed $3,670. This will rise to $3,760 on your 1987 return.

(5) Itemized deductions include unreimbursed expenses for medical and dental care, interest payments, state and local taxes, sales taxes, charitable contributions, casualty theft losses and certain job and investment costs. Next year, some of these will be eliminated while others will be restricted.

(6) A married working couple can deduct 10 per cent of the lower-paid spouse's earned income — up to $3,000 — which can reduce a couple's tax bill as much as $1,500. This is the last year you can take this deduction.

(7) Sharp increases in annual income may qualify you for income averaging, a formula that gives you a tax break. This will be impossible to take advantage of after this year.

(8) If you pay someone to care for a child or another dependent while you are at work, you may qualify for a tax credit of up to $720: $1,440 for two or more dependents.

(9) If you moved to be closer to your job in 1986, you may be able to deduct the moving costs, including temporary housing, from your taxable income.

(10) If you contributed to a political campaign in 1986, you can get a tax credit of up to $500 (100 on a joint return).

(11) Even if you do not itemize deductions, you can deduct one-half of charitable contributions made in 1986. Under the new tax law, this deduction will only be available to those who itemize.

(12) If you donated to charity more than $500 in furniture, clothing or other non-cash items, you must file a new IRS form — 823.

(13) If you donated to charity more than $5,000 in non-cash contributions or more than $10,000 in nonpublicly traded securities, you must also report it on Form 8283, but you need to have it signed by a qualified appraiser and the recipient of the donation.

(14) You can contribute to an Individual Retirement account until April 15, 1987 and lower your 1986 tax bill while saving for retirement. Many people will find that, because their income exceeds set limits, they will not be able to make a tax deductible contribution to an IRA for 1987.

(15) You can contribute up to $2,000 of your 1986 earnings to an IRA and twice as much if you are married and both you and your spouse work. Married persons — when only one spouse works — can contribute up to $2,250. This will remain true, but will also be restricted.

(16) Even if you apply for an extension to file your return, there are no extensions to the IRA contribution deadline.

(17) You can contribute to an IRA even after you begin making withdrawals, as long as you have earned income or receive alimony and are under age 70½.

(18) Custodial fees for IRA or Keogh accounts are deductible if they were paid with funds outside the account. Next year, this will be part of your miscellaneous deductions.

(19) You can get a four-month extension on filing and incur no late payment or filing penalties, if you pay at least 90 per cent of your 1986 tax bill by April 15, 1987. You will have to pay interest on any taxes you owe.

(20) You can still claim a deduction for the cost of hiring a CPA to prepare your tax return. This is true under the tax reform act of 1986 as part of your miscellaneous deductions. Those that exceed two per cent of your adjusted gross income will be deductible. However, even if you don't qualify, you might find it well worth the money.

145 Volunteers Help Heart Fund In Pennington Co.

Volunteers for the American Heart association, Minnesota affiliate will be making door-to-door visits to residents of Thief River Falls this month. February 1 marked the start of the 1987 residential drive, which lasts through the month of February. There will be 145 volunteers working in Pennington county.

Minnesota Heart volunteers will call on their neighbors to collect contributions and distribute information on heart disease during the residential drive.

Through the efforts of the American Heart association, deaths due to cardiovascular disease have declined by 30 per cent within the last 10 years. Despite this progress, heart disease claimed the lives of 989,400 Americans last year, including more than 16,700 Minnesotans.

The Minnesota affiliate is the only statewide health agency dedicated to reducing premature death and disability caused by cardiovascular disease and stroke. Led by volunteers, the affiliate raised more than $2.2 million last year. Those funds enable the American Heart association to continue its efforts through heart research, community programs and public and professional education.

Anyone who is not contacted by a heart volunteer by the end of February, and would like to make a donation, or anyone who would like more information on the AHA can call Kathleen Rux, Thief River Falls residential drive chairman, at 681-8122.

Mayor Bob Carlson of Thief River Falls has proclaimed February as Heart Month here and calls upon citizens to support the American Heart association with gifts and voluntary efforts.

He notes that diseases of the heart and blood vessels are responsible for more deaths than all other causes combined, causing widespread suffering and often creating serious personal hardships in homes and businesses. He also pointed out that the Heart association carries on a relentless fight against these diseases through research, education and community service.

Carlson Herd Is Leader In DHIA Dec. Production

Mylo Carlson herd had the top production average in the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association for the month of December, according to information provided by Jerry Hamre and Sonia Iverson, supervisors for the association.

The Carlson herd averaged 58.7 pounds of milk and 2.30 pounds of butterfat on 56 cows. Other herds in the top 10 with average milk and butterfat production listed respectively were as follows:

Duane Krohn, 54.7 and 2.05; Mark Hanson, 50.3 and 1.68; Gene Nelson, 49.9 and 2.04; Walter Brothers, 49.6 and 1.81; Leonard Geske, 48.7 and 1.66; Leland and Dale Nelson, 48.4 and 1.53; Marvin Koop, 44.8 and 1.57; Orlan and Joel Stolaas, 44.6 and 1.74; and Andy and Karen Peterson, 44.2 and 1.55.

Because production is averaged over the entire herd, the number of dry cows will affect the average which is intended to give the dairyman a record of his herd's earning power that month. If there are many dry cows, they will reduce the average even if cows in milk are good producers.

During December there were 29 DHIA herds and two owner-sampler herds on test with the association.

Mask Display At Public Library Through Tuesday

Thief River Falls public library will have a special mask display at the library through Tuesday. These masks were created by Nancy Ricci and molded from volunteers' faces while Mrs. Ricci conducted a Northwest regional library system children's touring program in November of 1986.

Masks created by Mrs. Ricci include a China doll mask made from the face of Leah Erickson of Roseau; a masquerade half-mask made from Sarah Glidden of Hallock; a sculptured and textured mask from Melanie Kadin of St. Hiliare; a white and black cat mask from Paul Kasprowicz of Greenbush; a Darth Vader mask from Christopher Kotlarz of Warroad; a multi-colored Pierrot mask from Kellie Schmiedelberg of Warren; and a felt, two-tone mask from Becky Walker of Red Lake Falls.

Also on display are some masks decorated by children at the mask-making programs Mrs. Ricci conducted at libraries in the NWRL system.

Workfare Bill Is Introduced In Congress

Representative Arlan Stangeland has introduced comprehensive welfare reform legislation. If passed, his proposal would require physically able individuals receiving aid to families with dependent children (AFDC), food stamps and public housing to perform community service work in exchange for their benefits. The program is often referred to as "workfare."

In his State of the Union message, President Reagan announced that welfare reform is necessary and is one of his major goals during his last two years. Like the President, many Congressional leaders believe a change in the system is needed and legislative action is expected this Congress.

"It is my hope that any change in the welfare system will include workfare," Congressman Stangeland said. "I sincerely believe a majority of constituents in my district feel those on welfare should work for their benefits just as taxpayers labored to make them possible.

"But besides doing their workfare, it will offer a meaningful and rewarding work experience to those who truly want to help themselves. This will help transform the welfare system from one which mandates guarantees and dependence, to one which provides incentive, opportunity and a return to the work ethic," the congressman added.

According to Rep. Stangeland, those exempted from participation in the national workfare program would be the disabled, those under age 18 and over age 65, people who work at least 40 hours per week, individuals responsible for the care of a small child, and full-time students. Participants would have up to eight hours per week to search for permanent work.

Adults Offered Funds To Attend College Course

Minnesota community colleges are once again offering an incentive for adults to try a college class via the Alliss Grant. The Alliss educational foundation of St. Paul is in its second year of providing the funds that gave 5,726 Minnesota adults an opportunity in the 1985-86 school year to enroll in a college class.

Those adults achieved a 3.27 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, proving that they can compete academically with the younger students. This year thousands more are taking advantage of this unique opportunity.

Persons who are 25 or older, have been out of high school or college for at least seven years and do not have a bachelors degree qualify for one class up to five credits, books and tuition totally free.

Contact person at Northland community college is Geri Howe. She can be contacted at the college, phone 681-2181.

Teen Suicide Is Up 60 Per Cent During '85 Year

Suicide rate rose by more than 60 per cent between 1984 and 1985 among young people 15 to 19 years of age in Minnesota, according to officials at the Minnesota department of health.

The rate for 1985 was 13.1 suicide deaths for every 100,000 people at that age group — 43 deaths in all — compared to 27 deaths and a rate of 8.1 suicide deaths per 100,000 population in 1984.

The suicide rate for teens 15-19 had remained fairly constant over the last several years, according to health authorities. The rate went from 8.3 deaths per 100,000 population in 1980, to 10.8 in 1981 and 1982, and back down to 8.0 in 1983.

The suicide rate also went up between 1984 and 1985 for Minnesota children aged 10-14 — from less than one death to nearly three deaths per 100,000 children in that age group. But because of the small number of incidents involved — just eight suicide deaths statewide during 1985 — department officials say it's hard to tell if the apparent increase for that age group is significant.

The new suicide statistics come from an analysis of statewide birth, death, marriage and divorce data for 1985, now being completed by the department.

Among the department's other findings:

Minnesota's infant death rate remained at an all-time low — 8.8 deaths per thousand live births — for the second year in a row. The rate for blacks, however, rose by nearly 40 per cent, from 11.3 deaths per thousand births in 1984 to 15.7 in 1985. The infant death rate for Indians in Minnesota was lower than the rate for whites for the second time, dropping from eight deaths per thousand births in 1984 to 6.4 in 1985, while the rate for whites dropped from nine to 8.9.

The state's leading causes of death remained unchanged for 1985, with heart disease accounting for 34.9 per cent of all deaths, followed by cancer (21.7 per cent), stroke (9.1 per cent), injuries (4.5 per cent), and influenza and pneumonia (4.1 per cent).

The average age of women giving birth in Minnesota continued to rise, reaching a six-year high of 26.6 years — compared to 25.6 years in 1980. Women giving birth before age 20 accounted for only 7.5 per cent of all births in 1985, compared to 10 per cent at the beginning of the decade. At the same time, women over 35 gave birth to 6.3 per cent of the babies born in 1985, compared with four per cent in 1980.

The Minnesota divorce rate remained at an eight-year low of 3.5 divorces per thousand residents. The marriage rate also went down from 8.7 marriages per thousand residents in 1984 to 8.4 in 1985 — but the average age for those marrying for the first time went up. The average bride was 23 years old in 1985 — compared with an average age of 21.9 years in 1980. The average groom was 24.9 years of age in 1985 — two full years older than in 1980.

TRF Rally Tops Bemidji

Trailing Bemidji 27-20 with 2½ minutes left in the third quarter, the Thief River Falls girls called a time-out, and promptly scored 15 unanswered points en route to a 43-35 high school basketball win at Bemidji Tuesday that kept the Prowlers unbeaten at 16-0 for the year.

It was a defensive struggle until the Prowlers' late-game offensive surve. The two teams played to a 7-7 first quarter draw and Thief River Falls trailed 15-13 at halftime. Bemidji's Traci Fausher scored three quick field goals in producing that 27-20 third quarter lead for the Lumberjacks, but a couple of Bemidji turnovers, and a Kelly Cornell basket off an inbounds play with just one second left pulled the Prowlers within 27-26 as the third quarter ended.

Thief River Falls kept up the attack in the fourth quarter, out-scoring Bemidji 23-8 over the game's final 10½ minutes. During that 15-point Thief River Falls run the Prowlers got points from all five players.

"They hung in there and found a way to win," offered Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "It was a very intense defensive ball game. It wasn't poor offense. It was tough defense on both sides."

Cornell led all scorers with 17 points, Brenda Russell added 15, but "it was a total team effort," according to Schafer who played the five starters the entire game, including freshman Rhonda Rothschadl, playing in place of senior Lisa Lillevold, sidelined two weeks for academic reasons. Fausher led Bemidji with 11 points.

Thief River Falls was 16-for-47 from the field (34 per cent) and 11-for-21 at the free throw line (52 per cent). Bemidji was 15-for-49 from the field (31 per cent) and 5-for-10 at the line. The Prowlers had a 28-26 rebound edge, and Bemidji topped the turnover figures 16-9.

It was the second close Thief River Falls win of the 1986-87 season over Bemidji, with the Prowlers taking a 45-40 contest here Jan. 5.

In the preliminary games, Thief River Falls junior varsity climbed to 9-4 for the year with a 39-30 win, but Bemidji won the freshman game 48-30 to drop Thief River Falls to 1-9.

Thief River Falls hosts Crookston Thursday.

MCCC Hockey Race Heats Up

Five teams remain in the running for the four available Minnesota Community College Conference state hockey tournament playoff positions heading into the final week of the 1986-87 regular season schedule.

University of Minnesota-Crookston is the front-runner with an 11-1 mark in MCCC play, followed by Mesabi at 11-3, Northland 9-3, Itasca 9-4 and Hibbing 9-4. Brainerd, Vermilion and Rainy River are out of the race, and Fergus Falls is out of the MCCC, period, following a surprise move this week when school officials said the second-year program was being immediately dropped for the rest of the season.

It'll be showdown time this week for those remaining in the race, starting tonight (Wednesday) when Northland and UMC tangle at 7:30 p.m. in Crookston. Itasca meets Rainy River tonight at International Falls.

A pair of key weekend series will be played in northwestern Minnesota when Mesabi takes on Northland in Thief River Falls Friday night at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., while Hibbing drives to UMC.

Fergus Falls was scheduled to be in Grand Rapids for a weekend series against Itasca, but the Vikings will be picking up a pair of easy wins in forfeit style instead.

League play winds up with UMC at Northland Monday, and with Hibbing at Rainy River and Itasca at Vermilion Tuesday.

Playoffs start the following weekend. Top four finishers in the regular season league standings will be state tournament partivipants for the two-game, total-goal semifinal series that will send the No. 4 team to the site of the No. 1 team, and No. 3 at No. 2.

Possibilities are wide-ranging at this point. A certainty, though, is that Northland can win the MCCC title with sweeps over Mesabi and UMC. And coach Scott Bergland said the Pioneers are capable of accomplishing that feat, even though they're coming off a disappointing series against Itasca that found the Vikings going home with 6-3, 5-2 wins. Northland is 13-5 overall.

UMC is also coming off a pair of weekend losses, but they were 7-6, 11-9 nonconference setbacks at the hands of defending national champion NDSU-Bottineau.

Northland and UMC met earlier this year, with the Pioneers winning a 6-3 season-opening decision at Crookston Dec. 4. That was a nonconference contest. A Jan. 21 Northland-UMC match-up in Thief River Falls was postponed until Monday because of the weather.

Northland-Mesabi Hockey Series Will Be Free To Public

Hockey fans will be treated to a free weekend of Minnesota Community College Conference action at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena, compliments of the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association.

Northland and Mesabi will meet in MCCC-counting games Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1:30 p.m., and TRFAHA has "brought out" the arena for both games hoping to draw additional fans, who will be admitted free of charge both days.

Other activities during the games will include a Tiny Mite scrimmage between the first and second periods of Friday's contest, plus the usual Shoot for the Cat contest offered between the second and third periods of all Northland and Lincoln High School home hockey games.

French, Kreibich Combine Talents In Crookston Win

Nathan French did his thing at one end of the ice, and Todd Kreibich did his thing at the other end. Together the two Crookston juniors produced a 5-2 Section 8 high school hockey win over Thief River Falls Tuesday night at the Sports Arena.

French, a sharp-shooting center, had a hand in all five Crookston goals, scoring three times, and assisting on the other two scored by linemates Scott Sanders and Jeff Perrault.

Kreibich has been billed as the best goalie in Section 8, and he did nothing to tarnish that reputation Tuesday with a bundle of NHL-caliber saves to stiffle an aggressive Thief River Falls attack.

It was a strong effort on the part of the Prowlers, acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand, but they paid dearly for a couple of defensive mistakes, and failed repeatedly to capitalize on good scoring opportunities in falling to 6-10 for the year. The Pirates went home with a 14-3 record.

"We're disappointed in giving up five goals," said Grand. "We made some poor decisions defensively to give up some of those goals. And we could have easily scored five goals ourselves. Our goal-scorers were in alone, but couldn't put the puck in the net. That was the difference in the hockey game right there."

Two of the scoring opportunities that slipped away from the Prowlers were back-to-back breakaways by Bob Geatz and Scott Novak in the third period when Thief Rver Falls faced a 3-1 deficit. Kreibich stopped Geatz point-blank with 10:03 remaining, and just 34 seconds later came out to challenge Novak head-on, poking the puck off the stick of the Thief River Falls center.

"If we're going to beat the better teams in Section 8, we have to finish our breakaways, obviously," said Grand, "and we definitely can't leave people standing alone in front of the net like we did an expect to win."

Kreibich came up big in the first period, too, when he stopped Marty Levin on a goal mouth feed from Geatz midway through the period; turned back Jim Breiland in front; and stacked the pads on Geatz later in the period that ended in a 1-1 draw.

Crookston scored first when the Prowlers coughed up the puck in front of their own net. French was there, quickly converting the opportunity into a 1-0 lead at 4:03.

Defenseman Jason Lee tied it for the Prowlers with a slap shot from the point that ticked the edge of Kreibich's skate at 12:45.

Thief River Falls dominated the second half of the first period, but couldn't beat Kreibich.

Shayne Anderson, who is having an outstanding season in goal for the Prowlers, took the spotlight in the second period when he matched Kreibich's crowd-buzzing performance by stopping French and Perreault on a Crookston power play.

Crookston did convert on a power play, though, with French getting the goal at 5:57 on a low slap shot when he was left open on the point.

Thief Rver Falls' best scoring chance of the second period came on a 2-on-1 rush by Novak and Rob Coltom with 1:30 left, but the play was broken up by Crookston defenseman Rob Stinar.

A second Crookston power play goal at 4:17 of th third period made it 3-1 when Sanders wound up with the puck in front of Anderson, and beat the Thief River Falls junior with a backhand. It came with just five seconds left in a Dave Johnson tripping penalty, and after the Prowlers had almost completed an outstanding penalty-killing effort.

Breiland pulled the Prowlers within 3-2 at 7:36 when he pulled out a rebound on a shot by Rick Looker and put it behind Kreibich.

Anderson then stopped Chip Brekken cold when he got behind the Thief River Falls defense, but after a tremendous amount of Thief River Falls pressure around the Crookston net, the Pirates made it 4-2 when French put in his own rebound at 10:32.

Crookston's third power play goal of the night inflated the final when Perrault was fed in front from the corner by French at 14:41.

"It wasn't a 5-2 hockey game," pointed out Grand. "We controlled a lot of the game, and against a very good hockey team."

Thief River Falls will be at Roseau Saturday. The Prowlers finish their 1986-87 regular season schedule with home games Tuesday, Feb. 10, vs. Detroit Lakes; Saturday, Feb. 14, vs. Fergus Falls; and Tues., Feb. 17, vs. Warroad.

Scoring

First period — Crookston, Nathan French (Scott Sanders), 4:03; TRF, Jason Lee (Rob Coltom), 12:45.

Fergus Falls Community College Ends Season

Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

Fergus Falls Community College hockey team has ended its 1986-87 season prematurely, forfeiting its final three games, reportedly because of disciplinary problems.

The Spartans apparently lost a number of players, and officials at the school felt they simply wouldn't be able to field a competitive team for their final games last night (Tuesday) vs. the St. John's University junior varsity and this weekend against Itasca.

It's an unfortunate situation that affects the tight Minnesota Community College Conference race since Itasca, one of five teams fighting for four state playoff berths, will pickup two forfeit wins this weekend. At full strength Fergus Falls could have beaten Itasca, which would have opened the doors for other contenders like Hibbing, Mesabi, Northland and the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Northland had two tough games with Fergus Falls this winter. The Pioneers spotted the Spartans a 4-0 first period headstart before winning an 8-6 shoot-out here Dec. 17, and just last week rallied in the third period to escape Fergus Falls in a 4-2 win.

Fergus Falls plans to be back in the MCCC hockey ranks in 1987-88.

TRF Boys Meet Otters

Thief River Falls boys will try to improve their stock in the North Sub-Region 8AA basketball race the next two Friday nights when the Prowlers visit Fergus Falls, then host Bemidji in Feb. 6 and 13 assignments, respectively.

First round match-ups will feature Grand Rapids vs. Grand Forks South at 8 a.m., Fergus Falls vs. Rosemount at 9:45 a.m., Brainerd vs. Cloquet at 11:30 a.m. and Thief River Falls vs. Grand Forks North at 1:15 p.m.

Semifinals in both the championship and consolation rounds will be played Saturday afternoon and evening.

Sunday's slate of games will include the seventh place contest at 9 a.m., the consolation final at 11 a.m., third place game at 1 p.m. and championship game at 3 p.m.

All games — with the exception of the Thief River Falls-Grand Forks North opening round game at the Old Arena — will be played at the Sports Arena. The Thief River Falls-Grand Forks North game was moved to the Old Arena to accomodate a 1:30 p.m. Northland vs. Mesabi Minnesota Community College Conference game at the Sports Arena.

Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) Bantam A parents invite fans to attend the tournament, featuring 13-14-year-olds, who graduate from the Bantam program into the high school ranks.

Swimmers Top Fosston

Thief River Falls boys sport a 6-1 dual meet record following a 53-29 Tuesday night high school swimming win at Fosston.

The Prowlers were expected to win, and they did. "We had an opportunity to mix up the varsity line-up, and were encouraged by the times turned in by the kids in events they don't normally compete in," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney.

Paul Giauque and Joe Drevlow were Thief River Falls Section 8 qualifiers during the meet in the 50 freestyle and 100 butterfly, respectively. The Prowlers recorded nine career-best efforts and five season-best performances.

Good efforts, said Forney, came from Keith Olson, who was less than one second from qualifying in the 200 I.M.; Aaron Tofte in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly; and Shon Thompson, the Prowlers' Section 8 title-challenging diver.

"Shon turned in a very good showing in light of using a dive list of low-degree difficulty dives," pointed out Forney, who also watched Giauque and Rick Rosetta try their hand at three dives each, scoring well on their attempts.

Eagles Lose 46-33 Contest To Roseau

Grygla coach Vern Johnson used just one word to describe his team's performance in a 46-33 boys high school basketball loss at Roseau Tuesday: dismal.

The Eagles netted just eight first half points in losing for the third time in their last four starts to fall to 6-6 for the year.

Roseau wasn't all that productive, either, as the two teams played to a 2-2 first quarter stalemate and the Rams took an 18-8 lead into halftime. Grygla managed to pull within 26-20 at the end of the third quarter, but lost ground over the final eight minutes.

Thor Smerek of Grygla led all scorers with 14 points. Matt Anderson led Roseau with 11 points.

Grygla shot just 28 per cent from the field (13-for-46). Roseau wasn't much better with a 37 per cent effort (18-for-49). Grygla was 7-for-11 at the free throw line (64 per cent), where Roseau was 10-for-17 (59 per cent). The Eagles had a 34-29 rebound edge. The turnovers were even at 16-apiece.

The Eagles host Lake of the Woods Saturday.

Tri-County . . . . . 56
Middle River . . . . . 40

Middle River held high-scoring Brandon Bergeron to just 9 points for 29 minutes Tuesday, but the 6-6 senior, who went over the 1,000-point mark for his career a week earlier with a 33-point showing against Thief River Falls, erupted for 12 points over the final three minutes in the Rabbits' 56-40 win at Karlstad.

"We played a pretty good ball game," pointed out Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We did an excellent job keeping the ball away from Bergeron."

Tri-County had a 19-9 first quarter lead, a 28-21 halftime edge and a 40-28 third quarter cushion. But Middle River started the fourth quarter with a rush to pull within 40-34. Sparby then elected to go with a half-court trap defense in an attempt to win the game down the stretch, but Tri-County beat the defense repeatedly by throwing the ball over the Skippers to Bergeron, producing a bulk of his points and accounting for the 16-point victory margin. The Skippers could have sat on the ball down the stretch and kept the score close, but they wouldn't have won doing it that way, explained Sparby. They gambled trying to win it, and lost.

Middle River was 16-for-51 from the field (31 per cent) and 8-for-10 at the free throw line. Tri-County was 22-for-48 from the field (46 per cent) and 12-for-25 at the line (48 per cent). The Rabbits had a 31-27 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 19-15.

The 5-10 Skippers host Lake of the Woods Friday.

Tri County — Brandon Bergeron 21, Keith Sylskar 6, Rick Thompson 10, Shannon Boen 9, Daniel Caufield 10.

THIEF RIVER FALLS goalie Shayne Anderson turned back Crookston wing Scott Sanders as defenseman Jason Lee of the Prowlers tried to clear the puck during the second period of Tuesday's Section 8 high school hockey game played here. The Pirates beat the Prowlers 5-2, breaking open a close game in the final minutes.

NCC Basketball Teams Tackle Division Foes

Back-to-back Northwest Division assignments for the Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams against the University of Minnesota-Crookston and Fergus Falls will go a long way in determining the Pioneers' title chances and Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament hopes.

Northland will be at UMC Thursday and the Pioneers will host Fergus Falls Monday. Both are double-headers, with the women playing at 6 p.m. and the men playing at 8.

There was a key Northwest Division twinbill played in Crookston Tuesday when Fergus Falls beat the UMC men 90-86 and UMC stopped the Fergus Falls women 74-63. The winners are both unbeaten in MCCC play and enjoy spots in the state rankings, where the Fergus Falls men are No. 2 and the UMC men share the No. 1 spot with Willmar.

Northland men are 5-1 in MCCC play and need a win at UMC to set up a first place showdown with Fergus Falls Monday. Northland women match the Trojans' unbeaten status in the MCCC.

Top two finishers in each of the four statewide divisions — Northwest, Northeast, Southern and Central — earn state tournament spots later this month.

Both Northland teams have nonconference games on the agenda, too. Coach Chet Engelman's men's team will host NDSU-Bottineau Saturday at 2 p.m. and coach Tom Neibauer's women's team will entertain Lake Region Tuesday at 7 p.m. Lake Region is tied atop the Region 13 rankings with Wahpeton.

The Cardinals climbed to 12-2 with the win, but it wasn't one of thier better outings, admitted Plummer coach Rick Koivisto. "The work ethic was there, but we missed a lot of easy shots."

Plummer was 21-for-57 from the field (37 per cent) and 10-for-19 at the free throw line (53 per cent). Red Lake Falls was 17-for-49 from the field (35 per cent) and 1-for-2 at the line. ## MCC . . . . . 80
Grygla . . . . . 54

An effective Marshall County Central press forced Grygla to turn the ball over, leading to a big 27-point second quarter for the Nordics, who went on to beat the host Eagles 80-54 Tuesday. The game was postponed from Monday because of the weather.

Marshall County Central doubled Grygla 20-10 in the first quarter and opened up a 47-22 halftime spread. It was 66-39 through three quarters.

"It was probably one of our better games, for a half, that we've played all year," reported Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We really played well in the first half. We got some easy turnovers off our press."

The win pushed the Nordics' winning streak to 12 games, putting them at 12-1 for the year. Grygla fell to 4-8.

"We had a lot of trouble with their press in the second quarter," pointed out Grygla coach Mike Gast. "They have a nice ball club. I can't see anyone beating them in the district."

Jodi Foss led the Nordics with 24 points. Andrea Kragness and Kari Boe both had 14, while Natalie Ueland and Kelli Anderson both netted 11. Wendy Lawrence had a game-high 28 points for the Eagles.

Marshall County Central was 35-for-63 from the field (55 per cent), while Grygla went 21-for-57 (37 per cent). The Nordics were 10-for-27 at the free throw line (37 per cent), where the Eagles were 12-for-25 (48 per cent). Marshall County Central posted a 33-22 rebound advantage. Grygla had more turnovers, 25-17.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Wildlife Poster Contest

Junior high school students across southern, western and central Minnesota will have an opportunity to compete in the third annual roadside wildlife poster contest this year.

Sponsored jointly by the Department of Natural Resources Roadsides For Wildlife Program and the Pioneerland Regional Environmental Council, the contest will emphasize the importance of grassy roadsides as wildlife habitat, especially in the state's farming areas.

According to the DNR sponsoring officials, the contest is intended "to promote awareness of the importance of grassy roadsides in maintaining healthy and secure wildlife populations." In the past two decades, the many songland birds, grassland songbirds, gamebirds and other farmland wildlife populations have declined by more than 80 per cent from elimination of safe nesting areas.

Prizes to be awarded include wildlife art prints, T-shirts, conservation wildlife books and art show admission tickets. The prizes are being provided by the Minnesota Wildlife Heritage Foundation and Pheasants Forever, Inc.

Students and teachers interested in entering the contest are urged to contact their school administrators or their DNR area wildlife manager by Feb. 9 for more information on contest rules and prizes.

Resource Bill Introduced

A variety of bills that would impact the state's natural resources have already been introduced into the 1987 Minnesota Legislature, including a measure that would use the revenue from unredeemed parimutual tickets at Canterbury Downs for the DNR's game and fish fund.

Under this legislation, an estimated $400,000 could be derived and used for developing, restoring and maintaining game habitat across the state.

Other legislation proposed by lawmakers calls for the passage of a rural development bill to establish a mineral resources program to accelerate the geological mapping of the state and evaluation of the state's mineral and other natural resources potential.

Additional proposals affecting natural resources call for amending the Boating While Intoxicated Law, provide titling for watercraft and expending up to $80,000 annually from the game and fish fund for beaver control and removal.

Explains DNR Funding

Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Joe Alexander has issued a background report to the Legislature outlining who pays for the Department's activities and how funds are obtained and spent to protect Minnesota's natural resources.

Alexander released the report especially for the benefit of some new lawmakers who do not know how the Department is funded or where the funds are spent.

The report explained that the three major funding sources include state taxes, user-supported fees and federal funds. Of these, state taxes provide 45.86 per cent of the total for Fiscal 1986. These revenues derive from income taxes, corporate income taxes, sales taxes and others, including the Legislative Commission on Natural Resources.

Through usage fees, users provide an estimated 49.41 per cent of the total DNR funding, with federal funds providing about 4.63 per cent of the total. Based on an average tax paid by individuals of $711 in 1986, the DNR receives about $6 of the $62 spent on state government, according to the report.

The Department received only .8 per cent of the state General Fund in 1986.

Oak Wilt

A little-known shade tree disease more widespread than Dutch elm disease has begun to drive down property values in the Twin Cities, according to Tom Polasik, metro regional forestry supervisor for the Department of Natural Resources. Oak wilt has destroyed trees from St. Cloud to Taylors Falls and now threatens forests in the northern suburbs, as well as trees in southern Minnesota, he said.

Oak wilt is caused by a fungus that clogs the water-conducting system of the tree. It spreads most easily in May and June, when beetles carry the disease to healthy oaks that have fresh wounds from construction activity, pruning and other human causes.

According to Polasik, homeowners who are intending to prune their oaks should do so now rather than wait until spring to ensure their trees' chances of survival.

"More than 200 communities statewide have been affected," said Polasik, "and the problem will worsen as metropolitan communities grow into the surrounding countryside. With a single large red oak worth thousands of dollars to residential properties, the impact can be devastating."

Polasik said an oak wilt survey conducted by the state Department of Agriculture showed that an average of 337 trees were lost annually in one metropolitan suburb. The trees have an estimated value of $4,000 each, resulting in an annual property value loss of $1,348,000 to that community.

Dr. David French, professor of Plant Pathology at the University of Minnesota, said it is not unusual for as many as 10 to 30 trees to be lost in a single yard in the metro area. "Virtually every new suburban development has had major losses due to oak wilt," he said, "and an intensified management program is needed to curb the spread of the disease. A small investment now will pay a tremendous dividend later."

TRF 7-1 Winner Over Crookston

Nick Stickler scored two goals to lead Thief River Falls past Crookston 7-1 Tuesday in junior varsity high school hockey action.

Single goals came from Hunter Boldt, Jason Brunkhorst, Kevin Holmes, Shawn Heinze and Sean Krepp as Thief River Falls improved its record to 5-8-2 for the year.

The Prowlers were 6-1 following a 68-51 win at Bemidji back on Jan. 3, but they've gone 2-5 since then to sit at 8-6 for the year. They're 1-2 against North Sub-Region 8AA teams and will have to improve upon that mark if they want a more favorable post-season position.

Fergus Falls is 7-4 for the year. The Otters have been idle since beating Detroit Lakes 66-55 last Tuesday.

That Detroit Lakes team has hit a slump, too, losing for the fifth time in six starts Friday in a 71-45 defeat at the hands of Crosby-Ironton. The loss was the worst setback of the year for the Lakers, who started the year in impressive fashion, including a 67-62 victory over Thief River Falls Jan. 6. The loss to the Rangers represented a 44-point swing on the scoreboard since Detroit Lakes had beaten the Rangers 61-42 when they met Dec. 12. The Lakers fell to 8-5 with the loss.

TRF Girls Quiet 16-0

Thief River Falls girls are a quiet 16-0 for the year following a come-from-behind 43-35 win at Bemidji Tuesday.

Even with an unbeaten record the Prowlers haven't received a single vote in the Class AA state basketball poll, but head coach Tom Schafer doesn't mind the anonymity at all. He's the first person to tell you the Prowlers are not an overpowering 16-0 team; they simply do the things required to win. It's a team without a superstar, but a team of good, solid, hardworking athletes. It's like the quote that appeared recently in the Minneapolis Tribune when the Anoka hockey coach described why his less-than-outstanding hockey talent was winning against tough competition: "Hard work beats talent when talent doesn't work hard."

Thief River Falls has four games left in regular season play, and three of them could be tough tests for the Prowlers, including Thursday when they host Crookston. Thief River Falls edged the Pirates 48-44 Jan. 8 in Crookston. They will also have to meet East Grand Forks for the third time this season Feb. 12 on the road, travel to Greenbush Feb. 14, then finish at home against a Fergus Falls team that whipped Wadena last night 66-29 to go 12-4 for the year.

Youth Hockey Events

Second of four youth hockey tournaments scheduled to be held in Thief River Falls — the VFW Bantam A Invitational — will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Teams from Grand Rapids, Grand Forks (North and South), Fergus Falls, Rosemount, Cloquet, Brainerd and Thief River Falls will make up the tournament, which will be sandwiched around a Northland vs. Mesabi Minnesota Community College Conference hockey game scheduled for a 1:30 p.m. start at the Sports Arena.

Quarterfinal and semifinal games will be completed Saturday. Seventh place, consolation final, third place and championship games will be played Sunday.

Hosting these tournamenst requires a great deal of work, most of it supplied through cooperation of Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) members. The end result is a real plus for the community, especially the motel and restaurant businesses.

Thief River Falls Bantam B Invitational was held Dec. 13-14. Following the Bantam A Invitational will be the Thief River Falls Pee-Wee A and Pee-Wee B Invitational February 28 and March 1, and the McDonald's Squirts In-House Invitational March 7-8. There will be 16 teams participating in those Pee-Wee and Squirts tournaments.

Wildlife Alliance Membership Grows Through Local Clubs

Fourteen local sportsmen's organizations have joined the Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance, the legislative arm of Minnesota's hunting, fishing and trapping community.

"When sportsmen's organizations join the Alliance, their volunteer participation adds real muscle to our ability to obtain the best legislative results for Minnesota hunters, trappers and fishermen," said Alliance Vice President, Gene Johnson.

The $16.2 million appropriated during the 1986 legislative session for the Re-Invest in Minnesota (RIM) program was a significant first step toward replenishing fish and wildlife habitat on Minnesota lands. But the biggest legislative challenge for Minnesota sportsmen in 1987 is to obtain adequate, long-term funding for RIM.

"The Alliance was formed to work for all Minnesota sportsmen," Johnson said. "We need the participation of every Minnesota Sportsmen's club in order to reach full legislative potential."

Fourteen new members include Ducks Unlimited, Grant County Sportsmen's Club, Kandiyohi Pheasants Forever, Southern Minnesota Conservation Association, Minnesota Trappers Association, Minnesota Valley Retriever's Club, Nicollet Conservation Club, North Beltrami Sportsmen's Club, Ottertail Rod and Gun Club, Prior Lake Sportsmen's Club, Redwood County Pheasants Forever, The Ruffed Grouse Society, Fergus Falls Fish and Game Club, and Steven's County Pheasants Forever.

Other members of the Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance are the Minnesota Deerhunters Association, Minnesota Sportfishing Congress, Minnesota State Archery Association, Minnesota Waterfowl Association, Minnesota Wildlife Heritage Foundation, Muskies, Inc., Pheasants Forever, Safari Club International, Turn in Poachers, Fish and Wildlife Employees Association, Minnesota Trappers Association, and Minnesota Bowhunters, Inc.

Outdoor News

Minnesota has more shoreline than California and Oregon combined.

Minnesota raises and hatches nearly one-half of all walleyes on the North American continent. In 1986 the state stocked 5.5 million fingerlings weighing a total of 100 tons.

World's smallest deer, a South American animal called the pudu, stands only about 15 inches high, about the size of a cocker spaniel. According to International Wildlife magazine, this diminutive creature is also remarkably elusive. An American biologist who has been studying pudus for nearly a decade has never seen one in the wild.

Frustrated by coyote raids on their sheep and goats, some Texas ranchers are turning to an unlikely ally — the jackass. National Wildlife magazine reports that while donkeys won't kill coyotes, they do chase them away. So far, at least 100 ranchers have decided to give them a try. Still, only females need apply. Male donkeys are apparently too ornery to be trusted, and might even attack the animals they're supposed to guard.

Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance is strongly opposed to financing the Re-Invest in Minnesota (RIM) program or servicing the debt for RIM bonds with the proceeds from a possible container deposit law. This idea is being considered by officials of Minnesota state government.

Members of the Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance and other RIM Coalition members met with Governor Rudy Perpich and Lt. Governor Marlene Johnson to discuss financing for RIM.

"Sportsmen do not want to tie the future of a vitally important program with broad based public support — namely the RIM program — to controversial legislation which has been opposed by many Minnesotans including retail businesses throughout the state and organized labor. We think this would be bad public policy. It just doesn't make good sense to finance RIM this way, basing the future of our fish and wildlife resources on a house of cards," said Alliance President Steve Akre.

"We know it will not be easy for the Legislature to finance RIM at the level we recommend, $60 million a year," Akre said, "but there has to be a better way than linking it to a controversial program which does not even exist and may never exist." The Alliance supports establishing a Trust Fund to finance RIM. A small fraction of the state sales tax would provide the revenue support for the Trust Fund.

Akre said that in addition to public and legislator support for RIM, a major reason the bill became law in 1986 was the strong commitment of Governor Perpich.

"The Governor is one of the biggest and most effective champions of RIM. Minnesota sportsmen recognize this and applaud our Governor for all he has done. We strongly support the Governor's decision to keep RIM separate from container deposit and other non-related legislation. We will work with Governor Perpich and the Legislature to find a reasonable, secure way to finance RIM and ensure abundant, accessable fish and wildlife resources for future generations of Minnesotans," Akre said.

Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance is the legislative arm of Minnesota's hunting, fishing and trapping organizations.

Waterfowl Awards

Each year the Minnesota Waterfowl Association (MWA) honors individuals who, through their commitment to the waterfowl resources, have made lasting valuable contributions.

Recipients for the 1986 MWA Conservationists Awards include Timothy Bremicker, St. Paul - winner of the Professional Award; Denny Haines, Burnsville - winner of the Citizen's Award; Gordon Ekberg, Herman - winner of the Pioneer Award; Burger Brothers, Minneapolis - winner of the Magnum Donor Award; Ronald Moen, St. Paul - winner of the Robert J. Lick Scholarship; and, the Scott-Le Sueur Chapter, based in the New Prague area will receive the Chapter Of The Year Award.

Presentations of the awards are made at the Association's fifth annual buffalo dinner awards program at the Thunderbird Motel, Bloomington on February 7.

MWA is a private non-profit organization dedicated to the creation, restoration and preservation of wildlife habitat in Minnesota. The Minnesota Waterfowl Association, through proceeds from memberships, fundraisers, and donations, has benefitted Minnesota's wildlife for twenty years.

State Park Catalog

Now Minnesotans have a convenient way to demonstrate their support of the Minnesota state parks. Wayland Porter, Acting Director of the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation, said that Commissioner Joseph N. Alexander will be announcing the release of the first state park gift catalog January 24 at a news conference at Fort Snelling State Park. The gift catalog is a guide for giving to the state parks. It contains a listing of the highest priority needs of the park system from computers to outhouses, and is designed to give donors an easy way to help the parks.

Not only is the catalog expected to help preserve and maintain the state's spectacular park system, one of the finest in the United States, but it will also help raise the public consciousness about the parks, help alleviate the instability of funding, and allow citizens to target their donations toward the projects, programs and services they choose.

Gift catalog is a booklet compiled of specific needs of each of the 64 state parks. According to Porter, "The Gift Catalog will give Minnesotans the chance to become an important partner in providing the best in outdoor opportunities." Porter also stated that the goal of the gift catalog program is to generate $1,000,000 for the state parks during the next two years.

Because of the 1986 Tax Reform, Minnesotans are encouraged to update their financial portfolios to ensure themselves maximum financial benefits and ensure maximum benefits to the Minnesota state parks.

"Individuals who make charitable ibutions to the state parks may be able to also claim a deduction now for gifts to be donated in future years. Strategic planning and updating of financial portfolios can make an important difference in benefits both to individual donors and to the future of Minnesota's natural heritage," stated Larry Berger, financial planner at Berger& Associates of Edina. Berger has been providing advice and assistance to the Division of Parks and Recreation related to the development of the gift catalog.

Gift catalog program is a great way for individuals, organizations and businesses to take on a project that will benefit all citizens as well as underscore their commitment to the present and future of Minnesota's natural and cultural opportunities.

Donations from businesses, individuals, groups and organizations can be made in a variety of ways. The recent donation by the Honor Order of the Cootie of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to Fort Snelling State Park will provide a handicapped accessible parking area at the site of the new fishing pier. "This is an excellent example which illustrates the type of partnership we hope the gift catalog will stimulate," stated Bobbie Gallup, State Park Visitor Services Coordinator.

Gallup also noted that the production of the gift catalog was accomplished totally through the support of Minnesota businesses. Tom Williams, owner of Williams Advertising and Communications of Minneapolis provided design services as well as professional advice and assistance throughout the planning of the gift catalog. Paper for the gift catalog was contributed by Anderberg-Lund Printing Company of St. Louis Park. Printing of the catalog was donated by Arrow Printing of Bemidji.

Over the next two years, many special events are planned to increase public awareness of the opportunities for support of the Minnesota state parks. The first event, to be held February 14 at Afton State Park, will be the Minne Soda Classic. The day will offer visitors a lot of winter fun and frivolity focusing on the gift catalog and opportunities for participation. Sponsorship of the event will include Coca-Cola, Nike, Wiederkehr Hot Air Balloons and a host of other agencies and businesses.

Porter stated that it is becoming increasingly difficult to stretch public budgets to cover all the needs of the state parks. "State parks are for everyone," Porter said, "and the gift catalog will help Minnesota go above and beyond its present capability of developing and providing services in each park."

For a copy of the catalog, Minnesotans are aksed to contact the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Information Center toll free at (800) 652-9747 or in the metro area at 296-4776. For more information regarding the news conference or the catalog, contact the Division of Parks and Recreation at 612-296-8396.

Over $2 billion is spent on outdoor recreation each year in Minnesota, about half of which is spent on hunting and fishing.

Minnesota's 6 million acres of peat resources are the largest of any state in the contiguous United States.

DNR State Park Director Retires From 13-Year Post

Minnesota State Parks Director, Don D. Davison retired December 23, after serving 13 years as the head of this Department of Natural Resources division.

Davison is best known for his personal skills in working with the public, state legislature and private sector recreation providers to further the system's mission of preservation and recreation. He sited the addition of Tettegouche State Park as a major accomplishment of his administration. "Tettegouche was a rare opportunity to set aside for the public a pristine resource of that size," Davison said in a recent interview. The 4,700 acre park which opened this fall, is located on the Baptism River on Lake Superior's North Shore.

Expansion of recreation opportunities available in the parks and acquisition of land for existing parks were also mentioned as accomplishments. Davison emphasized his desire to expand these areas for present and future use and preservation. Davison also developed relationships with private recreation providers. "Working with groups like the Minnesota Association of Campground Owners and resort associations has been beneficial to all users of Minnesota's recreation resources," he said.

Davison feels that public service and quality of the experience are issues the system must address. "We need to understand the public better, find out what expectations they have of the parks and determine how we can meet those needs without permanent harm to the resource." He emphasized the need to service park visitors, indicating the changing philosophy of state parks from facility operation to providing a recreation experience, and the training needed to complete the change.

In 1982 and '83 Davison was president of the National Association of State Park Directors. In addition to that nationwide perspective, Davison spend most of his vacations camping in state parks across the country. He said he felt Minnesota was providing national leadership on several issues: strengthening interpretive programs, marketing outdoor recreation and providing intensive training in public relations for all employees (including some 600 summer employees).

Davison said that his greatest disappointment during his administration was not being able to acquire the St. Croix River Trail. The trail would have followed an abandoned railroad right of way from Mississippi River junction (north of Hastings) to Stillwater. "It was a once in a lifetime opportunity," he said, "it would have been the finest trail in the state." Private holdings and legal complications prevented the acquisition.

Following retirement, Davison plans to remain active in the protection of the state's national resources. "As a citizen I plan to continue to support the preservation and wise management of our resources." He added that he will be involved in natural resources acquisition and mangement through citizen organizations.

Davison also plans to continue traveling and visiting parks across the country. "I want to enjoy the outdoor facilities that many have worked hard to provide," he said.

A dinner and program honoring Davison was planned for January 16 at McGuires Inn, Arden Hills.

DNR Waters Head

Ron Nargang, director of the Minnesota Soil and Water Conservation Board, has been appointed director of the Division of Waters in the Department of Natural Resources.

Commissioner Joseph N. Alexander, who made the appointment, said Nargang will replace Larry Seymour, who is becoming the division's water-planning manager.

"Nargang's experience and training will be a great asset in implementing our new effort: Directions For Natural Resources," Alexander said.

Nargang, 35, has served as the executive director of the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District in the Chicago metropolitan area. He moved to Minnesota in 1976 and became assistant director of the Minnesota Soil and Water Conservation Board. He was appointed director of the board in 1984.

Nargang predicts that "water will be the big issue in the next decade, even eclipsing the energy issue." He said he views his appointment as "a great opportunity and challenge."

A native of Iowa, he studied at the University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point, where he received a B.A. degree in natural resource management.

Of the 33 states that have income-tax checkoffs for nongame wildlife, Minnesota has the highest rate of donations: donations are made on 10 per cent of all Minnesota tax returns, generating about $800,000 per year.

DNR NEWS

State Park Fun

"Solitude" is the single most frequent response when campers are asked why they camp in winter's harsh conditions. They are rarely disappointed, even in state park campgrounds that are booked up weeks at a time in the summer.

"In William O'Brien State Park, which has a 60-unit campground, a winter camper would likely be the only one there," said William Weir, regional park manager for the Department of Natural Resources. "Winter camping is an individual choice," agreed John Fylpaa, park naturalist for Lake Bemidji State Park and leader of a winter camping program there.

What do winter campers do with all that solitude? They may fill their days cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, ice fishing or snowmobiling. Other than swimming, those who camp in the winter spend their time in nearly the same activities as in the summer except that their pleasure is in staying warm instead of cooling off.

Ironically, even though most summer campers say they enjoy the wildlife, winter campers are more likely to surprise deer, fox or woodland birds because winter temporarily lifts the veil of summer's camouflaging foliage. The frigid air also eliminates mosquitoes and other pesky insects that prevent entrance to remote, pristine wildlife settings. Winter hikers and photographers can also track wildlife more easily when there is a light cover of snow, sometimes against a backdrop of strikingly beautiful winter scenes.

All of these activities — skiing, snowshoeing, ice fishing, hiking — are possible in Minnesota state campgrounds, none of which are closed in the winter. Winter visitors may not be able to enjoy a hot shower or have the convenience of flush toilets, but basic survival amenities such as hand pumps and pit toilets are open year round.

Even though winter camping can be an unforgettable experience, Fylpaa strongly cautioned first-time campers to prepare thoroughly and learn what to expect by talking to experienced campers or participating in a class such as the winter campout program he is leading in Lake Bemidji State Park. "Winter is not as forgiving as other seasons of the year," he warned. He offered the following tips on winter clothing, shelter sleeping bags and nutrition.

Lightweight layers of clothing will keep a winter camper warmer than a single, heavy garment. Two or three layers of winter clothing are generally sufficient because active campers generally produce enough body heat to keep hypothermia at bay. Fylpaa advised against using cotton fabrics, because they absorb perspiration and eventually cause chilling. He recommended synthetic fabrics such as polypropylene, which has a wicking effect that draws moisture away from the body so that it can evaporate into dry winter air.

A tent is a good winter shelter if the snow drifts are not very deep because it protects against the wind. A tarp will protect against frost if no tent is available. If temperatures are warmer and the ground is dry, experienced campers can sleep under the stars with only a good sleeping bag.

Choice of a sleeping bag depends on weather conditions. If the weather is relatively dry, then down bags are the best choice. Down is superior in insulating factors than most synthetics, is lighter and provides more loft, which is the thickness of dead air space. However, if rain or high moisture is present, then a synthetic bag would be preferred for its ability to keep out moisture. A down bag with a synthetic backing is uncommon, but good. A winter bag is rated by the pounds of fill it contains and should generally contain three to four pounds for below zero temperatures. Fylpaa suggested enclosing a summer bag with a winter bag to provide a combination winter bag.

"The foremost problem of unprepared winter campers is dehydration," said Fylpaa. Along with plenty of water canteens, campers should plan high-energy foods that are high in fat and low in sugar.

Dam Safety Repairs

Seepages, cracks and erosion were repaired on four publicly owned dams last year with the help of $131,000 from the Department of Natural Resources, said Craig Regalia, supervisor of the DNR's Dam Safety Program.

Projects completed with DNR grants included the Red Lake River Dam owned by the City of Thief River Falls; the Hartley Dam owned by Duluth; Chisago County's Kost Dam on the Sunrise River; and Renville County's Mud Lake Dam.

"In addition to improving public safety, the repairs allow the dams to continue their functions of water-level control, hydropower, flood control, water supply, or recreation," Regalia said.

Work to the Red Lake River Dam, a hydropower facility, included the repair of embankment erosion and a scour hole at the base of the dam, Regalia said. The total cost was about $170,000, of which the DNR paid $51,000.

Hartley Dam on Tischer Creek in Duluth's Woodland neighborhood provides a wildlife and recreation area. Cracked abutment walls were replaced at a cost of $110,000; the DNR paid $50,000.

Kost Dam on the Sunrise River near North Branch, once used for hydropower, provides an area for fishing and other recreation in a Chisago County park. Repairs, which corrected excessive seepage through the earthen embankment, cost $28,00; the DNR paid $14,000.

Mud Lake Dam near Fairfax backs up a marshy lake that is important to waterfowl and othe wildlife. Seepage ad erosion were undermining the dam. Repairs cost $30,000. The DNR's share was $15,000.

Under the grant program the local units of government complete the required engineering and construction and are then reimbursed by the DNR for part of the costs, Regalia said. The Legislature appropriates the funds, and the grants are administered by the Division of Waters through the Dam Safety Program.

Shrub Packets On Sale

Landowners who wish to establish or enhance year-around wildlife habitat can order Four-Season Shrub Packets containing 500 seedlings of 10 tree and shrub species.

Packets can be ordered through any Department of Natural Resources Forestry office, Soil Conservation Service office or county extension agent. Each packet costs $125 plus sales tax.

The packet includes 50 seedlings of each of the following species: Nanking cherry, wild plum, western sandcherry, Juneberry, red osier dogwood, Russian olive, contoneaster, ginnala maple, Manchurian crab, and red splendor crab.

"With that mix of species it will provide food throughouth the four seasons to a variety of wildlife," said Miles Wiegend, nursery coordinator.

Packets were developed by the DNR Forestry and Wildlife divisions and the Minnesota Nurserymen's Association. The package includes planting suggestions.

Stock is available for 400 packets. Orders will be taken until March 20 or until seedlings no longer are available, said Wiegand.

Forest Plan Available

Department of Natural Resources has released an updated draft of its Minnesota Forest Resource Plan for public review. Originally published in 1983, it contains provisions for protecting, managing, and using Minnesota's nearly 17 million acres of forest, and a budget for the Division of Forestry during the next five years.

Public comments will be accepted through March 1, at which time the plan will be completed. To review the plan, interested persons can call or visit DNR regional offices in Brainerd, Bemidji, Grand Rapids or Rochester, or stop in at the DNR headquarters, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul.

The plan was required by the 1982 Forest Resource Management Act. Proposed budget and staffing levels are in the plan.

Hummingbird Gardens

When seed catalogues grace their mailboxes, Minnesota gardeners can begin planning to attract hummingbirds to their yards by ordering specific-nectar-producing-plants. Many plants and several landscaping ideas are described in "Landscaping for Wildlife," a book to be published this spring by the Nongame Wildlife Program, Department of Natural Resources.

Flower nectar and tiny insects are the hummingbird's preferred diet. Because of its high rate of metabolism, a hummingbird may eat more than one-half its weight in food and eight times its weight in fluids each day.

Hummingbirds are most abundant in the forested northern portion of Minnesota, although they can occur in most other parts of the state when they migrate north in May and south in August and September.

Hummingbirds, the state's smallest native bird, are especially attracted to red, tubular-shaped flowers. A good strategy is to plant some flowers that bloom in early summer and some that bloom in late summer.

Early-blooming plants might include American columbine, red petunias, foxglove, fuchsia, and "firebird" penstemon. Later-blooming flowers are scarlet bergamot, cardinal flower, dwarf blue gentian, scarlet trumpet honeysuckle, plantain lily, scarlet runner bean, salvia (scarlet sage) and scarlet trumpet vine. Shrubs that attract hummingbirds are coralberry and weigela.

Other flowers that will attract hummingbirds are jewelweed, coral bells, blazing stars, and phlox. You may even wish to plant a whole collection of these "hummingbird flowers" in one area to create a hummingbird garden.

In addition to planting "hummingbird flowers, the DNR recommends donating to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff on your state income tax and property tax forms to fund projects that aid nongame wildlife such as hummingbirds.

Ice Fatalities

Winter of 1986-87 will likely be remembered for its brown Christmas, nearly balmy January temperatures, lack of snow and, unfortunately, for the number of people who fell through the ice.

Seven ice-accident fatalities have occurred so far this winter — more than double last winter's season total of three. And the approximately 70 vehicles driven through the ice since last fall are the "largest number ever reported," according to Kim Elverum, Department of Natural Resources boat and water safety coordinator.

All of the seven people who died were on and in a vehicle when they crashed through the ice. In the wake of these tragedies, Elverum advised Minnesotans to continue using extreme caution, despite the recent cold weather.

The dangerous ice situation is caused not so much by overall ice melting, but by weak spots created by currents and exacerbated by the mild weather of early winter. "This has occurred on almost every lake in southern Minnesota, and some northern lakes as well," said Elverum.

Also dangerous are aeration system areas. These are normally posted with warning signs. Aeration systems oxygenate the lake and create open water to reduce fish winterkill. This year most lakes have naturally occurring open water; so many aeration systems have not been started.

Bruce Gilbertson, DNR metro area fisheries supervisor, reported seeing many lakes with naturally occurring open water on his routine aerial survey of fish houses during the week of Jan. 12. Most of the open water appears to be near lake inlets and outlets.

Gilbertson also reported an alarming number of pressure ridges and large cracks in the ice. Pressure ridges occur when expansion and contraction cause the ice to buckle and overlap in a weak spot — an especially dangerous area.

The same warm weather that caused dangerous ice conditions is luring ice anglers out in higher than usual numbers. Gilbertson reported seeing 400 more metro area fish houses than in his survey last year. He also said there were "many more open-ice-anglers" this year.

All Minnesotans are cautioned to check ice conditions before venturing on the ice. The DNR publication, "Danger! Thin Ice" describes ice safety measures and is available free by calling toll-free 1-800-652-9747 (ask for the DNR).

Remember when many schools were overcrowded and we needed portable buildings or whatever??? Then the baby boomers of the 60's grew up!! They gradually left elementary and high schools, and then colleges became relatively empty. The demand for teachers decreased. We said, "where have all the children gone?" They're coming back now. According to a new census bureau report, there are now a great many young adults just the right age to have families and although the number of children per family has not increased, there has been an upward swing in births since 1980. There are now 2.5 million nursery-school age children — up 25% over 1980, and there are 3.8 million kindergarten age children, an increase of 17%. Watch out elementary schools!!! ### CORRECTIONS

Several errors in the Monday edition of the Times have been called to our attention. Dates for the Lincoln musical "The King and I" will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 26, 27 and 28 rather than March 27, 28 and 29 as listed. A typographical error in the story on the musical resulted in Rick Rosetta being listed as Rock Rosetta. And in the photo caption of Sno-Fest royalty, Jason Tangquist was identified by his father's name of Paul. All of which indicate the editor can get careless when writing copy at midnight Sunday for the Monday edition. We regret the errors which were our fault and are sorry about the others.

SWCD At Grygla Has Over $4,500 For Cost Sharing

Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district still has over $4,500 in state cost-share monies available to help local landowners apply conservation practices on their land.

Soo Line Plans To Supply Pasta Co. In Missouri

Soo Line Railroad company has signed a long-term agreement to move durum wheat from its gathering areas in the Dakotas and Minnesota to a new pasta production and milling complex to be built near Kansas City, MO.

Groundbreaking for the new $26 million facility, being jointly built for American-Italian Pasta company and American-Italian Milling company, took place in Excelsior Springs MO on January 30. The newly-formed companies are a joint venture of R. C. Thompson of Denver and Spigadoro-Petrini S.p.A., one of the 10 largest pasta manufacturing companies in Italy.

The complex will include approximately 150,000 square feet of space to accommodate separate durum million and pasta production areas. Adjacent elevator storage will house incoming durum wheat from Soo facilities in Canadian border states. Finished pasta products including macaroni, noodles and spaghetti which will be produced at Excelsior Springs are destined for grocers in Kansas City and other U.S. markets.

"The plant is important for midwestern grain producers because it opens new markets for durum wheat in domestic pasta production," Robert C. Gilmore, President of the Soo Line said.

Soo Line Railroad company will begin serving the facility once it is in full operation in 1988. The transportation agreement calls for Soo to move durum wheat from its gathering points in North Dakota, Minnesota or Montana, directly to the plant. The plant will initially be able to accommodate 25 covered hoppers at one time with expansion expected to handle 50-car trains in the future.

ONE LAST SONG. Jeanne Harger, music instructor for grades kindergarten through fifth grade for 27 years, is retiring. In an emotional farewell, Mark Twain students presented her with several gifts and sang several songs so that she will have "notes to remember them by." At the end of the party, Jeanne joined in singing one last song with her students.

Jeanne Harger To Leave Many Musical Memories

Jeanne Harger will leave a score of musical notes to remember her by. In fact 27 years of musical memories to be remembered in the communities of St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls.

"Jeanne has been a real professional person, really exceptional with people," said Glenn Espe, principal at Knox elementary in Thief River Falls.

For Jeanne, life is full of ups and downs. One of her most recent downs, she related during a reception for her, occurred recently when a little girl realized that Jeanne wouldn't be around for Easter. Jeanne said the little girl wondered if the new teacher would be able to teach them Peter Cottontail.

The 27 years Jeanne spent with school district 564 is only a small part of her musical career. Prior to working in school district 564, she worked for 12 years in many different towns. Jeannie graduated from high school in Richwood, OH. She attended Capital University, OH, Northwestern University, IL, and Ohio Wesleyan University, OH. She has taught school in Morral, OH, Magnetic Springs, OH, and Richmond, OH.

Jeanne began her musical career as a teacher in St. Hilaire in 1959. Alice Lendobeja, former fifth grade teacher, said she enjoyed everything she did. "It wasn't Christmas until Jeanne put on the beautiful concert that she did," she said.

Donna Poole, who met Jeanne when she began teaching at St. Hilaire, thinks of her as the lady with a smile. She always had a smile for the kids, she said.

Last week the teachers of school district 564 and friends held a reception for her and reminded her of memories and presented her with gifts. Last Friday the student body of Mark Twain elementary school in Thief River Falls, held an assembly for her and sang songs and presented her with several more gifts. She surprised them all at the end of the assembly and directed one more rousing chorus which she will remember for many years to come.

Northland Theatre To Produce New Farce 'Noises Off'

Northland community college theatre will produce the new farce comedy, "Noises Off," by Michael Frayn, with opening night set for Friday, February 13, at 8 p.m. in the Northland community college theatre in Thief River Falls. The show will also play Saturday, February 14, and Sunday, February 15, with all shows scheduled at 8 p.m.

Cast in the comedy are the following, who are either members of the Northland student body or Thief River Falls residents: Deb Hams, Bruce Folkedahl, Dan Bartsch, Key Teeters Asp, Jim Solsten, Rob Burkel, and Shelley Shern, all from Thief River Falls; Leslie Carlson from Erskine; and Alan Melvie from Viking. The show is under the direction of Northland theatre director, Roger Vaughan; assisted by Jim Solsten, recently retired from the Lincoln high school faculty.

British playwright, Michael Frayn, first conceived of "Noises Off" in 1970 as he stood in the wings of a London theatre watching a perofrmance of a quick-change, arms-flapping farce he had written for Lynn Redgrave and Richard Briters. "It was funnier from behind than in front," recalled Frayn, "and I thought, "One day I must write a farce from behind."

"Noises Off," the play that Frayn eventually wrote, details the catastrophic misadventures of a group of actors as they perform a comic farce titled "Nothing On" during a fleabag tour of small English towns. Act I is the final dress rehearsal of the play. Act II is the play seen from the backstage vantage point, and Act III is the play on its last legs at the end of its tour.

In theatrical lingo, noises off refers to commotion in the wings. In Frayn's play, the noises off are the backstage screams and war cries of the actors who are all wrapped up in a farce of their own. The playwright's unique idea was to set his second act behind the scenes at the performance of "Nothing On." While the players on the far side of the set invisibly hurl out their lines, those on the near side conduct a crazed pantomime with such lethal weapons as a fireman's ax, a wine bottle, a cactus plant, a bouquet of flowers, shoelaces laced together, and other slapstick props.

"Noises Off" opened to sensational reviews in London four years ago where it has been playing to packed houses ever since. The Broadway premiere of the play was equally sensational, and the hit received some of the most best critical notices in years.

Tickets will go on sale February 4 and will be available at Northland college, in the Faculty "C" office area; and at Larson Music company, Thief River Falls. All seats are reserved by row and seat number. Tickets will be available at the box office one hour prior to opening, each evening, though the director cautions that some performances are apt to sell out, as was the case fall quarter for the production of "The Foreigner." Admission prices are: adults, $3; students and Sr. citizens, $1.50; and Northland students, staff and faculty, no charge.

Director Vaughan reminds people that the show plays Valentine's day weekend, so encourages people to take their Valentines out for an evening of fun and frolic at the theatre!

Registered to compete in the event are Art Paulson, Scott Heinze, Jan Svendsgaard, Tom Cox and Vicki Pietruszewski, all of Thief River Falls; Shawn Wagner, Middle River; Riggie Nedreas, Bagley; Mike Murphy, Wadena; Cheryl Timm, Argyle; Calvin Harstad and Dawn Olson, Newfolden; Robert Shotwell, Miami, FL; and Pam Schultz, Babbitt.

ROBERT WURST DAY. Robert Wurst and his wife Mary Jane were guests at a reception in their honor Friday inside the Thief River Falls auditorium. Mayor Bob Carlson signed a proclamation last week proclaiming Friday as Bob Wurst day. Wurst recently retired from his duties as city attorney and from his practice of law. Wurst was city attorney for 37 years.

Bob Wurst Day Is Best Day For Wurst

Bob Wurst was appointed as the assistant city attorney on January 10, 1950 and he remained city attorney until he officially retired February 1. Mayor Bob Carlson signed a proclamation which was approved unanimously by the city council proclaiming last Friday as Bob Wurst day.

Upon the announcement of the proclamation the Mayor and city council requested Wurst to read the proclamation as has been done in the past. At the conclusion, Wurst said he was grateful to the community for allowing him to work for them so many years. Sometimes, he said, he acted more as a councilman than a "hired hand" but he did so because he felt more like one of the council members.

When Wurst was appointed in 1950 his salary was $50 per month. Theodore Quale was the city attorney at a salary of $125 per month.

To get a perspective on what was happening then, City Clerk Jerry Wigness, dug up city council proceedings for the year of 1950. During that year, a patrolman was reprimanded for not responding quickly enough to a flasher incident, which Wurst was requested to take statements and summarize the activity of. It was also the year a Federal grant for the airport in the amount of $14,000 was secured. Construction of an Armory was also being discussed and the city purchased a new black tudor eight cylinder police car from Tunberg's.

On January 8, 1952, a ballot count on the election of a city attorney indicated the election of Robert A. Wurst to such office.

Wurst is a graduate of the University of Minnesota school of law, St. Thomas college and Melrose high school. He grew up in Greenwald. Wurst moved to Thief River Falls and opened his own law practice in 1949. He was a Navy pilot for a time and was an active flying member of the reserve for approximately 15 years. Described as a very low key individual, he has been and continues to be very active. He

Suzanne Steidl Is Appointed To State Council

Governor Rudy Perpich recently appointed Suzanne Steidl, Thief River Falls, to the Minnesota state council for the handicapped.

Steidl is a teacher of multiply handicapped children for School District 564. As well as general teaching, she organizes the transdisciplinary team for the purpose of serving children with multiple needs in the rural area. A member of American Association on Mental Deficiency, the Association for the Severely Handicapped, Council for Exceptional Children and Minnesota Association for the Education of Young Children, Steidl also plays in the community band.

As a council member, Steidl plans to focus on birth to age three programming, transition programs for adults and programming for disabled rural residents. She will be representing economic development Region One comprised of Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake and Norman counties.

Established in 1973, the Minnesota state council for the handicapped exists to expand opportunities for and to promote the rights and independence of disabled children and adults to participate fully in society. This is accomplished by informing disabled persons and the public regarding available services and community opportunities; by encouraging cooperation and coordination among consumers and service providers; by advising the governor, state legislature, service agencies and the public; and by researching, formulating and advocating plans, programs and policies which will serve the needs of people with disabilities in Minnesota. Council members establish policies, determine program goals and priorities and oversee activities.

STEINER . . .

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Lloyd and Harryet Larson home were their daughters, Mrs. Dianne Kleinwachter of Strandquist and Marlo Solberg.

Alpha Halvorson and Opal Dargus were co-hostesses Wednesday evening for the Trinity Lutheran Naomi circle which met in the church library-lounge. Marzela Jorde attended the Trinity Rebecca circle in the church fireside room with Fern Williams and Beverly Holm as co-hostesses Thursday afternoon. Also Thursday afternoon Olive Rondorf and Rebecca Solem attended a meeting of the Trinity Sarah circle in the church library-lounge with Eleanor Dicken and Elma Ollie as co-hostesses.

A noon lunch guest at the Alfred Solem home Wednesday last week was Mrs. Eunice Stavenes of Grygla, who was soliciting subscriptions for The Farmer. Peter Solem, Robert and Andrew of Grand Forks were Saturday dinner guests. Sunday evening Doug and Cindi Solem and Zak Solem were visitors and lunch guests.

Wedding Reception

Among the many who attended the open house wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs Paul Rondorf Sunday afternoon at a local restaurant in Thief River Falls were LaVerne and Olive Rondorf, Mrs. Marzella Jorde, Ellen Bottem, James and Darlene Muzzy and Lester and Violet Muzzy. Olive and Marzella cut the cake. Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rondorf, more often known as Buddy Rondorf. He was married shortly before Christmas in Korea to Mok Yu Sun in her church. But in order to get her passport to come to the United States they had to be married again with the chaplain at the air base officiating.

Harold and Alpha Halvorson were among the guests at a progressive whist party Friday evening at the Alvin and Mildred Rondrof home in Rocksbury.

Sunday afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Leonard Yonke home were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bukowski of Middle River.

She's just a little girl, about four or five. Recently, she knelt by her bed to say her nightly prayer. "God, do you have any new stories? We've heard all the old ones at Sunday School many times."

People in charge of teaching and preaching would do well to hear the little one's frustration and try to tell the old, old stories with new enthusiasm and creativity.

New Stories

But there's something more surfacing here. It's this: God tells NEW STORIES every day for those with eyes to see.

God tells new and current stories through people who "give a cup of cold water in His name;" who touch the life of a young person on the skids; who nurse the aging in rest homes; who sit by offering damp towels for fevered brows in hospitals. God's NEW STORIES are all around us.

I have to believe that some of God's newest and greatest stories are still in the mind of God, just waiting for us to open our lives so he can tell the stories through us.

Yes, little one, God does have new stories. And through the likes of you, he will tell them if God is permitted by our commitments.

Eating Right Brings Good Health Later

During the last 20 years, research has revealed a link between nutrition and good health. Many chronic diseases, including high blood pressure, heart disease, cancer, osteoporosis and diabetes, have been linked to types of foods that people habitually eat.

Recent research suggests a relationship between high salt consumption and high blood pressure; low calcium consumption and osteoporosis; high fat, low fiber diets and certain cancers; and high blood cholesterol and heart disease. Eating the proper foods, however, can help lower your risk of these chronic health problems.

Eating right is particularly important for older Americans. As people age, they may need fewer calories, but their need for essential nutrients remains the same. In fact, it becomes even more important to select the right foods to maintain a healthy diet as you grow older.

In a recent study, many older Americans indicated that, while they were aware of the importance of nutrition, they were not sure what constituted nutritious, well-balanced meals. This confusion often results from conflicting information from family members, friends and the media.

The key to eating right is variety. No one food supplies all the vitamins, minerals, protiens and carbohydrates you need for a healthy life. You should select foods each day from each of the major food groups and choose different foods within those groups, too.

The major food groups include fruits; vegetables; cereals and other foods made from grains, such as breads; milk and dairy products, such as cheese and yogurt; and meats, fish, poultry, eggs and dry beans and peas.

Fruits and vegetables are good sources of vitamin A, vitamin C, folic acid, fiber and many minerals.

Whole-grain and enriched breads, cereals and other grain products provide B vitamins, iron, protein, calories and fiber. Fiber helps prevent constipation and promotes healthy digestive tracts. It may also help reduce your risk of cancers of the colon and rectum, according to recent evidence.

Meats, poultry, fish and eggs supply protein, fat, iron and other minerals, as well as several B vitamins.

Dairy products are major sources of calcium and many other nutrients. Recent research suggests that calcium may play a role in preventing osteoporosis.

Making selections from this variety of healthy foods can provide you with the variety of essential nutrients you need — without unnecessary calories. You should adjust the number and size of your portions to reach and maintain your desired weight.

Older people who eat a varied diet will not generally need vitamin and mineral supplements. There are no known advantages and some potential harm in consuming excessive amounts of any nutrient. Some medications, however, may interact with nutrients, and a doctor may prescribe supplements in such instances.

Another important part of healthy eating is cutting down on fats, sugar and sodium. Think about ways that you can eat less of them. More and more evidence indicates that eating less fat may lower your risk of colon, breast, prostate and skin cancers and may also reduce your risk of heart attacks and strokes.

Another reason to reduce your consumption of fats, as well as of sweets and alcohol, is to keep your weight down. These foods are all high in calories, but low in nutrients. If losing weight is important to you, eat more of a variety of foods like fruits, vegetables and whole grain breads and cereals. And increase your physical activity. Eating right — and regular exercise — is the best prescription for keeping your weight where you want it.

You may not even have to make big changes in your diet in order to eat healthier. If you plan to change your diet to a healthier one, follow these simple steps.

First, take stock of the foods you eat in a given week. Go over your list to see if you're eating a variety of healthy foods. If not, start to add the ones you're missing and reduce your intake of the ones that aren't as healthy.

Identify foods that have been linked to health problems. Check the product labels to see if foods are high in fat, salt or sugar. You may be surprised to discover the high level of salt in breakfast cereals, sugar in ketchup and fat in mayonnaise.

Follow the supermarket ads in your local newspaper to see what healthy foods are on sale.

You don't have to change your eating habits overnight. When you're used to eating and cooking in certain ways, it can be tough to change. But try it over time by adding healthy foods, reducing your fat, salt and sugar intake and changing a few of your cooking methods. You'll find that eating right is easy, inexpensive and sure to make you feel and look your best.

Productive Acres

When one considers how much finished product is provided by the yield from one acre of farmland the value of that production becomes a very impressive figure. Eddie Oaks, crops statistician for the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics service, provides some information that should be an eye-opener for farmers and other consumers alike.

Minnesota has about 93,000 farms which average 323 acres in size, Oaks points out. An acre of land measures roughly 80x60.5 yards or slightly smaller than a football field. According to Oaks, one acre of land will produce any of the following:

Wheat to make 2,442 one-pound loaves of bread; durum wheat to produce 1,691 one-pound boxes of spaghetti; sugarbeets to produce 918 five-pound sacks of sugar; oil-type sunflowers to produce 176 32-ounce bottles of cooking oil; potatoes to produce 80,400 one-ounce bags of potato chips; non-oil sunflowers to produce 1,100 one-pound bags of sunflower seeds in the shell; barley to yield 1,117 cases of beer; or support a dairy cow producing 2,750 half-gallon cartons of milk a year.

Farmers who want to figure out what their land produces in the way of finished product can multiply their average yield of one crop times the acres harvested for that crop, then multiply the total by the corresponding value listed below:

One bushel of wheat yields 66 one-pound loaves of white bread; one bushel of barley yields 506 12-ounce cans of beer; one ton of sugarbeets yields 270 pounds of sugar; 100 pounds of potatoes yield 25 pounds of potato chips; oil type sunflowers have oil content of about 40 per cent; and confectionery sunflowers may be considered at total pounds produced. (Food product conversions were compiled by the North Dakota Farm Bureau.)

The average farm produces enough food to feed 77 people but on many farms the production is much greater.

Brevity At What Cost?

There is nothing wrong with the effort to simplify tax forms at the state or federal level, as long as the objective is simplicity and not increased revenue. But sometimes those concerned about being brief are not as concerned about being reasonable.

For instance, the Minnesota department of revenue has proposed removing the voluntary contribution to the state's non-game wildlife fund (commonly called the "chickadee checkoff") from the state income tax short form. This could have the effect of eliminating about half of the non-game wildlife fund's total budget, or about $400,000.

It would seem that common sense would indicate to those at the revenue department that there was a reason for the checkoff line on the form and that it is so simple it should not be confusing to anyone, short form filers or not. Should the goal of tax form preparation not be simplicity as much as brevity?

Sportsmen who have purchased hunting licenses and paid excise taxes on arms and ammunition over the years recognize that the public lands they hunt benefit any number of non-game wildlife species. By paying to perpetuate their own sports interest, they have been subsidizing these other wildlife forms as a secondary benefit. There have even been a few non-hunters who have purchased licenses to support their outdoor interests.

For the most part, however, it has been the sportsman's money that has preserved habitat and permitted management for wildlife. The checkoff on the income tax form was a simple and effective way to allow those who have an interest in wildlife but do not hunt to make a token contribution to the welfare of the birds and animals they enjoy.

According to available information, about 13 per cent of the state's taxpayers choose to donate to support the 450 non-game species in Minnesota. The voluntary support has been growing each year since it began in 1980 as people became more familiar with the program.

Officials at the department of revenue have said Gov. Perpich's proposed budget would replace the money lost and that the checkoff line was removed to make the short form even shorter. That gives no assurance for the program in succeeding budgets. An editorial in the Bemidji Pioneer makes a good point when it states:

"Being able to eliminate a slim quarter of an inch from the short tax form seems a feeble reason for scuttling a grassroots program that's helping assure the survival of some of Minnesota's most precious natural resources — and joys."

You Pay The Toll

Congressman Arlan Stangeland reports that he has found it necessary to eliminate the toll free telephone number for his office because of increasing costs. The service to constituents will end February 5.

"Despite the loss of the toll-free number, we will continue to provide the high quality constituent service which we have done in the past by modifying the jurisdiction of the Moorhead and St. Cloud offices," a letter from the congressman's office in Washington states.

To us there seems to be a conflict in those statements. It might be like a farmer saying, "Although we will not be putting a seed in the drill this year due to increased costs, we intend to harvest the same high quality crops as we have in the past by modifying our combines."

Congressman Stangeland said that his Moorhead office will have jurisdiction for the counties of Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Ottertail, Pennington, Polk, Roseau and Wilkin. The St. Cloud office will have jurisdiction for Benton, Grant, Morrison, Sherburne, Stearns, Todd and Wadena counties.

We are not familiar with the costs involved for toll-free service to the congressman's office, who pays them or what the increase will be. In general we believe telephone service costs are a pretty good bargain for value received. And the congressman's toll-free service must be used: We just tried calling to ask a few questions about its planned elimination and the line was busy.

Our feeling is that elected representatives must make themselves as available to their constituents as possible. Paying a long distance phone toll will certainly be a barrier between the constituent and the official. Eliminating a couple of district-wide mailings of self-serving "news releases" or "letters to the editor" could go a long way toward paying increased phone charges if cost is really a determining factor.

We hope the congressman reconsiders his decision. Separating office jurisdiction is fine as a means of improving service, but there is no better means of allowing access to service than a free phone call. In this area of the country, where very little of anything isn't long distance, it is an especially important service.

"That's dew, honey," his mother corrected.

"Boy," the youngster agreed, "it sure do rain last night!"

YOUR TIMES

Since the age of six we are taught to look both ways before crossing the street. Our schools have safety patrols to help youngsters walk across the street safely. The elementary schools have them and Franklin Middle school has one.

But the high school doesn't. Why? Because when we are in high school we are expected to know how to walk across a street safely.

I was driving by the high school — by the gym where they load buses — when I saw a young boy run out into the middle of the street. I hit the brakes and turned the wheel so the car would go away from him. I didn't hit him, thank God, but he hit me; he ran right into the front fender of my car. When he ran out into the street he couldn't see me because he had his head turned back, looking at his friends. Do you think he looked both ways? I don't think so.

I hope this will never happen to me again. Parents and teachers also, please tell your child or student how to cross a street safely. This time it was lucky no one was hurt. Remember, it doesn't take very long to look both ways and it takes the common sense of both the motorist and pedestrian to make our roads safe.

Sincerely,
John O., Helgenset

(Excerpts from the February 4, 1937, Times compiled by Sharon LaCoursiere.)

— One thousand pounds of butter were stolen from the Beltrami Cooperative creamery in a robbery last Tuesday. The butter was contained in 13 tubs of 63 pounds each and 100 one-pound prints. (Can you just envision the thief making his getaway — arms filled with slippery butter? And one can't help but wonder what happened to the evidence of his crime — did he eat it, or not? We'll just have to watch the Times for further developments on when, if and how the thief is caught.)

— J & B Drugs was advertising viscolized Milk of Magnesia toothpaste...to counteract mouth acidity. (How wonderful — so versatile — killing two birds with one stone, so to speak.)

— Dance enthusiasts were invited to a new innovation in the form of an "Overshoe Dance" to be held at the skating rink. Proceeds would be used to benefit the Thief River Falls hockey team and Legion Auxiliary Drum Corps. Sponsors explained that the overshoes were necessary to prevent "unintentional" skidding by zealous local dancers.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Every time a business goes under for whatever reason just makes me stop and wonder about how things are done in business.

I'd like to add a little on Arctco's press release in last Wednesday's paper. What they didn't release was with their taking over the Arctic Cat clothing line, they will be putting close to 40 people out of work right here in Thief River Falls. They want the name, not the employees; not the workers who have been making the clothing for the past four years with pride.

Who will be making the clothing? I wonder if with putting people out of work right here we'll be helping the Korean economy out once more, and if this happens, will they care about the quality that goes into every suit put out here.

Some of us have been working here for four years thinking we had a secure job and just like that we're out of work. It doesn't seem to bother Arctco a bit. They haven't asked any of us if we need a job.

I'm wondering if one day they'll decide to have the snowmobiles built elsewhere? Then their employees will be out of work. That probably won't bother them either. Then Thief River Falls can start all over once again.

To The Editor:

"The increases in hunger and homelessness in recent years are evidence that the 'economic recovery' has had little perceived impact for the better. Rather, rising housing costs, waiting lists for public housing and the continuing lines at 'Food-Shelves' provide the best argument to the contrary."

This is one of the comments from the U.S. Conference of Mayors' recent report on the rising number of hungry and homeless Americans in the nation's cities in 1986.

From Boston: "The city enjoyed relatively fair economic growth during the last few years. Other cities confirmed that overall gains are not trickling down to the hungry and homeless."

For millions of people the 'American Dream' is now just to make-out and survive. I know a lot of young adults who don't have any faith in the future; some of them don't even think there is a future, a la "nuclear-winter." That, my friends, is a sad situation!

From Detroit: "While the city experienced growth...for those with no skills, for those with minimum educational background, and for those who have been displaced from jobs because of changing technology, there are not enough training programs and job opportunities. Jobs secured are often at substantially lower salaries than those previously held."

Other cities said that the economic conditions have not improved much for any sector of the population, much less the poor. The statistics show that a family of four needs a wage earner who makes at least seven dollars per hour. Because families cannot meet their basic needs on their salary, we are seeing an increase in shelter needs.

America became prosperous because American workers were prosperous; they made decent wages and could afford to buy the things they produced.

From Portland, Oregon: "What economic recovery? If poor people have been helped it is because of the commitment and concern of many good people in the city, not because of any economic recovery."

From Denver: "Our economy has relied on oil and gas, mining and high technology. It is a classic situation of the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer...there is no economic recovery."

Of the 25 cities included in the survey, all but three reported an increased demand for emergency food assistance averaging 25 per cent.

Requests for emergency shelter rose an average of 40 per cent in all but three cities, where it remained the same. A significant change in the situation, according to the cities, was a sharp rise in the number of families with children requesting assistance. Four out of five cities reported an average increase in this category of 24 per cent.

Reasons cited by the cities for growing number of hungry and homeless include continued high unemployment, low wage jobs, the lack of low-cost housing, and cuts in assistance programs which have not kept pace with need or costs.

These problems are heightened by the often related social factors of substance abuse, mental and physical disabilities, and family-related problems such as break-ups, domestic violence and child abuse.

The survey demonstrates that, contrary to the Reagan administration's insistence, charities and local services cannot carry the burden for national recession-level problems.

Most of the cities reported that nearly one-quarter of the requests for food and shelter were turned down in 1986 due to lack of resources. Over 20 of the cities said they expect the demand for assistance to increase in 1987.

However, the administration in Washington, D.C., proposes to terminate programs which help states and localities provide emergency food and to build low-income housing. Reagan also wants further cuts in nutrition programs for the poor and children, in community services, and in the Medicaid health care program for the poor.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors' report confirms what organized labor has been saying for years: There has been no economic recovery for millions of unemployed Americans. Since the Reagan administration obviously does not fathom the depth of the problem, Congress should take the lead to restore decent living standards for all Americans.

Flu Moves In — And Out

Grand Forks, ND — The Grand Forks Herald issued a flu update recently. Two Grand Forks schools, Schroeder junior high and Red River high, had record numbers of student absences last week; Warroad and Thief River Falls reported normal absences; and Central high school in Crookston reported an increase in absenteeism. Two other area schools, Central junior high and a school at the Grand Forks Air Force Base, said they were just getting back to normal after a record number of absences before and after Christmas.

How Are You Doing Up There?

Warroad — Warroad was named "Icebox of the Nation" in radio and television releases last week when temperatures hit 46 degrees below zero there. The Daisy Garden restaurant in Warroad received a telephone call from an announcer at radio station WHO in Des Moines, IA, in a live interview about Warroad's cold weather pastimes. Warroad's Patch motel received a call from an east coast NBC station wondering if "everything closed up there" when the weather got cold.

Good Idea At 46 Below

Warroad — Residents received a reduction in their natural gas rates at the regular meeting of the Warroad city council January 12. The mayor moved to reduce the city gas rates by 50 cents per m.c.f. Motion carried with the notation that this was the second rate reduction this season. Rates were reduced by 75 cents per m.c.f. in November of 1986.

Fish Tales . . . Again

Warroad — During a recent fishing derby in Warroad, Dian Wilde caught a 5 pound, 2 ounce Walleye; Trent Collins caught a 5 pound Walleye; and Ron Phillipe, assisted by Kevin Kompalien, caught a 13 pound, 13 ounce Northern.

You Tell Me Yours, And . . .

McIntosh — The McIntosh-Winger fourth grade class celebrated Martin Luther King day by making their own T-shirts displaying the words, "I have a dream. . ." and then adding their own personal aspirations to the shirts.

Come Fly With Me

Erskine — The Pioneer Memorial care center in Erskine offered residents a cure for January "cabin fever" recently. They created a fantasy vacation in beautiful Hawaii, complete with a simulated plane ride with pilot, co-pilot, stewardesses and a guided movie tour of Hawaii. When the plane reached its destination, all staff and residents dressed in Hawaiian costumes and enjoyed a noon luau of Polynesian ribs, rice, curried beet salad, kiwi fruit salad and other assorted dishes reminiscent of the islands. They were also entertained with hula dancers (second graders from McIntosh school), and a display of Hawaiian souvenirs, decorations, posters and tapes donated by local residents. The vacation week ended with a cooking demonstration by Barb Oseth, county extension agent from Crookston.

They Need Assistance

Warren — Marshall county commissioners heard an eloquent plea from Stephen mayor Lawrence Sunsdahl at their recent meeting. The mayor asked that the county provide some assistance to the cities of Stephen and Argyle in their efforts to police their own cities. Mayor Sunsdahl asked that a deputy be located in the city of Stephen so that the city would not have to hire additional police. Argyle city clerk Richard Knoll joined the mayor in asking assistance in Argyle's purchase of a police car. Mayor Sunsdahl pointed out that three of the cities in the county are providing their own police protection, but are being taxed for county policing. Sheriff Dennis Brekke responded to the requests by telling the commissioners he was limited by the amount of funding available and would have to seek additional funds if the sheriff's department was going to give more police protection to Argyle, Warren and Stephen.

Old Logging Days

Bemidji — Fourth annual Old Logging Days will be February 7 and 8 at Buena Vista headquarters logging camp in Bemidji. The weekend of events will be highlighted by dedication of the Lumberjack Memorial Forest by officials from the Minnesota DNR and Beltrami county, in which 75 turn-of-the-century lumberjacks will be recognized and honored for their work and inducted into the Lumberjack Hall of Fame. Several of the lumberjacks previously honored will be present to enjoy the celebration. Other events include logging demonstrations, loading and hauling, crosscut sawing and log scaling, horse drawn sleigh rides, and a display of authentic logging tools and equipment. Realistic logging camp music and dances will be performed throughout the weekend and a genuine logging camp meal will be served daily from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Jail And Bail

Bemidji — In an effort to raise $20,000 for the American Cancer Society, Bemidji residents were subject to possible arrest last week. Anyone willing to pay $25 to the cancer society could have someone arrested. Prisoners were taken to the Paul Bunyan Mall where they were incarcerated and dressed in prison stripes, including hats, and were sentenced to serve time while trying to raise bail on the telephone. Most people served only an hour and were notified of the arrest in advance so they could bring along their address books to call friends to donate "bail." Dave Thompson was chairman of the first Jail and Bail fundraiser last year and said participants had "an awful lot of fun."

Genetic Studies Show Cancer's Development

A genetic study of people with the most common type of lymph gland cancer has revealed that the disease develops in several discrete steps forecast by specific chromosome defects in the patient's tumor cells.

Jorge J. Yunis, a University of Minnesota laboratory medicine and pathology professor, and his colleagues reported in the January 8 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine that those patients with follicular lymphoma usually have a single chromosome-gene defect at the beginning of their disease. They found that some patients then developed additional defects, some of which signaled an aggressive phase of the disease that required intensive treatment.

"We found that a patient's prognosis depended on whether additional chromosome defects developed and, if so, what types of defects, such as extra of missing chromosome pieces or genes," Yunis said. "Patients with only one defect usually had a relatively benign disease that often did not call for treatment and could expect to live an additional 10 to 15 years. However, those with multiple defects usually required treatment and had a general life expectancy of one to three years." About 10,000 new cases of follicular lymphoma are diagnosed in the United States each year.

The appearance of certain additional chromosome-gene defects signaled that a patient's disease was about to transform into a more active lymphoma. Researchers found 14 of these defects in the 71 patients who were studied. Many of these defects served as clues to changes in the evolution of the tumor through the loss or duplication of critical genes.

"It has always been suspected that several steps or defects in the chromosomes and genes occurred or were present before cancer manifested itself, but there was no clear evidence of many of these steps," Yunis said. "We now have evidence of 15 recurring steps or defects, showing up as missing, extra or misplaced genes."

The study is a general model for malignant solid tumors, which may appear anywhere and are the most common forms of cancer, he said. "We have found that solid tumors generally behave in the same manner as lymphomas. By focusing our efforts on chromosome regions that show repeated defects in lymphoma and other cancers, we should now be able to find which genes are involved and work on ways to correct these defects."

Myths And Facts On Drunk Driving Are Separated

Misunderstanding the effects of alcohol can have a serious effect on personal safety whether driving, at work or other day-by-day activities, according to the Minnesota safety council.

Minnesota law states that, if a person's blood-alcohol content measures at 0.10 per cent or higher, it is illegal to operate a motor vehicle and the driver is subject to the penalties of law. Most people are impaired at levels below 0.10 per cent and their actions and reactions are affected. Three drinks will put the average person at 0.10 per cent.

The most frequent misunderstanding is that more beer can be consumed than other alcoholic drinks without becoming intoxicated. A 12-ounce bottle of beer usually contains the same amount of alcohol as an ounce and a half jigger of whiskey. Most drivers arrested for DWI are beer drinkers.

Eating food or drinking coffee after a party is a good idea, but it doesn't make a person sober; only time can do that. It takes about an hour to eliminate each bottle of beer or ounce of liquor from your system. Also, a cold shower might help a person to feel better, but it won't make him or her sober.

Some people believe that they perform better after a few drinks. While drinking may increase self-confidence, judgment and self-control are decreased. Drinkers might believe that their performance is improved but in reality it may have decreased.

Switching from liquor to beer does not reduce the possibility of intoxication. A person might tend to drink more if there is a variety of drinks. The total amount of alcohol is what counts.

Misconceptions with regard to alcoholism are a prime target during national drunk and drugged driving week December 14 - 20.

It is a myth that alcoholics drink every day. Some alcoholics drink only on weekends; others don't take a drink for months. Alcoholism is not determined by how often people drink, but by whether or not they can control their drinking once they start.

There is no conclusive evidence that alcoholism is inherited. It is generally agreed that psychological and sociological factors are responsible for alcoholism. These tend to be learned by new generations but are not passed on genetically.

There is a myth that women seldom become alcoholics. Outside of the big cities, one in every five alcoholics is a female. In metropolitan areas, women appear to match men one-to-one.

Janeen Kalsnes Uses Extra Chance At Life

JANEEN KALSNES operates a braille writer in the kitchen of her home northwest of Thief River Falls while her son Derek and a well-stuffed friend watch. Janeen made a pair of the craftwork geese which she has named Mathilda and Elliott "because they look like Mathilda and Elliott". Despite two heart surgeries at ages four and 22, she fulfills the role of an acitve mother of two (soon to be three), enjoys craft work and painting and is a braillist for School District 564. She was a social worker with the Northwest Regional Interdistrict Council for seven years until 1985.

by Martin Lundin
Times Editor

"I've never been one to make a display of religion of anything like that," Janeen Kalsnes says quietly. "But I have this feeling inside that probably Somebody wanted me to be around and put me here for a purpose. Otherwise I maybe wouldn't have been given a second and probably a third chance."

That's what Mrs. Ken Kalsnes, the former Janeen Burstad, says about her interest in work and activities that provide a service to others. She is a braillist for School District 564 at the present time and for seven years was a social worker for the Northwest Regional Inter-district Council (RIC) which has offices in Newfolden.

The second and third chances that she refers to are surgeries in 1959 at age four and in 1978 at age 22 to close a hole in her heart. She is now the mother of two children -- a daughter Jamie, age six and one-half, and a son Derek, age four and one-half. The Kalsnes' third child is due February 15.

Never one to call attention to herself or her health problems, she agreed to a Times interview during February -- national heart month because we wanted to call attention to the active lives led by people who have had corrective heart surgery and she believed it might be helpful to others. "I try to be an upbeat type of person," she said, and her activities indicate that she is more than keeping up the role of mother and community citizen.

From the time she was an infant, Janeen struggled with poor health. "I was sick a lot," she recalls, still able to remember some of her early childhood difficulties. "My parents did a lot of doctoring with me to try and find out what the problem was. I got tired real easily, I had a blue spot on my forehead, my lips were blue and it seemed I was sick constantly."

Doctors Green and Starekow of what was then the Starekow Clinic in Thief River Falls diagnosed the heart problem but corrective surgery was in its infancy at that time. Dr. Lillehei of the Variety club heart division of the University of Minnesota hospital pioneered open heart surgery and at first told the Burstads that Janeen should wait until she was about 12 years old to have surgery.

When she was four years old, however, Dr. Lillehei called and said that the surgical procedures had been improved and that he believed Janeen could have the operation. The decision was made to go ahead and in 1959 she underwent an operation to correct an atrial septal defect — failure of a hole in the heart at birth to seal naturally. Correction was done by sewing the hole closed.

She was able to sit up in bed the day after the surgery and was in the hospital for about two weeks. At that time heart patients were packed in ice as part of the procedure and Janeen's parents remember asking her how she felt as she recovered from

Former Resident Held On Murder Charges In Wash.

Former Thief River Falls resident Steven Volstad, 32, is being held in a Spokane, WA, jail on first degree murder charges.

Volstad, described by law enforcement and county welfare officials as a person who "knew how to use the system to the nth degree," left Thief River Falls with several outstanding bills and on January 31 confronted his ex-wife and shot her. Christine Faye Dale, 33, 1317 East Nina Street, Spokane, WA, died the following day of multiple gunshot wounds.

Volstad fled the state of Washington, but was later caught at Deer Lodge, MT. According to Spokane, WA, detectives, the weapon, a 7.65 German semi-automatic, was recovered and Volstad remains in jail.

Volstad and his wife were involved in a child custody dispute. Police said the two children, ages 9 and 12 were not at their mother's home when the dispute took place, however. Volstad was originally from Minneapolis, but had lived in Thief River Falls for a period of approximately four months. Volstad was evicted from a Thief River Falls apartment complex for non-payment of rent.

Drainage And Depredation Worry Area Landowners

Despite assurances from engineers that the proposed Elm Lake restoration project in eastern Marshall county would not contribute to flooding, a number of landowners attending a hearing Wednesday morning at the Thief River Falls city auditorium testified that they believed otherwise. Of equal or greater concern about the project was the potential for increased waterfowl depredation on grain crops as a result of increased duck production and expanded waterfowl habitat.

The project has been engineered by the Red Lake Watershed district as a cooperative project intended to provide increased waterfowl habitat, improved upstream drainage and reduced downstream flooding. It would be expected to accomplish this through restoration of the original Elm Lake as a water holding area, and widening and deepening of Ditch 200 upstream from the impoundment.

While the project is intended for multiple benefit, it would be almost entirely paid for by Ducks Unlimited, an international sportsmen group which raises funds annually for preservation and increase of the North American waterfowl resource. Project cost is estimated at about $1.5 million. Testimony at the hearing Wednesday indicated that there would be no assessment of benefits to landowners from the Ditch 200 project.

One of the persons presenting information at the hearing Wednesday morning was Paul Urban, engineer from the Bismarck, ND, office of Ducks Unlimited. He discussed the design of the project and how it would be coordinated with the existing Lost River impoundment located several miles east of where the Elm Lake impoundment is planned.

Verner Arveson of Trail, chairman of the Red Lake Watershed district board, called the hearing to order and introduced other board members.

Speakers in addition to Urban included Lowell Enerson, manager of the watershed, who outlined history of the project and its location; Charles Anderson, engineer for the district who prepared the preliminary report; Jim Mattsson, assistant manager at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, who explained the wildlife management plan for the area; and Neil McEwen, attorney for the watershed district who outlined the interagency agreement which would provide guidelines for management of the area.

Information on the proposed project points out that Elm Lake was drained about 1920 by Branch 200 of Judicial Ditch 11, that efforts to farm the lakebed were unsuccessful and that it was eventually acquired by federal and state governments. The project proposes to restore the lake by constructing a dike around the area to be flooded and building a control structure at the southwest corner of the pool where the reservoir would outlet into the existing Branch 200 channel.

About 63 square miles of land contribute flows to Elm Lake. The Elm Lake pool would be about 2,100 acres — located entirely on public land — and is located downstream from the existing Lost River pool which has a normal pool area of about 2,000 acres. The Thief river would carry outflow from the area for about 15 miles southwest to where it empties into the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls.

"A greatly improved drainage outlet is provided for the agricultural lands upstream from Elm Lake," the project report states. Upstream land owners took exception to the statement, contending that drainage water — especially from the south side of Ditch 200 — would be held back by the water levels in the ditch as a result of the downstream impoundment.

"Can you guarantee that there wouldn't be flooding after this project goes in?" one landowner asked. Engineer Anderson replied that there would still be flooding in the area but that he could guarantee it would not be as a result of the proposed Elm Lake project.

Duane Ekman, rural Argyle farmer and chairman of the Minnesota water resources board, testified in favor of the project. He said the board had reviewed the project report and found it in conformance with accepted criteria for such projects.

"The board commends the managers (of the Red Lake Watershed district) for the important role they have played in the Elm Lake project," Ekman stated in reading the water resources board report. "The project has required the cooperation of federal, state and local governments as well as a non-profit organization and local landowners, and is exemplary of the coordination that is necessary to construct multi-purpose, large-scale water projects."

A letter from Merlyn Wesloh, regional administrator for the Minnesota department of natural resources at Bemidji, pointed out the flood storage projected for the Elm Lake pool of about 7,250 acre feet to store spring runoff and 5,500 acre feet of summer flood storage capacity.

"As stated by the engineer in his report," Wesloh wrote, "none of the major project goals (flood control, wetland habitat, drainage) in itself will be totally maximized. All of the goals, however, will receive significant benefits. This is an outstanding project because all of the major goals will be benefited . . ."

Flu Moves In — And Out

Grand Forks, ND — The Grand Forks Herald issued a flu update recently. Two Grand Forks schools, Schroeder junior high and Red River high, had record numbers of student absences last week; Warroad and Thief River Falls reported normal absences; and Central high school in Crookston reported an increase in absenteeism. Two other area schools, Central junior high and a school at the Grand Forks Air Force Base, said they were just getting back to normal after a record number of absences before and after Christmas.

How Are You Doing Up There?

Warroad — Warroad was named "Icebox of the Nation" in radio and television releases last week when temperatures hit 46 degrees below zero there. The Daisy Garden restaurant in Warroad received a telephone call from an announcer at radio station WHO in Des Moines, IA, in a live interview about Warroad's cold weather pasttimes. Warroad's Patch motel received a call from an east coast NBC station wondering if "everything closed up there" when the weather got cold.

Good Idea At 46 Below

Warroad — Residents received a reduction in their natural gas rates at the regular meeting of the Warroad city council January 12. The mayor moved to reduce the city gas rates by 50 cents per m.c.f. Motion carried with the notation that this was the second rate reduction this season. Rates were reduced by 75 cents per m.c.f. in November of 1986.

Fish Tales . . . Again

Warroad — During a recent fishing derby in Warroad, Dian Wilde caught a 5 pound, 2 ounce Walleye; Trent Collins caught a 5 pound Walleye; and Ron Phillipe, assisted by Kevin Kompalien, caught a 13 pound, 13 ounce Northern.

You Tell Me Yours, And . . .

McIntosh — The McIntosh-Winger fourth grade class celebrated Martin Luther King day by making their own T-shirts displaying the words, "I have a dream. . ." and then adding their own personal aspirations to the shirts.

Come Fly With Me

Erskine — The Pioneer Memorial care center in Erskine offered residents a cure for January "cabin fever" recently. They created a fantasy vacation in beautiful Hawaii, complete with a simulated plane ride with pilot, co-pilot, stewardesses and a guided movie tour of Hawaii. When the plane reached its destination, all staff and residents dressed in Hawaiian costumes and enjoyed a noon luau of Polynesian ribs, rice, curried beet salad, kiwi fruit salad and other assorted dishes reminiscent of the islands. They were also entertained with hula dancers (second graders from McIntosh school), and a display of Hawaiian souvenirs, decorations, posters and tapes donated by local residents. The vacation week ended with a cooking demonstration by Barb Oseth, county extension agent from Crookston.

They Need Assistance

Warren — Marshall county commissioners heard an eloquent plea from Stephen mayor Lawrence Sunsdahl at their recent meeting. The mayor asked that the county provide some assistance to the cities of Stephen and Argyle in their efforts to police their own cities. Mayor Sunsdahl asked that a deputy be located in the city of Stephen so that the city would not have to hire additional police. Argyle city clerk Richard Knoll joined the mayor in asking assistance in Argyle's purchase of a police car. Mayor Sunsdahl pointed out that three of the cities in the county are providing their own police protection, but are being taxed for county policing. Sheriff Dennis Brekke responded to the requests by telling the commissioners he was limited by the amount of funding available and would have to seek additional funds if the sheriff's department was going to give more police protection to Argyle, Warren and Stephen.

Old Logging Days

Bemidji — Fourth annual Old Logging Days will be February 7 and 8 at Buena Vista headquarters logging camp in Bemidji. The weekend of events will be highlighted by dedication of the Lumberjack Memorial Forest by officials from the Minnesota DNR and Beltrami county, in which 75 turn-of-the-century lumberjacks will be recognized and honored for their work and inducted into the Lumberjack Hall of Fame. Several of the lumberjacks previously honored will be present to enjoy the celebration. Other events include logging demonstrations, loading and hauling, crosscut sawing and log scaling, horse drawn sleigh rides, and a display of authentic logging tools and equipment. Realistic logging camp music and dances will be performed throughout the weekend and a genuine logging camp meal will be served daily from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Jail And Bail

Bemidji — In an effort to raise $20,000 for the American Cancer Society, Bemidji residents were subject to possible arrest last week. Anyone willing to pay $25 to the cancer society could have someone arrested. Prisoners were taken to the Paul Bunyan Mall where they were incarcerated and dressed in prison stripes, including hats, and were sentenced to serve time while trying to raise bail on the telephone. Most people served only an hour and were notified of the arrest in advance so they could bring along their address books to call friends to donate "bail." Dave Thompson was chairman of the first Jail and Bail fundraiser last year and said participants had "an awful lot of fun."

Genetic Studies Show Cancer's Development

A genetic study of people with the most common type of lymph gland cancer has revealed that the disease develops in several discrete steps forecast by specific chromosome defects in the patient's tumor cells.

Jorge J. Yunis, a University of Minnesota laboratory medicine and pathology professor, and his colleagues reported in the January 8 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine that those patients with follicular lymphoma usually have a single chromosome-gene defect at the beginning of their disease. They found that some patients then developed additional defects, some of which signaled an aggressive phase of the disease that required intensive treatment.

"We found that a patient's prognosis depended on whether additional chromosome defects developed and, if so, what types of defects, such as extra of missing chromosome pieces or genes," Yunis said. "Patients with only one defect usually had a relatively benign disease that often did not call for treatment and could expect to live an additional 10 to 15 years. However, those with multiple defects usually required treatment and had a general life expectancy of one to three years." About 10,000 new cases of follicular lymphoma are diagnosed in the United States each year.

The appearance of certain additional chromosome-gene defects signaled that a patient's disease was about to transform into a more active lymphoma. Researchers found 14 of these defects in the 71 patients who were studied. Many of these defects served as clues to changes in the evolution of the tumor through the loss or duplication of critical genes.

"It has always been suspected that several steps or defects in the chromosomes and genes occurred or were present before cancer manifested itself, but there was no clear evidence of many of these steps," Yunis said. "We now have evidence of 15 recurring steps or defects, showing up as missing, extra or misplaced genes."

The study is a general model for malignant solid tumors, which may appear anywhere and are the most common forms of cancer, he said. "We have found that solid tumors generally behave in the same manner as lymphomas. By focusing our efforts on chromosome regions that show repeated defects in lymphoma and other cancers, we should now be able to find which genes are involved and work on ways to correct these defects."

Myths And Facts On Drunk Driving Are Separated

Misunderstanding the effects of alcohol can have a serious effect on personal safety whether driving, at work or other day-by-day activities, according to the Minnesota safety council.

Minnesota law states that, if a person's blood-alcohol content measures at 0.10 per cent or higher, it is illegal to operate a motor vehicle and the driver is subject to the penalties of law. Most people are impaired at levels below 0.10 per cent and their actions and reactions are affected. Three drinks will put the average person at 0.10 per cent.

The most frequent misunderstanding is that more beer can be consumed than other alcoholic drinks without becoming intoxicated. A 12-ounce bottle of beer usually contains the same amount of alcohol as an ounce and a half jigger of whiskey. Most drivers arrested for DWI are beer drinkers.

Eating food or drinking coffee after a party is a good idea, but it doesn't make a person sober; only time can do that. It takes about an hour to eliminate each bottle of beer or ounce of liquor from your system. Also, a cold shower might help a person to feel better, but it won't make him or her sober.

Some people believe that they perform better after a few drinks. While drinking may increase self-confidence, judgment and self-control are decreased. Drinkers might believe that their performance is improved but in reality it may have decreased.

Switching from liquor to beer does not reduce the possibility of intoxication. A person might tend to drink more if there is a variety of drinks. The total amount of alcohol is what counts.

Misconceptions with regard to alcoholism are a prime target during national drunk and drugged driving week December 14 - 20.

It is a myth that alcoholics drink every day. Some alcoholics drink only on weekends; others don't take a drink for months. Alcoholism is not determined by how often people drink, but by whether or not they can control their drinking once they start.

There is no conclusive evidence that alcoholism is inherited. It is generally agreed that psychological and sociological factors are responsible for alcoholism. These tend to be learned by new generations but are not passed on genetically.

There is a myth that women seldom become alcoholics. Outside of the big cities, one in every five alcoholics is a female. In metropolitan areas, women appear to match men one-to-one.

JANEEN KALSNES operates a braille writer in the kitchen of her home northwest of Thief River Falls while her son Derek and a well-stuffed friend watch. Janeen made a pair of the craftwork geese which she has named Mathilda and Elliott "because they look like Mathilda and Elliott". Despite two heart surgeries at ages four and 22, she fulfills the role of an acitve mother of two (soon to be three), enjoys craft work and painting and is a braillist for School District 564. She was a social worker with the Northwest Regional Interdistrict Council for seven years until 1985.

Janeen Kalsnes Uses Extra Chance At Life

Times Editor

"I've never been one to make a display of religion of anything like that," Janeen Kalsnes says quietly. "But I have this feeling inside that probably Somebody wanted me to be around and put me here for a purpose. Otherwise I maybe wouldn't have been given a second and probably a third chance."

That's what Mrs. Ken Kalsnes, the former Janeen Burstad, says about her interest in work and activities that provide a service to others. She is a braillist for School District 564 at the present time and for seven years was a social worker for the Northwest Regional Inter-district Council (RIC) which has offices in Newfolden.

The second and third chances that she refers to are surgeries in 1959 at age four and in 1978 at age 22 to close a hole in her heart. She is now the mother of two children — a daughter Jamie, age six and one-half, and a son Derek, age four and one-half. The Kalsnes' third child is due February 15.

Never one to call attention to herself or her health problems, she agreed to a Times interview during February — national heart month — because we wanted to call attention to the active lives led by people who have had corrective heart surgery and she believed it might be helpful to others. "I try to be an upbeat type of person," she said, and her activities indicate that she is more than keeping up the role of mother and community citizen.

From the time she was an infant, Janeen struggled with poor health. "I was sick a lot," she recalls, still able to remember some of her early childhood difficulties. "My parents did a lot of doctoring with me to try and find out what the problem was. I got tired real easily, I had a blue spot on my forehead, my lips were blue and it seemed I was sick constantly."

Doctors Green and Starekow of what was then the Starekow Clinic in Thief River Falls diagnosed the heart problem but corrective surgery was in its infancy at that time. Dr. Lillehei of the Variety club heart division of the University of Minnesota hospital pioneered open heart surgery and at first told the Burstads that Janeen should wait until she was about 12 years old to have surgery.

When she was four years old, however, Dr. Lillehei called and said that the surgical procedures had been improved and that he believed Janeen could have the operation. The decision was made to go ahead and in 1959 she underwent an operation to correct an atrial septal defect — failure of a hole in the heart at birth to seal naturally. Correction was done by sewing the hole closed.

She was able to sit up in bed the day after the surgery and was in the hospital for about two weeks. At that time heart patients were packed in ice as part of the procedure and Janeen's parents remember asking her how she felt as she recovered from

Former Resident Held On Murder Charges In Wash.

Former Thief River Falls resident Steven Volstad, 32, is being held in a Spokane, WA, jail on first degree murder charges.

Volstad, described by law enforcement and county welfare officials as a person who "knew how to use the system to the nth degree," left Thief River Falls with several outstanding bils and on January 31 confronted his ex-wife and shot her. Christine Faye Dale, 33, 1317 East Nina Street, Spokane, WA, died the following day of multiple gunshot wounds.

Volstad fled the state of Washington, but was later caught at Deer Lodge, MT. According to Spokane, WA, detectives, the weapon, a 7.65 German semi-automatic, was recovered and Volstad remains in jail.

Volstad and his wife were involved in a child custody dispute. Police said the two children, ages 9 and 12 were not at their mother's home when the dispute took place, however. Volstad was originally from Minneapolis, but had lived in Thief River Falls for a period of approximately four months. Volstad was evicted from a Thief River Falls apartment complex for non-payment of rent.

Drainage And Depredation Worry Area Landowners

Despite assurances from engineers that the proposed Elm Lake restoration project in eastern Marshall county would not contribute to flooding, a number of landowners attending a hearing Wednesday morning at the Thief River Falls city auditorium testified that they believed otherwise. Of equal or greater concern about the project was the potential for increased waterfowl depredation on grain crops as a result of increased duck production and expanded waterfowl habitat.

The project has been engineered by the Red Lake Watershed district as a cooperative project intended to provide increased waterfowl habitat, improved upstream drainage and reduced downstream flooding. It would be expected to accomplish this through restoration of the original Elm Lake as a water holding area, and widening and deepening of Ditch 200 upstream from the impoundment.

While the project is intended for multiple benefit, it would be almost entirely paid for by Ducks Unlimited, an international sportsmen group which raises funds annually for preservation and increase of the North American waterfowl resource. Project cost is estimated at about $1.5 million. Testimony at the hearing Wednesday indicated that there would be no assessment of benefits to landowners from the Ditch 200 project.

One of the persons presenting information at the hearing Wednesday morning was Paul Urban, engineer from the Bismarck, ND, office of Ducks Unlimited. He discussed the design of the project and how it would be coordinated with the existing Lost River impoundment located several miles east of where the Elm Lake impoundment is planned.

Verner Arveson of Trail, chairman of the Red Lake Watershed district board, called the hearing to order and introduced other board members.

Speakers in addition to Urban included Lowell Enerson, manager of the watershed, who outlined history of the project and its location; Charles Anderson, engineer for the district who prepared the preliminary report; Jim Mattsson, assistant manager at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, who explained the wildlife management plan for the area; and Neil McEwen, attorney for the watershed district who outlined the interagency agreement which would provide guidelines for management of the area.

Information on the proposed project points out that Elm Lake was drained about 1920 by Branch 200 of Judicial Ditch 11, that efforts to farm the lakebed were unsuccessful and that it was eventually acquired by federal and state governments. The project proposes to restore the lake by constructing a dike around the area to be flooded and building a control structure at the southwest corner of the pool where the reservoir would outlet into the existing Branch 200 channel.

About 63 square miles of land contribute flows to Elm Lake. The Elm Lake pool would be about 2,100 acres — located entirely on public land — and is located downstream from the existing Lost River pool which has a normal pool area of about 2,000 acres. The Thief river would carry outflow from the area for about 15 miles southwest to where it empties into the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls.

"A greatly improved drainage outlet is provided for the agricultural lands upstream from Elm Lake," the project report states. Upstream land owners took exception to the statement, contending that drainage water — especially from the south side of Ditch 200 — would be held back by the water levels in the ditch as a result of the downstream impoundment.

"Can you guarantee that there wouldn't be flooding after this project goes in?" one landowner asked. Engineer Anderson replied that there would still be flooding in the area but that he could guarantee it would not be as a result of the proposed Elm Lake project.

Duane Ekman, rural Argyle farmer and chairman of the Minnesota water resources board, testified in favor of the project. He said the board had reviewed the project report and found it in conformance with accepted criteria for such projects.

"The board commends the managers (of the Red Lake Watershed district) for the important role they have played in the Elm Lake project," Ekman stated in reading the water resources board report. "The project has required the cooperation of federal, state and local governments as well as a non-profit organization and local landowners, and is exemplary of the coordination that is necessary to construct multi-purpose, large-scale water projects."

A letter from Merlyn Wesloh, regional administrator for the Minnesota department of natural resources at Bemidji, pointed out the flood storage projected for the Elm Lake pool of about 7,250 acre feet to store spring runoff and 5,500 acre feet of summer flood storage capacity.

"As stated by the engineer in his report," Wesloh wrote, "none of the major project goals (flood control, wetland habitat, drainage) in itself will be totally maximized. All of the goals, however, will receive significant benefits. This is an outstanding project because all of the major goals will be benefited . . ."

Ruth Dalager-Jonathan Buuck Wed August 2 In St. Paul

Ruth Ann Dalager and Jonathan James Buuck, in the presence of family and friends, were united in marriage during a service of Holy Communion that took place August 2 at the Chapel of the Incarnation on the campus of Luther Northwestern Theological seminary in St. Paul.

Parents of the couple are James and Phyllis Dalager of Thief River Falls and Marcus and Lorraine Buuck of St. Petersburg, FL.

The father of the groom officiated at the 7 p.m. service. Also participating were the Rev. David Buuck, brother of the groom, who presided over Holy Communion; Nathan Dalager, brother of the bride, and Kathy Beito, friend of the couple, who read scripture.

Prior to the service, several musical selections were provided by Lee Afdahl, organist; Roxie Litchfield, vocalist and friend of the couple; and Holly Dalager, oboist and sister-in-law of the bride. Vocal selections during the service were "The Call" by R. Vaughan Williams, "O Lord Most Holy" by Cesar Franck, and "A Finnish Prayer" by Tanell Kuusisto. The oboe selection was "Arioso" by J. H. Flocco.

Both the bride and groom were escorted by their parents as part of the procession, which also included the presentation of the cross, carried by Nathan Dalager; two torches, carried by Laura Bergsrud, cousin of the bride, and Kathy Beito; a banner announcing the theme, "I will sing the story of your love, O Lord," made by Lorri Buuck, sister-in-law of the groom, and carried by Daniel Buuck, nephew of the groom; the clergy and the wedding party. The congregation rose to sing the processional hymn, "Rise, Shine, You People!" The recession was "Now Thank We All Our God" by J. S. Bach.

The bride's tea-length wedding gown was designed by Laura Ashley and made from white cotton jacquard fabric. She carried a multi-colored garden flower bouquet and wore a circlet of flowers in her hair.

Jodi Carter, friend of the couple, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Wind, sister of the groom; Anne Bergsrud, cousin of the bride; and Beth Carlson, friend of the couple. All wore rose moire cotton taffeta dresses similar to the bride's and carried garden flower bouquets.

Tom Bergin, friend of the couple, served as best man. Groomsmen were Karl and Steven Dalager, brothers of the bride, and Klaus Wormuth, friend of the couple. All wore suits of their own choosing with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom wore a dark gray suit with faint red pinstripes, a red tie, and boutonniere of red roses.

Guests of honor were Philip and Anna Sletten, grandparents of the bride, and Ora Buuck, aunt of the groom.

A light luncheon reception followed the service. Nathan Dalager and Laura Bergsrud served punch. Shirley Westacott, aunt of the bride, and Grace McCarron, cousin of the bride, served the white, lemon-filled wedding cake.

The couple spent a honeymoon week in Ontario, Canada. They are now at home in St. Paul where the groom is a student at Luther Northwestern Theological seminary and the bride is an actuarial analyst for Minnesota Mutual Life.

School Patrol Week Declared In Minnesota

Governor Rudy Perpich has proclaimed February 15-21 as school safety patrol week in Minnesota. Public safety commissioner Paul Tschida urges communities and organizations to have special programs recognizing young people who serve in the patrol.

More than 35,000 Minnesota youngsters are patrol members who volunteer their time to help teach school mates the importance of traffic safety rules.

A total of 1,839 members of the patrol received training last summer at the 560-acre Legionville camp on North Long lake near Brainerd. Over the years the American Legion has donated more than $400,000 to the program and its facilities. Many other civic groups have also contributed to this volunteer cooperative effort sanctioned by the Minnesota legislature.

In his proclamation, the governor noted that school safety patrols, both nationally and internationally, are modeled after the original school safety patrol established in Minnesota Feb. 17, 1920. On that date Sister Carmela, a teacher at Cathedral school in St. Paul, put the first school patrols on the streets with the endorsement of St. Paul municipal authorities.

Janeen Kalsnes Uses Extra Chance For Others

the anesthetic. "F-f-f-f-fine," she shivered out the reply.

Janeen's father is employed by the state department of transportation, and when she went in for surgery there were 17 volunteers from the St. Paul office of the highway division who donated blood so that the surgery could be performed. That volume of blood was required by the doctors before the surgery could take place.

Although she improved remarkably following the surgery (the blue on forehead and lips immediately disappeared and she no longer had to spend nearly a month a year in the hospital), she still seemed to tire easily and she was held back from some physical activity. That wasn't all bad: "I didn't have to run the 600-yard dash in phy ed," Janeen laughs. "My parents were probably a little over-protective, but I can understand that."

When she was a senior at Bemidji state university and engaged to Ken, she wasn't sure how much stress her body could take. She talked to Dr. Richard Heinrichs at the Falls Clinic and he advised going to a specialist in Minneapolis for heart catheterization. She did so in March of 1978 and it was discovered that the hole in the heart had reopened. No one could tell, however, how long it had been since the opening had reoccurred. Once again, it was decision time.

"The doctors told me that unless the situation was corrected they couldn't give me any likelihood of life expectancy," Janeen said. "They did tell me that if I became pregnant I could expect to be a bed patient for the last two trimesters of pregnancy. I asked what would happen if I had surgery again. They told me right that there weren't any guarantees. It was in June of 1978 that I had surgery again and the doctors put a patch on the hole. That surgery was done at Metropolitan Medical center."

The surgery was performed on Tuesday and Janeen left the hospital on Saturday. "They told me it was the quickest any patient had been ready to go home," she said. "At first I walked around with my arms folded over my chest because I felt that if I let go everything would fall out," she said. "But I got over that and three weeks after I got home I went out to look for a job." She and Ken were married Sept. 2, 1978.

While a social worker for Northwest RIC, she traveled to as many as 10 different schools in the area. After seven years she felt she was suffering from mental burnout and resigned. "There is a lot of abuse in this area," she said. "Physical abuse . . . sexual abuse . . . mental abuse. And most of the time there just isn't a whole lot you can do about it."

After a year away from work she felt she needed something, so she took a job as braillist for School District 564. She said she is surprised at how much braille writing has to be done to keep up with the daily lessons of a single blind student.

Once a member of the local girls' drum and bugle corps known as the Bridgeman Half-Pints, then Bridgettes and later TRFinettes, and of the Luther league while in high school, she is now starting the role of active mother by taking children to recreational skating sessions.

She also serves on the centennial committee for Zion Lutheran church and on the education sub-committee. She is a member of the Thief River Falls swimming pool committee (drownings in the river stimulated that interest) and of the Falls Day Activity center board (because she feels her social work background could make her membership of benefit).

"I take my dog (a collie named Laddie) to obedience classes and I have a real interst in flowers, probably because of my grandmother, Sophie Burstad. I belong to the Moccasin garden club." She also paints — everything from scenery to milk cans — does calligraphy and crochets. Last year she had a booth with some of her craft work at the Holiday Fair in the city auditorium in Thief River Falls.

Janeen has two brothers and two sisters, none of whome has had heart problems. Gary is married to Nancy Fossum of Roseau and lives in Rock Springs, WY, while Michael is married to Sherree Knutson of Greenbush and lives in Casper, Wy. Pam is married to Doug Dallmann of Thief River Falls and Patti is married to Loren Slette and lives in Duluth.

"I can remember when I was in school that somebody contacted my family about taking part in Camp Courage day camp for the handicapped in Thief River Falls," Janeen said. "I thought they wanted me to help. When I found out they wondered if I wanted to be a camper, I was really surprised. I never wanted people to know about my heart problem."

Later she did work several years as a volunteer with the day camp program and also served for a year with the Special Friend program where she befriended a youngster for weekend and evening activities. She and Ken are also avid basketball fans. Ken's brother Jarrod is co-captain of the Prowler basketball team this year.

Janeen Kalsnes is taking advantage of those second and third chances to live a useful life. She wouldn't consider herself an example for others — but she is.

"SPEEDING IT UP for the Lord," Cowboy Andy Bouck treats his audience at Valley Home to one of his special lasso tricks Tuesday. He spent some time at local nursing homes just singing some songs, twirling his lasso, and speaking about the Lord.

Cowboy Andy Moves With The Spirit

by Sharon LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Cowboy Andy moseyed in and out of town last week. While he was here, he stopped at a couple local rest homes, sang some cowboy songs, told a few stories, treated his audiences to several rope tricks, and said a few words about a cowboy's friendship with the Lord.

Cowboy Andy is from Michigan, ND, and he is a real cowboy. He has a special relationship with the Lord, evolved over his 76 years as a rough and rowdy cowpoke, a Baptist preacher, a Methodist missionary to Indians on the Crow Creek reservation in Michigan, and finally as a traveling evangelist minister, which is what he now calls himself.

Andy doesn't do much cow punching any more. The past eight years have been spent traveling where the spirit moves him, and I do mean "The Spirit." That's how he came to be in Thief River Falls last Tuesday, breaking away from engagements in Crookston to take a jaunt here because "The Holy Ghost said I should come here today, and I did." He emphatically added, "I always do what the Holy Ghost tells me to."

Considering Andy's age, his skill with a lariat seems pretty "spirited" too. As he performs his twirls and spins, he also jumps in, out, over and around the rope, to the delight of his audience. The rope moves faster and faster as Andy says, "Let's speed it up for the Lord — that's what we all have to do, speed up our lives for the Lord."

Andy has no itinerary as he travels around the country — he just goes wherever he's wanted, carrying his rope in his suitcase, songs in his head, and a message of salvation in his heart. He performs anywhere he's invited without charge, but gratefully accepts any gifts from his audience, whether they be money, a cup of coffee, or a meal. Cowboy Andy Bouck doesn't pass the hat, he just passes "The Word."

Drainage And Depredation Worry Landowners

county board of commissioners and a resolution adopted by the township board. The resolution expressed the opinion that the proposed project ". . . would have a very negative effect upon our drainage in the 200 system, and upon upland game habitat. It would also add to the problem of waterfowl depredation in the area."

Nething's letter — also signed by the township board members Roy Nelson, Joe Philipp and Gerald Wayne — stated: "The opinion is that the drainage for the landowners on the south side of Ditch 200 would not be adequate and could not be guaranteed. The upland game habitat in Section 7 and 8 of Grand Plain and Sections 9, 10, 11 and 12 of Agder would be destroyed due to the standing water caused by loss of drainage due to the dike on the ditch and impoundment area. The water from this area would now have to drain into the Ditch 20 system which is already overloaded.

The letter noted that waterfowl depredation questions had been presented to the watershed board "but with no solutions forthcoming".

It went on to state "With the loss of drainage and with waterfowl depredation there will be a drop in land values and consequently a loss in tax revenue for the township, county and the school district. The lands bordering this wildlife area are already assessed lower than the rest of the township.

"With the increase in habitat and waterfowl and consequently the increase in hunters, the township roads will be used more and require more maintenance. This added cost of maintenance and lower tax revenues is too much of a burden for a township to bear for such a project.

". . . Grand Plain township and Marshall county have done their fair share on water impoundment with the Moose River project, Lost River, Agassiz, Thief Lake and all the state and federal lands that impound water. We feel that this project should be separate and not interfere with the Ditch 200 system . . ."

Similar concerns and sentiments were expressed by others who testified against the project. Among them were Joe Philipp, farmer and township official; Roy Nelson, landowner and township officer; Oliver Howland, charter member of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district who farms in the upper reaches of the Ditch 200 system; Brad Kangas, Grand Plain township farmer; Reuben Wold, member of the Agder town board; Allan Rogalla, who farms with his father in the area; Galen Peters, area farmer; Marcella Gonsorowski, Marshall county commissioner; Darrol Rodahl, area farmer; Rodney Wayne, Grand Plain township farmer; Delray Larson, Marshall county commissioner; Leon Johnson, Grand Plain township farmer; Jim Philipp, area farmer, and Clarence Peters, area farmer.

Steve Anderson was an area farmer who spoke in favor of the project. He said that he and his father owned land between Ditch 20 and Ditch 200 and had "fed ducks for 50 years". He noted that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service had as its purpose the production of waterfowl and "is pretty good at it." He said it was the first time he could see any significant flood control benefit from an area impoundment project and he appreciated the efforts of the watershed management board.

"This is also the first time that I have seen any sportsman group which has offered to give something in return for the depredation by waterfowl, and I appreciate that," he said. He referred to Ducks Unlimited providing funds for upstream drainage and flood control in addition to wildlife benefits.

The only other area farmer to hint at support of the project was Arnold Stanley of Grygla who admitted to "fighting with the DNR for 25 years over land classification". He said he wouldn't want to see the project come in at the expense of someone downstream, but suggested that landowners decide the questions on facts and not forget that someone other than the landowners were paying the cost. He expressed skepticism about the USFWS having control over water levels on the impoundment.

The watershed district board is expected to make its decision on approval of the project in the near future.

Tractor/Train Collision

Hallock — Clare Nelson of Hallock received only minor injuries when the tractor he was operating collided with a Burlington Northern railroad train. The accident occurred February 2 at about 3 p.m. near Western Implement in Hallock where Nelson was plowing snow with the tractor at the time of the accident. The collision sheared the tractor in two.

Hallock Accidents

Hallock — According to Dale Hanson of the Hallock police department, a collision last Monday at the Hallock post office intersection resulted in estimated damage of $2,000 to both vehicles involved. A 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Ethel Glidden collided with a 1975 Ford Gran Torino driven by James Kushinski. Both are Hallock residents. Another collission Monday occurred at the intersection of highways 175 and 75 in Hallock when a 1986 Ford pickup, driven by Marilyn Burton of Humboldt, was struck by a car driven by Stanley Frames of Lancaster. The Frames vehicle was making a right turn from highway 75 onto highway 175 when it slid into the pickup. Damage to the Frames vehicle was $550, and $450 to the Hanson pickup.

Special Delivery? No Thanks!

Lake Bronson — The Lake Bronson post office building at the corner of First avenue and Main street was damaged when struck by a pickup the evening of January 30, according to the Kittson county sheriff's office. Shane Johnson of Lancaster reportedly lost control of his 1983 four-wheel drive Chevy on the icy, snow-covered street when turning north off Main street onto First avenue, and crashed into the post office building. No injuries were sustained in the accident, but the sheriff's department said that extensive damage was done to the pickup and the building.

Grand Jury To Be Called

Bemidji — Beltrami county attorney Tom Keyes intends to convene a grand jury to consider first-degree murder charges against George Blasus, who has been charged with two counts of second-degree murder in the shooting death of his wife, Hazel, and two counts of attempted first-degree murder in connection with related shootings that left two other people wounded. Blasus, 69, allegedly walked into the Clyde Palmer home and fired six or seven rounds at his estranged wife, Hazel, age 59, also striking Clyde Palmer and Calvin Gudgeon. The incident happened at 1:40 p.m. February 1. Hazel Blasus was staying at the Palmer home. Witnesses at the scene overpowered Blasus after he emptied the gun, a German 9 mm Luger pistol, and held him until law enforcement officers arrived at the scene. The injured were transported to North Country hospital in Bemidji where Hazel Blasus died at 11 p.m. that evening. Palmer was reported in fair condition last Monday and Gudgeon had been discharged at that time.

FAA Investigates

Waskish — Federal Aviation Administration investigators arrived at the scene of a single-engine plane crash on Upper Red Lake last Monday to determine the case of a crash that killed three men from the Twin Cities area last week. Victims were identified as Leonard Holland, 61, Brooklyn Park; Robert L. Benedict, 61, Minneapolis; and Donald S. Monson, 58, of Golden Valley, pilot of the plane. Preliminary reports indicate that foggy conditions in the area may have been responsible for the crash. The pilot, who was only licensed under visual flight rule, may have experienced spatial disorientation when heavy fog appeared and he could no longer see landmarks, said E.J. McAvoy, air safety investigator for the FAA. Witnesses at the scene said the right wing tip of the six-passenger aircraft appeared to strike the lake moments before it crashed. A medical doctor from Grand Forks, ND, who was at the scene of the crash, said the passengers and pilot were dead on impact. The all-metal, low-wing plane crashed a quarter mile west of Sunset Lodge on Upper Red Lake about 3:15 February 1. The plane was flying back to Minneapolis from a fishing trip in Manitoba.

The Old Lamp Lighter Of Long, Long Ago

East Grand Forks — The city of East Grand Forks will be installing new "old-time" street lights in the downtown area in time for the centennial celebration this summer.

Frankly . . . He's Madd

Not Even A Day

Stephen — A balloon that traveled 1700 miles in 23 and one-half hours was found by Dwaine and Sandie Rud of Stephen near the Snake River. The balloon had been released from Vegas Verdes elementary school in Las Vegas, NV, at 1:30 p.m. January 30. The Ruds spied the balloon in a tree about 3 p.m. January 31 as they were snowcatting west of Stephen. The Stephen Messenger helped then unravel the message inside, which gave only the name of the school and not the city from which the balloon originated.

Clothes, toys and necessities have been collected by the students from all around the area during the past several weeks. Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

How Twins Spell Relief

Based on baseball trade activity of the past few days, it appears the Minnesota Twins in 1987 plan to spell relief R-E-A-R-D-O-N. Amid much funfare and back-slapping, it has been announced that the Twins have traded pitcher Neal Heaton and catcher Jeff Reed along with two minor leaguers to Montreal of the National League for relief pitcher Jeff Reardon and catcher Tom Nieto. Reardon is hailed as the key to future glory.

It is no secret the Twins have exhibited a pathetic bullpen of late, especially with the seeming unwillingness of management to recognize that Ron Davis was ineffective. Having negotiated an exorbitant salary contract with the Twins, Davis was too costly a product to give up on easily. It was only when his performance was so bad that fans started going to the showers along with starting pitchers he relieved that management realized something had to be done.

Given an opportunity to perform, other bullpen staff responded fairly well in the latter part of the season. None of these really established himself as outstanding, however, and the search for a legitimate reliever continued. Now, apparently, it has ended.

We like the Twins. We like to see them do well. We especially like to watch the little-publicized players blossom and become real contributors, with Kirby Puckett a prime example. We swallow hard when media-made stars like Davis and Kent Hrbek show promise, get inflated contracts and then fizzle but are too expensive to replace.

We wish Jeff Reardon well with his new ball club. Much is made of his 35 saves last season — 11 more than the entire Twins pitching staff. But his earned run average was only 3.96 and he lost nine ball games while only winning seven. The fact that he is a 31-year-old fastball pitcher should make pinch hitters' mouths water — if not this year, then next year.

The plus in the matter is that the Twins really didn't give up a great deal for Reardon and Nieto on the basis of records. Heaton is young but not a proven major leaguer. Reed is the only Twins catcher who could throw out a base stealer but his limited duty didn't give him enough experience to be a sufficiently strong hitter. Nieto just might be the best part of the whole deal for Minnesota. The minor leaguers going to Montreal — Al Cardwood and Yorkis Perez — are unknowns untested in the major leagues.

This is the time of year when hope springs eternal in the hearts of baseball fans. Spring training talk will soon be bantered about the sports pages and optimism will be expressed for the coming season. Again there will be real sports on the TV tube instead of eight-mile-per-hour sailboat racing.

There Shouldn't Be A Law

Certainly there will be a push on this year in the Minnesota legislature to add a fine for violation of the state's seat belt law. John H. Shaffer, director of the Minnesota Occupant Restraint Program of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, indicates such in his column in the program's newsletter.

Shaffer first laments referendums in Massachusetts and Nebraska where state seat belt laws were repealed — by 561 votes in Nebraska and six per cent of the voters in Massachusetts.

"Are the voters in Massachusetts and Nebraska voicing a national statement?" Shaffer asks. "Will other states with belt laws bend or break under similar stress? I think not. I agree with Chuck Hurley of the National Safety council who said, 'The damage of the two referenda is a warning signal, but not by any means is there a groundswell of opposition.'

"At least in Minnesota there doesn't appear to be strong opposition, and the experiences of Massachusetts and Nebraska have had little publicity," the director adds. "The most common complaint our office hears with reference to our law is 'Why isn't there a fine?'

"That's not to say that there won't be opposition when our law is once again debated in an attempt to add a penalty. I'm sure opponents will be prepared and will use all the damaging material they can find. I think the warning from Massachusetts and Nebraska is for us to be better prepared and to continue a strong education program."

Using seat belts makes good sense. The people in Nebraska and Massachusetts know that just as well as the people in Minnesota. They just don't want another law infringing on their individual preferences. As far as Minnesotans are concerned, they haven't been complaining because a law without penalty is no different than no law at all. But Mr. Shaffer can bet his airbag that there will be opposition all over legislators like ugly on an ape when a penalty law surfaces.

"Minnesota doesn't have a voter referendum. Our seat belt law could only be repealed by the state legislature or by our Supreme Court finding it unconstitutional," Shaffer says. "But what would happen if the issue were placed on the ballot? Would the majority still be heard, or only the majority who voted?"

We hasten to remind Mr. Shaffer that in our governmental system, those who vote provide the only majority that counts. He would have a hard time convincing legislators elected under that system of anything different.

When it comes to seat belts, everyone should use them but there shouldn't be a law. It's just that simple.

Children And Obesity: A Growing Problem

The following comments are provided by the American Heart association.

At a time when most Americans seem concerned with getting in shape, shedding extra pounds and generally living a healthier lifestyle, there is a group being left behind — our children. They are being left behind to sit back, eat poorly, watch television and live a generally inactive lifestyle that can lead to obesity.

Obesity is defined as a body weight 30 per cent higher than the values listed on accepted height and weight tables. Recent studies show that the total number of obese children ages 6 to 11 has grown 54 per cent in the last 15 to 20 years. Among 12-17 year olds, the prevalence of obesity has increased 30 per cent. And the incidence of obesity is twice as high among preadolescent black children than in preadolescent white children.

The problem of childhood obesity is not that it's just physically unattractive, or physchologically damaging in the formative years. It also poses a significant potential health problem for youngsters. Some experts think obesity is an independent risk factor for heart disease. It is a strong contributing factor to two other heart disease risk factors, high blood pressure and adult on-set diabetes. In addition, overweight children usually have higher blood pressure than children who are not overweight.

Heredity plays a big role in this problem, meaning every child is not at equal risk. But there are other contributing factors. Many scientists are pointing an accusing finger at television. Children eat more while they watch televion and they watch a lot of it. They also have a tendency to eat more of the foods advertised on television. The message to them says they will be thin no matter what they eat, because everyone on the screen is thin.

The solution? A combination of proper diet and exercise will help provide the answer to this growing problem.

Exercise has become a national recreational pastime, and more and more people are beginning to realize that not only is exercise good for their health, it's also fun. Parents can take the lead by encouraging children to get out of the house and away from the television by limiting TV viewing time. They can offer exercise suggestions from bicycling to roller skating. Mom and dad can get the physical activity they need in their lives, too, by joining their children in exercise. When it's time for a favorite show on TV, a low-calorie snack like popcorn without the butter and salt, can be prepared to satisfy the munchies.

Your local American Heart Association can help provide the guidelines for diet and exercise that will help combat the problem of childhood obesity. The answer lies in educating parents, teachers, and most importantly, the children themselves. Ultimately the best hope is the children will assume responsibility for their problem. Good health habits formed early in our children's lives will follow them for a lifetime.

Borrowed Nonsense

Two drivers were surveying the damage to their cars following an accident. One pulled out a bottle and offered the other a drink, saying, "It'll help calm you down."

"Thanks," replied the other, taking a swig and returning the bottle. "Aren't you going to have one, too?"

"Yes," said the other, "but I think I'll wait until after the cops have been here and gone."

During one of the winter cold spells, the furnace in a small factory broke down. The employees were sent home, and told they would be notified by phone when the furnace was fixed and arrangements would be made to pick them up in a company car.

One worker who didn't have a phone left his neighbor's number. A couple of hours later the neighbor came looking for him, ashen-faced and shaky, to tell the worker, "I've got a message for you. They said, 'The heat is on. We're sending somebody out to get you'".

Member, Minnesota State
Council for the Handicapped

On January 30, Mary O'Hara-Anderson, chair of the Minnesota State Council for the Handicapped, delivered the first ever "Disability State of the State" at the Capitol. I wish to share with your readership the highlights from that address since Ms. O'Hara-Anderson is calling all communities to put into action those changes which are necessary to allow disabled persons to share in the essentials of life which are otherwise available to nondisabled Minnesotans.

(1) Minnesota's 600,000 disabled citizens are not looking for preferential treatment. They are, however, seeking out services and support from our community which will allow them to live in regular houses and work at regular work sites which have been made accessible.

(2) Independence and freedom are essential. People with disabilities do not want to be "taken care of." All they ask is to be treated like citizens of their communities and not like clients of a service system.

(3) Accountability is essential. People with disabilities want public officials to take greater responsibility in monitoring how dollars allocated for disability programs are spent. And disabled persons are asking that the money currently being spent be used to ensure education that meets their needs, independence and self-actualization.

(4) Employment is essential. Three-fifths of disabled persons live below the poverty line. According to a recent Harris Poll, two-thirds of all disabled people are unemployed, and two-thirds of them want to work.

(5) Accessibility is essential. It is time for our community to commit itself to the elimination of the uneven compliance with the accessibility portion of the state building code and the abuse of handicapped parking spaces. We must make sure that persons with hearing or vision impairments can use the facilities of the whole community. And we must see to it that all citizens can use public transportation.

(6) Education is essential. It guarantees access to the full measure of society's benefits. Too often disabled children are educated in segregated settings. That segregation is a handicap. Too many young people with disabilities are falling between the cracks in their transition from school to adult work life.

Simple put, Mary O'Hara-Anderson is saying that public policy should respect the rights of all persons, encourage independence, and foster individual self development. I wholeheartedly concur with her and encourage and challenge our community to open up all facets of community living to persons with disabilities.

— Random Recollections
by Frank Armstrong

This is about the LaRoche family at Euclid in the 1920s. Joe LaRoche had a garage in Euclid and he sure knew what he was doing with the automobiles of his day.

He once took the wheels and frame of a Model T Ford, put a 4 cylinder Buick motor and Brisco transmission in it. The only drawback was he could not find anyone that would drive it wide open.

He entered the automobile race at the Warren fair one year. But he backed out at the last minute. He said, "I have a wife and three kids at home and I think it would be taking too big a chance."

Joe always made a skating rink every winter and was a whiz on skates. He always rode a motorcycle and one year dug an oval shaped pit in the ground and then had contests to see who could ride the farthest down in the smallest circle.

His brother, Arno, and sister, Frances, always rode a bicycle built for two to school in Euclid. Arno had a jewelry store in Stephen for many years. When Joe moved to Bemidji he built a speed boat named Spillaro. He once ws crossing some waves and he was too far forward in the boat, the nose went under a wave and he ended up with the nose of the boat sticking in the bottom of the lake 12 feet down. He came to the top of the water. Some people picked him up, but it pretty well did in the motor as it was hot when it hit the cold water.

His brother, Harry, was great with his shotgun. He had a blue roan horse named Blitzen which he rode all over the place. When he felt right he would ride Blitzen full speed down a township road and shoot the insulators off every telephone pole with his shotgun. Garret Pahlen, who owned the Euclid Telephone company, did not enjoy this and years later I was the trouble shooter on this line.

Claus Fiemann, who owned the North Store in Euclid for almost 50 years, worked for Harry LaRoche when he was quite young. One night when Claus was already in bed, Harry came home drunk. Harry went to bed but it was a hot night and the bed bugs started to bite him (our young people haven't lived yet when they came along after the bed bug became a thing of the past). Harry got up, lit a lamp. Where ever he saw a bed bug crawling on the wall he would blast it with his shotgun. Claus did not care for this. He wondered what would happen if Harry saw a bed bug on his bed. Well, Harry either killed all the bed bugs or scared them enough so he and Claus got to sleep.

In the fall when there was a lot of wild geese in the fields, Harry would take Blitzen and let him graze towards the geese. He would keep the horse between him and his ever present shotgun. The geese were not afraid of a grazing horse. When they were close to the flock, Harry would jump on Blitzen and ride right under the geese before they could get going and blast a lot of geese down.

Blitzen and the shotgun left this world together. The shotgun went off when it shouldn't have. It ended Blitzen's hectic life. Harry walked to the closest telephone post. When he got tired of beating the post with his shotgun the barrel was in a half moon shape. He might have gotten another shotgun and another horse but not anything that ever rivaled Blitzen and his first gun.

to the Editor

Letter to the Editor . . .

Dear Mr. Lundgren,

The Lincoln High student body is apologizing for their conduct on Saturday night. Many people say that our actions give the community a bad reputation. You don't realize how many towns do the same, and worse. Fergus Falls, Crookston, and especially Moorhead gave us very hostile crowds.

While in Moorhead, they had the same "Tasteless chants," and threw many more things on the ice surface than our cheering section. Did you hear about this? Apparently not, or you would have written, "Lincoln students get revenge against Moorhead." If it gives the community such a bad reputation, why haven't you heard about Moorhead's student body. The only way a community can get the bad reputation is by having it printed and exported by a newspaper. Besides the chants inspired the team, I know, I asked them. That was the main reason they came out flying in the first period, and ultimately won the game. If you give this town a choice between a winning hockey team, or a rowdy crowd, they will choose the rowdy crowd.

The whole Lincoln student body.

Unbeaten Prowlers Rally To Defeat Crookston Girls 42-37

Another rally and another win pushed the Thief River Falls record to a still-perfect 17-0 Thursday as the Prowlers came from behind to overtake Crookston 42-37 in front of what was probably the largest crowd to ever watch a girls basketball game in the Lincoln High School gym.

Tuesday Thief River Falls trailed Bemidji 27-20 with 2½ minutes left in the third quarter, but rattled off 15 stright points en route to a 43-35 win. Thursday the Prowlers trailed Crookston 37-30 with 7:15 remaining in the game before scoring 12 unanswered points for win No. 17.

"I really got worried when Crookston got that seven-point lead," admitted Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer, "but give the girls credit. They really pulled together, and, again, they found a way to win."

Thief River Falls wound up outscoring Crookston 12-2 in the fourth quarter to make amends for some sub-par basketball. The Prowlers started in good enough fashion as all five starters scored in producing a 15-8 first quarter lead with a 7-for-14 shooting effort from the field. Three times the Prowlers got their lead up to nine points in the early stages of the second quarter, including a 21-12 advantage after a rebound basket by center Laura Beito with 5:19 remaining in the first half.

But that was the only field goal of the second quarter for the Prowlers, who suddenly went sour offensively when they were unable to get inside the Crookston defense, and went just 1-for-13 shooting against it from the outside.

Crookston finished the half by outscoring Thief River Falls 10-1 over the final 4½ minutes for a 22-22 tie at intermission, going 8-0 during the last 2:43.

It was more of the same at the start of the second half as Crookston put together an 11-2 scoreboard run that produced a 33-26 lead following a shot from the side by Stacy Dalquist with 1:34 remaining in the third quarter.

Crookston matched that seven-point spread again when center Lisa Rodela made a pair of free throws with 10 seconds left to make it 35-28, but the Prowlers went into the huddle at the end of the quarter with a spark when guard Brenda Russell canned a long set shot with just one second left.

Sherry Larson gave the Pirates their 37-30 lead with a turnaround jumper from the free throw line to open the fourth quarter, but that was the last of the self-destructing Crookston offense that wilted in the face of the full-court Thief River Falls press.

Cindy Kruta started the Thief River Falls comeback with a long straightaway jumper. Five Crookston turnovers were then converted into 10 more Thief River Falls points. Kelly Cornell swished one from the base line, Russell drove through the middle, and Cornell, off a feed from Russell, hit nothing but net again from 18 feet for a 38-37 Thief River Falls lead with 4:27 left.

Crookston continued to turn the ball over — nine of them in the fourth quarter — and Thief River Falls continued to score points as Cornell scored off a rebound with 4:11 to go for a 40-37 edge. The Prowlers then spent most of the rest of the night working time off the clock, adding only two Cornell free throws with 1:14 left.

"That was our worst basketball of the year," confessed Schafer, referring to the Prowlers' second and third quarter performances. "We got up 21-12, and I thought we were really going to play well. But Crookston went to a sagging man-to-man defense, and things that should have worked against it, didn't."

Russell and Cornell both scored 14 points to lead the Prowlers. Rodela, a 5-9 senior who sat out part of the first half with three fouls, played a strong game and scored 13 points for Crookston.

Thief River Falls shot 36 per cent from the field (17-for-47) and went 8-for-16 at the free throw line. Crookston shot 38 per cent from the field (15-for-39) and was 7-for-13 at the line. The Pirates had a 30-26 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 21-13.

The Prowlers' unbeaten mark will be on the line Thursday at East Grand Forks. They also play Saturday in Greenbush.

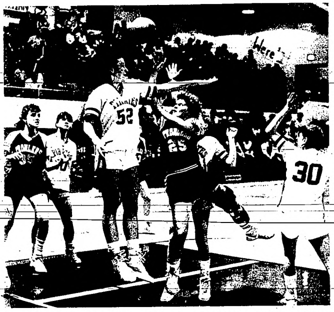
TRF — Cindy Kruta 7, Laura Beito 5, Brenda Russell 14, Kelly Cornell 14, Rhonda Rothschadl 2.



TRAFFIC IN THE middle of the lane didn't stop Thief River Falls guard Brenda Russell from driving to the basket in the first half of Thursday's basketball game against Crookston. Stacy Dalquist (52) of the Pirates tried to block the shot. Others in the photo include the Prowlers' Rhonda Rothschadl and the Pirates' Sherry Larson (50) and Katie Tangen (30). The Prowlers put their record at 17-0 with a come-from-behind 42-37 win over the Pirates.

Mesabi Goalie Makes 66 Saves In Series Opener . . .

Norsemen Edge Pioneers 6-5

Mesabi goalie Glen Moore, a sophomore from Virginia, made 66 saves Friday night, more than one of them in sensation fashion, to lead the Norsemen to a 6-5 win over Northland in the first game of a crucial Minnesota Community College Conference hockey series at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

Moore was kept busy all three periods, making 21 saves in the first 20 minutes, 19 more in the second period and a whopping 26 in the frantic final period.

What started out in nightmarish fashion for the Pioneers wound up as an outstanding hockey game. Northland mistakes led to a 4-0 Mesabi headstart, but the Pioneers regrouped and dominated play the final two periods, out-shooting the Norsemen 50-17 over the last 40 minutes of play.

But Moore stood tall, holding his ground against the Northland barrage.

"I couldn't ask any more than what the kids did tonight," said Northland coach Scott Bergland. "We did everything but win the hockey game. We played the best two periods of hockey all year. We got beat by a goaltender, that's all."

Northland started in shaky fashion, surrendering four first period goals on 13 Mesabi shots. Skating 4-on-4, the Pioneers coughed up the puck in front of their own net that Mesabi's Erik Peterson quickly snapped into the net at 5:27.

Peterson deflected in a Jim Wonitowy shot for a power play goal at 8:35 and Dave Niemi made a shifty move around a Northland defenseman for a point blank shot and a 3-0 lead at 1:32. Northland goalie Kurt Chaffee failed to cover a rebound at his feet that Niemi turned into a power play goal at 13:33 and a 4-0 lead.

"In practice during the week, I told them we wanted to be more aggressive," explained Bergland. "We didn't do it in the first period. It would have been easy for them to quit after the first period, to call it a season, but they didn't. They hung in there and played tremendous hockey."

It was a complete turnaround in territorial play in the second period, but Northland dented Moore just once — a goal by Joe Blankenfeld on a feed out from Steve Ristau at 9:33.

Northland quickly made a game of it in the third period by scoring twice in a sudden 15-second span to make it a 4-3 thriller. Tony Hagen scored from the point at 1:30 when Moore was down on the ice, thinking he had the puck under him, or behind him in the crease after a goal mouth scramble.

Blankenfeld then popped a quick rebound into an open net at 1:45 for a one-goal game.

There were several more near-misses for the Pioneers, but Mesabi got the next goal on a breakaway by Brian Mohar at 3:07.

Northland again pulled within one when a great play on a pass from Chad Bottem to Darrin Abernathy made it 5-4 at 8:26. Abernathy took the pass out front, waited patiently for Moore to go down, then lifted the puck over the prone netminder, putting it just under the crossbar.

Mesabi answered that goal, too, when Todd Greiner tipped in a goal mouth feed at 12:13 to rebuild the Norsemen lead to 6-4.

The see-saw entertainment continued when Chad Swendseid walked the puck in front of Moore to score on a power play at 15:29 for the 6-5 score.

Northland continued to pepper Moore, and had three face-offs in the Mesabi zone after pulling Chaffee for an extra attacker in the final 43 seconds, but weren't able to get the equalizer.

Chaffee finished the game with 26 saves.

Prowlers, Rams Tie 2-2

Both sides scored a pair of power play goals Saturday as Thief River Falls and Roseau skated to a 2-2 Section 8 high school hockey overtime tie at Roseau.

Thief River Falls goalie Shayne Anderson kept it close by kicking out 54 shots, according to the Roseau counter, who had the Rams' Dean Foster down for 23 saves. Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand acknowledged the Rams had a definite edge in shots, but he disputed those figures.

"They out-shot us pretty good," he admitted, "but I don't think it was that bad. I think those figures are inflated. Shayne, however, had a quality, quality game. He made several exceptional saves."

Tim Lefor gave Roseau a 1-0 first period lead, but Thief River Falls came up with a 2-2 second period tie on goals by Bob Geatz and Bill Dicken that were sandwiched around a goal by the Rams' Pete Helgeson.

Neither team scored in the third period, when the scoresheet showed the Rams with a 16-8 shot edge, nor in the eight-minute sudden-death overtime when the Rams out-shot the Prowlers 12-4.

It was the first tie of the 1986-87 season for the Prowlers, who will carry a 6-10-1 record into a Tuesday night game against Detroit Lakes at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. It was also the second Thief River Falls-Roseau overtime game of the year, with the Rams winning a 4-3 Jan. 3 contest at the Sports Arena.

Thief River Falls lost the services of standout senior Scott Novak late in the third period of Saturday's game when he was sent tumbling to the ice by a Roseau check. He was taken from the ice on a stretcher with an injury that was preliminarly diagnosed as a severely-bruised knee. Additional information on the injury was expected today (Monday) that would determine his status for the final three regular season games at the Sports Arena Tuesday vs. Detroit Lakes, Saturday vs. Fergus Falls and the following Tuesday vs. Warroad.

Scoring

First period — Roseau, Tim Lefor (John Helgeson), 13:02.

Second period — TRF, Bob Geatz (Dave Johnson-Scott Novak), :39; Roseau, Pete Helgeson (Jon Larson-Jason Holm), 3:08; TRF, Bill Dicken (Novak), 9:13.

Third period — none.

Overtime — none.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 10-16-16-12, 54; Roseau, Dean Foster 6-5-8-4, 23.

Beat Mesabi 5-3; Host UMC Tonight . . .

Pioneers Gain Series Split

Three power play goals, along with a shorthanded score, carried the Northland Community College hockey team to a 5-3 Saturday afternoon win over Mesabi as the Pioneers salvaged a split with the Norsemen in the two-game Minnesota Community College Conference weekend series at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena and kept their MCCC state playoff hopes alive.

Northland completes its 1986-87 regular season schedule tonight (Monday) with a 7:30 p.m. game against rival University of Minnesota-Crookston at the Sports Arena. The Trojans swept Hibbing over the weekend to clinch the regular season league title and gain the home ice edge for the start of post-season play this weekend. The Pioneers can guarantee themselves a playoff spot by winning tonight. A Northland loss wouldn't automatically eliminate the Pioneers from the MCCC two-game, total-goal semifinal series, but it would necessitate a complicated set of tie-breaking procedures involving the other three playoff contenders — Itasca, Hibbing and Mesabi.

Mesabi improved its playoff stock Friday by beating Northland 6-5 in the weekend series opener, and following a 10-3 drubbing at the hands of UMC last Wednesday, plus weekend losses to Itasca the previous Friday and Saturday, the once high-flying Pioneers were carrying a four-game losing streak into Saturday's matinee. Their playoff hopes were getting dimmer all the time.

But Northland turned in a strong effort to remain in the thick of the playoff chase, out-shooting Mesabi 59-36.

"We played well," confirmed Northland coach Scott Bergland. "We had a couple of breakdowns, but all-in-all, we played some pretty good hockey."

Northland started with a 2-0 lead in

Northland, Hibbing In Playoff Race

It was announced this morning (Monday) that University of Minnesota-Crookston, Itasca and Mesabi have locked up Minnesota Community College Conference hockey playoff positions, with the fourth and final spot up for grabs between Northland and Hibbing.

Both the Pioneers and Cardinals play tonight, with Northland finishing their regular season schedule by hosting rival UMC at 7:30 p.m. at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena, while Hibbing has an easier assignment against Hibbing.

Northland can clinch a playoff spot by winning tonight, or if Hibbing loses to Rainy River. A Northland loss and a Hibbing win would create a fourth place tie in the league standings. A multiple-step tie-breaking procedure would then go to the fifth step — a goal total. If Northland scores six goals tonight — win, lose or draw — the Pioneers will be in the playoffs, regardless of how Hibbing does.

Prowlers Looking At 20-0

Sitting on a 17-0 record, Thief River Falls girls high school basketball coach Tom Schafer admitted Thursday after the Prowlers' 42-37 victory over Crookston that a 20-0 regular season finish is on the minds of the players and coaches heading into the final three games of the 1986-87 schedule.

But the Prowlers aren't putting any pressure on themselves to attain that goal.

"We can be one of the few teams that can be unbeaten during the regular season," acknowledged Schafer, "and that's one of our goals. But if it doesn't happen, no problem."

The record is certainly impressive, and it has produced a great deal of interest in the team, putting the girls in an unaccustomed spotlight. They drew a gym full of people Thursday, and you have to figure the place will be full for the regular-season finale Friday, February 20, against Fergus Falls if the unbeaten mark is still intact. The No. 1 seed in the North Sub-Region 8AA playoffs will also be at stake that night.

But to get to 19-0, the Prowlers will have to get by East Grand Forks and Greenbush. Thursday's game at East Grand Forks will be tough. The Prowlers edged the Green Wave 56-54 in overtime when they met in the semi-finals of the Warren Invitational back on Dec. 19, then stopped East Grand Forks with a full-court press in winning a 56-47 meeting here Jan. 15. Saturday's game at Greenbush scares Schafer, too, because of the danger of overlooking the Tigers.

Last time Thief River Falls had an unbeaten basketball team was in 1937-38 when the Prowlers (boys, only then ) were state champions with a 27-0 record under coach George Lee.

NCC Has Big Night

A bit of unfortunate scheduling has a couple of key community college sports events vying for the attention of the fans tonight (Monday).

A regularly-scheduled Northland vs. Fergus Falls men's and women's basketball doubleheader will be played at the Northland gym beginning at 6 p.m., while a weather-forced postponed Northland vs. University of Minnesota-Crookston make-up hockey game will be played at 7:30 p.m. at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

Playoff positions are at stake at both sites, with the basketball teams trying to move up in the Northwest Division race, where the top two regular season finishers earn state tournament berths, while the hockey team tries to land one of four available state tournament berths.

Take your pick. It should be a good night's worth of entertainment at either site.

MESABI GOALIE Glen Moore was sprawled on the ice as Northland's Darrin Abernathy lifted the puck over the netminder and just under the crossbar at 8:26 of the third period in Friday's community college hockey game at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. The Pioneers, who spotted the Norsemen a 4-0 first period lead, three times cut it down to a one-goal deficit in the third period, but still came up short in a 6-5 loss as Moore made 66 saves.

---

Prowlers Beat Moorhead For 7-1 Record . . .

TRF Swimmers Meet Bemidji

Only team to beat the Thief River Falls boys in dual meet competition this winter awaits the Prowlers Tuesday when Bemidji hosts a 6 p.m. high school swim meet.

Winning nine of 11 events, Thief River Falls breezed to an easy 111-57 win over Moorhead Tuesday at the Franklin Middle School pool, putting the Prowlers at 7-1 for the year. The lone setback was a 95-74 defeat at the hands of Bemidji back on Jan. 16.

Paul Glauque was a double-event individual winner for the Prowlers Thursday, taking the 200-yard freestyle in 1:56.00 and winning the 100-yard butterfly in 58.6.

Other individual Thief River Falls winners were Rick Rosetta, 2:24.11 in the 200 I.M.; Shon Thompson, 221.5 points in the diving competition; Greg Dosser, 57.50 in the 100 freestyle; Keith Olson, 5:38.37 in the 500 freestyle; and Brian Schindler, 1:09.53 in the 100 breaststroke.

Thief River Falls' winning relay combinations included Joe Drevlow, Schindler, Rosetta and Dosser in the 200 medley race, and Todd Carlson, Dosser, Glauque and Aaron Tofte in the 400 freestyle race.

The Prowlers recorded 23 career-best efforts during the meet, and had Section 8-qualifying performances from Tofte in the 200 freestyle, and from both Rosetta and Olson in the 200 I.M.

Glauque had career-best showings in his two wins, and so did Thompson in diving and Olson in the 500. Carlson had a good meet, said Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney with career-bests in the 50 freestyle and butterfly, while diver Shane Defreece broke the 100-point mark for the first time

A WINNER in the 100-yard breaststroke during Thursday's Thief River Falls-Moorhead high school swim meet at the Franklin Middle School pool was the Prowlers' Brian Schindler. He won the event in 1:09.53 and the Prowlers handled the Spuds 111-57.

Basketball Playoff Spots At Stake . . .

Pioneers Host Spartans Tonight

Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams will be fighting for playoff positions tonight (Monday) when the Pioneers host Northwest Division rival Fergus Falls in a 6 p.m. doubleheader at the Northland gym.

The women play the first game. The men's game is scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Northland dropped both ends of a Northwest Division twinbill at the University of Minnesota-Crookston Thursday, with the Trojans winning the women's game 77-66 and taking the men's game 80-74.

Northland . . . . . . . . . . . . . 74

University of Minnesota-Crookston played well, and Northland played not so well, explained Pioneers' coach Chet Engelman after the Trojans' 80-74 victory.

"It was not a bad game," said Engelman. "They (UMC) felt they played well, and they did. They played the best we've seen them play all year. We left a lot to be desired. We shot poorly, and we turned the ball over way too many times."

UMC led 41-35 at halftime, and held off a second half Northland threat when Warren's Trek Schuler, who had been playing little, connected on three consecutive three-point field goal attempts in the last seven minutes.

Northland received good performances, said Engelman, from Anthony McCullough, who had a 17-point, 21-rebound game, and from Morris Matthews, who collected 14 points, hitting a couple of key three-pointers to keep it close. Ray Davis hit double figures, too, with 13 points. Shawn Naas led UMC with 24 points. Schuler and Pete Schogren both had 12 and Bill Primus netted 11.

The Pioneers were 27-for-67 from the field (40 per cent) and also struggled with a 15-for-29 free throw night (52 per cent). The Trojans were 29-for-69 from the field (42 per cent) and 16-for-21 at the line (76 per cent). Northland had a 55-37 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 21-18.

Rated No. 1 in the Minnesota Community College Conference polls coming into the game, the University of Minnesota-Crookston women remained unbeaten in the MCCC with a 77-66 victory over Northland.

UMC led 38-32 at halftime and had a 39-34 second half scoring edge.

Northland's Angie Enerson scored a game-high 28 points, while Jody Pahlen netted 16 and Janelle Lorsung 12.

It wasn't an 11-point ball game, said Northland coach Tom Neibauer. "The game was closer than that," he point out. "There were a couple of calls down the stretch that hurt, and we had to foul them at the end."

UMC double-teammed top Northland scorers Lorsung and Pahlen, but Enerson had an "outstanding" game, pointed out Neibauer.

Pioneers Lose 67-66 Game

A nonconference schedule that used to supply the Northland Community College men's basketball team with a steady supply of wins wound up top-heavy with losses this winter when the Pioneers dropped a 67-66 Saturday afternoon decision to visiting NDSU-Bottineau.

Northland completed its 1986-87 nonconference schedule with a 5-7 record. The Pioneers, 10-9 overall, will finish the year with four Northwest Division games, starting tonight (Monday) against Fergus Falls, an 8 p.m. contest at the Northland gym that will be preceded by a 6 p.m. women's game between the Pioneers and Spartans.

Fergus Falls is the current Northwest Division leader with a 6-0 Minnesota Community College Conference record. Northland is 5-2, followed by the University of Minnesota-Crookston at 3-5 and Brainerd 2-6. Top two finishers earn MCCC state tournament berths. Northland will host Brainerd Saturday, then complete regular season play next week with games Monday, February 16, at Fergus Falls and Thursday, February 19, at home against UMC.

Northland played Saturday's game without one of its top performers — 5-11 sophomore guard Greg Campnell, who skipped the nonconference contest to rest a muscle pull. Ray Davis, a 5-9 freshman, tried to pick up the slack with a strong 20-point game on an 10-for-18 effort from the field. But that wasn't enough to offset Bottineau's Dan Taylor, who scored 31 points on a busy 7-for-23 shooting effort — all from the three-point range. He was also 10-for-10 at the free throw line.

Led by Taylor, Bottineau was 20-for-23 at the line (87 per cent), while the Pioneers, obviously not benefiting from home-town officiating, went 5-for-9 (56 per cent).

Northland led 35-34 at halftime, trailed 55-50 at the 10-minute mark of the second half and led 61-58 with 6:55 remaining. Randy Hargest scored with one minute to go as Northland pulled within 67-66, and that wound up as the final when both sides missed scoring opportunities at the end.

The Pioneers out-scored Bottineau from the field on a 30-for-74 shooting effort (41 per cent). Bottineau was 20-for-66 (30 per cent). But Taylor hit those seven three-pointers to make up the difference, while Northland went just 1-for-12 from three-point range.

Northland had a 48-47 rebound edge and also had a slightly-higher turnover figure, 15-14.

Area Boys High School Basketball . . .

Skippers Hold Off Bears

Tom Gullikson and Jeff Foss didn't wind up with big numbers, but they nevertheless played key roles Friday as Middle River edged Lake of the Woods 51-49 in boys high school basketball action.

Gullikson, a 6-1 senior, didn't start because of illness. But when the host Skippers fell behind 10-5 in the first quarter he found himself back in the line-up, helping to keep his team within 26-25 at halftime.

Foss, a 5-8 sophomore, spelled Gullikson in the second half as Middle River took a 38-35 third quarter lead and held on for the two-point win.

Gullikson scored seven points and had nine rebounds while playing sparingly. Foss contributed six points, two steals, forced a couple of jump balls and was 2-for-2 in the key free throw situations.

"Those two kids really did a nice job for us,'; said Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

Bradley Kilen and Tom Blazek led the Skippers with 12 points each, and Marc Gram added 10. Tony Trueman led Lake of the Woods with 15 points.

Middle River had a 51-45 lead with 1:50 remaining when the Skippers began to hold the ball, working on the clock. But they missed the front-end of two bonus free throw opportunities down the stretch and watched the Bears storm back, only to miss a last shot at a tie.

It was the sixth win in 16 starts for the Skippers, who will be at Warroad Friday.

Middle River was 18-for-48 from the field (38 per cent) and 15-for-26 at the free throw line (58 per cent). Lake of the Woods was 22-for-47 from the field (47 per cent) and 5-for-13 at the line (38 per cent). The Skippers had a 28-22 rebound edge. The Bears had more turnovers, 22-14.

Alvarado . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 71
Goodridge . . . . . . . . . . . . . 53

Goodridge fell prey to Spencer Selnes Friday as the Alvarado guard put on a shooting show that led the host Indians past the Huskies 71-53.

Alvarado was playing without the top performer Mark Merrill, but Selnes picked up the slack, going 16-for-21 from the field, mostly from the outside, in a 37-point night.

Led by Selnes, Alvarado was 29-for-54 from the field (54 per cent). Goodridge was 3-for-61 (38 per cent), including an 0-for-7 start as the Huskies fell behind 18-10 in the first quarter, trailed 36-21 at halftime and looked at a 54-36 third quarter deficit.

The loss dropped Goodridge to 2-11. "We're improving, despite our record," pointed out Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We know we're better than 2-11, and our opponents know it, too. Alvarado just has a better team than we have right now."

Jeff Berg played a strong game for the Huskies, said Rahn, scoring 16 points, grabbing nine rebounds from his guard position, handing our four assists and getting six steals. Sophomore Paul Henrickson also played well off the bench, according to Rahn, contributed eight points and five rebounds.

Alvarado was 13-for-20 at the free throw line, where Goodridge was 7-for-12.

Goodridge will be at Gonvick-Trail Friday.

Plummer played four good quarters of defense, and then came alive offensively in the fourth quarter Friday in beating Red Lake Falls 52-39.

"We played excellent defense," pointed out Plummer coach Jim Baron. "Offensively we had a good fourth quarter. We played well in spots before that, but we had poor shot selection."

Host Red Lake Falls led 14-8 at the end of the first quarter. Plummer went ahead 21-20 at halftime, carried a 31-30 lead into the fourth quarter, then out-scored the Eagles 21-9.

Shane Freyholtz scored 20 points to lead Plummer, with John Fisher netting 13 and Wade Grinde 12. Roy Huot led Red Lake Falls with 14 points.

Plymmer was 20-for-62 from the field (32 per cent) and 12-for-17 at the free throw line (71 per cent). Red Lake Falls was 15-for-46 from the field (33 per cent) and 9-for-17 at the line (53 per cent).

Darin Rokke got the points, but teammate Danni Halvorson received the post-game plaudits as Marshall County Central defeated Roseau 66-41 Friday night at Newfolden.

Rokke scored a game-high 31 points, while Halvorson netted just 2, but the latter also had 10 assists and eight steals to earn praise from Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Danni had just an excellent game. It was definitely his best game of the year. He played extremely well at both ends of the court."

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 14-5, 34-16 and 45-26 in hitting the .500 mark at 7-7 for the year.

"It was, overall, our best game of the year," said Ueland. "We played 32 minutes of consistent basketball. We were real pleased with it."

Kelly Dahl joined Rokke in double figures with 11 points. Nine different Rams scored, but none of them reached double figures.

Marshall County Central shot an even 50 per cent from the field (27-for-54) and shot 63 per cent at the free throw line (12-for-19). Roseau shot 46 per cent from the field (17-for-37) and 70 per cent at the line (7-for-10). The Rams had a 27-21 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 28-11.

Grygla's highest offensive output of the 1986-87 season produced a 70-52 Saturday win over Lake of the Woods, lifting the host Eagles to 7-6 for the year.

It was a complete reversal, said Grygla coach Vern Johnson, from the Eagle' disappointing 46-33 Tuesday loss to Roseau. "We wanted to get that bad taste out of our mouths," said Johnson. "The kids played a real solid basketball game. We attacked them offensively."

The two teams played to a 16-16 first quarter draw before Grygla went ahead 35-26 at halftime and opened up a 53-37 third quarter spread.

Reed Engelstad paced a balanced Grygla attack with 18 points, while Bruce Holte netted 16, Thor Smerek 15 and Chris McLean 10. The Eagles also received strong support play off the bench, explained Johnson. Tony Trueman led Lake of the Woods with 19 points.

Grygla was 29-for-63 from the field (46 per cent) and 12-for-18 at the free throw line (67 per cent). Lake of the Woods was 19-for-62 from the field (31 per cent) and 14-for-22 at the line (64 per cent).

Fergus Falls 54-41 Winner Over TRF

Offensive shortcomings led to a 54-41 Thief River Falls loss at Fergus Falls Friday, a North Sub-Region 8AA boys high school setback that dropped the Prowlers to 8-7 for the year, and 1-3 against regional competition.

Thief River Falls shot just 30 per cent from the field on a 16-for-54 effort. Jarrod Kalsnes, a 6-2 senior, was the only Thief River Falls scorer in double figures, netting a game-high 14 points. Thief River Falls' leading scorer, 6-4 junior Chris Nelson, was in foul trouble and collected just seven points.

Fergus Falls had quarter leads of 13-9, 25-21 and 40-33, then pulled away when the Prowlers missed four bonus free throw opportunities in the early portion of the fourth quarter that could have made it close down the stretch.

Paul Kostelecky and Chip Sauer scored 13 points apiece for the Otters, and Jay Kjos contributed 10.

"We just never produced enough offense to make a run at them," explained Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "Offensively we've got to play better."

Fergus Falls shot 45 per cent from the field (20-for-44). The Otters were 14-for-23 at the free throw line (61 per cent), where the Prowlers were 9-for-17 (53 per cent). Fergus Falls had a 38-27 rebound advantage, and topped the turnover figures 11-9 — a small total for both sides.

Thief River Falls has another North-Sub-Region 8AA test Friday when the Prowlers host Bemidji.

Grygla Girls Top Goodridge 67-39

An effective Grygla press helped the Eagles click on offense, too, as they rolled to a 67-39 girls high school basketball win over rival Goodridge Thursday night.

Grygla led only 14-10 at the end of the first quarter before the Eagles went to the press, resulting in a 39-17 halftime bulge. It was 49-33 through three quarters.

"Our press (a half-court trap) looked good," mentioned Grygla coach Mike Gast. "Offensively we really played well, especially in the second quarter."

Wendy Lawrence scored 20 points and Michelle Jelle had 15 for the winners. Cindy Vettleson led the visiting Huskies with 15 points.

It was the fifth win in 13 starts for the Eagles. The Huskies fell to 1-15. Grygla had a Saturday game scheduled against Lake of the Woods before hosting Roseau tonight (Monday). Goodridge is at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart tonight.

Grygla charts showed the Eagles 28-for-63 from the field (44 per cent) and 11-for-20 at the free throw line (55 per cent), while showing the Huskies at 17-for-78 from the field (23 per cent) and 3-for-14 at the line (21 per cent). Grygla had 41-34 rebound advantage on those same charts.

MCC . . . . . . . . . . 51
Middle River . . . . . . . . 38

Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde gave the Nordics' defense credit for a 51-38 Thursday night win over rival Middle River at Newfolden.

"Offensively we kind of struggled," he admitted. "Middle River's defense had a lot to do with that. But our defense won the game for us. The defense has to win two games for you during the year, and that's one. They've got one more left," he quipped.

Marshall County Central climbed to 13-1 with the win, including 13 straight wins. Middle River fell to 9-6. The final score was nearly identical to a 51-34 Marshall County Central victory at Middle River Jan. 15.

"We just forced the ball too much," pointed out Middle River coach Steve Larson. "We weren't patient enough offensively. Can't complain about the defense, but we just tried to force the ball inside on offense and ended up with turnovers."

It was a 10-10 first quarter standoff, but Marshall County Central went ahead 27-20 at halftime and opened up a 41-28 third quarter spread before the two teams again split 20 fourth quarter points.

Four Marshall County Central scorers hit double figures, including Jodi Foss with 16 points, Andrea Kragness 12, Kelli Anderson 11 and Natalie Ueland 10. Middle River also had a balanced attack, but none of the scorers reached double figures as Hayette Benke, Stacie Sparby and Kerry Nelson all netted eight points.

Marshall County Central was 20-for-57 from the field (35 per cent) and 11-for-20 at the free throw line (55 per cent). Middle River was 15-for-40 from the field (37 per cent) and 8-for-9 at the free throw line (88 per cent). The Nordics had a 28-20 rebound edge, surrendering just three offensive rebounds to the Skippers, who led the turnovers department 21-15.

Both teams play tonight (Monday). Marshall County Central is at Tri-County and Middle River is hosting Lake of the Woods.

Grygla snapped a 26-26 third quarter tie by out-scoring Lake of the Woods 8-2 over the final eight minutes to collect a low-scoring 34-28 Saturday afternoon win at Baudette.

The Eagles have a history of struggling through games at Baudette, and this one was no different, admitted Grygla coach Mike Gast. "I was glad to get out of there with a win. It wasn't real good basketball, but when we needed that bucket, we got it."

Grygla had a 10-8 first quarter lead, but Lake of the Woods went ahead 19-18 at halftime.

Wendy Lawrence led the Eagles with 14 points. Kathy Mans had 10 points for Lake of the Woods.

Grygla went 15-for-16 from the field (33 per cent) and 4-for-6 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods was 12-for-42 from the field (29 per cent) and 4-for-9 at the line. Grygla had a 29-25 rebound edge.

Roseau Blanks TRF

Roseau shut out Thief River Falls 4-0 Saturday in junior varsity high school hockey action.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 5-9-2 for the year.

Trojans Drill Pioneers 10-3

University of Minnesota-Crookston routed Northland Community College 10-3 Wednesday in an unexpected one-sided Minnesota Community College Conference hockey match-up at Crookston.

The Trojans, who lost a season-opening nonconference 6-3 decision to the Pioneers, held on to first-place in the MCCC standings by turning a 2-0 first period edge into a 7-0 second period cushion. It was 10-0 before Northland eased some of the sting of the one-sided affair by scoring the game's final three goals.

"We fell apart for about nine minutes in the second period," explained Northland coach Scott Bergland, who was hoping to close the gap between the second place Pioneers and first place Trojans with a win. "Basically it was what you would call a complete breakdown in the middle of the second period. That was the game right there. The first period, even though we were down 2-0, was excellent up and down the ice hockey."

Rick Dahle had a three-goal hat trick to lead the UMC assault. Shane Steinmetz and Mark Lyczewski both scored twice.

Joe Blankenfeld, Steve Ristau and Chad Bottem scored the Northland goals.

UMC out-shot Northland 51-26. Starting Northland goalie Dean Hanson was ejected from the game in the second period after being involved in a scuffle near the Pioneers' goal. Kurt Chaffee finished the game in the Northland nets.

Basketball JV Win Streak Is Snapped

A season-long 11-game winning streak for the Thief River Falls boys' junior varsity high school basketball team ended Friday in a 41-40 loss at Fergus Falls.

Todd Hornseth scored 12 points for the visitors, who trailed 14-10 at the end of the first quarter, went ahead 17-16 at halftime and fell behind again in the third quarter 33-26.

Thief River Falls had a chance to extend the winning streak at the end of the game, but a final shot, plus a tip-in rebound attempt, both narrowly missed the mark.

TRF Girls Win JV Ball Game 60-50

Thief River Falls started with a 22-7 first quarter lead and went on to beat Crookston 60-50 Thursday in girls junior varsity high school basketball action.

Val Noel scored 17 points for the winners, while Kari Torkelson, Tammy Teito and Dana Miller all had 8 as Thief River Falls took a 33-17 lead into halftime and had a 54-33 third quarter edge.

The win put Thief River Falls at 10-4 for the year.

TRF Curling Leagues

Two teams remained undefeated in Thursday night mixed curling action. The teams of Flattens-Marbens and Larsons-Antonenkos both won this past Thursday setting up a showdown for first place this week when they play each other. In other action Thursday night Jordes-Aults knocked out Sugdens-Langlands and Weignads-Rauxs downed Ihles-Delmores.

Standings after five weeks:

Flattens-Marbens 5-0, Larsons-Antonenkos 4-0, Jordes-Aults 3-1, Weigands-Rauxs 2-3, Ihles-Delormes 2-3, Sugdens-Langlands 1-4, Krepps-Seaversons 1-4, Twomeys-Heinrichs 1-4.

Franklin Middle School

Warren had a one-point 13-12 halftime lead, but the Franklin Middle School seventh grade girls wound up with the one-point edge at the end Tuesday in winning a 27-26 basketball game. Jodi Kruta scored 13 points and Tarik Koivisto had 8 for the winners.

Eighth grade girls beat Crookston 22-20 and stopped Fertile-Beltrami 38-32 to win championship honors at the Crookston Invitational Saturday. Molly Pinkerton scored 7 points and Becky Bjerken had 6 against Crookston. Pinkerton added 13 points and Bjerken 9 vs. Fertile-Beltrami.

Pioneers Gain Weekend Split

the first period. Al Erickson scored on a power play slap shot from the point through a Chad Swendseid screen at 6:50, and defenseman Brian Nelson got the Pioneers' shorthanded goal at 17:02 on another slap shot from the point, this one just 42 seconds after teammate Eric Anderson was stopped on a clean breakaway by Mesabi goalie Scott Syversrud, a freshman from Eveleth.

Mesabi, though, kept it close the rest of the afternoon. John Tassoni's tip-in made it 2-1 at 8:13 of the second period.

Both goalies then came up big, with Syversrud stopping Steve Wiskow on a 3-on-1 rush at 10:18, Northland goalie Dean Hanson blocking Tassoni, alone in front, at 14:34, and Syversrud sliding across the crease to stymie Wiskow on a power play at 17:49.

Northland broke the goaltender's duel when Chad Bottem's hard 25-foot slap shot beat Syversrud exactly two minutes after Mesabi's Thad Newgard was whistled for an elbowing penalty — a power play goal coming with just 18 seconds left in the second period.

Mesabi made it a one-goal game again at 2:55 of the third period. Hanson, a sophomore from Grand Forks Central, stopped Dave Niemi on a clean breakaway at 2:49, but the rush set up a goal by Kyle Gerry at 2:55.

The Norsemen, however, could get no closer. Northland's Joe Blankenfeld made an end-to-end rush that he finished off with a backhand shot inside the left post at 6:43, and Erickson's second power play slap shot goal during a 5-on-3 manpower edge made it 5-2.

Niemi closed it out on a 5-on-3 power play for the Norsemen, scoring on a backhand rebound.

A bench-clearing melee after the final horn marred the otherwise good weekend of hockey when the Pioneers took exception to a Mesabi shot on goal after time had expired. Several scuffles took place as the players flooded the ice for several moments before officials restored order.

"It's a shame something like that had to happen," mentioned Bergland. "It was a good hockey series."

Northland is 14-9 for the year, 10-5 in the MCCC.

TRF Swimmers Fifth At Grand Forks

Thief River Falls competed in the Grand Forks Invitational boys high school swimming meet Saturday at the Hyslop Sports Center pool on the University of North Dakota campus in Grand Forks, finishing fifth in the 10-team field.

TRF Real Estate Sales Show Increase In 1986

Despite concern over economic conditions in the area in the past several years and projections for little improvement in the future, real estate sales in 1986 were among the most active in recent years.

That conclusion can be drawn from a compilation of real estate sales prepared by Jan Kramer, GRI, a real estate broker with All Season Realty, Inc., in Thief River Falls. Kramer's statistics include residential property, commercial and land or farm sales for Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Goodridge, St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls.

Recorded home sales in Thief River Falls for 1986 totaled 152 — the greatest number in at least the past seven years. That total compares with 137 in 1985, 111 in 1984, 141 in 1983, 81 in 1982, 99 in 1981 and 112 in 1980.

According to Kramer's summary, 52 of the residential properties sold last year brought less than $19,900. There were 50 that sold for $20,000 to $39,900; 42 for $40,000 to $59,000; six for $60,000 to $79,000; one for $80,000 to $99,900; and one for more than $100,000. All showed increases over 1985 except the $60,000 to $79,000 bracket (eight were sold in 1985) and the more than $100,000 division (three were sold in 1985). In total, 144 homes were sold for less than $59,900 last year.

There were also 12 commercial sales in Thief River Falls in 1986, up from 10 in 1985 but down substantially from 23 in 1984. There were 10 commercial sales in 1983, four in 1982, nine in 1981 and seven in 1980.

Twenty-seven of the homes sold in 1986 were sold by lending institutions, compared with 15 in 1985, 17 in 1984 and 21 in 1983.

Rural land sales took place in Pennington county during the year, according to Kramer's summary. There were 49 sales of rural property of 40 acres or less in 1986, with 37 of the parcels sold with buildings. That compares to 47 sales in 1985, 53 in 1984 and 65 in 1983.

Price breakdown in 1986 showed 22 of the parcels sold for less than $30,000, 12 for $31,000 to $50,000, nine for $51,000 to $60,000, three for $61,000 to $70,000, one for $71,000 to $80,000 and two for more than $81,000.

There were only five sales of property 40 to 80 acres in size in 1986, including four without buildings. That number compared favorably with only two in 1985 and 1984 and seven in 1983.

Sales of more than 80 acres totaled 43, nearly double the 23 sold in 1985. There were 21 such sales in 1984, 13 in 1983 and 14 in 1982. Of the 43 sales in 1986, five included buildings, 14 were without buildings and 24 involved sales to relatives of the owner, for which no information is provided.

Kramer's report also showed that in 1986 there were nine homes sold in St. Hilaire, two in Goodridge and 20 in Red Lake Falls. This compared with five homes sold in St. Hilaire in 1984 and eight in 1984, one home sold in Goodridge in each of 1985 and 1984.

NCC Jazz Groups Sponsor Dinner

"Shades of Blue," Northland community college jazz singers and instrumentalists, will leave February 26 for New Orleans where they look forward to Mardi Gras parades, great jazz music and plantation tours.

Students will have the opportunity to observe several parades including the Endymion on Saturday, February 28, which will include several famous personalities including Julio Eglesis. Each year Mardi Gras celebrations begin shortly after the New Year with festivities increasing steadily until two weeks prior to Mardi Gras (Fat Tuesday) whn there are several parades each day.

New Orleans is the birthplace of jazz. Several trend-setting musicians such as Scott Joplin, Louis Armstrong, King Oliver and others began their careers there. NCC musicians have been rehearsing music in New Orleans style and will offer a "Mardi Gras Dinner Concert" Sunday, February 22, at 7 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

A $10 admission price will provide a meal featuring New Orleans cuisine and entertainment provided by the NCC big-band, Dixieland bands, several soloists and ensembles and the NCC jazz singers. Tickets will be available February 11 at NCC, Larson Music and from individual NCC music students.

Less than 200 tickets are available and will be offered only on an advance purchase reservation basis.

The NCC "Shades of Blue" will perform the same concert at the Deutsches House in New Orleans and at the Nottoway Plantation supper club near White Castle, LA while on their tour.

City Council Supports Enterprise Zone Credit

Thief River Falls city council Tuesday night approved a resolution of support to pursue retention of the enterprise zone credit system, which has recently been slated for termination in Governor Rudy Perpich's new tax package. The loss of enterprise zone credit could mean a loss of $490,000 to $870,000 to Thief River Falls, according to Don Stewart, community development director.

During the city council's meeting Tuesday night, a bid for a new police car through a purchasing agreement with the State of Minnesota was accepted; and, a liquor permit requested by the local Jaycees for the World Series Snowmobile races was granted for February 21 and 22 with liquor to be allowed on Sunday only after 1 p.m.

Don Stewart recently attended a meeting to discuss what appears to be the fate of enterprise zone credit. Stewart said that even though the system has been very effective, the state now believes the system is bad tax policy.

Stewart said state officials believe the local government would be able to achieve the same results as the enterprise zone credit system if given an opportunity to have a large say in where tax levies should be set. He added that from his point of view and from a practical political standpoint, it wouldn't work well because of the amount of power and voter strength at local levels.

Following discussion with state officials, he believes any now existing enterprise zone applicants that have provided projections to the state are protected. The state estimates that projections and credits used add up to about $25 million, which would save about $12 million from their total estimated $37 million project cost.

Stewart said he believes this city and other cities involved should plan on some kind of lobbying effort to protect the program and see that it is

Roseau Girl Dies In Accident On Tuesday Morning

Roseau county sheriff department received a call at about 8:45 a.m. Tuesday reporting that a 15-year-old Roseau girl was seriously injured when a rope being used to tow a vehicle out of a ditch broke and struck the girl's head. She was transported to Roseau county hospital where she was pronounced dead around 10 a.m.

As the Times was going to press the name was released. According to the Roseau County Sheriff's department, Cynthia Norman, daughter of Roger Norman of Roseau, was killed in the accident.

The accident is under investigation by Roseau county sheriff department which is being assisted by the Minnesota state patrol.

Heritage Center Open House Set

Friday, February 20, has been set as the date for the public open house of the Heritage Community center located on Fourth street east of Horace avenue in Thief River Falls and operated by the Pennington county council on aging.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony is being planned for 10 a.m. with Mayor Bob Carlson and Morris Howick, president of the council on aging, to be among those involved in the event. Guided tours of the building and coffee and doughnuts will be available throughout the day.

Main event will be a dinner at 6:30 p.m., followed by a program. Tickets at $5 each are available to the public and are limited to the seating capacity of approximately 150 for the center. Tickets must be purchased in advance and are available at the center, Larson Music company and Ekeren Drug. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Musical groups headed by Duane Vatsaas and Eldon Moe will perform during the day and a dance will begin at 9 p.m. Other events are also being planned by various committees of the council on aging.

Regular senior meals program will be conducted on the day of the open house and persons planning to be served that day must make reservations a day in advance by calling 681-2793. The craft shop will be open during its usual hours of 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Heritage Community center was constructed with contributions from many organizations, business and professional groups and individuals in the community. It was first opened for serving of senior meals on January 4 and has had increasing use since that time, according to members of the council on aging. Sue Erickson, who supervises the senior meals program, is also the building director.

Property Owners In County Can Expect Big Tax Increases

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Property tax statements will be going out soon if they haven't already been received, and for most taxpayers, an increase will be noted. Of the increases seen this year, according to Gerard DeHaan, county assessor, commercial property taxes will take the biggest jump, averaging an increase of a solid 20 per cent.

Statewide averages published earlier were off the mark, at least for this area, according to DeHaan. He said he believed the state predicted an average increase of 11 per cent for commercial property, seven per cent for residential property and about seven per cent for farmland property.

But in Pennington county, DeHaan said, commercial property tax increases will be a solid 20 per cent and higher in many cases. Residential property owners can expect a seven per cent increase while farmland property tax will fluctuate generally between three and nine per cent.

DeHaan said the increase was due to a shift in the tax burden from farmland to commercial property, increases in budgets of the city, county and school district, and also because revenue sharing has been discontinued.

Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson said he was not too pleased in hearing about the increases for commercial property. He said he didn't think the state realized that when agricultural property was struggling economically that the small towns they are tied to also struggled. In Thief River Falls, the empty stores are evidence of that effect.

Carlson said the burden should be shared. Personally, he believes the residential section could probably carry a larger share of the burden.

DeHaan said the mill rate jumped

Gjernes Loves Professional Acting Experience

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Jay Gjernes will be unemployed on March 2 and, although he would rather be doing what he's doing now, he won't be terribly disappointed. After all, his six-month job as an actor at the Chanhassen Dinner Theatre lasted for a year and a half.

The 1968 Lincoln high school graduate who also attended Northland community college for two years has had theatre in his mind for as long as he can remember. He may have inherited it from his mother — Virginia Smithers Gjernes — wife of Earl Gjernes of Thief River Falls. She was librarian in Thief River Falls until her death in a automobile accident a number of years ago.

After being in Northland productions and community theatre shows in Thief River Falls, he went on to the University of Minnesota where he attended four years, performed in 22 plays, took classes in acting and directing and production . . . and never graduated. "I quit school to turn pro," Gjernes said in a Times interview between Sunday afternoon and evening performances last weekend.

And a professional he is, indeed. Playing the role of Owen Musser in Chanhassen's production of "The Foreigner", he entices from the audience varying feelings and emotions as the uneducated bully and Ku Klux Klan member. It's a role that he thoroughly enjoys in a play that he respects

Human error was credited for a temporary shut down of the municipally-owned natural gas system in Warren Tuesday leaving 510 users without natural gas from 2:30 p.m. to about 8 p.m. when most were back on line.

According to Marlin Anderson, who works for the city, a valve was closed and left closed for too long and gas pressure was lost. Anderson said there was no fear of an accident and the situation was under control at all times.

Cooperation from gas department personnel from Stephen, Argyle, Hallock and the local fire department and many other local volunteers was called upon to turn off each service and then restart each service. He said everything went smoothly and the crew helping out was terrific.

MFU Farm Policy Meetings Set At Grygla And RLF

How will congressional action affect the lives of rural Minnesotans? Like it or not, the future of Minnesota's family farms hangs in the balance as Congress once again considers farm policy options.

Rural residents across the state can get an advance look at how upcoming political decisions will affect them by attending one of a series of meetings on "Public Policy and the Family Farm." Minnesota Farmers Union (MFU) has put together a program examining the growing number of factors impacting the future of family farms. The meetings are free and open to the public and include sessions Tuesday, February 17, at 1 p.m. at the Grygla community center and 8 p.m. at the Red Lake Falls community hall.

"We are now part of the global economy," MFU president Willis Eken said. "International trade policy, world economic conditions and food production capabilities all play a part in our futures."

The meetings will examine the several policy options now before Congress and present the Farmers Union view of how each would affect Minnesota family farms, and rural communities.

In addition to national issues, MFU will update the status of state legislation, including farmer-lender mediation and the state's interest buy-down and debt restructuring programs.

School Patrol Week Noted On February 15-21

More than 35,000 members of Minnesota's school safety patrols will observe School Safety Patrol Week February 15-21.

"This special week proclaimed by the governor, marks the 66th anniversary of the founding of Minnesota's school safety patrols," said Barbara Mittelstadt, traffic safety coordinator for Minnesota AAA.

On Feb. 21, 1921, Sister M. Carmela, a teacher at Cathedral school in St. Paul, had the first school safety patrol on duty at the dangerous intersection of Summit avenue and Kellogg boulevard.

In 1926, AAA was instrumental in organizing the patrols on a nationwide basis by promoting them through its affiliated automobile clubs.

The role of today's school safety patrol member is not easy. Now there are more intersections, more students, more cars and faster speeds. This has increased the potential for accidents and the responsibility of each patrol member.

"We should be proud of the record achieved by the school safety patrol members. There has never been a pedestrian killed in Minnesota at a patrol-guarded crossing. Over the past 66 years, the patrols undoubtedly have saved many young lives," Mittelstadt said.

Rev. Mike Kolar To Conduct Parish Mission Experience

Rev. Mike Kolar

St. Bernard's Parish, Thief River Falls, has scheduled a parish mission experience for February 22 through 25.

Father Mike Kolar, a priest of the Archdiocese of St. Paul-Minneapolis will conduct the mission. Father Kolar is director of the Catholic Youth Center, St. Paul. He was principal speaker at the Crookston Diocesan youth rally in October of 1985, and is considered a popular speaker.

Father Kolar will be the homilist at all the Masses the weekend of February 21 and 22 and for the four evenings of the mission experience.

A parish mission is intended to provide an opportunity for regular members of the Catholic community to re-charge their Christian faith. It is intended, also, to provide an occasion for less-regular members to "come see," once again, what the Catholic Christian community wants to share.

After each of the evening talks, an opportunity will be provided for refreshments, for the sacrament of Reconciliation (confession), and for prayer — individual or with others.

A warm welcome is also extended to anyone who would wish to come and hear any of the evening talks. For further information, call the parish office, 681-3571.

MN Compensation Board Considers Injury Claims

Victims of exposure to hazardous materials may be eligible for compensation, according to State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer.

The compensation is being awarded through a new state agency known as the hazardous substance injury compensation board, which began taking claims in January.

The board was set up in 1985 by the legislature to investigate claims of exposure to hazardous materials and to award compensation to eligible victims.

The board basically has the authority to compensate injured people for medical expenses and lost income as well as death benefits to survivors. It can also provide money for cleaning up or replacing a contaminated water supply.

"With the ever-present threat of contamination from industrial chemicals and hazardous wastes, it's important for people to have this kind of option if they feel they've been victims," Sen. Stumpf said. "In fact, I encourage anyone who does feel they've been victimized by hazardous materials to contact the compensation board in St. Paul." Address of the board is: Hazardous Substance Injury Compensation Board, 2700 University Avenue West No. 115, St. Paul, Minnesota 55114, phone (612) 642-0455.

The trees are sold for $1 each, with proceeds going both to the sponsoring organization and M.F.A., a non-profit organization which promotes multiple use management of forests and is dedicated to the recreational use, conservation and careful management of forest resources.

Chervestad And Carlson Win Top D.H.I.A. Awards

Mylo Carlson's dairy herd at Angus captured three of the four top awards Monday evening when the Pennington county Dairy Herd Improvement association (DHIA) held its annual dinner and meeting at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls.

The fourth award, for greatest increase in production average, went to the Chervestad farm of Oklee. The Chervestad herd average increased by 117 pounds over a one-year period to 527 pounds of butterfat.

The Carlson herd had the top average in the association with 809 pounds of butterfat, the top individual producing cow with 25,902 pounds of milk and 1,039 pounds of butterfat and the top two-year-old with 19,686 pounds of milk and 850 pounds of butterfat in her first 305-day lactation.

Leonard Geske of Thief River Falls was elected for a three-year term on the board of directors to succeed Marvin Koop whose term expired. At a reorganization of the board following the meeting, Robert Rausch of Thief Rver Falls was reelected president, Lyle Swanson of St. Hilaire was elected vice president to succeed Koop and Duane Krohn of Viking was reelected secretary-treasurer. The other director on the board is Warren Hamrick of rural Warren.

Association records distributed at the meeting indicated that three cows in the association had produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat in 305-day lactations completed during the year. In addition to Carlson's top animal at 1,039 pounds, a five-year-old owned by Hanson Heritage farm of Thief River Falls produced 1,029 pounds of butterfat and 21,411 pounds of milk. Carlson also had the third place cow, a four-year-old with 22,403 pounds of milk and 1,001 pounds of butterfat.

In fact, except for Hanson Heritage's second place animal and a fifth place cow owned by Don Fulton of Warren which produced 22,498 pounds of milk and 981 pounds of butterfat, Carlson had all of the top 10 cows in the association. Low animal of the 10 had 949 pounds of butterfat produced.

Fifteen cows in the association had production records of more then 900 pounds of butterfat and 53 others had records of 800 pounds of butterfat or more. Another 117 cows had individual production records in excess of 700 pounds of butterfat during the year.

Following Carlson's herd average of 809 were the herds of Lyle Swanson, 694; Walter Bros. of Plummer, 684; Dunne Krohn, 682; Gene Nelson of Viking, 679; Hanson Heritage, 668; and Arden Lundeen of Oklee, 665.

Association testers Gerald Hamre and Sonia Iverson indicated in the report that three herds — Clyde Swenson, Roy and Clark Nelson and Swanson Brothers — had been sold in the government's dairy herd buyout program. It was also noted that the Leonard Geske herd has a 24-year-old cow which has had 24 calves, including three sets of twins and is scheduled to produce her 25th calf in August.

Newfolden To Host Entrepreneurial Seminar For Youth

Newfolden will be host to a youth entrepreneurial seminar on Wednesday, February 25, at 6:30 p.m. in the community center, according to Andrea Nord, Pennington county 4-H club agent. The session is one of seven scheduled in northwest Minnesota by the University of Minnesota extension service.

Called the Y.E.S. program, the phase I meetings are multi-county events intended to assist youth and families in personal assessment and to begin the thinking process for starting a business or a career in northwestern Minnesota.

The evening program lasts approximately three hours and will include a slide-tape presentation to illustrate successful youth and young adults in business ventures. There will also be a panel discussion by several young people — some of whom have entered the business world with creative and non-traditional business ideas.

During a personal assessment part of the program there will be a chance for those attending to match their skills and traits (including their strengths and weaknesses) with those of demands in certain businesses. Information will be given on marketing ideas in a community and a list of resources needed to start a business will be shared.

Phase II of the program will be conducted at Crookston March 27 and 28. The Friday and Saturday weekend retreats are to allow youths and their parents or mentors an opportunity to develop a business plan. For more information on attending any of these programs, contact the county extension office.

Among those featured in the slide-tape film are several area young people. Jeff Hanson and Chad Knutson, Ada high school sophomores, play for dances with their own band "Morning Thunder" or with their recorded music, speakers and lighting as "J.C. Rock Connections." In three years they have played 46 dances at locations from living rooms to lawns, lunchrooms, gymnasiums and church and community halls.

Gary Bergos of Moorhead began his entry into the wholesale and retail business area by selling wild surf shorts in the Detroit Lakes area in the summers of 1985 and 1986. A senior in college, he has joined the college entrepreneur club and plans to attend an entrepreneur convention in Chicago.

Loren Youngren at Hallock followed up an interest in photography as a 4-H club member by studying at the Willmar AVTI and now has his own studio which he opened in 1985. At age 22 he also does custom framing. He was among 20 of 250 applicants accepted into the program and one of only two graduates in the last 13 years to start a business directly out of school.

Jean Montaneri

Jean Montaneri of Gonvick began raising hamsters to sell when she was 13 years old. That was a whole year ago. She sold to friends at first and now has a Bemidji outlet. She says her animals seem nicer and tamer than others, like to be with people and don't bite. A long-haired variety called teddy bears bring higher prices. She is also experimenting with breeding to develop unusual colors.

Shelly Hoff of Underwood sells miniature decorative corn and seed for the corn which can also be popped. She was paid $150 for writing a small article for the Mother Earth News and from the article received 8,000 orders for her decorative corn. In one day she received 350 letters, each containing $1 for the seeds and 37 cents postage on a self-addressed envelope. Letters came from every state including Alaska and Hawaii and from Saudi Arabia, Australia, New Zealand and Turkey.

At age 18 now, Shelly has been growing the corn since she was eight and first marketed it to a florist shop when she was 10 or 11. She advises other young people to "do something you enjoy or you get sick of it real fast. Sell something that's in demand and don't invest more than you can handle."

The Phase I program in Newfolden February 25 is free and all high school age youth and their parents are encouraged to attend.

and 13 homes sold in Red Lake Falls in 1985 and 19 in 1984.

In Red Lake Falls there was one commercial sale last year and 12 farms sold in Red Lake county, along with five non-agricultural residential properties.

Mrs. Kramer said the lowered interest rates in the past year had stimulated the housing market and those rates, coupled with lower farm land prices, had boosted land sales. She said continued low interest rates and lowered points in 1987 should encourage continued interest in purchase of real estate in the area.

Jay Gjernes Loves Acting Experience In Minneapolis

with fondness.

"This is a great play," he says emphatically. "And this was a great crowd today. The people laughed. They were having a good time. This is a funny play and for me it's been a real blast. It's almost like a dream. I'll find out in March if the bubble will burst."

The life of an actor is a tenuous one which hangs between audition, performance and unemployment. With his present play ending March 1, he will have to find another one to continue in his career. He will audition next month for the Chanhassen's recreation of "Fiddler On The Roof," a mucical which was a popular production at the theatre a few years ago.

He studied voice for a year and a half at the University of Minnesota and continues to take lessons. "You have to be able to sing," he says. "You just have to if you expect to land parts because there are so many musical productions. You have to be able to sing and talk."

The Chanhassen is well-known as professional theatre despite its location in the relatively small town of Chanhassen on the southwest side of the Twin Cities. At present, however, it has its share of northern Minnesota talent. Delrae Novak, the daughter of Mayor Duane Knutson of Fertile, has the lead in "My Fair Lady" and Lynn Dyrhaug of Bemidji is also a member of that cast along with Barbara Reese Davidson from Hallock. The Chanhassen has four separate theatres within its complex.

Gjernes said he is impressed by the number of people who show up for Twin Cities auditions, including a large number from New York, Los Angeles and Chicago where the competition is even more keen. Because of the competition, and because the actors and actresses have their own families and interests most do not develop any real friendships among themselves.

"It's not that I don't like the people I work with," Gjernes explained. "I like most of them just fine. But the next time I go to audition for a play or a commercial, some of them will probably be there looking for the same job. It's not easy to be friends with your competitors."

Gjernes knows about competition. He was the last of 1,500 to audition for the cast of "West Side Story" and was called back but didn't get a part. Then he was working as an extra in "Cyrano DeBergerac" at the Guthrie Theatre for $5 a rehearsal and $7.50 a performance when there was a notice posted of casting for "The Foreigner" at the Chanhassen theatre. The cast called for five men and two women and four of the men were of Gjernes' age.

"I walked into the audition and the director pointed at me and said, 'Owen!' and I said, 'Yes, sir' and I did my first reading and they gave me the job (the role of Owen Musser). We started rehearsals July 23 of 1985 and our first performance was August 8."

The play was booked for a six-month run but proved popular with audiences and was extended until now. During that time there had been 611 performances through Sunday afternoon with 25 remaining until the final curtain. Jay has held his role throughout, although he has had stand-in performances during vacation periods.

"In all of the performances I've done I've never forgotten a line," he said. That does not mean his total experience has been one of absolute perfection.

One of the characters in the play is an elderly owner of a run-down resort where "the foreigner" is staying for a few days. The role is played by Jane McDonough, an actress with nine children, 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, who gives a vigorous performance at 73 years of age. She has only taken a one-week vacation since the show opened.

In one performance Gjernes lost his concentration while off stage, heard some mumbling on stage, thought something had gone wrong with the sound system and made his entrance. It was a sudden entrance...and it was a bit too early.

"The lady was standing in front of the door on the stairway landing when I came crashing in," he recalls. "I sent her flying 15 feet through the air and she landed on the floor. Let me tell you she came up ready to punch me out. We had about 125 senior citizens in the audience and they laughed their heads off. They thought it was all part of the act. Luckily, she wasn't seriously hurt, and all through the scene I was sure I was right. I wasn't really aware of what had happened until someone called it to my attention."

Maintaining concentration can be a problem after repeating so many performances. "You have to keep reminding yourself that each performance is the first one for the audience," Gjernes said. "Even if some of them come back two or three or four times to see the play again, it's fresh for them and you have to use the same energy for each performance as you did for the audition."

While the actors are professionals, they are certainly subject to direction. The director of "The Foreigner" left for New York City after rehearsing with the cast and didn't even see the early performances. He has returned five times since the show opened to re-direct the cast, watching the performance and then conducting two five-hour rehearsals.

Gjernes married Valerie Quam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Quam of Thief River Falls, on Jan. 25, 1983. Their first child is due in August. Jay has been especially appreciative of the support he has received from the Thief River Falls community. He said there have been more than 500 people with Thief River Falls connections that he knows of who have come to see the play during its 18-month run. Included was the entire cast of the Northland community college production of "The Foreigner" and director Roger Vaughan.

In the program book distributed at the theatre, the information about Gjernes states the following:

Jay Gjernes (Owen Musser) makes his professional acting debut after appearing in community theatre and junior college productions in his home town of Thief River Falls. He attended the U of M where he appeared in 18 productions and received the Jane Enroth Undergraduate Acting Award in 1984. Since then he has been involved in three community theatre productions at Punchinello Players, Chimera, and TRP. Mr. Gjernes dedicates his performances to the city and residents of Thief River Falls, the U of M Theatre Arts Department, his wife Valerie and especially his father Earl."

Jay said he has made commercials for John Deere, Push-Pedal-Pull exercise equipment, Ford and the Minnesota Twins. His major disappointment was not getting a part in an Arctic Cat commercial.

"I went to the audition wearing my own Arctic Cat cap and Pantera jacket," he said. "They like me and they called me back but I found out they gave the part to the advertising agent's brother-in-law."

Forgive Jay if it sounds like he's complaining. "Actors complain a lot and it's sort of hard to be around people who are always complaining," he said. "They complain about the size of the house (number in the crowd) and if they don't get a laugh where they think there should be a laugh it's always the audience's fault. That's why this is a good play. People who come here have a great time."

Gjernes is not enamored of the play which will succeed "The Foreigner" at the Fireside Dinner theatre. He describes the production as "a piece of trash" and wonders about its success with area audiences. It is based on homosexual lifestyle and includes a good deal of what many theatre-goers would consider to be a vulgar and profane vocabulary.

"Who knows, maybe it will fold before long," he said. "Then they can bring this play back again."

Property Owners In County Can Expect More Taxes

in the county about 20 mills. He speculated that some of the increase was due to a significant increase in welfare needs. When the mill rate increases, he said, valuations usually decrease, but that has not been the case for the past couple of years. The mill rate has remained fluctuating with property valuations. Commercial property went up more because it doesn't have a credit system like homestead or agricultural credit.

DeHaan said he did not expect abatements to be easy to attain, especially this year. However, they may be possible by applying with the city or county and the state. DeHaan noted that when one individual or group receives a decrease the amount is picked up by someone else. The only way such a change would be noticeable would be if the individual or organization receiving a cut had a significant impact on the economy on its own.

Reductions because of a vacancy in a building are not usually granted, at least not right away, DeHaan said. DeHaan said he realized a number of buildings in the downtown area of Thief River Falls are vacant. In many cases the buildings are for sale and must be valued at current market value, according to state policy. DeHaan said he only follows what regulations the state requires him to follow. In the case of a vacant building a reduction might follow if a building remained vacant for two to three years in a row. And, of course, if a reduction is granted, other taxpayers have to pick up the reduction.

But the bad news for Thief River Falls area residents may not be as difficult to swallow as the bad news for residents living in the school districts of Grygla, Goodridge and Oklee. DeHaan said the loss of students may have, in many cases, required the school districts to come up with lost state funds from decreasing student population. Raising the mill rate is one method to come up with the income to maintain current levels of education.

Personal property taxes — railroad right-of-ways, for example — will also see a large property tax increase. In one case, DeHaan noted, it will be over 16 per cent. DeHaan concluded that it follows that the further out from the city the smaller the increase. However, he noted a slightly higher tax increase on residential property in rural areas.

In all, DeHaan said, Pennington county can probably expect to see more and more tax delinquencies in the coming years.

Council Supports Enterprise Zone Credit System

not "sun-setted." General consensus from a meeting with city representatives after the meeting with state representatives, Stewart said, was to find out what kind of support they had from the city governments first. Once this is accomplished they plan to put together a cost-benefit analysis, which Stewart believes might show that the state has received about 60 per cent of its investment returned in taxes.

Another option the city has is to pursue legal avenues to enforce its contract with the state in which the state agreed to provide $1.75 million to the city for enterprise zone credit.

Stewart said both the community development advisory board and Jobs Inc. believe they should do anything necessary to protect the enterprise zone credit system even though the final tax package when worked over by the legislature may still include the enterprise zone credit system.

Police Chief Kenneth Froschheiser appeared before the council and reported that the safety council recommended the purchase of a new police car through a purchase agreement with the state of Minnesota. It would be the fourth time the city purchased a police car through this agreement. He also noted that most of the cities and counties in the area are part of the same agreement. Froschheiser said he asked for quotes from all Thief River Falls dealers, but all declined to make a bid. He requested that the low bid of $11,013 from Viking Chevrolet in Fridley be accepted.

Mayor Bob Carlson and council members noted that it is unfortunate that a bid from outside the city had to be accepted, but that they felt the bidding process was fair. They believe they were charged with responsibility for the citizens' money and would seek to find the best deal for their money. On average, it was noted that savings could, through the purchase agreement, add up to $2,000 per car and sometimes more.

In other business, the city acknowledged the receipt of a letter dated January 6 proposing enterprise zone credits for Land O'Lakes, Inc. (Bridgeman's) development; recommended annexation of property around the regional airport into the enterprise zone pending legal description; received a request for gambling license from the Sports Boosters club at Russell's bar; and a gambling license exemption for St. Bernard's Catholic church.
